Whitby Entry Tops Twelve Team Tourney

Anderson Collegiate and Vocational Institute of Whitby collected the overall team championship on Saturday at the Second Annual Belleville Firefighters Invitational Wrestling Tournament at Centennial Secondary School.

Alderton totaled 87 points, 35 points better than their nearest competitors, last year's winner Cobourg East. Moira Secondary School of Belleville came up with a strong showing finishing in third spot only three points behind the defending champs.

A total of 12 teams and 189 wrestlers were as far north as Pembroke took part in the event which almost doubled its entry number from last year's meet.

"Six schools scheduled to make the trip did not show, which potentially cut another 120 wrestlers from the program," noted Bramales Larry Fritz, who organized the meet. Only two points back of the fourth place Napanee District High School, with 30 points, was the Bayside, Pembroke came sixth and the seventh spot was taken by Trenton Secondary School. Six local area schools including Prince Edward collegiate from Picton finished third, one place ahead of Lerocque in the over-all point standings. Moira finished third out of the 12 teams that competed in the day long event, won by Anderson Collegiate of Whitby.

Mike Crawford of Moira Secondary School appears to have the upper hand on his opponent in the 168-pound class during the Belleville Firefighters' Second Annual Invitational Wrestling Tournament at Centennial Secondary School. Crawford lost this bout to Ken Larocque of Bayside Secondary School but finished third, one place ahead of Larocque in the over-all point standings. Moira finished third out of the 12 teams that competed in the day long event, won by Anderson Collegiate of Whitby.

Carling-O'Keefe, Hunt Meant for Each Other

There is an old saying "three times lucky." Ron Hunt is living proof of that adage as she captured the Women's Carling-O'Keefe Bowl Offs for the third straight year. Hunt came up with a 7285 total over 30 games for a 242.8 average.

The final leg of the O'Keefe Roll Offs was held at the Bowl-O-Drome on Sunday, where 10 of the 30 games were played.

In the men's division, Jack Canning with a 7257 total, for a 241.9 average, was highest among the bowlers competing.

It was not his first time in the winners circle. He has taken top honors a number of times. Both of the top winners were from Belleville.

"It was a lot of fun and some good bowling," said tournament director Jim Nicols.

Second in the men's division was Jim Corlie, of Belleville with 7171 total, for a 240.7 average. Third went to Nicols. He finished at 7214, with one 323 game.

On the women's side, second to Mrs. Hunt was Mary Rollins, at 6721. In third was Madeline James, with a 6664 total over the games. All three women were from the Belleville area. Fourth place went to Erma Crossman of Thomasburg, at 6536. In fifth was Peggy Rossky, of Belleville, while sixth went to Carsky Cox also of Belleville.

The top 20 men and the top nine women will compete on behalf of Belleville in future competitions in the province.

Combines Continue Winning Ways

Norma McQuarrie fired two goals in lead Belleville Combines of the Quinte Ladies Hockey League to a 3-0 upset over Picton Sunday, at Dick Ellis Rink. Karen Noakes and Bonnie Hunter each contributed goaltending chores for the winners.

Belleville picked up both of their goals in the first and second periods, to take the first game in a week for the Belleville squad who remain idle until next Sunday. The Combines are currently in second spot in the four-team league, two points back of the front running Stirling Ladies.

In other action around the league last week, two games were postponed due to weather conditions. Tuesday, a snow storm cancelled a scheduled game between the Napanee Tigers and the Tamers and on Saturday freezing rain forced cancellation of a game between Napanee and Picton.

Wednesday, Napanee collected a 3-1 victory over Picton. Debbie Murray fired two goals for the Napanee club, single going to Julie Hinck. Bette Harris tallied the lone Picton goal.

CITY COLLECTS RENT

DENVER (AP) — The city of Denver used a 1973 letter of credit to collect $61,500 in rent due rent from the Denver Sports Arena, which is a city official's term. Burt Mitchell, a city fiscal officer, said the money was due rent on the new McNichols Sports Arena, where the World Hockey Association team plays home games.

SETS RECORD

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — David Digert of the Soviet Union set a middle heavyweight clean and jerk world record Saturday when he lifted 485 pounds, 4½ pounds over the record, at an international weightlifting competition. The meet was attended by 32 competitors from 18 countries.

One Visit from Harmonious Bobcats And Bramalea's Singin' the Blues

BRAMALEA — The Belleville Bobcats rounded out a successful home and away series here on Sunday night downing the Central Division leaders, the Bramalea Blues by a 6-4 score in Metro Junior B action. Sunday, Belleville trounced the North York Rangers, in Belleville, Friday night in their first meeting with a Central Division team.

"They played one of their best games of the season, tonight, said winning coach Serhan Bonnar after the Cats third consecutive victory. Belleville's defence did extremely well in moving the puck out of its own end with very accurate passing.

Bramales, who last year captured the Central Division championship in Metro Junior B play did not display a great deal of puck control or battle, making mistakes usually in the form of bad passes.

The Cats appeared to have remedied a problem of late: getting shots on the net. Sunday they fired a total of 56 shots at the Bramales goalie, while Jeff Merrill handled 44.

Merrill came up with a tremendous game to complement the rest of the team's fine play. At 19:41 of the second period, and Belleville out in front of the opposition by a 4-3 margin, Blues were awarded a penalty shot. Dean Popiel was selected and from 15 feet out let a slapshot go that Merrill easily kicked out with his pad.

The teams divided 31 minutes in penalties of which Belleville picked up 41. "I was expecting a little more physical game from them (Bramalea) tonight," said Bonnar right from the opening faceoff and as a result forced the Blues in costly mistakes.

Paul Tiller, who missed the previous four games, wasted no time in showing the lay off had no affect. Tiller stickhandled and manoeuvered his way in on goal and twice beat Blues' goaltender, Mark Fluhr.

Both clubs were evenly matched in the first period as they battled to a 1-1 shot deadlock.

Belleville came alive in the well played second period outscoring the opposition by a 4-0 spread. Tiller with his second goal of the night, Bruce Leeder, Neil Turner and Tony Meagher all fired a goal in the second period to go along with Tiller's and Bubba Thompson's in the opening 20 minutes of play.

Blues captain, Dan McKenaghan, scored twice and assisted on the fourth Bramales goal to lead his squad. Bill Kason and Tom Laidlaw each fired a single in the final period of play to round out the scoring in the game.

Belleville will hope to keep the winning streak alive this Friday night when the Central Division Etobicoke Selects are in town for a 8 o'clock game

A&J's in Driver's Seat

While most of the teams were fighting for an all-important single spot in the Belleville Broomball League action this weekend, A and J's Tender Drive-In Restaurant was content to lay big seeds into the second place Bell Telephone Service and establishing themselves as sole owners of first place in the standings.

The A and J crew, led by Murray Jacklin's two goal-two assist output, rolled to a 6-4 whitewash over their second place counterparts.

In other games, Golden Mile Restaurant and Belleville Vardmen battled to a 1-1 deadlock and Quinte Sports Centre and Northern Electric finished in a scoreless tie.

The A and J crew led by Jacklin's two goal-two assist stars. Their 10 shots is two better than BBS and four more than Golden Mile's.

Jim Peasley also scored twice and Steven Morrah and Bruce Biggin's added singles. Jerry Cole earned the shutout.

Tom Rogers and Leo Bradley were the key figures in the third league game, Rogers protected Bancroft's goal and Bradley was just as stingy between Norton's pipes.

Falcons Outlast Rebels

Randy Hutchinson scored four times on Sunday to lead the Falcons to an 11-6 win over the Yankees in a North Eastern Electric Hockey League game.

The second game proved to be a little closer and more defensive, as the Bearcats edged the Rebels by a 3-1 score.

Other goals for the Falcons came from Bill McQuaid with three and Rick Rosebush with two. Rosebush amassed six points in the contest, adding four assists to his two goal effort. Hutchinson had five seven points in the scoring summary.

Mike Samark counted the assert lone goal.

Bratty Establishes New Record in 132 Class

By TOM GAVEY
Sports Staff

Records are meant to be broken and the sport of weightlifting is one place where no record is safe.

On Saturday at Moira Secondary School, the annual Eastern Ontario Christmas Teen-Age Weightlifting tournament was held, sponsored by the Apollo Weightlifting Club.

Although a number of weightlifting records were threatened, only one was actually broken. Gary Bratty of Stoney Creek lifted 229 pounds in the snatch, to set a Canadian junior record. He did so just in time, as he will soon pass into his 20th year, making him ineligible for junior lifting. Bratty took first place in the 132 pound class, well ahead of John Lunt of Guelph.

As far as over-all weight was concerned, the super lifts of the day came from Mark Cardinal, a super heavyweight and Bob Davidson, a middle heavyweight. The two battled down to the wire as to who would lift the greatest amount of weight for physical weightlifting — one place where no record is safe.

Although a number of weightlifting records were threatened, only one was actually broken. Gary Bratty of Stoney Creek lifted 229 pounds in the snatch, to set a Canadian junior record. He did so just in time, as he will soon pass into his 20th year, making him ineligible for junior lifting. Bratty took first place in the 132 pound class, well ahead of John Lunt of Guelph.

As far as over-all weight was concerned, the super lifts of the day came from Mark Cardinal, a super heavyweight and Bob Davidson, a middle heavyweight.

The two battled down to the wire as to who would lift the greatest amount of weight for physical weightlifting — one place where no record is safe.

Mary Murphy fulfilled the expectations of coach Ken Carr-Brainl.

He finished an impressive first in the 148 pound class, ahead of another Apollo lifter, Dean Fitzgerald. Murphy had a total of 270 kilos. Fitzgerald was next with 170. Norman Hall of the Apollo club finished fourth at 157.5.

In the 165 pound class Terry Hadlow of Elliot Lake made three attempts at an Ontario record, but couldn't quite make it in the clean and jerk.

In the 181 pound class Jim Farrell of the Apollo club finished third, with a 157.5 total. The performance was good enough to have Ken Carr-Brainl presented with the "Most Improved Lifter" award.

Super - heavyweight Mark Cardinal had the top point total of the day, at 280. Cardinal weighed in at 264.5 pounds and stands close to six foot-seven. He was named "Most Improved Junior Lifter in Ontario" at the tournament.

In the 123 pound class Sterling McBree came in with a strong third just 2.5 behind the second place lifter McBree was the lightest of the Apollo entries.

Inclement Weather Doesn't Stop Jim's

Saturday's freezing rain made for an abbreviated Belleville Minor Hockey Association schedule. Kingston Juveniles did keep their date with Belleville Jim's Pizzeria, mustering eight players for the tricky 20-mile jaunt.

Jim's spread the goals among seven players on the way to an 8-1 win.

Mark Foster led the attack with a hat trick of markers. Checking in with one each were Marty Lane, Paul Hartman, Tony Bennett, Ray Stewart, Bob Ayers and Gord Male.

The Belleville team, loser of Saturday's game, has an important January 1 date at Memorial Arena. Jim's will play the touring Swedish Junior team on New Year's Day. Game time is 2 p.m. Tickets are on sale at McKnight's Variety.

Belleville Kiwanis Bantams Minor Hockey hit in Ottawa on the weekend, earning a pair of exhibition wins over Nepean Raiders.

Saturday, the Belleville skaters potted a 5-4 win on goals by Mark Crawford, two, Clarence Brockenna, Shaun Ostrander and Grey Spence. Sunday, Brockenna took care of the game winning contribution with both goals in a 3-1 victory.

John Rickards led Belleville McIntyre-Maines Minor Bantams past Nepanee 10-1 in an exhibition match. Scoring a goal each were Steve Slaughter and Louis Crawford. Slaughter went to Denny Bowser, John Broder and Danny Thompson. Nepanee's marksman was Mike Gibson.

It's Patrick for Young In St. Louis Shakeup

By GLENN COLE
The Canadian Press

The annual media guide is sent by St. Louis Blues director Gerry Young as a coach whose "handling of individuals is unsatisfactory, both off and on the ice."

The guide goes on to say that given the right opportunity and players, Young could bring the Louis its first Stanley Cup.

Apparently the owners of the Blues had enough of Young's unquestionable handling of individuals because they fired Young Sunday night just 20 minutes before the Blues took to the ice against Chicago Black Hawks for a National Hockey League game.

Lynn Patrick, the Blues assoc ior vice-president, was named to coaching spot for the third time in eight seasons. The Blues, who were 1-8-1 in their last 10 games, responded to the coaching change with a 4-3 win over Chicago.

Meanwhile, Toronto Maple Leafs snapped a 16-game winless streak by defeating New York Rangers 5-1, Montreal Canadiens topped Pittsburgh Penguins 5-4, Boston Bruins shaded Vancouver Canucks 3-2, Atlanta Flames beat Buffalo Sabres 5-4 (ot), and in a game between the worst two teams in the 18-team league, Minnesota North Stars fought to a 4-4 tie with Washington Capitals.

Saturday night, New York Islanders downed Toronto 7-2, Montreal defeated Kansas City Scouts 4-1, Philadelphia Flyers clipped Los Angeles Kings 5-4, Minnesota edged Colorado 5-1, Boston Bruins downed Detroit Red Wings 5-2 and Pittsburgh and Boston battled to a 4-4 draw.

Patrick, who has been active in hockey for more than 50 years, was the Blues first coach in 1967, but was replaced by Scotty Bowman, now coach of the Canadiens. He coached the team for two games last season between the time Lou Angotti was fired and Young was named as his replacement.

The Flyers have gone through eight coaches since joining the league in the fall of 1967, although Bowman, Patrick and Arbour have each had the job more than once.

Garry Unger scored a goal and assisted on three others to pace the Blues win. Unger set up teammate Jerry Butler for the game-winning goal early in the final period.

The win was only the Blues fourth in 21 games on Chicago ice since they joined the league. St. Louis has lost 16 and tied one.

In New York, the Leafs snapped the Rangers unbeaten streak at seven and won their first contest in the Rangers home rink since March 31, 1974.

WINS MARATHON

HONOLULU (AP) — Jack Foster, described by doctors as a phenomenon, won the 10th annual Honolulu Marathon run Sunday, easily outdistancing ten many years younger. Foster, 41, a clerk from Rotorua, N.Z., covered the 26-mile, 385-yard course in two hours, 9 minutes and 34 seconds. It was a record for the race here. Last year's winner, Jeff Galloway, 30, of Tallahassee, Fla., finished second two minutes behind Foster, followed by Tom Howard, 37, of Richmond, B.C.

Spitfires Shelled by Wolves

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hector Marshal scored three times Sunday to lead Sudbury Wolves to a 13-4 victory over Windsor Spitfires, who were outshot 50-27 in their 22th loss of the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A season.

In other action, Oshawa Generals defeated Kingston Canadians 8-3, Kitchener Rangers and Toronto Marlboros tied 7-7 and St. Catharines Black Hawks downed Peterborough Petes 8-4.

At Sudbury, Alex McKendry, Rod Schutt and Randy Carlyle each scored two goals for the Wolves. Other Sudbury scorers were Johnny Walker, Johnny Haley and Randy Pierce.

Wayne Maki led Windsor with two goals. Maki's 21 shots in the first period, 34 in the second and 31 in the final 20 minutes.

Toronto goaltender Doug Carey was pulled after the second period and Steve Weeks was in goal for he remainder of the game. Warren Skinner played in the Kitchener nets.

Hawks 8 Petes 3

At St. Catharines, the victory ended a four-game losing streak for the Hawks.

The line of Ken Campbell, Don Wilson and Marc Tardif led St. Catharines with a total of eight points. Wilson scored once, Campbell had five assists and Tardif two.

200 WHA Goals for Hull

Jets Dominate Division

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg Jets downed Edmonton Oilers 8-1 Sunday night, their ninth win in 11 encounters with Canadian Division teams in the World Hockey Association this season.

Bobby Hull scored his 200th WHA goal for the Jets in the first period and Thommie Bergman scored what turned out to be the winner midway in the second.

Anders Hedberg scored the other Winnipeg goal while Ken Baird scored for Edmonton as the Jets moved five points in front of second-place Quebec Nordiques.

Strong goaltending by Edmonton's Cavis Worthy kept the score respectable as the Oilers were outshot 43-26.

Barry Long, the high-scoring Edmonton defenceman, was tossed out of the game in the first period after delivering an unfavorable critique of referee Pierre Delaunay, who had just penalized him for tripping.

In Sunday's other WHA games, Calgary Cowboys tied Toronto Toros 3-3, Houston Aeros edged Cleveland Crusaders 4-3, Phoenix Roadrunners stopped San Diego Mariners 4-2 and New England Whalers tied Indianapolis Racers 3-3.

Saturday, New England edged Cleveland 5-4, Quebec stopped Toronto 6-2, Minnesota Fighting Saints edged Houston 4-3, Phoenix dropped Denver Spurs 5-3 and Cincinnati Stingers tied San Diego 2-2.

Sunday's loss dropped the Oilers four points behind the Cowboys in the fight for third place in the Canadian Division. Edmonton has played three more games than Calgary.

The Oilers haven't been picking on pitsies in dominating their division. Four of the top five teams in the league are from Canada and Canadian teams have won 11 more games than they have lost.

The smallest Toronto crowd of the season, 5,811 fans, saw goals Mario Viet stop 43 shots for the weary Toros, playing their third game in as many nights.

Mark Napier scored the Toros first two goals and assisted on Viet's third. Jim Lorentz and Amodeo, as Toronto took a 3-2 lead into the final period, but Ray Delorenzi's second goal of the night forced the game into a overtime sporting period.

Toronto played without defenceman Jim Dorey, who has a groin injury, and Peter Marrin, who has had headaches since being struck in the head by a stick Friday night.

After the Crusaders blew a 3-1 lead against the Aeros, Cleveland coach Johnny Wilson repeated last week's warning to general manager Jack Valentian that changes will be made.

The Crusaders seemed to take some of the heat off themselves Friday when they blanked Minnesota 1-0 but they got themselves back in trouble Saturday when they blew a 3-1 lead against the Whalers.

Sunday, the Aeros had a 19-9 edge in shots in the third period, when goals by John Schella, Paul Popiel and Rich Preston gave them the victory.

A pair of goals by John Gray enabled the Roadrunners to move past San Diego into third place in the West Division, just two points behind Minnesota.

An Indianapolis crowd of 4,026 fans saw Al Karlander score in the third period to give the Racers their lie.

Tonight's schedule has San Diego at Houston, Cincinnati at Denver, Edmonton at Indianapolis, Calgary at Quebec and Winnipeg at Toronto.

Colts Take Over In Driver's Seat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore's Colts, battered on their way from injured list to overtime, began a drive that took them within range of a game-winning field goal and a berth in the National Football League playoffs.

The win puts the Colts, who suffered through a 2-12 season in 1974, in the driver's seat for next weekend's final league games.

It would take a loss to New England Patriots at Baltimore and a Miami win at home against Denver Broncos to knock the Colts out of first place in the AFC Eastern Division.

In another Sunday game, St. Louis Cardinals locked up first place in the National Conference East and relegated division runner-up Dallas Cowboys to the NFC wild-card spot with a 24-20 victory over Chicago Bears.

Saturday, Dallas knocked Washington out of playoff contention by beating the Redskins 31-10 and Pittsburgh Steelers won the AFC Central title by clinching Cincinnati Bengals 27-14.

In other Sunday games, Los Angeles Rams beat Green Bay Packers 23-5, Houston Oilers edged Oakland Raiders 27-26, Detroit Lions downed Minnesota Vikings 17-10, Atlanta Falcons whipped San Francisco 49ers 31-6, Cleveland Browns clobbered Kansas City Chiefs 40-14, Denver defeated Philadelphia Eagles 25-10, Buffalo Bills beat New England 34-14 and New York Giants beat New Orleans Saints 30-24.

Baltimore coach Ted Marchibroda called Sunday's triumph "without a doubt the greatest I've ever had—all the way back to high school."

The Colts, completely rebuilt since winning the 1971 Super Bowl, tied the score 7-7 on a six-yard touchdown run by Lydell Mitchell with 5:30 remaining in regulation time, then launched their winning drive following Larry Seiple's coffin-corner punt.

They converted three third-down plays on the drive and quarterback Bert Jones, playing with injured ribs, completed four consecutive passes for 45 yards. Mitchell scored its touchdown in the third quarter on a five-yard run by Mervyl Morris.

Jim Giles caught for 107 yards to reach 1,007 yards for the year—and scored twice as the Cardinals clinched their second successive NFC East title.

Tom Dempsey hooked a field goal of 44, 39 and 38 yards and Ron Jaworski completed 15 of 26 passes for 224 yards in place of injured Roger Staubach to lead Los Angeles past the Packers.

Don Pastorini's three yard touchdown pass to tight end Mack Alston on the final play of the game and Skip Butler's extra point gave Houston its victory over the Raiders.

Detroit spared two first-quarter touchdowns, the second on a 46-yard run by Bobby Thompson, to sting the Vikings. Minnesota's Fran Tarkenton needed just one touchdown pass in his attempt to break Unitas' career record of 290—but he didn't get it. Instead he got sacked four times.

Alfred Jenkins caught 70-yard and 47-yard touchdown passes from rookie quarterback Steve Bartkowski as the Falcons whipped San Francisco.

Greg Pruitt rushed for 214 yards and three touchdowns and joined Jim Brown and Leroy Kelly as the only Browns to rush for 1,000 yards in a season.

Roger Staubach passed for two touchdowns and ran for one for the Cowboys. The Redskins' hopes were dashed when quarterback Bill Kilmer, who went into the showdown game with a bad shoulder and a broken bone in his left foot, suffered another shoulder separation and an injury to his passing hand.

Franco Harris rushed for 118 yards and a pair of touchdowns and Terry Bradshaw threw for two and ran for another for Pittsburgh.

Denver's Floyd Little, playing at home for the final time in his brilliant nine-year professional career, raced 68 yards with a third-quarter screen pass and ran for another touchdown in the closing minutes.

O. J. Simpson ran for 123 yards and scored his 22nd touchdown of the season for the Bills, bringing his season rushing total to 1,708 yards.

Sandy Gilbert's 62-yard punt return for a touchdown, Jim Marsh's 42-yard run for another touchdown and Craig Morton's 45-yard scoring pass to Jay Ninder led the Giants past New Orleans.

GRANTED WINS

VALENCIA, Spain (AP) — Manuel Orantes of Spain, winner earlier this year of the Canadian and U.S. Opens, won the men's singles in the Spanish tennis championship, beating countryman Antonio Munoz 6-3, 6-4 in the final Sunday. It was the fifth time that Orantes had won the crown.

Movies May Be in Simpson's Future

FUXBORO, Mass. (AP) — With one game to go in his seventh season in the National Football League, O. J. Simpson is uncertain of his future.

And everyone is wondering, including his employer, if Simpson's one of football's all-time great runners, will quit to try for a movie career.

"If I have by, I'll buy a movie company," Simpson said after a game against the Buffalo Bills and Sunday when asked about the possibility of losing Simpson.

After running for 185 yards and his 21st touchdown of the season in the Bills' 34-7 victory over New England Patriots, the 28-year-old Simpson talked about his future.

"I truly and honestly don't know what I'll do," he said. "I do know I want to be an actor.

"I feel about acting what I used to feel about football. There's an element of the unknown."

(Although he has two years to run on his contract with the Bills and his dream of playing in the Super Bowl is unfulfilled, O. J. indicated he would quit football if he is offered a role in the upcoming movie Rapture and the film is shot during the football season.

"I can retire any time I want," he said. "I've always felt I wanted to play in the Super Bowl and I still do.

"But if the right thing comes along — well, I think I've proved everybody. I can play football." ...

Simpson went over the 2,000-yard mark in career rushing with a 23-yard touchdown run in the third quarter against the Patriots. He set out most of the fourth quarter with the Bills ahead of their eighth victory in 13 games.

Before leaving, O. J. pushed his rushing yardage to 1,708 for the year. That leaves him 243 yards short of his NFL record of 2,003 set in 1973. The Bills wind up the season next Sunday against the playoff-bound Minnesota Vikings.

One touchdown to equal the league mark of 23 scored by Gale Sayers of the Chicago Bears in 1968.

Ontario Skaters In Charge

MONTREAL (CP) — Ontario dominated the Eastern Canadian figure skating championships that ended Saturday, winning all 11 gold medals, nine of 11 silvers and 10 of the 11 bronzes.

Almost 100 skaters entered from the Eastern and Central sections of Ontario, Quebec and the Atlantic provinces.

The first four finishers in each category of novice and junior competition qualified for the national championships in London, Ont., Jan. 12-18, while the top three finishers in senior competition advanced.

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

Tuesday, Dec. 19

ARIES (Mar. 21-April 20) You're very good at managing people today. Your creative approach will be very helpful to those under you.

TAURUS (April 21-May 20) You'll have a very profitable day businesswise. You are prudent, but if it comes down to risk-and-share you can drive the harder bargain.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You have excellent mental ability today. Don't hide your light under a bushel. If others nag, lump out and head the parade.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's best to keep mum today about your romantic interests, especially if you're talking to someone who's less than an intimate acquaintance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you find yourself in a tight spot today, don't hesitate to ask friends for help or advice. They'll back you 100 per cent.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The next few days will be very important ones for you where your goals are concerned. You'll prevail over tough opposition.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Take the long-range view today. Try to look ahead. Provide for contingencies that could blter your course.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Business and financial matters will be your concern for the next few days. Don't be pessimistic. The luck is tending towards you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You may have to make a difficult decision with your sweetheart today. Weigh the pros and cons and calculating but it will prove best.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be prepared to work hard today. Expect no more than a just compensation. Talk for the efforts expended.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your affairs are somewhat complicated today. There's no problem if you keep a firm hand on the tiller. Don't back off or back down.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is a good time for you to start a new project. You'll have thps to finish it later.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Oswald: "We discussed two weak two bids last week. There are lots of reasons why you should use something better. Just want to get the rules straight. On the other hand, if you are an ordinary bridge player and just want to have fun then it is no reason to complicate your bridge life by trying to understand also. The old fashioned two bid works pretty well."

Jim: "Most experts use two clubs as their only forcing opening bid. Why are we different? Can it be done about it?

The 20 million reading (20 million per cent probability of seminal fluid) is within normal ratios. The reading (the per centage of viable sperm), while on the low side, should not be a bar to conception. If conception has occurred with much lower readings then the case can be reported. Motility refers to the ability of the sperm to migrate to the waiting ovum, so the odds are reduced somewhat.

Thyroid deficiency on your part can be a factor, and thyroid therapy has been helpful in improving things. An endocrinologist is good specialist to consult advice you further.

Barring such disorders as glandular malfunction, other problems, such as a physical barrier in the sperm's pathway can be involved. You do not mention your own status in all of this.

All things being equal (as far as you are concerned) there are steps you can take to increase the chances of impregnation. Yet might try remaining in a reclining position an hour or two after intercourse. Your husband should avoid ejaculations in intercourse, centering chiefly on the time of ovulation and what condition it indicates. What is the best treatment for RT—R.M.A.

Dear Dr. Thoreson: Do you have any information you can give me on Hidden? I have just this diagnosed, and I am told it is in the last 10 inches of my intestine. Thanks. C.H.

The facts given in your letter indicate what is called "regional ileitis," an inflammation within the last foot or two of the ileum, the lower being the final portion of the small intestine before it joins the large intestine. So it is in a rather delicate location.

But you have not told enough in your letter. Your age and the severity of the inflammation would be important, as would the specific histology of the organism. Untreated, the problem can lead to serious complications, as an obstruction of the bowel at this point. Surgery would be accompanied by pain and bowel disorder generally.

Symptoms of this problem is that it can begin with an attack, similar to appendicitis, when there is no symptom evident for years. Some of the symptoms can mimic appendicitis. This section of the intestine is located close to the appendix.

Diagnosis is by X-ray. With prompt diagnosis, conservative treatment is usually effective, but this can include rest, medical diet and medication to reduce excessive bowel activity or to combat whatever infection is involved. A low residue diet is usually prescribed.

Because of the sensitive location of the problem, surgery is not ruled out, but this operation is reserved for those patients who have been given conservative care and feel it is needed.

About half the cases of regional ileitis occur in people from 20 to 30 years old.

You mention that you advise you to take an extended vacation in order to rest completely. If you can, below this advice, the real cause may very rich dividends in such a problem.

Dear Dr. Thoreson: My grandmother has a nickname. She calls me "Ted" because I am "coated tongue," and I was told it was a sign of stomach upset. Kindly tell me just what it means and what condition it indicates. What is the best treatment for RT—R.M.A.

It's still a good name for it, but it doesn't indicate a stomach disorder. In the absence of other symptoms such as pain, sore throat, fever, reddened pharynx or tender bowels, the coating is nothing more than a coating. It is caused by tongue which are normal tongue structures. Debris can get caught between these papillae and give the whitish appearance.

No treatment would be necessary.

Thyroid Affects Fertility Ratings

By G.C. THORESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thoreson: My husband and I have been trying to have a child for three years. My husband's sperm count showed about 20 million, but the motility is only 30 per cent. What does this mean and what can be done about it?

The 20 million reading (20 million per cent probability of seminal fluid) is within normal ratios. The motility (the per centage of viable sperm), while on the low side, should not be a bar to conception. If conception has occurred with much lower readings then the case can be reported. Motility refers to the ability of the sperm to migrate to the waiting ovum, so the odds are reduced somewhat.

Alcohol Major Problem For Police in Arctic

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) Alcohol is a problem and drinking is a major activity in the North, given the climate, isolation and boredom.

There had been some talks of drugs but it was not significant.

Chief Superintendent Buttler said drinking is a major activity in the North, given the climate, isolation and boredom.

There had been some talks of drugs but it was not significant.

Chief Superintendent Buttler commands 125 men as well as 29 special constables, mostly Indians and Eskimos who have obvious special qualifications.

G Division manpower is expected to increase by 14 next April but the commanding officer expects more will be needed in future.

With the increase in growth in the larger centres — and highway construction — there is considerably more activity in the Yellowknife area of the Northwest Territories. With the present study under way concerning the Mackenzie Valley pipeline, I can see a demand for increased policing services.

The Arctic is staffed with RCMP volunteers. They sign on for 3 years. Some of them can't cope with the isolation, others have served in the North for 10 years or more.

Housing, transportation, communications and special equipment make the cost of policing twice as high in the Arctic as it is in the south.

NOTICE

The Corporation of the City of Belleville
THE EXPROPRIATIONS ACT
R.S.O. 1970, Chapter 154

IN THE MATTER of an application by the Corporation of the City of Belleville for approval to expropriate lands in the City of Belleville.

FOR THE PURPOSE OF obtaining the land necessary to enable the construction of the extension of Pinnacle Street to connect with North Front Street, Both of which are arterial roads in the City of Belleville.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that application has been made for approval to expropriate the lands described in the Schedule hereto.

Any owner of lands in respect of which notice is given who desires an inquiry into whether the taking of such land is fair, sound and reasonably necessary in the achievement of the objectives of the expropriating authority shall so notify the approving authority in writing.

(a) in the case of a registered owner served personally or by registered mail within thirty days after he is served with the notice, or when he is served by publication, within thirty days after the first publication of the notice;

(b) in the case of an owner who is not a registered owner within thirty days after the first publication of the notice.

THE APPROVING AUTHORITY IS:

The Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville,
City Hall,
Belleville, Ontario.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE
EARL M. DAFOE, A.M.C.T.
CITY CLERK

NOTES:

1. The Expropriation Act provides that,
   (a) where an inquiry is requested it shall be conducted by an inquiry officer appointed by the Minister of Justice and Attorney General;
   (b) the inquiry officer,
      (i) shall give every party to the inquiry an opportunity to present evidence and argument and to examine and cross-examine witnesses, either personally or by his counsel or agent, and
      (ii) may recommend to the approving authority that a party to the inquiry be paid a fixed amount for his costs of the inquiry not to exceed $250, and the approving authority may in its discretion order the expropriating authority to pay such costs forthwith.
2. "owner" and "registered owner" are defined in the Act as follows:
   "owner" includes a mortgagee, tenant, execution creditor, a person entitled to a limited estate or interest in land, a committee of the estate of a mentally incompetent person or a person incapable of managing his affairs, and a guardian, executor, administrator or trustee in whom land is vested;
   "registered owner" means an owner of land whose interest in the land is defined and whose name is spoken to in an instrument in the proper registry or land titles or sheriff's office, and includes a person shown as a tenant of land on the last revised assessment roll.
3. The expropriating authority, each owner who notifies the approving authority that he desires a hearing in respect of lands intended to be expropriated and any owner added as a part by the inquiry officer are parties to the inquiry.

January Will Launch Presidential Campaigns

WASHINGTON (CP) — After a period of indecisive political campaigning in 1972, the opening months of 1973 will provide the initial tests for a bevy of candidates seeking their parties' nominations for next November's presidential election.

The first to come under intensive scrutiny is likely to be President Gerald Ford, who will produce three of his major policy statements for the year in January—the traditional state of the union speech, the state of the world address and the budget message.

These are expected to provide political targets for Ford's only Republican challenger at the close of 1972, former California governor Ronald Reagan, movie-star actor and the darling of the party's right wing.

Two former governors, Jimmy Carter of Georgia and Terry Sanford of North Carolina, both right of centre, entered the race as well.

Others were Senators Birch Bayh of Indiana, a liberal; Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, a moderate, and Henry Jackson of Washington, considered a right-wing.

Former senator Fred Harris of Oklahoma, Representative Morris Udall of Arizona and the former Peace Corps director and ambassador to Paris, Sargent Shriver, all judged liberals, completed the list.

However, aides to Senator Frank Church (Dem., Idaho) said late in the year he is almost certain to join the race in January. Church has won wide prominence as head of the Senate committee investigating the CIA and FBI and observers predicted he would be an extremely powerful contender.

The first stiff accounting for the candidates in the 1972 primary in New Hampshire. Reagan seemed to have made a better start than Ford in the state at the end of 1972 and will claim a victory if he even comes close in the voting.

Among Democrats, Bayh, Carter, Udall, Shriver and Harris all registered for the opening primary and Minnesota Senator Hubert Humphrey, who is not a declared candidate, may get a fair number of "write-in" votes.

Humphrey, vice-president under Lyndon Johnson and a narrow loser to Richard Nixon eight years ago, is considered a possible compromise candidate for the New. A section if the 38 primaries do not produce a clear victor.

After New Hampshire, the next major contest between Reagan and Ford is expected in the March 9 Florida primary. It is here also that Carter is hoping for a clear win over Wallace to show that he is not invincible. Wallace is paralyzed from the waist down after being shot by a would-be assassin during the 1972 campaign.

But it is the New York primary April 4 that most observers are looking to for the clearest indication of whether either Ford or Reagan can emerge as a decisive victor or whether it will be a race to the wire with each getting roughly equal support. The California poll June 6 is also likely to be crucial.

Should a deadlock develop, some insiders suggest, the Republicans might dump both men at the party's convention in Kansas City Aug. 14 and look for a candidate who might satisfy all factions of the party. John Connally, former Texas governor and treasury secretary, and Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller, who seems to be out of the election, are mentioned as suitable for such a role.

Virtually nobody was ready to predict at the close of 1972 which of the Democrats would make the strongest showing and most probably win the party's convention in New York City July 12. It will have a number of contenders to choose from rather than two or three obvious favorites.

Democrats pondering this possibility are already haunted by memories of the 1956 convention when it took 104 ballots to nominate John Davis. Republican Calvin Coolidge trounced him in the election.

Olympic Team Is 380 Strong

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Olympic Association (COA) announced Sunday that Canada will "field a team of 380 athletes, the largest ever to represent Canada," at the 1976 Summer Games in Montreal.

Maurice Allan, COA summer Games vice president, also said that the possibility of having more than 380 athletes has not been ruled out.

"Because it is not the aim of the association to set a maximum restriction," he said, "we believe that our athletes will be taking advantage of the next few months to surpass their best performances to date."

COA secretary Richard Found said the association also decided to take the formal steps necessary to enter all team sports, both men's and women's, despite the fact some Canadian teams may not be of international calibre.

He cautioned, however, that the COA reserves the right to withdraw any such entry should any team subsequently fail to put forth sufficient efforts to become a sound training program.

There had been concern among member sport federations that the COA might not field teams in certain European-oriented team sports, such as handball, soccer and field hockey.

Athletes of host countries have automatic entry to every sport and do not have to meet Olympic standards.

Allan said the COA will "continue in close liaison with the federations to gather new and reliable information as it becomes available, and to improve selection criteria where possible."

The COA has had to decide whether to allow everyone to compete, whether they will be totally outclassed or not, and only athletes and teams that have reached qualifying standards and have a chance of making a good showing.

If the COA decides that everyone should be represented, Canada's team could number as high as 540 athletes.

Bears Frustrated by Goalie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goaltender Richard Lemieux stopped the longest American Hockey League winless streak of the season Sunday night.

Richmond Robins, behind Dellbaumer's brilliant stand-out goaltending, blanked Hershey 4-0 to snap an eight-game winless string which had pulled the Bears into a first-place with Richmond in the Southern Division standings.

But the Robins moved ahead of the Bears with their fifth consecutive victory and the second Dellbaumer shutout in that string.

Dellbaumer, who turned aside 32 shots, was particularly outstanding midway through the first period when the Bears had a five-goalmen-to-four-skaters advantage and early in the third period when Hershey had back-to-back power plays.

In other games, Nova Scotia Voyageurs defeated New Haven Nighthawks 5-2, Providence Reds downed Baltimore Clipers 3-2 and Rochester Americans beat Springfield Indians 6-3.

In two games Saturday night, Hershey edged Baltimore 4-3 and Nova Scotia downed Springfield 3-1.

Richmond got its other goals from Andre Pelletier, Dave Kelly and Larry Wright.

The Voyageurs were behind 2-1 after the first period but came back with three unanswered goals in the second period.

At Providence, Dale Lewis snapped a 3-3 tie on a short-handed shot at 12:46 of the third period and the Reds went on to down the Clippers 5-3.

The Americans exploded for five goals in the first period including two it seconds apart by Dave Hynes to defeat the visiting Indians.

Gerow Gives Comets 4-4 Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rick Gerow's goal at 8:20 of the third period gave Napanee Comets a 4-4 tie with Lindsay Lancers in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A action Sunday.

The two clubs played a scoreless 10-minute overtime period.

Gerow's tying goal was his second score of Sunday's contest. Charlie Gidney and Brian Coughlin added the other Napanee goals.

Bob Taylor, Bob Rivard, Paul Grills and George Conway scored for the Lancers who were saddled with a loss.

Napanee surged into a 3-0 first-period lead but the visitors came back with three unanswered goals to tie the contest going into the final 20 minutes of play.

League play resumes tonight with Whitby at Lindsay.

Bob Baird's goal in sudden death overtime gave Barrie the victory.

Baird also got two assists. Doug Acomb added a pair of goals for the Flyers and Steve Sly, Barry O'Donohoe and Gary Lopa had one each.

Four Straight Wins For Moscow Selects

WINNIPEG (CP) — Moscow Selects chalked up the fourth straight victory of their Canadian tour Sunday night by scoring a 3-1 decision over a junior team made up of Winnipeg Clubs and several Western Canadian Hockey League players.

The Juniors held the Soviets to a 1-0 first-period lead, but the Selects widened the gap to 4-1 in the second frame.

Vladimir Popov led the winners with three goals, one on a power play and another when his team was short handed. Vladimir Repnev got two for the Soviets and Sinjin Wentzel added a goal for the Juniors.

The pair Canadian goal was scored by Darryl Furner of Kamloops, Okanagan early in the third period.

The win left the Selects undefeated so far on their Canadian tour, which will include games against various National Hockey League teams.

WINS OPENING RACE

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Henri Duvillard of France took advantage of Heinz Kashrea's early mistakes of the day Sunday to win pro skiing's opening race. Kashrea, 36, of Steamboat Springs, Colo., and Duvillard met head-to-head in the final run of the 2:18-mile giant slalom course. Kashrea caught a rock with his ski as he neared the first of the jumps on the 30-gate, 1,100-foot run. Duvillard ran behind Kashrea in the first run, which Kashrea won by just over one-half second. But he beat Kashrea by 2.5 seconds in the second run.

WINS $12,000

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Jane Blalock sank a 30-foot birdie putt on the hole of a three-way sudden death playoff Sunday to win the $12,000 first prize in the $50,000 Triple Crown women's golf tournament at Mission Hills Country Club. Jane Blalock had finished the regulation 36 holes with a two-under-par 142 and is the wife of Johnny Carner and Judy Rankin, Mrs. Carner, the first-round leader with a two-under-par 70 over the 6,513-yard course, and Mrs. Rankin each won $4,750. JoAnn Washam took third-place and $3,000 with a 143 total.

Shaver and Ostapchuk Falls Are Cushioned

THUNDER BAY (CP) — Ron Shaver and Kathy Ostapchuk both had problems with their freeskating programs Saturday night but none of their competitors could wrestle the singles' title away from them on the final day of the Central Canada Figure Skating Championships.

Shaver of Cambridge and Ostapchuk of Mississauga, Ont., both had enough cushion going into the free-skating programs to afford a fall-as long as one of their competitors did not strong the top voice from all five judges.

As it turned out, despite falls, both Shaver and Ostapchuk turned in routines that impressed the judges enough to secure them top marks.

Shaver won the men's singles title with 182.80 points and the minimum five ordinals. Kevin Hicks of Windsor was second and Lee Armstrong of Chatham, third.

Ostapchuk finished atop the women's section with 94.88 points and six ordinals with Julie Bowerman of Woodstock second and Shelly Simonton of Chatham third.

There was no competition in the junior pairs or dance events.

Ray Priestnitz of Cambridge and Carolyn Slocum of Windsor won the junior singles gold medals. The novice single titles went to Patrice Black of Leamington and Kevin Parker of Campbellville, Ont.

Janice Rilskey and Michael De Paoulo, both of Preston, Ont., won the junior dance event while Lynn Begin and Mark Gignac of Preston captured the junior pairs.

Heather Tunbeck and Murray Carey of Winnipeg won the novice dance while Jenis France and Paul Mills gave the Preston Figure Skating Club yet another gold medal in the novice pairs. The four top finishers in each of the events is eligible to compete in the Canadian championships next month in London.

English Soccer Crush Is On

LONDON (Reuter) — England's soccer season has reached the halfway point with all signs pointing to a photo-finish next April.

Queen's Park Rangers lead Liverpool, Manchester United and reigning champions Derby County only on goal average after Saturday's games.

Two points behind the leaders are Leeds United and West Ham United. Each has played one game less than the top teams.

Leeds and West Ham missed a chance to close in on the leaders when the Rangers and Derby lost 1-2.

Queen's Park striker Phil Hoult, 27, came on as a substitute and headed his team into the lead against Derby. Rod Bruce Black, a Scottish national, scored for Derby five minutes from the end.

Stuart Pearson scored twice as Manchester United beat 4-1 over Sheffield United, a loser 17 times in 21 matches.

Sunderland remained atop the Second Division by beating Oxford 1-0, while second-place Bolton, which trails by two points, edged Fulham 3-1.

Scarborough was the only giant-killer to survive the second round of FA Cup, defeating Preston of the Third Division 3-1.

Hibernian moved into a first-place tie in Scotland's tight Premier Division race. Hibernian edged Motherwell 1-0 while Celtic lost 2-0 by Aberdeen.

Warriors Rebound To Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Golden State guard Jamaal Shith scored 26 points Sunday night but it was the rebounding of centre George Johnson that helped the Warriors to beat the Kansas City Kings 115-108 in a National Basketball Association game.

Johnson pulled down 19 rebounds in the first quarter as the Warriors pulled away from the Kings, breaking loose from a one-point lead with six minutes to play and scoring eight successive points to ensure the victory.

In Sunday's other games, Boston Celtics defeated New Orleans Jazz 109-95, Los Angeles Lakers defeated Detroit Pistons 110-108, Phoenix Suns defeated Portland Trail Blazers 108-96 and Seattle SuperSonics downed Philadelphia 76ers 114-109.

In Saturday's games, New York Knicks downed Washington Bullets 126-107, Atlanta Hawks stopped Kansas City 115-101, Cleveland Cavaliers dropped New Orleans 112-96, Boston topped Houston Rockets 137-126, Buffalo Braves edged Chicago Bulls 108-101, Phoenix dropped Los Angeles 116-108 and Portland trimmed Detroit 101-91.

In Saturday's games, San Antonio Spurs whipped Kentucky Colonels 13-108 and Indiana defeated the Spirits of St. Louis 132-111.

"Boston started playing a pressure defence in the third quarter, and this became their offense," New Orleans coach Bill van Breda Kolff moaned. "They took control of the game at that point."

Charlie Scott, with 25 points-19 coming in the second half—Boston romped to its sixth successive victory and the Jazz, which led 60-58 at the half, lost its sixth in a row.

A 21-point production by guard Fred Brown led Seattle over Philadelphia. The 76ers lost guard Doug Collins, who scored 21 points, midway through the fourth quarter with a sprained ankle.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 27 points and grabbed a career high 34 rebounds to lead Los Angeles past Detroit. Gail Goodrich and Lucius Allen added 26 and 25 points, respectively, for the Lakers.

Senate Moves to Block U.S. Intervention in Angola

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is manoeuvring to end United States intervention in Angola with some members voicing fears that the newly independent African nation might become another Vietnam.

The Senate foreign relations subcommittee on foreign assistance may vote today on a resolution by Senator Dick Clark (Dem. Iowa) that would cut off U.S. funds for military or paramilitary operations in Angola.

Senator John Tunney (Dem. Calif.) said on Monday he will ask the Senate, which holds a secret session Wednesday, to strike out any funds in the $112.3-billion defence-appropriation bill for anything except intelligence-gathering in Angola.

The two moves resulted from published reports that the CIA has committed up to $20 million for the military support of two factions fighting Soviet-backed forces in Angola.

"It is shades of Vietnam all over again," Senator Frank Church (Dem. Idaho) said in Senate debate Monday.

Wednesday's secret Senate session will be held to consider the compromise defence-appropriations bill, which includes an undisclosed amount of money for the CIA. The move to hold a closed-door session blocks consideration of the bill until senators determine whether funds in the bill can be used in Angola.

The appropriations bill was passed by the House of Representatives last Friday.

Chairman John McClellan (Dem. Ark.) of the Senate appropriations committee said he could not in open session say whether any money in the bill might be used for military aid in Angola.

The defence bill normally contains funds for intelligence accounts for the activities of the CIA and other intelligence agencies.

Tunney said he and other cosponsors of the Angola ban-aid amendment suspect that $25 million in the bill is intended for use in Angola, although McClellan told the Senate there is no money in the bill specifically for Angola.

Tunney said that unless other senators are given the facts he secretly learned they might be voting for funds that would be used for purposes they oppose.

Church said that, despite the civil war in Angola, the determination for independence is so strong that "whichever side wins it will be Angolan, not Russian or American."

"We don't belong in Angola,"

Jobless Premiums Jump 71 Cents

OTTAWA (CP) — Maximum unemployment insurance premiums deducted from employees' paycheques will climb to $3.20 weekly from the present $2.50 Jan. 1, Manpower Minister Robert Andras indicated Monday.

Mr. Andras said in an interview premium rate for workers likely will be $1.60 a week for each $100 of insurable earnings. Insurable earnings in 1976 will be $300 weekly.

In 1975, the premium rate be $200 weekly.

For employers, the maximum premium payment will be about $4.82 a week, up from the $3.63 in 1975. The premium rate for employers is rising to $3.21, a week from the present $1.96, Mr. Andras said.

The figures have not been officially released but are "pretty damn close," he said.

Maximum unemployment insurance benefit in 1976 will be $123 weekly, up from $102 a week in 1975.

Mr. Andras revealed the figures in the Commons begin consideration of 23 opposition amendments to a controversial bill overhauling the Unemployment Insurance Act.

The legislation is a priority item for the government this week because the increased premium deductions are effective Jan. 1. The government hopes to adjourn Parliament Friday for the Christmas break.

Provisions to cut premiums 45 and over from the unemployed' insurance program and reduce the special benefit rate for claimants with dependents over first five from 14Pc to 66Pc.

Spokesmen from all four parties in the Commons attacked changes that would prevent the aged from making premium payments and collecting benefits.

Mr. Andras has said the change would save the government about $120 million in 1976 at an unemployment rate of seven per cent.

Both Progressive Conservative and New Democratic committed amendments to drop the clause cutting the aged out of the program. Votes on the amendments will be held later this week.

Opposition MPs called the government cruel, callous and Scrooge-like for the proposal to drop the aged from the plan.

Andy Hogan (NDP—Cape Breton-East Richmond) said he found it hard to believe the government was picking on the aged. Half of the people over 65 are living in poverty.

"It's shameful and scandalous. It's a Scrooge-like policy."

The opposition also criticized the government for proposing to reduce the special benefit rate paid to claimants with dependents to 66 2-3 per cent of earnings from the present 75 per cent.

The government was trying to fight its inflation program on the backs of the poor, Mr. Alexander said.

David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North) said the higher benefits for claimants with dependents were introduced in 1971 as a way of cutting down on the number of unemployed asking for welfare in addition to claiming jobless benefits.

What is taken away from the unemployed will have to be paid out in increased welfare payments, he said.

Court Says CRTC In Wrong

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Radio-Television Commission acted without authority ordering the disposal of cable television interests held by Prudential Communications Ltd. of Ottawa, the Federal Court of Appeal said Monday.

Trudeau Criticizes Retiring Ambassador

OTTAWA (CP) — Departing U.S. ambassador Thomas Tracy Tate was rebuked by Prime Minister Trudeau today for his mine offensive remarks and the senior diplomat was later apparently snubbed by cabinet ministers he invited to a farewell reception.

The rift was caused by a weekend social function at which the ambassador, now reportedly told invited journalists that Canadian policy decisions such as restrictions on U.S. investment in Canada—have stirred resentment, if not hostility, in the U.S. Congress and media.

Mr. Trudeau held a buzzing Commons Monday afternoon that the ambassador went beyond the acceptable bounds of diplomatic conduct if he was quoted accurately.

"I am sure the American government would agree on this," he said during a question period dominated by the incident.

Even so, John Trattner of the state department said in Washington Monday the department had prior knowledge of what Mr. Parker was going to say, another U.S. official said earlier the ambassador "had his facts right" in referring to U.S. resentment.

Indians Ask River Be Closed

TORONTO (CP) — Indians from the Grassy Narrows and White Dog reserves in northwestern Ontario have written a letter to Premier William Davis, asking him to close the mercury-polluted English River-Wabigoon River systems to all fishing.

Ottawa To Cut Spending

OTTAWA (CP) — Announcement of promised economies in government spending plans for next year has been put off until Thursday night, when the government also will publish detailed regulations governing the federal program of selective pay and price controls.

Jean Chrétien, president of the treasury board, gave the timing plans Monday. Government officials had said last week the announcement was expected today and the controls regulations Thursday night.

Cabinet ministers are reported to be considering plans to trim spending on such programs as student summer employment, winter jobs under the Local Initiatives Program and annual increments in family allowances, built-in to keep pace with inflation.

Carlos Promises Broad Civil Rights

MADRID (Reuter) — The government of King Juan Carlos, has taken its first step toward bringing post-Franco Spain into line with Western Europe.

In its first policy statement, the government promised Monday night to broaden civil rights—especially freedom of assembly—and reform institutions such as the Cortes (parliament).

The statement, issued after a cabinet meeting, said the government will allow "responsible criticism"—indicating a relaxation of press censorship—and work for closer ties with the European Common Market.

The government also said it will give greater autonomy to regional minorities, a reference to the opposition to central rule in the Basque and Catalan provinces.

Widely heralded in the Spanish press as a reforming government, the new team picked by Premier Carl os Arias Navarro announced its intention to make Spain's "political and public system uniform with that of Western community."

During Franciscо Franco's rule all meetings of more than 13 people required government authorization and only one-fifth of the Cortes was directly elected. Political parties and independent trade unions were banned, and press freedom was severely curtailed.

But the statement did not outline reforms in detail nor did it give any timetable for their implementation.

Opposition demands since Franco died last month have centred on urgent steps toward democracy, taking as a starting point a complete amnesty for the jailed and exiled opponents of Franco and the repeal of all legislation curtailing political rights.

Council To Petition OMB Over Exemptions

BY HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

City council officially decided Monday night to petition the Ontario Municipal Board (OMB) over tax exemptions for hospitals.

The issue stems from a prolonged argument between city hall and Belleville General Hospital officials over payment for garbage and sewage services.

BGH administrators adamantly refused to pay the bill in the past year. City officials were just as determined to charge applicable taxes.

Involved was an annual total of about $21,000 which city council finally waived a month ago.

The BGH had Canada's Supreme Court on its side. The court ruled in favor of such exemptions for hospitals.

Council now has approved two resolutions to the OMB asking for amendments to the Municipal Act so such charges can be made against hospitals.

The resolutions also are being forwarded to the Association of Municipalities of Ontario for "further action."

Kissinger Urges Sharing Of World Oil Profits

PARIS (CP) — U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger today urged the oil-rich countries to channel some of their huge profits to "the most wounded of their poor relatives in the Third World."

The United States and other industrialized countries cannot be expected to fill the widening gap between rich and poor countries caused partly by high energy costs, he told the international conference on energy and economic co-operation.

He proposed that members of the oil exporters' cartel turn billions of dollars over to international lending agencies for use by needy borrowers.

"We cannot be expected to bear the major burdens for remedying balance of payments problems in which the actions of others play such a significant role," he said.

"There is a collective obligation to act. There must be a joint program involving the industrialized as well as the oil-producing countries.

Kissinger spoke after French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, in opening the three-day conference, warned that "the muted possibility of confrontation and selfishness" overshadows the meeting.

Beirut Fears Israeli Attack Over Community

BEIRUT (AP) — Premier Rashid Karami today said that Israel is preparing to invade Lebanon on the pretext of rescuing the tiny Jewish community in embattled Beirut.

Karami said he heard of Israel's plan in a British-language broadcast over Israel radio today. But in Tel Aviv, radio Israel denied broadcasting any such plan or anything resembling it.

The Lebanese premier, in a nationwide broadcast, called on the big powers and other members of the United Nations Security Council to note "Israel's preparations for the attack."

Karami also holds the defence portfolio in his six-man cabinet.

"I heard an English-language broadcast over Israel radio this morning declaring the existence of such a plan by the Israeli army general staff in conjunction with the ministries of foreign and religious affairs to attack Lebanon to rescue the Jews of Wadi Abu Jamil," Karami said.

Equal Fees for Equal Sexes Now in City Dog Bylaw

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Thanks to Ald. Jean Smith, man's best friend — whether male or female — will receive equal treatment under Belleville bylaws.

City council last night revised its dog control bylaw and increased annual licence fees, but and before some changes were made at Ald. Smith's insistence.

She successfully argued that male dogs cost same fees as females — $8 for one dog, $12 for each additional pet of either sex.

The proposed bylaw, she initiated, discriminated against the female of the species by proposing their licences at $8 and only $5 for males.

He called the increase — up 150 per cent from $10 — "drastic" and said the 10 per cent anti-inflation government guideline would have been applied.

He would have favored a $2 increase, for kennel owners.

Purebred registered owners pay from $150 to $500 for favorite pup breeds, added Mr. Barks, while many dozens of non-purebreds run at large.

Catherine Hall, of 21 Diamond Cresc. wrote in surprise that dogs were not required to have anti-rabies shots before being licensed in Belleville.

Ald. Stu Meeks said the increase for kennel owners was "fairly substantial."

City manager Wilbur Purcell said the pertinent provincial legislation indicates $25 is the fee.

It also was uncertain whether anti-rabies vaccination could be made a condition of licensing.

The Weather

Synopsis: A weak disturbance over Southeast Bay this morning will forecast to move down the Great Lakes today and spread some snow, gradually southeastward. Amounts of one to two centimeters are forecast for most localities. Behind this disturbance a large high pressure area will bring clearing and continued cold weather for Wednesday.

Rotating Strikes?

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto high-school teachers may switch to a rotating strike rather than continue their Metro-wide work stoppage which began five weeks ago, a union spokesman said Monday. Gordon Hamilton, information officer with the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (OSSTF), said a rotating strike would keep half of the 8,800 teachers off the job while the other half returned to work for an indefinite period.

May Reduce Fuel Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A wide-ranging energy bill that would temporarily reduce fuel prices in the United States is before the House for final congressional action, but faces an uncertain fate at the hands of President Ford. The House of Representatives passed the bill 236 to 160 Monday night. Legal authority for maintaining oil-price controls expired less than three hours later, at midnight, before the Senate had time to act.

Guidelines Get Final Okay

OTTAWA (CP) — Two months after it was first introduced to Parliament, the government's anti-inflation program was given its final approval Monday evening. The act, which establishes the anti-inflation board to enforce selected wage and price controls, was given royal assent after a long and sometimes stormy debate in the Commons and the Senate.

Ontario Uses Less Oil

TORONTO (CP) — Consumption of oil and natural gas in Ontario has declined this year compared with last year, energy ministry figures show. The latest figures for oil consumption show that by the end of July, the province was using four-per-cent less than in 1974.

Paris Conference Opens

PARIS (CP) — President Valery Giscard d'Estaing opens the long-delayed conference on international co-operation Monday amid warnings that the parley must not be allowed to degenerate into a clash between the industrialized and developing nations. While Canadian and Venezuelan ministers acting as co-chairmen, the conference will attempt to seek a more mutually satisfactory relationship between what rich and poor countries pay for their essential imports and what they get for their exports.

Builder Asks City to Speed Project Approval

City council moved Monday to speed up the opportunities for residents in a northwest housing development to qualify for senior government ownership grants.

Council approved a development agreement with Maurice H. Rollins Construction for a 72-townhouse condominium scheme.

The move will allow the developer to conclude a condominium agreement which in turn qualifies residents for $1,500 in first-home-ownership government grants.

The approval has been hanging some time as both the City and Quinte Planning Board (QPB) sought undertakings for site improvements in the development.

But, Bob Marcotte, Rollins vice-president, said council Monday there is an urgent need for the agreement which must also go the housing ministry.

The recent mail strike prevented circulation for comment of the QPB's staff recommendations he said.

The first-home grants run out at the end of the month he noted, and this now also presents "a considerable problem."

Work demanded of the developer includes sidewalk locations, landscaping, fencing and clearing of a drainage ditch, and designation of an access road as fire route banned to parking.

Ald. Jack Ireland said Mr. Marcotte was asking for council approval in advance of such work.

Mr. Marcotte said the city held land as a performance security on the project with a deadline for May 1976.

Coulson New Crown Attorney

NAPANEE — Assuming prosecution duties for Lennox and Addington County has been like a homecoming, says 36-year-old J. Peter Coulson, the county's new Crown attorney.

Mr. Coulson's appointment was effective Dec. 1 — the date former Crown attorney G. G. Wynn retired.

However, the appointment became official only last Thursday when a provincial order-in-council was signed.

In a telephone interview with The Intelligencer Monday, Mr. Coulson, who was born at Newcastle, Ont., said he and his family resided on Amherst Island, 12 miles southeast of here, from 1953-60.

"I'm very pleased to have a job down here," he commented, noting his father, 86-year-old William P. Coulson, owns a farm on the Island.

He gained experience for his new position in serving the past six years as assistant Crown attorney in the southeastern judicial district of the Regional Municipality of Niagara — a post he filled on Dec. 8, 1969.

Called to the bar in March, 1967, he is a graduate of Queen's University in Kingston where he received his BA in arts in 1963 and his LLB in law in 1966.

For three years Mr. Coulson was in private practice with the law firm of Pagan, Cash and Coulson in Port Colborne.

REAL ESTATE:
YOU AND YOUR AGENT
Ed. McGhee
Realty Ltd.
A. E. McGhee

The quickest — and by far the easiest — method of selecting a home is simply knowing all that's available on the market. And you won't get that information by charging from one "house for sale" sign to another. Your best choice is to seek help from a REALTOR. Preferably, one who knows — and is active in — the neighborhood you're interested in.

Before you sit down with your REALTOR, determine your family's present number of bedrooms and baths, nursery needs, room for future expansion, recreation facilities, etc. If you're willing to compromise on any requirements, say so. Be flexible about architecture, and consider looking at a variety of home styles and be particular about the location of the house. It's the one thing you'll never be able to remodel.

Final advice: Be candid about your finances and what you can afford. This information will come out sooner or later and you'll be wasting your time by looking at houses that are beyond your means.

Tourist Operators, Chamber Unaware of Village Plan

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Prince Edward's economic development director William Duggan says the recent proposal for a Loyalist Village in the county received input from tourist operators but Robert York, president of the Quinte's Isle Tourist Association (QITA) states the project is "completely new" to him.

The village concept was mentioned in a report to Prince Edward County council submitted last month by the economic development director.

In a recent letter to the editor questioning an Intelligencer column Mr. Duggan emphasized the Loyalist Village concept involved community input and he stressed it was not "the brainchild of the assistant deputy-minister of tourism" as stated in the newspaper column.

In an interview Monday, Robert York, QITA president, said he knew "nothing" about a proposal for a Loyalist Village or similar type of tourist attraction in the county.

"I don't know what it is all about. It is completely new to me so I have no views," he remarked.

Merle Pearsall, a member of the QITA and a major Prince Edward County tourist operator, also said she was unaware of a proposed Loyalist Village.

Miss Pearsall said she was out of town when the last meeting of the QITA was held but added that she had regularly attended other meetings this year and knew nothing of the village proposal.

Sheldon Whittaker, president of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce, said Monday a Loyalist village or similar project has not been discussed among chamber members.

Mr. Whittaker added that he was unaware of a proposal for a Loyalist village in the county and noted there was no bid for such a development by the local chamber.

He added the chamber seeks worthwhile projects and the proposal for a village might be interpreted as a type of county promotion.

In a letter to The Intelligencer Mr. Duggan stated, "The Chamber of Commerce has been suggesting for years that an authentic 'event' or 'place' relating to the County's history would be of considerable tourist and commercial value to the area."

He also noted, "As for the suggestion that a Loyalist Village concept was "the brainchild of the assistant deputy minister of tourism . . . tourist operators, local citizens and sundry tourist visitors provided input."

However, in his report to the chairman of the economic and development committee at the November meeting of county council Mr. Duggan attributed the village proposal to the assistant deputy-minister.

The written report included in council's agenda stated, "A meeting was held with the assistant deputy-minister of industry and tourism who had suggested that the county needed a large permanent general tourist attraction and that the area's Loyalist heritage might be invoked."

The report added: "Ideas relating to such a plan are being assembled."

Chamber Drive Under Way

TRENTON — The Trenton Chamber of Commerce is in the midst of its annual membership drive which they hope will increase participation among members and be more than 75 per cent, said Jack Wilson, manager.

Currently, just over 50 per cent of the business, retail outlets and industry in the municipality, are members of the chamber and the board said it hopes to increase the membership from 180 to about 200 in 1970.

"The more members we have the stronger we will be and the broader the support we can provide," said Mr. Wilson. "We now provide a better business bureau and are active in municipal events like celebrations and the Santa Claus Parade but we can become more active with more support," said the manager.

Survey Under Way

The Trenton chamber is conducting a survey of small business in town to establish how dramatic an effect the wage increase would have on current operations.

Historic Documents On View at Museum

PICTON — A unique assortment of "Christmas mail" is on display this month at the Prince Edward County Museum, including letters signed by Sir John A. MacDonald, Picton's first mayor, Philip Law, Q.C. and Anglican Church Recotr William Macnaghtn.

The letters form part of a collection of more than 1,000 historical documents recently donated to the museum by Dr. H.C. Burleigh of Bath, a leading historian on United Empire Loyalists.

Dr. Burleigh's donation is on exhibit in a special holiday display that shows all of the gifts made to the county museum in the past year.

Curator James Gooding said Monday the collection of documents is known as The Fitzgerald Papers. They originally belonged to Picton lawyer Richard Fitzgerald who practised here in the 1890's.

Mr. Gooding said the documents have been catalogued and will be included in the museum's archives collection.

A number of the most interesting letters and documents from the Fitzgerald Papers has been displayed in a glass case on the second floor of the museum.

One of the documents is a receipts issued to Mrs. Fitzgerald for the quarterly payment of $6 for pew rental for one year at the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, now renovated as a county museum.

Mr. Gooding said several of the letters in the collection reflect an old habit of writing both horizontally and vertically on the same page.

The author would fill the page writing from right to left, then turn it sidewise and again write across it.

Included among the documents on display are several other items such as the 1871 voter's list and a copy of the ninth edition of The Prince Edward County Year Book, published in 1940.

Also a large family bible with its records of births and deaths in the Jamieson family is on exhibit.

Mr. Gooding said the museum's Christmas display of gifts received throughout the year will be highlighted Sunday, Dec. 21 by an open house from 1 to 4 p.m.

Pay Hike Worries Chamber

By JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

TRENTON The anticipated increase in the minimum wage could cause small businesses to tighten their belts and lay off workers, Jack Wilson, manager of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, said Monday.

The local chapter of the chamber is conducting a survey of business in Trenton to determine just how devastating an impact the wage rise would have on retail outlets and factories whose salary levels are directly connected to the standard, said Mr. Wilson.

"The Ontario Ministry of Labor has indicated there will be an adjustment in the minimum wage and the chamber is worried the increase might force many small businesses to close or curtail operations," said Mr. Wilson. "The Ontario Federation of Labor has recently called for an increase in the minimum wage up to $4 per hour and this would be disastrous", he said.

Mr. Wilson said he is not contesting the need for the minimum wage increase but rather questioning squeezing effect it had on smaller operations such as restaurants and gas stations.

The increase in the number of self-service gasoline stations in the area is indicative of the problems facing smaller business, said Mr. Wilson.

A collection of more than 1,000 historical documents recently donated to the Prince Edward County Museum has proved letter perfect for a special display. Among the famous signatures on the 19th century correspondence are those of Sir John A. MacDonald, author Cauniff Haight and Picton's first mayor Philip Law. Curator James Gooding above enjoys re-reading the well-preserved documents.

Police Charge Two Men, Car Stopped Twice

TWEED — Ronald Miles, 21 of Nashville, Ont. is charged with careless driving, impaired driving and having a blood alcohol count greater than 80 and Kirk Farthing, 19, of Kleinburg, Ont. is charged with driving while prohibited in connection with two separate incidents here during the weekend, involving the same car.

Both men will appear for the first time in Madoc provincial court on Jan. 20. Miles is also charged with possession of a narcotic by Ontario Provincial Police at Madoc.

Tweed police say they stopped a 1973 Grenelle on Jamieson St. at 6:45 p.m. Friday which was doing "doughnuts".

Constable Paul Clement arrested the driver.

Provincial police say when the suspect was searched at the Madoc detachment, a narcotic was discovered in his clothes. Police have not released the type or quantity of the narcotic.

Tweed police say Constable Clement was searching the same car on Victoria St. at 1:05 a.m. being driven by another person.

A Leader for PCs?

Peppy George Hees Is Alive and Well and Working in Ottawa

By RICHARD JACKSON
Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — With nearly 20 candidates already in the Conservative leadership race, it almost seems like enough.

Except that the field won't be truly representative of the full potential of the multi-talented Tories unless and until the Hon. George Harris Hees, P.C., 25-year veteran of the Commons and MP for the old Ontario constituency of Prince Edward-Hastings is in the running.

It could be that Hon. George, a contestant in other party leadership stakes, figures that at 65 it's time to hang up his running shoes.

But he owes it to the Conservatives, to the Commons, and the common Canadian taxpayer to give it another go.

Sixty-five he may be, but like his former Prime Minister, John Georges Diefenbaker, he remains ageless.

Vigorous physically, sharp mentally and joyfully radiating an infectious zest for life, he keeps in top shape by enjoying every precious living moment of it.

The big plus that George Hees has going for him is not just the quality of parliamentary and administrative performance, it's his claim, his aspirations.

Save for Don Jamieson, who talks and promises to play a great trade promotion game, George Hees was the best Industry Trade and Commerce Minister to come down the pike since the golden halcyon days of the late great C.D. Howe, the amazing Minister-of-Everything.

George Hees looks good. Handsome, dapper.

He acts young. Often does a little shadow-boxing in the Commons lobby. Sometimes runs a fast lap around the Parliament Hill. In exuberance greets you with "Hiya, boy.". Or "Way to go." Or "Going great."

But other candidates, too, are pretty acceptable parliamentary performers. Some even look good. And a few have, at least a touch of that same go-go enthusiasm.

But none have the fun-and-games talent of George Hees. None of them is the entertainer he is.

Examples:

He was ribbing Lucky Pierre the other day about the failure of yet another of the Prime Minister's personal appointments, Yves Pratte, the recently resigned chairman of Air Canada.

Here's how it went:

Hees: Will proven ability to direct large corporations be the criteria in the appointment of a new Air Canada chief?

Trudeau: We will continue as in the past seeking out the best person available for any job that is open.

An Hon. Member: What about George?

Hees: You couldn't make a better choice.

Some Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

Trudeau: There may be a contradiction there (between the qualification of "proven ability") and the Hon. Member's claim that there couldn't be a better choice than himself.

Hees: Well, that's your opinion, but what's yours against thousands of others?

Here Trudeau shrugs and Hees bows, and they exchange a few insults in their own body language, the only MPs in the House who can converse with hand and finger signals.

Quebec Conservative MP, Howard Crafter, one of the going-on 20 leadership candidates, is lecturing Lucky Pierre on the housing crisis:

Crafter: How many can buy his own home in this country?

Hees: Name one.

Hees: None.

Crafter: How much help is the farmer given to stay on the land?

Hees: Zilch.

Crafter: And how much encouragement is there for Canadian investment in Canadian enterprise?

Hees: Minus zero.

Some Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

The point is that Graffey was asking some pointed questions.

But nobody in the Liberal cabinet, and no one in the government backbenches had replies to questions that, if only for the parliamentary record, should be answered.

George Hees didn't give any of them either. Only a reply. He answered for them — pap, pap, pap — and had them sitting on the government benches looking like a lot of dummies.

And the interesting thing about it was that he subtly was increasing the deadly drone of debate, but had fun juicing it up a little.

George Hees has the great attribute of looking and sounding alive somewhat a lot of Conservatives could use.

Socialism in the English-speaking world has fallen upon hard times.

That's the message from three successive elections, including last week's provincial vote in British Columbia.

The trend to the right has been under way for some time, but it assumed tangible form only last month in New Zealand when that country's National party — the equivalent to the Progressive Conservatives here — ousted the Labor administration. Mismanagement of the economy was a strong factor influencing voters in this decision.

It was followed last Thursday by another setback for the left with the defeat of the NDP government of Dave Barrett in British Columbia. Back in power again is Social Credit, this time under Bill Bennett, son of long-time premier W. A. C. Bennett whom Barrett defeated in 1972.

A big factor in Mr. Barrett's defeat was electoral disenchantment with the decision to legislate strikers back to work during recent work stoppages. But as much of this was his alienation of the business community and the dismay of many at his government's heading enactment of social legislation.

The irony of it is that with Mr. Barrett defeated in his own riding too Canada has lost one of its most colorful politicians. But as one observer put it, British Columbia "is not yet ready for socialism."

The final act in this international ballot box drama was played out in Australia on Friday when Gough Whitlam's Labor administration fell to the Liberal-National-Country party coalition party. A weakened economy, unemployment, hints of scandal in high places, and with relations vis-a-vis old friends such as Britain and the United States at a low ebb, were factors in the voters' minds there.

These are results which will be of significance here. The NDP party in Ontario made considerable gains in the election this year but as columnist Dave O'Hearn noted recently, its strength may have peaked.

Overall, there is surprising unanimity in these elections results. It reflects a reaffirmation of private enterprise and a suspicion of government interference. However, while rejuvenating their economies, it will be up to the new governments to give consideration also to the kind of social legislation which has been enacted in British Columbia and which undoubtedly will stand.

Mayoral Leadership

Mayor Ben Corke is no Don Quixote tilting at windmills but rather a seasoned veteran of Council and local politics.

In the relatively short time since taking over the office of mayor, Mr. Corke has made his mark on municipal affairs.

In focusing attention on various community problems and needs Mayor Corke has ruffled some feathers. But that is only to be expected progress in public affairs does not come from hiding one's light under a bushel or from dodging issues.

Finding additional space for the rapidly-growing city is one factor Mr. Corke believes is urgent, but where it is going to come is another matter.

For one thing there has been opposition from the Fair Board to the idea of moving the Quinte Exhibition out of town so Belleville has more room for housing. Similarly neither Sidney nor Thurlow townships seems about to entertain any thoughts of accommodating Belleville in the matter of relocation of the CP south end rail tracks. Again, if this were to materialize Belleville would have more development space.

Still, the democratic process is served by discussion of such problems and Mayor Corke is providing many of the talking points. He has been active too in trying to find a solution to Hillcrest's high-cost sewer services. Again he exhibits a fine turn of phrase in summing up one situation or other. "Somewhere along the line," he says, the traffic committee is going to have to "hang out hats" on the traffic formula needed before lights are warranted at Herchimer and Victoria. This location is regarded by area residents and school authorities as a hazard to students and pedestrians generally.

Whether he has everyone on his side or not Mayor Corke is a shrewd political operator who has his finger on the pulse of the community.

"Oh and ask Mr. Juneau if there's room for another desk in our office."

Indexing for Private Pensions But Just Look What It Costs

By VINCENT EGIAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Indexed pensions are gilt-edged protection against future inflation.

The member of Parliament or the Senate, or anyone for whom the federal government is responsible — civil servants, members of the armed forces and Royal Canadian Mounted Police—that kind of inflation insurance cost next to nothing.

Now, in a generous gesture, the governments of Canada and Ontario are allowing private employers to link their pension plans to the cost-of-living index as well.

The only trouble is that the cost of annual inflation-geared pension increases, to a private employer, is staggering.

It's equally staggering in the case of the federal government. But since it's the public treasury that will be saddled with the expense, nobody cares—except the forgotten taxpayer.

Until the recent changes in the rules, there was a conflict between the federal and provincial legislation on funding requirements for indexed pensions.

Among other things, that conflict created an embarrassing problem of professional conduct for actuaries who do the pension planning. They helped to expose the uneasy Ottawa and Queen's Park to amend the rules.

As a result, future inflation has been recognized as an element to be considered in the operation and financing of private pension plans—a recognition that had been specifically prohibited in national revenue's information Circular 72-13R3.

Why did it take the tax collector so long to change this hardship? Simple.

Probably the fear of losing tax revenues. If a company is allowed to set aside more money for future pensions to employees, then its operating costs are that much higher and its tax liability that much lower.

Ontario's approach has been to permit "escalation adjustment on a pay-as-you-go or partially funded basis. That means that an employer is permitted to increase the pension of an already retired worker as the general price or wage index rises.

In neither case is the door wide open to ensure that private pensions will increase in direct proportion to the cost of living, as do federal pensions.

And even if the law did permit it, the private sector could hardly afford such a massive cost increase—especially at a time when economic growth is minimal and profitability is under great pressure.

The fact that the federal government itself should choose to protect its pensioners against all future inflation—at the stroke of a pen, with no real plan to meet the full cost—is not the only cause for concern.

Another is that the most talented young people will be strongly attracted to civil service jobs. That in itself might be welcome—but productive careers in the private sector could go begging, especially if income ceilings remain in force for a time (which seems likely, in view of the government's position for regulation).

One other consequence: senior civil servants with 30 or 35 years' experience (and thus entitled to the maximum pension) have a strong financial incentive to retire early on an indexed pension that will probably rise faster than the 12.00 maximum salary increase permitted under the anti-inflation guidelines.

Many have already retired from the higher levels of the civil service. Many others are ready to follow, as soon as they can line up a suitable "consultancy" or other post in the private sector.

Catholic Church Joins Opposition Against Chilean Military Junta

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The Chilean military who seized power from the coming Allende Marxist government two years ago continues to act true to its brutal and repressive form.

Thousands are reported still in jails for political crimes, mainly supporters of the dead Salvador Allende or socialist and Marxist opponents to his former government.

The Catholic church in Chile, which [illegible] for years the main voice of opposition to the same church in Colombia or Argentina, was unusually passive during the first months of the military regime.

But a few days ago, the main cathedral in downtown Santiago was jammed with Chileans for the morning mass because they had been told the bishops would make a political homily against the junta's repression in this once model democracy of the Americas.

They were not disappointed. As in Spain at the end of the long Franco era, the church — like in Chile is beginning to resist the military dictatorship, in spite of the fact they also overthrew Marxism in that nation.

Internationally, the ruling Chilean generals are assuming a posture which seems totally contradictory to their actions given their known political and military proximity to the United States.

They supported the recent unanimous United Nations vote, declaring Zionism a form of racism. It was strange ideological juxtaposition of a strong right-wing military regime, mostly supporting the best of strong left-wing and neo-Marxist Third World nations.

Many of these nations were friends of the Allende Marxist regime when the Chilean generals and admirals overthrew in 1973.

The reason some say has to do with the hidden anti-semitism of Chile's ruling military who also have the support of that nation's powerful, wealthy and weak anti-Jewish National party.

But the reasons are more complex than that. A Chilean economy is worse shape than it was under Allende, with inflation running at [illegible] 400 per cent, desperately needs U.S. IMF Chile's loans. Henry Pinochet openly and blatantly lines up with the Arabs in the UN motions against Israel and Zionism, he might benefit in terms of offers of oil at cost than other oil-rich non-Arab Third World Nations.

And in the light of all this, the pro-junta United States government under consult investigation in Congress for its efforts to overthrow Allende and then support the new military, is considering an end to the $25 million in its annual aid to Chile.

With such prospect in mind and knowing it will get no weapons from Britain's socialist regime, which also supported Allende, Chile may be turning to the Arab world for weapons.

This could come through some second country of supply operation of even U.S. weapons, though these are sold to such nations as the Arabs on the understanding they will not go to a third power.

So far all this is speculative. But there has to be some reason for the current hard Chilean line against the military junta's supposed civilian benefactor, the Washington military-industrial complex.

Meantime the Chilean domestic economy wallows in decline. Black marketers, depressed copper prices in a country which has relied completely on shake old its historic very high inflation rates.

Chileans leaving these days are not doing so for political reasons, but economic ones. These new immigrants belong mainly to the country's comfortable middle class who will support the junta no longer.

His Day In Court

Editor
The Intelligencer;

I recently spent an interesting morning in the provincial court. Having spent a large part of my working years in courtroom atmosphere as a police officer in the city of London and various Canadian cities I wondered if things had changed.

The learned Judge struck me as a shrewd and compassionate man who kept the business of the court moving. He dealt with the flotsam of society politely, efficiently with due consideration for the rights of those appearing.

By and large, those appearing represented the usual working class element who seem to make up the average court calendar. Shoplifters, drunk drivers, petty larcenists, etc each stood before the court while their misdemeanors were extolled by the Crown Attorney. Some were represented, others refused the court offer of the services of duty counsel, but all got a fair hearing.

The smoothness of the court was temporarily interrupted when a defendant arrived with his own agent to represent him. He was told that in matters of indictable offences this was not allowed. Why not?

Obviously lay people are at a disadvantage when competing with the professionals who have had law training. But surely, it should be the inherent right in 1975 for a person to be represented by anyone he desires. The court has all the built-in protective machinery to protect any person from doing unconscionable harm to himself or his case. The role of lawyers has been carefully preserved over the years as it is still in most necessary. My own opinion after watching some of them perform before the courts is that they tend to be more employed in other fields.

Lawyers fees are often outrageous for the services provided — they get paid whether they win, lose or draw. Things if they were poor, or a win or loss from the higher levels of government.

Another long standing practice that is not in keeping with the changed is the discriminatory consideration given to defendants who appear before the courts. Their cases are "shuffled on the court docket to accommodate the lawyer. After the lawyer-convenient case is finally heard, the lesser "people" get their turn.

Lawyers should be for those who can afford them. Let well-off people pay for lawyers, those who so desire in matters of formal consultancy, it would save time and money. Few people, however, can readily afford the services of a lawyer — indeed, in many cases they really do not need one.

It was nice to see the Judge awarding sentences related to the crime. The newer concept of treating a defendant in probation orders that the defendant provide so many hours of voluntary labor to the community has much to be said for it. It would contribute to the universities of crime that make up our penal institutions and prisons.

Cabinet Won't Veto Inflation Decisions

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario is prepared to make representations to the federal government's anti-inflation board when a decision affects the provincial public sector, but has no plans to retain a veto to its provincial cabinet, Treasurer Darcy McKeough said Monday.

Donald MacDonald (NDP—York South) pointed out that the federal cabinet has used a veto power over the anti-inflation board and asked in the legislature whether Ontario plans a similar veto.

Mr. McKeough said that once the federal anti-inflation legislation is passed, an administrator and an appeal tribunal will be set up.

The province is prepared to make submissions through those channels, Mr. McKeough said. However, he said he still is awaiting publication of the anti-inflation legislation, which he expects will be made public Thursday.

Schools Closed

HULL, Que. (CP) — Five Protestant elementary schools in this area were closed Monday after teachers called in sick to protest the pace of contract negotiations. Teacher spokesman Hilaire Blais said school boards, at a bargaining session Thursday, did not produce an offer.

Gets New Premier

VICTORIA (CP) — Bill Bennett will be sworn in as B.C.'s next premier before Dec. 22, outgoing Premier Dave Barrett said Monday. Bennett was elected New Democratic Party was defeated in the Dec. 11 election, leaving standings in the legislature at Social Credit 35, NDP 17, Liberal one and Conservative one. The premier refused comment on his personal future.

Sees Some Light

TORONTO CP — Labor Minister Dr. Bette Stephenson told the legislature Monday she now could see "one glimmer of light" in the resumption of negotiations between the Canadian Paperworkers Union and three paper companies. Dr. Stephenson said she had talked with both sides in the disputes during the weekend and the meetings were congenial. About 11,000 paperworkers have been on strike since summer.

Not a Demotion

TORONTO CP — The twitching of James Fleck from secretary of the provincial cabinet to deputy minister of industry and tourism is in no way a demotion, Premier William Davis said Liberal Leader Robert Nixon in the legislature Monday. Premier Davis said Mr. Fleck would continue to act as the province's chief anti-inflation control officer, working in conjunction with the federal anti-inflation board.

Airports Will Test Use of French

OTTAWA (CP) — Wider use of French in air traffic control will be rigorously tested in special simulators before the changes are implemented in Quebec airports, Transport Minister Otto Lang said Monday.

Mr. Lang said in the Commons there will be extensive discussions with pilots and others in the aviation industry before French is used in air-ground communications for instrument flight rule operations.

Instrument flight rules apply to big commercial airliners. The Canadian Air Line Pilots Association (CALPA) has opposed extension of French in this type of flying, saying it would affect safety.

French now is used for visual flight rules only at five Quebec airports. Visual flight rules apply generally to small aircraft and not the commercial airliners.

Jack Murta (Lisgar), Progressive Conservative transport critic, asked for assurance that safety will be the government's main consideration in air traffic control.

With Liberal MPs strongly applauding, Mr. Lang said safety is not the only element. Safety came first but there were two languages in the country and French should be used in air traffic control wherever possible.

Land Bought

LONDON (CP) — When the Southwark council decided to make improvements to an old cemetery, it was discovered the council had to buy the property. The price was $41.

Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids ... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painfully. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of injured, inflamed tissue.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and greatly relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most important—this improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished

Fossils Displayed

ADDIS ABABA (Reuter) — Skeletal remains of seven people who lived in what is now known as Ethiopia 3 million to more than three million years ago went on display here Monday. A spokesman for The International Afar research expedition, a France-American Ethiopian team, said the latest finds and the weight of the theory that modern man evolved in what we know as the Rift valley of East Africa.

Means Convicted

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Russell Means, leader of the American Indian Movement, was found guilty Monday on a riot charge resulting from a 1974 Minnehaha County Courthouse incident. Circuit Court Judge Richard Braithwaite, who tried the case without a jury, found Means not guilty on a charge of damaging a public building. Fees on $2,000 bond, Means, 36, faces sentencing Dec. 31.

Travellers Die

LAGOS (Reuter) — Twenty-two people travelling to a Jehovah's Witnesses assembly in northern Nigeria during the weekend were killed when their truck went off the road from Bok-Bokyum to Abu, it was reported Monday.

Bans Liquor

PORT MORESBY (Reuter) — Papua New Guinea will not be allowed to drink liquor at hotels until early next year, holidays and long weekends, starting this Christmas, a government minister said Monday. Police Minister Pitin Lus blamed alcohol for much of the violence, crime, road accidents and marriage breakups in Papua New Guinea.

Expects Visitors

JERUSALEM (AP) — More than 25,000 visitors are expected to the Holy Land for the Christmas-New Year season, the Israeli ministry of tourism said Monday.

Mourn Dead

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Paul Cosgrove of Scarborough has declared today as a day of mourning for the nine people killed in Friday's train crash in the borough.

Calls Study

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Human Rights Commission called for an investigation by the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board into reports that province's registered egg producers are exceeding ben quotas.

Jim Boynton of Chesley, council secretary-manager, said in an interview Monday that there have been conflicting reports by directors of the Ontario Egg Producers' Marketing Board about the seriousness of quota violations.

Contract Endorsed

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Workers at the Dillwood Button Lightning division of Textron Canada Ltd. have voted in favor of ratifying a two-year contract of a $1.04 an hour increase and a 32-cent increase retroactive to Dec. 8, the date the previous contract expired. The previous contract gave the 30 workers, members of Local 186, United Auto Workers (UAW), hourly wages of between $4 and $5, depending on job classification.

Ottawa to Announce Cutbacks Thursday

OTTAWA (CP) — The government plans to make a major public-relations event out of its announcement Thursday of plans to curb its own spending during the coming fiscal year.

Announcement of the spending plans, originally expected today, was held off to form part of a double bill Thursday along with publication of detailed rules for operation of the program of selected pay and price controls.

Full spending estimates for the financial year beginning April 1 will not be tabled until about the third week in February, with the exercise of drawing them up began last August.

But the government decided earlier to announce spending details for the 1976-77 fiscal year ahead of time as part of a campaign to demonstrate that it means business in its fight against inflation.

Heightening the sense of drama, the government expected to issue its announcement in Parliament in a locked room in advance of presentation in Parliament, a system used for full budgets and other major financial announcements.

Officials say Opportunities for Youth (OFY), Local Initiatives Program (LIP), Company of Young Canadians (CYC), Information Canada, even promised cost-sharing boosts in family allowances have been on a cabinet cutoff rules list.

Although federal expenditures are still expected to increase, the jump will be smaller than during the previous two years.

When announcing the budget fiscal year close March 31, the total is expected to be $23 billion, up about 16 cents for every dollar spent last year.

If the government succeeds in cutting $1.5 billion next year, the Treasury Board President Jean Chrétien has said he wants, the total federal outlay in 1976-77 will still climb by an expected $3 billion to more than $25 billion because of inflation.

Chrétien, in a speech recently says the programs most talked about would make little relation to total spending even if abolished. But the cabinet is inquiry to reduce well-known federal programs to underline the message of restraint to the public.

For example, wiping out the entire OFY program, which financed more than 4,500 projects employing 32,700 young people last summer, would pare $1 million from the federal budget. OFY, LIP, CYC and Information Canada together, at a total cost of about $100 million a year, account for less than 60 cents out of every $100 Ottawa spends.

At Information Canada headquarter, one of the 677 employees said in an interview Monday that there are fears that they are going "to be told we're finished."

Ottawa Names 117 Companies Subject to Price Controls

OTTAWA (CP) — The anti-inflation board of Canada said Monday of 117 major companies which will be required to give the board 30 days advance notice of price increases.

A board spokesman said subsidiaries of the companies are also covered by the requirement, which would bring the total to about 200 companies. The board has not prepared a list of the subsidiaries. However, Dale Manufacturing, and its subsidiary, Skilar Furniture, are both mentioned in the list.

The price notification rule applies to any significant increase in a single product or any rise that would increase the gross sales revenue of a product line by more than two per cent.

Here are the 117 companies identified by the board:

PMs Support Strike Say Paper Workers

OTTAWA (CP) — Representatives of 24,200 striking pulp and paperworkers told Monday members of Parliament from the three major parties indicated during a six-hour session that they are "very sympathetic to our cause.

"The MPs are studying the matter and are going to do whatever they can to bring about a settlement," Louis Laurin, president of the Canadian Paperworkers Union (CPU), said after a meeting with Liberal representatives.

Labor Minister John Munro, who could not attend Monday's meeting because of a prior commitment, said last week he during manpower have been helping behind federal wage and price control guides and he urged the two sides to bargain new collective agreements as they would under normal conditions.

The paperworkers, on strike since Oct. 15 in mills in Ontario, Quebec and the Atlantic provinces, are seeking a first-year increase of $1.04 an hour in a base pay rate of $4.82 hourly, or slightly more than $9 an hour.

The union says the companies are refusing to discuss the demands that exceed the basic first-year limit of 10 per cent contained in the federal guides even though the anti-inflation board is empowered to make exceptions.

An aide to Mr. Munro said industry representatives are expected to meet the labor minister later this week to "explain their position."

Liberal MP William Rompkey, who represents Bonavista-Trinity of Grand Falls-White Bay Labrador, said in an interview that because the pulp and paper industry is under provincial jurisdiction "the only influence we have is that of moral persuasion."

He said the Newfoundland economy in particular cannot afford a lengthy strike.

Mr. Rompkey said the strikes can severely damage the industry as a whole and Canada's balance of payments position since export customers switch to of newsprint stocks. The major share of production is exported.

The union said in a background brief presented to Liberal, Progressive Conservative and New Democratic MPs that "there is evidence abroad that Western pulp publishers are going to be scrambling to find the forest to keep them in business."

The union said the anti-inflation board ruling, expected later this week, on the collective agreement signed recently by Irving Pulp and Paper Ltd. mills in East John, N.B., will have a "tremendous impact "because a settlement with one mill set a general mills will have a domino effect, producing other agreements with the same basic conditions throughout the western sector of the industry."

The Irving settlement increases the base rate for paperworkers by $1.84 to $5.91 an hour in the first year of a two-year contract. The base rate at the Saint John mill now is $4.07.

The agreement provides for some economic revisions in its second year "to conform with a pattern which will eventually be established at any three of a number of pulp mills selected for that purpose."

Western Resource Outlook Is High

EDMONTON (CP) — Prospects for western resource industries have improved substantially in the last year, says Norman Lawrence, president of the 750-member Alberta-Northwest Chamber of Mines, Oils and Resources.

Mr. Lawrence said the federal-provincial conflict over resources has largely been solved. However, resource industries still face heavy taxation in British Columbia and Saskatchewan, and land use regulations in Alberta and the Northwest Territories will alter some activities.

J. H. Chesner, manager of the Alberta-Northwest chamber, said exploration dollars being spent in the Northwest Territories and Yukon are running at record levels this year and employment in the northern mining industry has increased.

Mr. Lawrence said Alberta has "a lot of good things going for it," including the oil, gas, coal and salt for petrochemicals.

But moves by the Saskatchewan government to take over the potash industry and increase royalties on uranium mining prospects in Saskatchewan look bleak, he said.

Nearing the end of his one-year term as chief executive of the chamber of mines, Mr. Lawrence sees some improvements in general economic prospects and a continuing sound future for Alberta.

Canadians can no longer expect to improve their standard of living from revenues generated by resource exports.

"It is obvious that some of our resources are running out," said Mr. Lawrence. "This is proven by the federal cuts in oil exports which have been one of our greatest sources of revenue."

There is the possibility that the U.S. might retaliate against reductions in oil exports by reducing coal exports to Ontario.

Ontario is almost entirely dependent on American coal and it would require massive mine and transportation development to supply Ontario from Western Canada.

Overtime Overdue

CHICHESTER, England (CP) — Eleven years of forgotten overtime pay is being claimed by 90 psychiatric hospital workers here. A union says the workers are owed thousands of pounds because of a mistake over a 1964 wage deal. The workers, including porters, say they should have been given a "theoretical overtime" payment during holidays and sick leave.

Amendments Push Rent Law Closer to Final Approval

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's controversial rent control legislation moved a step closer to final approval Monday night with the addition of a series of amendments proposed by the three parties.

During hours of clause-by-clause study, the NDP proposed a series of amendments, losing most of them, but squeezing through several key changes.

Among the amendments guided through by Michael Cassidy (NDP—Ottawa Centre), the party's housing critic, was a motion to ensure that at least half the members of the provincial rent review board be representative of tenants.

A Liberal amendment in the same vein followed. It says that at least two board members must be present for the board to function and at least one of the two must be representative of tenants.

The actual number of board members is to be decided by the cabinet.

Mr. Cassidy also proposed another series of successful amendments, which, in effect, bring all rental housing in the province under the controls, including geared-to-income housing operated by the Ontario Housing Corp.

The only exceptions are non-profit units whose rents are set directly by the federal or provincial governments and units in co-operative projects.

Housing Minister John Rhodes later moved an amendment dealing with units covered under provincial rent-supplement programs to ensure that the over-all rent for the unit comes under controls, while the tenants' actual payments do not.

In such supplement housing, the government pays a portion of the rent. The amendment argues that the over-all rent charged jointly to the government and the tenant comes under the controls.

Mr. Rhodes came under a barrage of catcalls and jeers at one point in the debate.

He attempted to move an amendment to exempt buildings with three of fewer units where the owner resides in one of the units, in effect exempting triplexes and duplexes where the owner lives in one unit.

Mr. Cassidy, brandishing a copy of a housing minister's news release, said the minister made a public commitment to remove such exemptions from the bill.

The opposition deleted a series of sections that the Liberals and the NDP said gave the cabinet regulatory powers which were too broad.

The bill will receive further consideration today and may receive third reading and royal assent before becoming law.

Meanwhile, Donald Crosbie, deputy housing minister, said arrangements for the rent-review program cannot be completed until the legislation is made final.

"Until you know what the final legislation will be, you can't really set things up," Mr. Crosbie said in an interview.

Police Bar Priest From His Rectory

MONTREAL (CP)—Rev. Yves Normandin, the traditionalist Roman Catholic priest dismissed from his north-end church, was denied access to the parish century Monday after the new pastor and Montreal police.

Father Normandin had left the rectory early in the morning to answer a subpoena for an injunction hearing against several of his followers who had been occupying the church and rectory since his dismissal Nov. 8.

Father Normandin had refused to use the new mass ritual issued by Pope Paul VI in 1967 and approved by the Canadian Conference of Bishops. He continued to administer the traditional Latin mass.

Father Normandin had barricaded himself inside the rectory 10 days ago after the new priest, Rev. Marcel Bircher and church wardens, locksmith, and police arrived at the church.

Father Normandin told the court Monday he did not feel compelled to answer any questions because it was not an ecclesiastical court but a civil court. Superior Court Justice Philippe Poitier took the injunction request under advisement.

Food Executive Says Prices Will Rise 15 Per Cent in 1976

OTTAWA (CP) — The agriculture outlook confirmed got off to a gloomy start Monday as far as consumers are concerned: the consensus was that food prices will be even higher next year.

Thomas Kierans, of Toronto, president of Dominion Stores Ltd., told about 400 delegates from industry and government at the opening session of the two-day conference that a 10-to-15-per-cent increase in food prices in 1976 "seems to be pretty good guess."

One reason is that stores already have signed contracts committing them to paying more. As well, the 60-day freeze by several large firms on most commodities ended on 1st January.

"When the freeze ends, existing costs will have to be passed on to the consumers," Mr. Bolton said.

Mr. Bolton called for a national food policy, which he said he has been studying for at least two years.

This would consist of more open discussion among the different sectors of the food industry, establishment of long-term projections of food needs, a detailed assessment of the agriculture industry's production capabilities and a look at the import picture.

Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan did nothing to cheer the delegates, quoting experts as saying the world has enough food in storage to last 35 days.

He said Canada, the United States and a handful of other food exporters have been saddled with the job of staving off an international food crisis.

However, if crops in North America fail the way they did this year in the Soviet Union, there would be disaster around the world.

David Slater, director of the finance department's economic analysis division, said world commodity prices are expected to be stable next year, but this depended on North American production.

He said that if Canadian and American crops do not meet expectations, "then all bets are off."

President Praises Increases

TORONTO (CP) — The president of the University of Toronto said Monday that the 14.6-per-cent increase in provincial grants to universities and community colleges will generate a 12.4-per-cent increase in university revenue in 1976-77.

John Evans said the increased revenue will help Ontario universities meet the costs of a five-per-cent increase in student enrolment and the impact of inflation.

"Considering the pressures which government faces at this time, I believe the universities have received very fair treatment," he said in a news release.

The Ontario ministry of colleges and universities announced Monday that colleges of applied arts and technology will receive $250 million for operating support. An additional sum of $251 million has been set aside for operation of Ontario universities and other post-secondary institutions.

John Macdonald, executive director of the Council of Ontario Universities, said the increase recognizes the high priority the provincial government is placing on post-secondary education.

Universities will have to continue reductions because of the difference between costs and revenues, he said in an interview.

Canada Won't Support Resolution

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Canadian delegate Louis Dudek told the General Assembly Monday that Canada cannot support a general resolution on International Women's Year because it contains certain elements it considers objectionable.

Dudek said Canada, with all its faults, is the nation most like the world as a whole. The resolution calls the assembly to endorse the work of the International Women's Year conference at Mexico City last summer.

One section of the declaration approved by the Mexico City conference calls for the "elimination of colonialism, neo-colonialism, foreign occupation, Zionism, apartheid, racial discrimination in all its forms."

Dudek did not specifically identify the anti-Zionist refer-ence as an element his delegation considered objectionable.

"Canada fully supports and endorses all those elements in the resolution pertaining specifically to the status of women," said Dudek, Liberal MP for the Quebec riding of Montmorency.

But the Canadian delegation cannot accept references contained in other resolutions and contravene their political content "extraneous to the substance of these resolutions," he said.

Guaranteed Income Will Rise Jan. 1

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's guaranteed annual income supplement (GAINS) will rise by $2.85 a month for a single pensioner and $4.35 for a couple as of Jan. 1, Treasurer Darcy McKeough announced Monday.

In a statement to the legislature, Mr. McKeough said the increase will guarantee that GAINS recipients—persons more than 65 years of age—will receive $385 a month for a single pensioner and $530 a month for a couple.

The maximum GAINS cheque—added to the federal old age pension and federal supplements—will be $88.80 for each pensioner in January.

Mr. McKeough pointed out that the federal payments will total $383.15 in January due to the fact they are indeed to cost-of-living increases.

He said the federal payments have risen by 7.4 per cent between last April and Jan. 1. He said the province's maximum GAINS payment has risen by 48.2 per cent—to $38.88 from $26.25—in a similar period.

In the legislature, Opposition Leader Stephen Lewis said the increases will not compensate senior citizens for rent increases between April 1, 1975, and Aug. 1, 1975.

Mr. McKeough said he feels the question is covered by rent-control legislation now before the legislature.

Later, questioned by Liberal Leader Robert Nixon, Mr. McKeough said the increases are expected to cost about $1 million.

Decorations Kids Can Make

Connie Morrison has three eager helpers when it's come time to make Christmas decorations. Peter, 11, Melanie, 9, and Liane, 6, have a number of favorite gifts and ornaments they make every year.

One of the prettiest and tastiest is a can of home-made peanut brittle covered with foil, red tinsel and green felt holly leaves. A foil-covered cardboard top, with a red pipe cleaner and paper "flame" attached to it, makes the container look like a bright Christmas candle.

The recipe for the peanut brittle — "never-fail, and easy enough for kids to make," says Mrs. Morrison — is as follows:

two cups white sugar
one cup shelled peanuts

Melt sugar in an electric frying pan at 225-250° degrees, stirring constantly. When melted (it takes a long time) pour over the peanuts which have been scattered evenly in an unbuttered pan. Cool completely, and then break into pieces.

Candy, such as the peanut brittle or other seasonal sweets, can also be given as gifts if placed in a Santa Claus container. This is made from a baby food jar, with a cotton batten beard, and jolly features cut from paper, felt or other material for the face. A red felt or paper hat, fastened on the lid, completes the effect.

The Morrison children have also had some artistic successes using home-made modelling clay, with which they've made ornaments both for hanging on the Christmas tree and for use on mobiles. The recipe for the clay follows:

two cups baking soda (one lb. package)

one cup cornstarch

Combine these ingredients in a saucepan, then add in 1¼ cups water. Mix in thoroughly until smooth. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Cook one minute longer, or until mixture resembles moist mashed potatoes.

Remove from heat, transfer to plate and cover with a damp towel. When cool enough to handle, knead a little and store all but the clay you intend to use in a closed plastic bag.

Roll clay to ¼-inch thickness, and cut out shapes, with cookie cutters or freehand. Let harden for 24 hours before painting with acrylic paints or food coloring. If making ornaments to hang, remember to use a toothpick to pierce a hole at the top while the clay is still covered.

Christmas trees, stars, birds, elves, and bells are among the shapes that turn out well. The clay can also be used for three-dimensional items, such as the lacy pears that hang on Mrs. Morrison's creation — a little gold partridge sitting in a pear tree. The "tree" is a small branch, on which has been glued green leaves made of tissue paper, and sprayed with gold.

To make leaves, cut out one-inch squares of paper with pinking shears. Wrap each little piece around the end of a pencil to give it a flower-like shape, then remove and fasten to the twigs.

Mrs. Morrison has also made an attractive Christmas tree from teasels stuck into a cone shape, and covered with artificial snow. Another of her table ornaments is a snowman — "he stays out from November to March," says Mrs. Morrison — with a large juice can body wrapped with newspaper and covered with cotton batten. Simple to make and easy to store, the snowman has been with Jack and Connie Morrison all through their marriage . . . a decoration that's really "part of the family".

A foil-covered orange juice can with its paper-flame lid makes a candy-filled "candle" for Christmas giving. Beside it, a gold paper partridge sits at the top of the pear tree. Snowy teasels make a unique centrepiece with tiny red birds and berries attached.

The snowman's body is a can wrapped with cotton-batten, and his head is a styrofoam ball. The little Santa Claus head is a baby food jar in which Christmas candy has been placed, an easy task for children.

King-sized Christmas Greeting

Eileen Armstrong, the new crafts director of the Belleville Young Men's Christian Association, began her duties last Saturday by leading a large group of children in the construction of a massive Christmas mural.

The mural, actually two 12-foot longpieces, will be presented to the Hastings Manor Home for the Aged this Saturday. It is currently hanging in the YMCA.

"The idea was to let the children express their feelings," m. Armstrong said, "to get them to show what they think Christmas is about."

GARY

Gary is a 16-year-old who has never lived on a farm but would love to be a farmer.

He might do well there too, because he delights in the outdoors, likes to be helpful, is fond of animals and finds mechanical things fascinating. To be able to drive a tractor or a truck would launch him on to Cloud 9.

Gary is living in a small residence for boys. He gets on well with with the others and they will be sorry to see him leave, but Gary really wants to family. He says he would like brothers quite a bit older than himself or very much younger — toddlers or a baby perhaps.

Gary attends vocational school where, as at home, his main interest is in mechanical thing. His only poor marks have been in physical education. He is not keen on team sports though he will play football with the boys in the house when they need an extra.

Swimming, skiing and camping delight Gary. He has been on one long camping trip where he slept in a sleeping bag night and cooked their own meals along the way. Besides seeing a lot of Canada, Gary found that trip a highlight of his life.

Classical music is much enjoyed by the son of his foster parents and Gary often joins him in listening to records. He likes the more average teen choices as well.

Gary goes regularly to church and belongs to a young people's group.

This lad needs a mother and father who will appreciate his pleasant personality and his helpful nature. They should aid him in developing self-confidence, enjoy sharing activities with him and not be concerned about academic success.

To inquire about adopting Gary, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 325, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. In your letter tell something of your present family and your way of life.

SAINNA, Ont. (CP) — Ina Riddoch doesn't feel intruded upon by the animals and funny characters she has in her kitchen.

She has a kangaroo, two whales, a goose, a bartender, a man driving a covered wagon and a hungry pair of cannibals.

They are all characters in her salt and pepper collection—a hobby she has indulged in for 25 years.

In that time she has acquired more than 45 sets ranging in size from less than an inch to some dachshunds almost a foot long.

Most of the shakers have come from friends and relatives who pick them up in their travels.

All shapes and sizes, they are made from many materials—wood, ceramic, metal, plastic, china, and one pair is carved from stone.

Mrs. Riddoch, a native of Scotland, tells how she received a set in the shape of two coffee percolators on a tray of beers.

"I had given a piece of rock from one of my trips to Scotland to a woman who was a stone grinder. She took the stone, polished it and in return gave me this set because she "didn't know quite like it on my shelf," said Mrs. Riddoch.

Ann Landers

Cursed with 'Toothpicks,' Reader Depressed

Dear Ann Landers: Please help me. I am depressed and miserable. I don't want to see anybody or do anything. The problem is my legs. They are so thin they look like toothpicks. I'm as if I've been cursed.

Whenever I'm with my boyfriend and a woman with good looking legs walks by, I want to sob her. I know this sounds extreme, but I'm being honest with you.

A girl who works in the same department with me has very heavy legs, but I'd trade mine for hers any day. When I told her this she said I was nuts. Am I?

Can anything be done to add weight to a person's legs? Would certain exercises help? Thanks for your advice. Ann — Despondent

Dear D.: Very little can be done about legs that are too thin. Have you thought about pantsuits for both daytime and nighttime wear? (I'm assuming the rest of you is thin, also.)

If you are still depressed about your legs when you read this letter I hope you will visit a rehabilitation institute or the wing of a hospital that cares for patients with spinal cord injuries. After you see a dozen people in wheelchairs (young and old) who would give anything in the world if they could walk again, you'll thank God for any pair of legs that can get you where you want to go.

Dear Ann Landers: I have this friend who drives me straight up the wall because she has a mouth that runs on a trolley. She is never short of wind and refuses to let anyone else say a word.

It's talk, talk, talk, blah, blah, someone, trivia, gossip, yap, yap, yap. "Ms. . . . mine . . . I did this . . . I said that . . . I think . . . I bought . . . I saw." Honestly, Ann, I can't bear to listen to her boundless yakking an other minute. Whenever I'm with her for an hour I get a terrific headache.

How can I shut off the epmaniac without coming right out and telling her I don't want to listen to her any more?—Tired Of Listening To Expert

Dear Ready: Is the woman handicapped to your wrist? Why don't you let her be her pressure if she's such a bore? Part of the problem is you. The inability to say no. Stop being an enabling problem-producing person. Assess there's trouble on both sides. Look into it, Lady.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother is always entering a contest and she never wins anything. This has been going on for as long as I can remember.

Mom has spent a lot of time (and money) on her entries. They look great to me. Can it be that most of the contests are phony? If so, how do the big national brand companies get away with it?

We'd appreciate it if you'd look into this.—Too Many Disappointments

Dear T.M.D.: Most well-advertised contests are on the level. Somebody wins. But too often the winners are "professional" contest people who make a career of it. They know all the ropes.

Your mother should read the rules carefully before she invests any more time and money. Some contests are not valid in certain states. Moreover, your mom may not qualify on other grounds. The small print is frequently ignored by the eager beavers. I hope your letter alerts other consistent losers.

British Birth Control Pill Causes Cancer in Beagles

LONDON (Reuter) — Two birth control pills are being withdrawn in Britain following evidence that a hormone in them has produced cancer tumors in beagle bitches.

Volidan 21 and Serial are available here since 1963 and 1967 respectively, are taken by about 75,000 women—about three per cent of women using contraceptive pills in Britain.

Evidence of a possible link with cancer—the first for a contraceptive pill—came from the United States where beagle bitches were fed up to 50 times the human dose of the hormone, megestrol-acetate, continuously over seven years. Some developed cancerous breast tumors.

The manufacturer, Duncan Flockhart, a subsidiary of the Glaxo Co., is withdrawing them in Britain and said the pills also will be being withdrawn in other countries.

In West Berlin, West Germany's federal health bureau today banned the manufacture and sale of contraceptive pills containing megestrol-acetate.

A spokesman for the bureau said tests on animals have shown that the chemical caused tumors of the breast.

The Economics of Scale

Anybody who has been around a supermarket recently is aware of the dazzling array of household products on display. There is a wide choice of products which have to be bought frequently by any homeowner; and often we wish that it was possible to buy these in greater bulk more often. However, you may not be aware that there is a place in town that you can buy just about the best household cleaning products in bulk . . . ServiceMaster, 179 Pinnacle Street (at rear) stock washers, detergents for the home, wax removers, and all of the first class products that they use in their day by day cleaning service operation. You can buy 1 gallon drums of these fine products at substantial savings, and not have to bother about stocking up for many months to come. Interested? Call ServiceMaster at 967-1672 for further details or drop around to their place on Pinnacle Street.

Watch Out!

Even in this enlightened age, "quack cures" for serious eye diseases are being advertised. Some are actually harmful; others, harmless in themselves do damage by delaying proper treatment. Don't be fooled! Follow the advice of your eye doctor. If an examination reveals that you need glasses — and a lot of us do after the age of 40 — obtain them on prescription only. Don't pick out an over-the-counter pair of spectacles just because they look right. . . . your wonderful eyes are too delicate, sensitive and important for this kind of guesswork. Good advice brought to you each week by Quinte Optical, 54 Bridge Street East. Quinte Optical will be glad to arrange eye examinations on your behalf. Telephone 962-5311 for details.

Mix a Little Folly . . .

Horace, the Roman sage said it, literally thousands of years ago . . . "Mix a little folly with your wisdom: a little nonsense is pleasant now and then". It is a good thought at Christmas, a time to unwind and enjoy yourselves with family and friends. Whatever you do, don't let the rush over the festive season, remember that the Sidney Inn, 265 Moira St. West stocks just about every possible brand of mix . . . for every possible concoction you can think up. Well, a good thing about the Sidney Inn is its accessibility and its spacious car park. This makes loading up supplies a lot easier! And remember, if you haven't got your Christmas tree up yet, this is the place to pick one! Fresh and aromatic from the country-side, they're stacked in a roped-off section of the car park. The telephone number of the Sidney Inn is 968-8131.

River of Crystal Light

Do you remember the lines by Eugene Field . . . "Wynken, Blynken and Nod one night, sailed off in a wooden shoe, sailed on a river of crystal light into a sea of dew". He packed a lot of wonder and excitement of childhood into these words, for above-ground cellar times we have been fascinated by light. One of the earliest - and most obvious things - that man worshipped was the Sun. The Roman god Mithras was the Prince of light . . . and today the lights of Christmas shine brightly at Buddy Electric, 291 Coleman Street, where they still have some seasonal decorations left from their extraordinary pre-Christmas sale . . . Tiffany lamps, mantle lights or colonial lamps, they stock a varied and wonderful selection, a gift that will be remembered and talked about for years to come. Bring sweetness and light into the lives of those you love! It really can be one of the most thoughtful and practical ways to give at Christmas.

Spirit of Christmas Present

In the final busy days before Christmas it's good to get away from the bustle of excitement in the city, and drive through the quiet, more hidden countryside. The roads are bare, and its cold and still out there, perfect for a long walk that will bring out the roses in your cheeks and perk up your appetite . . . then head for the Inn as the Bay, Glenora Road, in Picton . . . Drop into the new Admiral Villeneuve Room for a meal in convivial surroundings before trooping upstairs to dine in the gracious rooms of the old house. It's a Dickensian atmosphere, especially appropriate at this time of year. If you intend dining on Saturday night, do please phone ahead. The number in Picton is 476-3114.

How Clean Can You Get?

Talking to the people at Gibbs and Son, the Vacuum Specialists, recently I realized just how little I knew about vacuum cleaners — or rather what significant advances had been made in the field in recent years. Gibbs are agents for the Volta line of vacuum cleaners, a brand name that is known for its solid reliability and versatility. They come in two different models — Upright and Canister — and sport a variety of features from Turbo brush that provides the most powerful suction on the market, to a removable paper bag that can be dropped into the upright model and recycled 3 to 10 times. These models clean everything from shag to bare floors, drapes to chesterfields, and can penetrate into the most awkward places. Gibbs and Son, 37 Albion Street will be glad to arrange a free home demonstration. Call them at 968-3384.

Cutting a Rug

For those of you old enough to remember, that was slang, in the roaring twenties, for dancing. Decor Studios in the Plaza on Dundas St. East has a great variety of area rugs in stock just now . . . "Rya" brand name in a Persian pattern, sized 4'6"x6'6" regularly priced at $89 are now on special offer for the low price of $59 . . . Oriental Suzani Rugs sized 5'8" are at the low price of $109 — they would usually cost you $198. The Decor Studios also have a most attractive line in Scandinavian "Tronsse" rugs — 5'6"x 8'10" — that they have dropped in price from $199 to $139. It's a good time to shop, and a colorful rug can really add character to a room. Some of these are so good to look at that they are really durable as wall hangings. Call Hank Fritjers at 966-5842. He's always willing to talk about his great love — interior design.

Time Is Running Out

Winter always seems to catch us by surprise, and perhaps it will this year even more than usual. People always seem to have waited until the last minute . . . like the winter tune-ups and fitting snow tires. That's why Vader's Car Sales, 11 College St. W., would like to remind you that all that cold weather is literally just around the corner, and their factory-trained mechanics would like to see that your car is in good shape to face the rough stuff ahead. Vader's also have an extensive line in gift ideas in their accessories department . . . roof racks, steering wheels for sporty types, seat covers and just about anything that can help to make driving more pleasurable. And remember, December 31 is the absolute shortest date for sales tax rebate on 1975 cars. Phone Ken Flood at 966-5302 for full details.

Why Is Hard Water Harmful?

That water in your tap contains many minerals dissolved from the earth, but the largest concentrates are calcium and magnesium. These particular minerals which turn water "hard" make it difficult to use water as a cleaning agent because they make soap 'curd', lowering its effectiveness and forcing us to use more to achieve results. Anybody who has tried to save in hard water will know what I mean! Moira Schaster Fuels, 17 Pinnacle St. South are agents for the ex-Schaster Fuels, 17 Pinnacle St. South are agents for the ex-Schaster Industrial Water Refiners which have particular relevance to those of us who live in and around Belleville.

More Frequencies Needed

Businessman Fights

CALGARY (CP) — Ed Wong, 60, a small grocery-store owner organized a demonstration against a newly-opened Mac's Milk store next to his shop. Backed by a petition with 1,000 signatures, Mr. Wong said it was impossible for a small independent store to compete with the big chains.

Against Publicity

EDMONTON (CP) — Grant Ross marries couples who choose a civil ceremony instead of a conventional church wedding—in front of an altar in his basement. An appointed marriage commissioner since his retirement, Mr. Ross says he believes marriage is a private affair and refuses to conduct ceremonies in parks and other public places.

Enrollment Up

SASKATOON (CP) — A record 11,251 daytime degree-course students enrolled at University of Saskatchewan this year, Registrar J. A. Dorgan said this was 883 more than last year and 487 more than in 1969-70, the previous record year.

University Course Teaches Confidence

EDMONTON (CP) — Teaching people to stand up for themselves is a bit like teaching them how to skate, says Edmonton psychologist Jim Beaubien.

"The difference between assertive and non-assertive persons seems to be a set of habits or skills that some people don't pick up along the way," said Mr. Beubien, who is teaching an assertiveness training course sponsored by University of Alberta.

"These are specialized skills that can be learned.

"The non-credit course, which uses eye-contact, relaxation tapes and psychodrama, "is about being able to assert yourself and feel good in the process," he said. It does not teach aggressive behavior, which is "as non-productive as non-assertiveness."

"The key approach is to give non-assertive persons the opportunity to practise behavioral changes and to receive some coaching. The idea is to develop assertive responses."

Students are placed in imaginary situations and asked to act out assertive responses to such incidents as being served a bad meal in a restaurant.

"We try to get people out of their traditional way of responding," Mr. Beaubien said. "Once people are aware of their traditional response patterns, they have the opportunity to change."

Students work with a number of different techniques at each session, the psychologist said.

"Some of these techniques may seem to bear little relationship to real-life situations, but are presented with the idea the person will apply them as needed," he said.

The "broken record" technique, designed to teach persistence in fulfilling one's own needs, involves an encounter between two persons. The first person repeats his wish over and over to a second person, who rejects it each time.

"The student thus learns to hold onto his wish no matter what manipulative techniques the second person comes back with," Mr. Beaubien said. "You've got to teach people not to be responsive to all the little things people may say to manipulate them."

A second technique called "fogging," prevents people from being manipulated by stopping short the kind of responses they may succumb to.

St. Lucia Still Has English Influence

CASTRIES (CP) — This capital city of the Caribbean island of St. Lucia has French names and heritage but is English in character. That is understandable since the island changed hands between the two countries 14 times in 200 years before Britain gained the final victory in 1803.

Today the island is an associated state of Britain, but Castries still bears the name of a French minister for the navy and colonies.

St. Lucia also boasts a connection with French royalty, asserting that the Empress Josephine was born there in 1763, and not on the island of Martinique, which has long claimed the honor. Her family had a plantation near Castries and lived there until 1771.

Among the attractions of the island, which was visited by 7,[illegible] Canadians last year, are a walk-in volcano, lots of spectacular scenery and interesting villages as well as beaches and resort hotels.

Soufriere is a dormant volcano of bubbling sulphur spring less than 30 miles from Castries. The road winds around the mountains and along the coastline, a 1½-hour drive. The town of Soufriere can also be reached by sailboat in 2½ hours or by launch in 1½ but local transportation must then be arranged to the volcano.

Be sure to ask whether quoted price is in Canadian or United States currency or in BeeWees, the local name for the British West Indian dollar currency, also referred to as EC, for Eastern Caribbean. One Canadian or American dollar is [illegible] by road into Soufriere you see [illegible] Pitons. Piton means spike and there, rising dramatically out of the ocean, are two volcanic peaks, Gros Piton and Petit Piton. The former, at 2,619 feet, is 138 feet higher than its companion.

Soufriere, second-largest town on the island, has two picturesque restaurants. The Still, with a front consisting of an old plantation house, and The Bulina, a 130-year-old louvered house with an old four-poster bed arranged as a bar. Both feature creole dishes.

At the sulphur springs, about seven miles from town, the hot spring baths ordered by Louis XIV for his troops still are in [illegible].

Another day-long excursion from Castries is the drive to Dennery, through a magnificent rain forest. The town is named for Comte d'Ennery, a French governor-general.

U.S. Economy in 1976 Still Under Speculation

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States started out of the worst recession in 60 years in 1975 but year-end indicators were still pointing in all directions, making the 1976 outlook a subject of very speculation.

Basically, leading economists and government forecasters remained optimistic that the recovery will continue through the rest year and into 1977, although probably at about half the roaring rate of last summer.

While both businesses and consumers had increased their cash incomes by year's end, they seemed to lack the confidence to step up spending significantly.

Sales seemed the basic factor causing uncertainty and there was concern in government circles that new economic statistics might heighten the uneasiness.

Real gross national product (GNP), the measure of final value of all goods and services, grew at an annual rate of 13 per cent, extremely high, in the third quarter of 1975, creating the strongest level of public confidence for the year.

However, the bulk of sales since the recovery began last May have been from inventories and there was little indication that industry was moving to enlarge its productive capacity to meet any future increased demand without raising prices sharply and refuelling inflation.

The Federal Reserve Board index showed new production was increasing at an annual rate of less than 5 per cent in October and November, far below the normal pace of about six per cent in times of economic strength.

Even sales from inventories fell off near the end of 1975 with expectations that GNP growth may be failing to a more realistic level.

On the positive side, however, corporate profits surged to 16.6 per cent a year in the third quarter, the highest rate since 1948, providing businesses with substantially increased pools of cash for new investment.

The United States also slightly to record a surplus of nearly $11 billion in foreign trade in 1975, giving the U.S. dollar a strong boost on international monetary exchanges.

Offsetting this gain to the dollar's strength was a gradual lowering of interest rates expected in the first half of 1976, making the U.S. currency slightly less attractive to hold. Imports were expected to pick up substantially as domestic demand for foreign goods strengthened.

Inflation was brought under control, at least for the time being, dropping to an annual rate of 7.2 per cent from 11.5 per cent in 1974.

But there were warning signals on the price front, too. The heaviest labor bargaining schedule in three years was set for 1976 with about 4.5 million workers, led by the powerful Teamsters union, preparing to negotiate new contracts. Their mood seemed militant.

Economists feared excessive wage increases would set off a new round of inflation. Since the end of 1973, workers' average gross weekly pay measured in constant 1967 dollars has actually dropped 5.3 per cent while after-tax pay, adjusted for inflation, dropped four per cent from 1973 levels.

The main concern seemed to be that unions would try not only to recoup these losses but to make large gains as well. Wall Street reflected these worries, recovering sluggishly from its depressed 1974 levels but fluctuating wildly at times as year-end statistics began to appear.

Also troubling economists and government officials was the behavior of consumers who, although incomes were generally stagnant or falling slightly in real terms, were stepping up their rate of savings instead of decreasing it.

Consumers seemed to be creating a hedge against future inflation and unemployment. The jobless rate, while moderating, remained at roughly 8.5 per cent for 1975 and experts predicted it would stay above seven per cent in 1976.

A high savings rate usually means an eventual fall-off in spending, forcing government to increase its outlays to beef up demand. But this in turn often creates too sudden an increase in the general money supply and generates its own forms of inflationary pressures.

On the energy front, Congress defeated President Ford's attempts to remove all controls from domestic oil, presenting him instead with a compromise bill which would initially lower prices, then allow them to increase slowly during the next couple of years.

Faced with sharp cuts in Canadian oil exports and reluctant to increase dependence on Middle East supplies, the administration moved to help finance the search for new domestic sources and pay for the development of alternatives to oil, particularly nuclear energy.

But the process started with painful slowness and no rapid pickup was in sight.

City Council Agrees Defers Any Decision on Sidney Sidewalk

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A decision on construction of a sidewalk to heighten safety near a Sidney St. school has again been postponed by city council.

Council, for the second time in two weeks, balked at a traffic committee recommendation that it consider budgeting in 1976 for a walkway near Our Lady of Fatima separate school.

Council had earlier sent the proposal back to the committee after Ald. Jim Cox said it would cause youngster to cross the intersection of Sidney and Wilson Ave. — an area with heavy industrial traffic.

The committee discussed the point last week and voted to return the recommendation intact to council.

Ald. Cox this time was siding with a sketch showing children would have to cross 120 feet to get onto a sidewalk up on the northside of Wilson. He suggested the walkway be laid on the southside — permitting youngsters to cross further away from the intersection.

Ald. Paul Russell said drivers had a better view of pedestrians at the intersection as their vehicles slowed to turn.

And, he added, traffic officials for years had been endeavoring to make youngsters cross at intersections.

Council decided to table the recommendation — until it receives the committee's minutes of debate on the issue for further discussion.

Mall Gets City Council Approval for Expansion

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

City council has advanced expansion plans for the Bayshore Mall past one basic, but crucial, local requirement — rezoning.

Council, Monday night, amended zoning regulations to assure developers Cambridge Leaseholds Ltd. it could start planning construction of the project. The expansion will add another 185,000 square to the existing mall's 253,000 square feet.

But the total approval process has yet to be worked out. Details still to agreed upon include:

— Ontario Municipal Board approval of the rezoning. The amending must also be circulated to neighbors property owners before OMB endorsement is sought.

— Agreements on cost-sharing of services to the site between the city and Cambridge.

The agreements were slitted not to a form acceptable to council, reported city manager Wilbur Purcell. Nonetheless specimen documents were sent to city councillors were considered sufficient basis for discussion of forthcoming suitable agreement.

On that basis, he recommended rezoning approval to meet Cambridge's expansion timetable.

Urgency was also implied by Donald Ellingwood, Cambridge consultant. He said the developer is aiming for a construction start next March or April.

But issuance of a building permit depends upon final approval of rezoning by the OMB.

Clauses recommended for the services agreement will sprecify upward adjustments of cost-sharing if installations exceed present estimates.

The services include sewers, road-widening of Bell Blvd. to four lanes for the length of the mall property—and new traffic signal controls at the North Front St. intersection.

Total cost of sewers is $436,000, to which Cambridge would contribute $200,000, or about 45 per cent.

Mr. Ellingwood said one concern of the developer might be that the city could install a bigger sewer than originally projected, to service future developments in the area. This would mean Cambridge could be paying a share for other projects.

Mayor Ben Corke said the mall new generates about $250,000 or more in city taxes. By 1979 this will increase substantially.

City hall he said faces one problem with civic expansion: As new areas develop, consume more capital funds, which are restricted by the provincial government. In turn, this means older city areas are neglected.

However, he said, he basically agreed the mall developer should pay for services on the 45 per cent sharing formula.

Ambulance Operators Form Counter Proposal

Ambulance operators from across the Quinte area met in Belleville Monday to discuss how local ambulances should be administered and formulate a counter proposal to be given to the ministry of health, Friday. Those present, however, refused any comment to disclose.

During the past year, Belleville ambulance service has been under heavy fire from provincial authorities, who say too much money is being spent in the city for the service.

The ministry of health spent the past year drafting a study and recommendations that would create a more cost effective "ambulance service for not only Belleville but the entire area.

One recommendation has already been acted upon, a central dispatch system for the entire area was set up in Belleville General Hospital to prove duplication of equipment purchases and to provide more co-ordination of ambulances in the area.

Although the ministry report has not yet been made public, unofficial sources from Monday's meeting said, if implemented, the report would mean a 50 per cent reduction of ambulance staff in Belleville.

A ministry spokesman, earlier, said reduction of one vehicle from each shift is a major part of the study findings.

Christmas Pageant

Expansion Talk

Ronald Ellingwood, consultant for Cambridge Leaseholds, talks over cost sharing details for services to Bayshore Mall before city council. Later, council passed a zoning amendment for the expansion project which now goes to Ontario Municipal Board.

Alarm Box

Tuesday, Dec. 15, 8.33 a.m. — overloaded fuses at 297 Chester St.; no fire.

Tuesday, Dec. 16, 6.01 a.m. — fire department extinguished fire in a side coal bin brake at McFarlane Gendron Manufacturing Ltd. (Belleville Division) on Sidney St.; pressure drop set off fire department alarm.

Inflation Leaves City Short on 3 Projects

City council learned Monday how inflation has hit some of its major work programs.

Revised estimates on the city's capital works quota showed the $725,500 remaining in the budget falls short of adjusted costs on three schemes: Reconstruction of East-Dundas St. from Front St. to Bleecker Ave.; Pinnacle St. extension over the Moira River and the watermain to the northeast industrial park.

Funds still required for the three projects in current budget now are at $911,125, reported city manager Wilbur Purcell. This is an increase of $67,867 offer the original cost — a difference of about 2.5 per cent.

He recommended council seek the balance of present funding allocations for the street-rebuilding and bridge projects.

Council passed three resolutions for Ontario Municipal Board approval.

It asked permission to issue debentures on the East Dundas reconstruction ($300,000), Pinnacle St. bridge and property purchases ($225,625) and the watermark extension ($258,500).

Employee Robbed

Belleville police are seeking two men who robbed a 19-year-old Belleville youth of $40 and his wallet in the Don Har Parking lot on Front St. late Monday.

Police say Stephen Mark Furse of 604 Victoria Ave. an employee of Tim's Place in the Whale at 232 Front St., was sent by his employer to get $40 worth of change at Up-Town Shoe Price and Burger Shop at 234 Front St. at 6.30 p.m.

On his return, he was accosted by two males in the parking lot, police relate. Furse, who was unhurried, escaped when a passerby distracted his attackers.

Contents of the wallet, were unknown by press time. The attackers' descriptions are unavailable pending further investigation.

Revolver Stolen

Chief Crosbie said today the firearm, which has a white handle, is among items missing from the apartment at 89½ South Front St. sometime after Dec. 8.

Also missing are a quantity of antique coins, a diamond ring and a watch fob, he said, adding the total value is still unknown.

Chief Crosbie said the theft went unnoticed because the tenant is in hospital.

Council Briefs

Station May Come Down

City council Monday signified it has no objection to demolition of the old Canadian Pacific Rail Station on south Church St.

Council's was asked for its sanction earlier this year, but postponed a decision after discussion on the building's potential as a restaurant.

But, wrote Donald W. Curtis chaleman of CP Hotels, company engineers report, such a conversion would not be "economically viable."

Parking Ban Passes

City council Monday night approved two recommendations from its traffic committee: (1)

(1) No parking on the east side of Singleton from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

(2) A three-way stop at the intersection of Montgomery-MacDonald-Hastings.

Crossing Closed

Federal approval has been received this week to sealing South John St. Canadian Pacific Railway level-crossing.

Mayor Ben Corke said CPR officials this week are sealing the crossing to traffic early in the New Year.

Meeks Questions Costs

How much does it cost the treasury when city hall proclaims days and weeks marking special interests?

The query came from Ald. Stu Meeks Monday night as city council formally proclaimed Boxing Day a public holiday.

Ald. Meeks said it would be "a real interesting exercise" to total the cost of such proclamations — which must be advertised.

Mayor Ben Corke said the request would be taken under advisement.

Bylaw Read Again

The original OHC agreement Oct. 6 supposedly involved the 83-unit senior citizen building on Wellington Street. It was later discovered the agreement's property description submitted by the OHC was for the latest apartment complex for the elderly on East Bridge St.

City council Monday night passed a bylaw authorizing the levy in lieu of taxes.

10,000th Bylaw Introduced

City hall has crafted its 10,000th bylaw.

The ordinance — passed Monday night by city council — was a rezoning amendment to permit expansion of the northend Quinte Mall.

Meeting Last of Year

City council held its last regular meeting of 1975 Monday night.

Its next session was scheduled for Dec. 29. But because of Christmas season council decided to dispense with the meeting.

Details Still Sketchy On Morning Mishap

Two unidentified people were being-treated for minor injuries at Belleville General Hospital after they were involved in a four-vehicle collision just prior to 9 a.m. at the intersection of East Bridge St. and Herchimer Ave.

Belleville Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said police were still at the scene at press time and details are sketchy.

He said preliminary reports show a southbound truck on Herchimer Ave. was in collision with an eastbound vehicle on East Bridge St., bounced into a northbound Belleville Department of Public Works truck, then struck a following northbound car, knocking it sideways and then skidded across a lawn into a house where it caught fire.

Seeking Support

Mark McGuigan, MP Windsor-Walkerville, was in Belleville Monday to meet delegate to Ontario Liberal leadership convention where he'll be one of the candidates. Among local Liberals he met were Charles Bales (left), party organizer for Eastern Ontario, and Hugh O'Neil, MPP Quinte.

Three Youths in Court on Theft Charge

Two youths pleaded guilty and another youth had a date set for trial when they appeared before Judge J.L. Sendzeniuk in provincial court here Monday on charges of break, enter and theft.

William Edward Forbes, 17, of 49 Thorncliffe Dr. in Belleville will appear in provincial court here Jan. 21 for trial on one count of break enter and theft.

David Ronald Hedger, 17, of 26 West College St. in Belleville and Gene Lorne Johnston, 16, of Corbyville were remanded to Jan. 12 for sentencing.

Hedger pleaded guilty to two counts and Johnston pleaded guilty to one count of break, enter and theft.

Belleville police say the three youths were each charged with one count of break, enter and theft in connection with a break-in at Holy Rosary Elementary School on East College St. here Nov. 30.

The male youths were arrested at 2:30 a.m. Nov. 30 at the school in connection with two break-ins and an attempted break-in during the week of Nov. 24 to Nov. 30.

Two tape recorders and a portable typewriter with a total value of $300 were recovered from the Nov. 30 incident and $180 worth of tapes and earphones were recovered from the Nov. 28 occurrence, police add.

Sewage Disposal Costs To Rise Next Year

Cost of sewage disposal service is going up in Belleville.

City council Monday opted for a cost formula which will increase rates by steps over the next five years.

Since 1973 the city has paid the Ontario environment ministry — which operates the sewage disposal plant — 17.2 cents per thousand gallons treated.

The ministry offered the city a choice of paying the higher charges through a fixed rate of 20.6 cents per thousand gallons, or stepped increase starting at 18.10 cents in 1976 and reaching 21.30 cents by 1980.

City manager Wilbur Purcell said he believed the stepped-rate option would best benefit the city.

Corke Has High Praise For Former City Mayor

City council paid tribute Monday night to a former member with distinguished service at city hall — A. McLean Haig.

Mr. Haig died suddenly Sunday. He was 68.

Mr. Haig's civic record was recalled by Mayor Ben Corke as that of a man of "very considerable ability."

Mayor Corke stressed Mr. Haig's role in returning to civic office — service as a mayor and alderman in the early 1950s — after the 1949 inquiry into the city's finances.

Among his achievements was his formula for retiring the $200,000 shortfall discovered in city finances, said the mayor.

Added Mayor Corke: "His death has been a severe loss to me, because I personally consulted with him on some matters . . . which he could ably advise me from a long and varied career."

New Leader Won't Hurt Grits Says Contender

In fact, such a combination could be an electoral boon, says Mr. MacGuigan—46-year-old MP for Windsor-Walkerville, and one of the seven declared candidates for the party's Ontario leadership.

Mr. MacGuigan was in Belleville Monday as part of a quick swing along the Ontario Lake shore to acquaint leadership convention delegates with his personality and policies.

Early election with a new leader would have a positive affect on Liberal victory chances in replace the minority Progressive Conservative government, Mr. MacGuigan said in an interview after meeting party workers over lunch at the Sun Luck Gardens.

The Liberal leadership convention is in January. An early campaign would see the Liberals "on the score with a new leader and a new emphasis in policy," he said.

But in table talk, Hugh O'Neil, MPP Quinte, said he dubbed an early campaign call.

"I don't think anybody really wants an election right now, said Mr. O'Neil. "I don't feel we'll have an election until next fall or a year from spring . . . unless something triggers it off and he (Premier Davis) figures he can win."

The next election, whenever it's called, must see the Liberals stage a strong contest-of-the-road campaign, Mr. MacGuigan told the delegates. Last week's British Columbia election, which ousted a New Democratic Party government, was a "real body blow" to Ontario NDP who were modeling their strategy after the Barrett administration there, he said.

"It will very much be an election in which economic issues are important. If we're on the wrong side of this, and . . . promise big spending programs at any time, I think the people will be turned off."

Rewarding MVP

Belleville Bobcat players judged to be most valuable in each of the team's Metro Junior B Hockey League home games, receive rewards for their efforts. Dixie Lee Fried Chicken franchise Operator George Bandy presents a commemorative plaque to Bobcat goalie Jeff Merrill. Presentation took place at Memorial Arena, Friday. Merrill was chosen MVP in December 5 win over Whitby Green Bruins. "It's our way of giving the Bobcats a boost," commented Mr. Bandy.

House League Hockey

Jewellers on Target

First place Doug Jones Jewellers kept rolling along in the Minor Bantam section of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association's house league program last week, getting shutout goaltending from Brad Potts in a 5-0 win over Y's Men's Club. Kenneth Kent, Robert Indeway, Lorne Hayden, Danny McGrath and Kevin Johnston shot the Jewellers' goals. Larry Drabot helped himself to three assists.

Legion put on a late drive which netted two goals in the team's 7-4 squeaker over Bob's Auto Body. The losers' line of Don Castelo, Jim McMullen and Todd Belch was flying, sharing 16 points. Castelo had five goals while McMullen scored once and drew five assists and Belch was also in on five of the scoring plays. David Quincey had three of the winners' goals with two each for Neil Ellis and Terry Calder. Jeff Ricketts earned four assists and Calder, three.

Three goals by Steve Burley led Red Shark past Mclaney-Maines 6-2. Ted Cameron, David Malkawa and Rust Harvey had the other counters. Mike Miller counted both the losers' goals.

Mercury Rentalls Peewee Major Selects, second place team in the standings, turned back third place Ed's Exso 7-4 as Tim Marshall scored three times. Steve Clarey, Brian Crookwright, Gord Graham and Rick MacDonald each hit for a goal and Craig Saxby picked up three assists. Mike Weatherstone, Greg Miller, Mike Vasi and Doug Austin replied for Ed's.

MIDGET

Bill McQuaid was the top marksman in the Midget division, counting three goals to lead Tim Horton Donuts past ANAP Dukes 8-6. Other goals went to Randy Cox with two, Mark Hoole, Gary Frederick and Tim Beliveau. Fred Lang had two for Dukes with the other goals going to Pete Lewis, Doug Fargey, Steve Pearce and Gene Pearce.

Gary Stapely and Lynn Simpson each scored twice in BYBP's 5-1 defeat of Stirling Sheet Metal. Wally Inwood added one to the attack. Ron Ferguson had the losers' marker.

Licence Leisure World Bantam Major Selects earned a 3-3 draw with Demark Construction on goals by Shane Butcher, Andy Rossit and Steve Gilbey. Counting for DeMark were Ean McCutcheon, Brian Gooding and Gary Mrlinsky.

Uptown Billiards, with Tim Duvall potting a pair of goals, got by Sun Lock Gardens 3-1. Ron Doornbos had the other Uptown goal and Scott Hubbs scored for Sun Lock.

Gas House Hockey

Chuckwagon, Yardmen Share the Top Rung

Belleville Yardmen and Chuckwagon Foods continued their leap-frog act with Bob's Sports, Monday, in the duel for first place in the Gas House Hockey League.

Bob's, idle Monday, surrendered first place to Yardmen and Chuckwagon who both moved one point up the second place squad, with 18 points each. The league leaders own identical 9-3 records while Bob's is 8-1-1 for 17 points.

As the league moved into the second half of its schedule, Chuckwagon turned back Rollins Lumber 5-3 while Yardmen outscored Bayview Orchards 6-2. In the third game, Murray's Food Market fell a little short of the mark in a bid for its second win of the season, bowing 6-5 to Jim's Pizzeria.

Tom Pierce was a two-goal shooter for Chuckwagon which got singles from Al Walker, Mark Acquafredo and Don Donaldson. Walker also picked up two assists as did Tom McDonald. Checking in with one helper each were Pierce, Fred Sickle and Wayne Brown.

Rollins, with only nine men in the lineup, gave it a good shot with Dale Tummon firing a pair of goals and Bill Dunn scoring once and arranging another counter.

A five-point night by Dan Lapenette powered Yardmen past Bayview. Lapenette scored twice and picked up three assists. Single goals went to Rob Bastedo, Doug Thompson, Rob Brown and Ron Richardson. Don Bonter and Bill Minaker replied for the losers.

Cougars Stall Huskies' Drive

COBOURG (Special) — Frankford Huskies had their climb up the standings halted in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior C League interrupted here, Monday night.

Cobourg, sixth in the seven-team league, have been showing signs recently of challenging the upper echelon clubs in the standings but they could not gain any headway here.

Cobourg Cougars, trailing 3-1 early in the first period, exploded for eight consecutive goals in gaining a 10-7 win.

The Tim Neron-Jamie Ogden-Mark Bamford front line led Huskies. Neron scored twice with singles for each of his linemates. Sandy Waterson, John Masterson and Paul Bedard had the other Frankford goals.

Huskies make their next start, Friday when they play host to Port Hope in an 8.30 p.m. game.

Wellington Dukes Score 10-0 Win

WELLINGTON (Special) — Saturday's hazardous driving conditions forced postponement of Wellington Dukes' scheduled Ontario Hockey Association Junior D game in Haliburton, Saturday and the local squad took it out on Bewdley when that team kept a Sunday date here.

With goalie Terry Harrison closing the door on the visitors, Dukes skated to a convincing 10-0 win.

This week, Dukes have two games scheduled. The team is in Lakefield, Thursday and on Sunday, Wellington is at home to Bancroft for a 4.30 p.m. match.

Lafleur Will Continue Quest in the West

MONTREAL (CP) — Right winger Guy Lafleur of Montreal continues his quest for his first National Hockey League scoring title this week when the Canadiens play three games on the West Coast.

Lafleur now has 19 goals and a league-leading 30 assists for 49 points and a four-point lead over team-mate Peter Mahovlich.

Mahovlich has 17 goals and 28 assists and is just a point ahead of Bobby Clarke, Philadelphia Flyers captain. Clarke has 15 goals and 29 assists.

Jean Pronovost of Pittsburgh Penguins is fourth with a league-leading 32 goals to go with 21 assists for 53 points and a two-point lead over Marcel Dionne of Los Angeles Kings and Bryan Trottier of New York Islanders.

Dionne has 21 goals and 29 assists while Trottier, a key candidate for rookie honors, has 15 goals and 38 assists.

Montreal netminder Ken Dryden has the best goals-against average and the Canadiens have the best team average. Dryden has allowed 48 goals in 1,439 minutes played for a 1.95 goals-against mark and overtimes with Michel Larocque in give Montreal an over-all average of 2.22.

The shutout lead is shared by Dryden and Glenn Resch of the Islanders, each with four. Wayne Stephenson of the Flyers leads in goaltender wins with 19, one more than Dryden.

The league statistics show that 25 per cent of the goals scored this season have been on power plays. Of the 1,798 goals scored in the 270 games played, 448 were power-play efforts.

The Islanders have the best power-play mark, 37.4 per cent, getting 47 of their 125 with a man advantage.

Tardif Leader

TORONTO (CP) — Marc Tardif of Quebec Nordiques continues to hold a slim lead in the World Hockey Association scoring race, say statistics released Monday by the league.

Tardif has 27 goals and 25 assists for 52 points, four more than Bobby Hull and Ulf Nilsson of Winnipeg Jets. Hull, who scored his 200th WHA goal Sunday night against Edmonton Oilers, has 19 goals and 29 assists.

Nilsson, Hull's linemate, has 16 goals and 32 assists. Christian Bordeleau of Quebec follows with 47 points, including a league-leading 35 assists.

Joe Daley of Winnipeg has the best goal-against average among goaltenders, a 2.22 average and four shutouts.

With a Little Help, Kings Trump Selects

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings, bolstered by players from seven other Western Canada Hockey League teams, scored four unanswered goals in the last 21 minutes of play to defeat the touring Moscow Selects 5-4 before 10,181 fans Monday night.

It was the first loss in five games so far during the Canadian exhibition tour by the Selects, who include seven members of the Red Army and five of the Soviet wings that will play exhibition games against National Hockey League clubs.

Edmonton was bolstered by 11 players from other WCHL teams, plus former Oil King and Calgary Centennial Larry Hendrick in goal.

The additions performed most of the heroics, as defenceman Rick Hodgson of Calgary scored three goals and Blair Chapman of Saskatoon Blades and Dale McMillin of Brandon Wheat Kings added singles.

After a shaky start, Hendrick was outstanding in the last half of the game as Kings were outshot 15-8 in the final period while enjoying a 27-26 margin over-all.

Selects wasted little time scoring on their first two shots on goal—Golikov at 2:19 and Belousov at 5:37. Oil Kings came back with Hodgson scoring on their second shot against Moscow goalie Mikhail Vasilevsky at 6:46, but Moscow got that goal back at 16:54 when Belousov went through two Edmonton defencemen and beat Hendrick along the ice.

Hendrick allowed his only bad goal with 26 seconds gone in the second period as a 25-foot slapshot by Devinov trickled in off his right pad. Then Kings came b a c k with Hodgson and McMillin scoring to reduce Moscow's margin to 4-3 after the second period.

In the final frame, Moscow appeared to tire while the Kings improved defensively and a five-foot backhander by Hodgson tied the score at 2:06 before a 15-foot backhander by Chapman at 4:30 trickled in off Vasilenok's catching glove.

Hendrick, who had sparked a WCHL team to a victory over the Selects in Vancouver two years ago, made an outstanding sliding save on Moscow's Alexander Barinov with 40 seconds left to preserve the victory.

Raymer Sparks Whitby

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP) — Paul Raymer scored two goals to pace Whitby Warriors to a 5-3 win over Lindsay Lancers in the only Ontario Hockey Association Senior A action Monday.

Other Whitby goals went to Rob Kirk, Peter Vipond and Ed Taylor.

Playing-coach Bob Rivard and Randy Rich replied for the Lancers, who trailed 3-1 at the end of the first period and 4-1 going into the third.

League action resumes Thursday with Lindsay playing in Whitby and Napanee Comets travelling to meet the Flyers in Earrie.

Boxing Brothers Winners

Referee Harry Davis stopped the main event at 1:50 of the fifth round as Summerhays, 24, was pounding Bay at will along the ropes. Bay says he is 33 but his friends say he is closer to 37.

In preliminary action, Toronto's Daniano Pelligrino scored a technical knockout at 1:19 of the third round in a direwight bout against Teddy Plaxton of Cleveland; Cecil King of Toronto took a six-round decision over Jerry Wells of Cleveland at 147 pounds; and Lee Barter of Detroit decisioned Ernie Witt of Cleveland over six rounds at 108 pounds.

Needls Collect Damages

VANCOUVER (CP) — A West Vancouver couple described as being obsessed with hockey and their hockey-playing son were awarded a total of $750 in damages Monday in a libel action against radio broadcaster Al Davidson.

Mr. Justice J. C. Bouck awarded $500 to Norman Neeld and his wife, Jean, and $250 to their son, Greg, 19, at the conclusion of a five-day British Columbia Supreme Court trial.

RENE ROBERT

Wingers Injured

BUFFALO (CP) — Rene Robert, right-winger on Buffalo Sabres' French-Connection line, will be out of National Hockey League action for a month as a result of a knee injury suffered in Sunday night's 7-4 loss here to Atlanta Flames. Robert, 26-year-old native of Trois-Rivieres, Que., was hit by a clean hip check from Hilliard Graves.

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Right winger Bill Goldsworthy, leading scorer for Minnesota North Stars of the National Hockey League, suffered a twisted knee in Sunday night's 4-4 tie with Washington Capitals and will be out of action for about two weeks. Goldsworthy, 31, of Kitchener, Ont., has scored 14 goals this season.

Shaky Squires Still Drawing

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Virginia Squires have the worst record and the shakiest franchise of the seven surviving American Basketball Association teams, but you couldn't prove it at the box office.

A sell-out crowd of 10,010 turned out Monday night to watch the Squires absorb a 131-119 shellacking from Denver Nuggets in the only ABA action scheduled. There were no official Basketball Association games Monday.

It was the Squires' fifth consecutive defeat, dropping their record to 4-22.

But it had to be a shot in the arm for the team's owners, who seem to be operating on a day-to-day basis in their hopes of finishing out the season. Their dream, perhaps impossible, is gaining admission to the NBA and television exposure.

For a three-game series with the Nuggets that began last Thursday night in Richmond, the Squires attracted 21,200 fans—6,186 in Richmond and 8,561 Friday night in Newport News before the game here.

While David Thompson, who led the Nuggets with 21 points Monday night in their eighth win in a row, might have been the big attraction, full-page newspaper ads calling on fans to "save the Squires" might have helped.

In the last five games here, once it was announced the Squires would remain in business with the aid of funds from the Norfolk Investment Co., UNC the Squires' average attendance has been 7,684.

If nothing else, it enabled the franchise to meet its payroll Monday, thus assuring the players will be around another two weeks.

DON'T FORGET BELLEVILLE

You only have a few short weeks left to save yourself hundreds of dollars on the purchase of a new automobile.

Under existing legislation Ontario new car buyers must complete their deal prior to January 1, 1976 to be eligible for the provincial government 5% Sales Tax rebate on most new models. At that time as well, the currently reduced provincial sales tax will revert to 7%.

AS OF JANUARY 1, 1976 NEW CAR BUYERS WILL BE OUT OF POCKET ANOTHER 7%

As they say, "All good things must come to an end", and the countdown has already started all across Ontario to end the Provincial Government's 5% sales tax Rebate on most new cars. As well, the current 5% sales tax is due to revert to 7%. The deadline is midnight, December 31.

After that, new cars are going to cost Ontario consumers everywhere a lot more, hundreds of dollars more.

There's still time for you to move up to a new model at a real saving. Now is the time for wise buyers to take action. Whether you're thinking domestic or import, full-size right through to subcompact, don't delay your buying decision, visit these reputable district dealers this week and compare. Every model in town is competitively priced. Special deferred terms can be arranged and remember, your trade-in is probably worth much more than you think! Make this test drive week . . . do it now!

Births

BARRETT — Keith and Karen (nee Palmer) are proud to announce the birth of their 1st child, Courtney Elizabeth, born on Tues., Dec. 9th, 1975 at Belleville General Hospital. Thanks and Regards Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Palmer, to great grandmother Mrs. Frances McLeod. Special thanks to Dr. Fry and staff. D16-B

In Memoriam

BEGLEY — In memory of our dear grandmother Janice Begley who died December 16, 1974.
She left us silently
Her thoughts unknown,
And left in a moment
We are proud to own.
Her smile was so dear
In Your garden of rest,
For when on earth,
She was one of the best.
—Missed by Doug,Lynn Reid and family children

COOK — In loving memory of Mrs. Ethel Cook who passed away December 15, 1973.
Sad is the day
But memories are dear
Truly remembered every day,
A little flower,
Small and tender,
God took one
He did remember
—Daughter Ruth and Ray and Robert Perrin.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to express our deepest thanks to those who cared for our dear Mother in her illness and to express our sincere appreciation for the many other gifts, cards and phone calls received. We wish to express our deep evening appreciation. And to all who sent flowers and those who gave generously to the Cancer Society. Kindness and a word of cheer, these you did all.
—Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Schmuecker, John St.

I wish to express my sincere thanks and deep appreciation to my friends and neighbors who visited me in my time of my husband's death. Also thanks for the beautiful flowers and gifts received at the funeral. A thank you to the nurses and orderlies of Belleville General Hospital who were so kind to my husband, Melvin Redden, and to Reverend Mr. Ferguson for his visits and his words of kindness and a word of cheer, these you did all.
—Mrs. Melvin Redden

While a patient in Belleville General Hospital for 10 weeks and now convalescing at home I would like to express my sincere thanks to those who called on me, sent cards, flowers and other gifts, phoned, prayed for me and in since I came home the Rev. Lonsbury, Ministers of the Bay Shore Church, Georgetown, Ontario, Mrs. Lonsbury and their calls and prayers, Dr. Drs. Williamson, the ICU and on the 3rd floor. To the nurses who were so kind. A special thank you to Mrs. Rose and Mrs. Ross.
—Mrs. Ethel Ashton

I wish to express my sincere thanks to my family, friends and neighbors for their kindness, Mrs. Taylor, Presbyterian Church Women, Belleville Chapter Officers, Drs. Lovers, Hopest and Hunter, the ICU and on the 4th level, for prayers, cards and flowers during my period in Belleville General Hospital.
—George Yarten.

William and Ethel Gillespie wish to express their sincere thanks to their neighbors for cards, gifts and good wishes. Also the ACW and nieces and nephews for cards and gifts and everyone very such a happy event.

Accuses Some Circles

Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev gesture during his address before the Polish party congress in Warsaw Tuesday. He accused "some influential circles" in the West of seeking to undermine the spirit of the Helsinki accord. He also took an indirect slap at China but his speech was regarded as unusually mild. Character Role Key to Dancer's Success

He gained his fame at stage playing the role of a crotchety old grandfather. Or, next he is in his dressing room being the real-life father to his first son, Adrian, three months old.

Gorriaes, Belgian by birth, is a product of the Antwerp Opera Ballet who came to Canada to dance at Expo 67, liked the country and joined the National the following year.

He's happy to be dancing character roles because, at the age of 30, it means his dancing career will probably extend well beyond 35, when most dancers have to retire to teaching, choreography, or some less strenuous role.

In Antwerp, the handsome dark-eyed young man said, all dancers were required by their contracts to retire at age 35.

But character dancing is strenuous in its own way, Gorriaes said in an interview while here to play the role of Dr. Coppelius, the top maker in Leo Delibes' ballet Coppelia.

"It requires a different kind of dancing, more emotional in some ways—and more acting."

He has the advantage of formal training in the art of mime, as well as the mime and acting talents that are needed by all ballet dancers.

He also dances the role of master of ceremonies in The Sleeping Beauty and the grandfather in The Nutcracker. His favorite role, however, is the old witch Madge in La Sylphide.

On a recent tour, Gorriaes shared the role of Coppelius with Constantin Patsalas, another of the National's principal dancers, and with Eric Brun, the great Danish dancer, now resident producer for the National in Toronto, who staged the new Coppelia.

Gorriaes said that while the costumes and make-up for the three actors are the same, each interprets the role with slight differences. In directing the ballet, Brun said that as long as the dancers were at the proper place on the stage at the right time, they were free to supply his own characterization.

For Gorriaes, every night's performance is a little different, depending on his mood and that of the company and the audience.

Gorriaes's wife is Victoria Bertram, one of the leading ballerinas of the National, who continued dancing with the company until three weeks before the birth of Adrian.

Now she is back and Adrian travels with his parents across the country and to the theatre every night, where he usually sleeps in their dressing room.

"There's always somebody around ready to watch him while we dance," Miss Bertram said. "In fact, he's being spoiled."

Gorriaes said he is happy with the National because of the friendly atmosphere. He has done few guest appearances with other companies, but occasionally has been called on in an emergency.

Last spring, when the National was on tour in London with Giselle, Natasha Surmeyan suffered an injury and Gorriaes had to step into the role of the gamekeeper, Hilarion.

He had seen the ballet many times but had not danced the part. With only two hours to learn the role, and with Surmeyan in the wings to cue his entrance, he performed it smoothly.

Magician Makes Broadway

NEW YORK (AP) — Canadian-born Doug Henning, the star magician-actor-in a Broadway hit called The Magic Show, has a trick we've seen him do less than 10 feet away and still can't figure out.

He and an aide gently put a lady horizontally on the tips of five or six tall, sharp swords. They remove all the swords, save one at the base of her neck. But she doesn't fall down or even cry "ouch."

We asked Henning how he's react if someone offered him $ million in cash to explain how he accomplishes the seven trick.

"I wouldn't do it," said Henning, 28, who will do an NBC special called The World of Magic live from Los Angeles on Dec. 28. He explained why he wouldn't reveal the secret of the sword and other tricks.

"For one thing, money isn't that important to me," said Henning.

"For another thing, the secrets are really important. Some of my friends think I'm a bit of a fanatic about it.

"But it's not because I want to keep it from them, or that it's an 'I-know-something-they-don't' thing. It's because when you (meaning non-magicians) know the secret the wonder is gone.

"And my purpose as a magician is to create wonder."

Henning, born in Winnipeg and raised in Toronto, has been creating wonder since he was nine and magically transformed a penny from a handkerchief to a small box.

He's started in The Magic Show on Broadway since it opened in May, 1974, with the help of friends, financial backers and the reputation of his first theatre show. That show had a similar theme—acting magic and music—and played in Toronto under the title Spellbound.

Henning may be the first magician to hold a degree in physiological psychology. He said he earned it while working his way through McMaster University, Hamilton.

That particular course of study, he added, concerns human perception—sight, sound and the like—which is all related to magic."

Henning, who was six when he saw his first magic act—a bewildered girl trick on the old Ed Sullivan Show on TV—said he feels TV does not present magic properly. But he hopes to correct that.

"I've created five illusions specifically for television," he said. They'll be seen in his NBC show, in which a hand-held camera will be used extensively to give viewers a close look at his hocus-pocus.

Showbiz Shorts

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (Reuter) — A news conference to publicize the $14-million 20th Century-Fox movie Lucky Lady turned into a shambles with two of the film's stars criticizing the picture.

Her co-star Burt Reynolds joined in the criticism by blaming the shortcomings of the film on its director Stanley Donen and saying:

"I'll never work with him again."

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Rock musician Greg Allman says he and his wife, singer Cher, have dropped counsel for divorce suits and have decided on a reconciliation after a brief separation.

"We both dropped the court suits Wednesday," Allman said in an interview Friday with the newspaper Huntsville Times. "It was in Buffalo (N.Y.). We decided, Cher just happened to be there. Strictly coincidence."

CBS-TV, which has broadcaster Cher's television variety series, announced recently that her former husband, Sonny Bono, will rejoin her in a variety show next year.

Allman said Cher's return to Sonny, at least on the TV screen, does not bother him. "This is a business we're in," he said. "Strictly business. That's all the TV show is going to be."

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

Wednesday, Dec. 17

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You can gain in a situation today if you'll take time to show another person how he, too, can profit from your ideas.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Where money is concerned you're still under very favorable aspects. Just be sure not to let anyone else count your change.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll have a chance today to do something for a cause you're developing. Your actions will make him more ready to help you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) To get what you want today, use an indirect approach. You'll have a better chance to realize your desires than if you meet issues head-on.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't shy from what you want the first to be a friend's far-out scheme. Weigh all aspects. You'll find there's something in it for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't hesitate to approach the boss today if you see an opportunity. Don't be paint hearted.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Good things will happen to you today, unless you sit on your hands instead of down truly aggressive. Move out on your fronts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't be overly concerned with self-interests today. Look out for the other guy. Later, he'll be better able to look out for you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Turn down any invitations today to a social event involving many people. You'll learn something valuable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be alert for unusual opportunities today. Should one come up, you must be prepared to move swiftly and decisively.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) New people you meet today could turn out to be very important to you, either businesswise or socially. Take time to be gracious and pleasant.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're better equipped to face challenges today than you give yourself credit for. You can reason your way around any barrier.

Canker Caused By Allergies

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son has canker sores all the time. Would you please comment on this problem?—F.W.

Cankers are small, painful ulcerations of the mucous membranes in the mouth. A list of all possible causes would occupy several columns, but I'll give you a few.

A food allergy or some irritation can be the cause, and the chronic nature of your son's condition seems to indicate that is the likely one. Foods such as citrus fruits, melons, tomatoes, vinegar, wine, chocolate and walnuts are prime offenders.

Emotions can also play a role in this. One study reported that emotional upset combined with physical exhaustion can predispose a person to oral herpes. I might mention for the benefit of women readers that one study indicates some women have flareups during pregnancy, while others find the problem lessened during pregnancy. The incidence also appears high among people with cancer, understandably.

There not much you can do about them except to avoid substances that seem to bring them on. There are several medications used to relieve the discomfort.

There is some evidence of inherited susceptibility to canker sores, especially where both parents have been subject to recurrent episodes. But any agent that can irritate the lining of the mouth can cause the sores.

Even with this limited list of possibilities it is not surprising to learn that as many as 20 per cent of the population may have canker sores at any given time.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, age 9, wets the bed. I've been told this is because he sleeps too soundly. I was also told he should be dry by the time he was nine. Well, he hasn't, is there something you can tell me? I would like to help him if I knew what to do.—Mrs. J.K.

He probably doesn't sleep any more soundly than other sleepers do at night. I would not give much credence to that theory.

The boy needs a complete check up, but wetting is not a simple matter to deal with, from either a parent's or a physician's point of point. The causes can be complex, ranging from allergies (always a possibility) to psychological problems. There can also be structural malformation problems which might require surgical treatment.

By age 9 he should have begun to overcome the problem by himself. Step he hasn't you should now seek the appropriate medical help.

Mother Appalled On Busing Rule

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (CP) — In the fall of 1951, seven-year-old Linda Lloyd lived only four blocks from her neighborhood school in Topeka, Kan. But to find a school which would accept her, she had to walk 20 blocks and travel nearly eight miles by bus.

Linda was simply because Linda was black, while her local school was segregated, while. Finally, it so enraged her father, Rev. Oliver Brown, that he openly challenged an 1896 Supreme Court ruling that states could provide separate facilities for white and black students so long as they were equal.

Three years later, United States Chief Justice Earl Warren issued his momentous conclusion: "Separate educational facilities" he said, "are inherently unequal."

The judgment led to forced desegregation of public schools all across the country and to a red-hot controversy in areas such as this that now are being compelled to bus children over great distances to achieve racial balance in educational institutions.

Twenty-one years after the historic Warren ruling, Linda Brown Smith, now a 31-year-old mother of two, said in a telephone interview from Topeka she is appalled that busing has been one result of the integration decision.

"I'm totally opposed to busing," she said. "I would accept it only if they found it on me. There has to be a better solution."

Her sentiments, whether justified or not, seem to be shared by a growing segment of ordinary people in the United States and by a strong group in Congress, the Ford administration and the courts.

It seems clear from conversations with congressmen and with the local level in communities like this that a disenchantment clearly is growing toward defining the limits beyond which it is no longer realistic or constitutionally necessary to force school populations into racial balance.

Recently, President Ford ordered an extensive review of alternatives to busing by both the health, education and welfare department and the department of justice.

Committees in both the House of Representatives and the Senate have announced they will hold hearings on the busing issue, anticipating the rioting and protest which greeted the court-ordered busing in Boston here and in Boston last September.

And James Coleman, a noted sociologist at the University of Chicago sociology department and one of busing's strongest early defenders, now says he no longer supports it. It has led to a country of black cities and white suburbs, he says.

No precise figures are available for the number of children involved in forced busing, but authorities say it is almost certainly less than five per cent of total school enrollment.

The criticisms levelled at the policy are legion but one of the main charges is similar to Coleman's: it has led white families to move out of city centres and into suburbs which belong to different school district and large white population centers, deepening racial divisions.

In areas such as Louisville where the same district encompasses the city and surrounding Jefferson county, critics argue that busing young children over the long distances involved is unnecessarily cruel and damaging. It is well because it often leads to fights and racial tension.

Opponents also say that because many inner-city American cities now are dominated by blacks there simply aren't enough white children to go around regardless of how intricate a busing network is devised.

However, backers of the forced busing program, such as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), counter with a strong argument that while it may make education more difficult, for children there is no other way of giving blacks an equal schooling opportunity. Attorney Howard Eisler, a leading black educational here, said this happened to that the courts prohibited segregation by law but not in practice. Nothing was done to stop whites moving out of mixed districts and we were back to square one. We have to have busing or the whites just won't accept integrated education."

Not all blacks, however, support this position.

West plitted to a trump at trick two. South played his ace and led a second trump back to dummy's queen. Then he studied the heart suit.

He saw that he needed five heart tricks and decided to play East for the queen. In cash the queen was guarded by three small hearts, a first-round finesse was necessary. Since queen and three small in the East hand was more likely than a singleton queen in the West hand, South led dummy's jack of hearts and let it ride. West produced the queen and another ace had bitten the dust.

South's play had not really been bad but it had not been the best percentage. He should have played West for the queen because the location of the queen was a fifty-fifty proposition. He could have led a heart to his ace and given himself the extra chance of picking up a singleton queen.

Next time he would have worked and the better play would have triumphed.

Ask the Jacobys

Today's hand came from a New Jersey reader. He asked us to comment on the bidding and play. The article above tells the play. As for the bidding, everyone overcalled a trite but the final contract was a very reasonable one.

NFL Playoffs? Wait and See

NEW YORK (AP) — Pittsburgh Steelers will play at home Saturday, Dec. 27 against Baltimore Colts or Miami Dolphins and Oakland Raiders will be at home Dec. 28 against Cincinnati Bengals or Baltimore in the first round of the American Football Conference playoffs, it was announced Monday.

In the National Football Conference, the four playoff teams are set—Minnesota Vikings, Los Angeles Rams, St. Louis Cardinals and Dallas Cowboys. After that, little is sure.

Dallas definitely will be a visiting team since it is the wild card selection from the conference. St. Louis has a long shot at opening at home, but the two bowe ones appear to belong to Los Angeles on Dec. 27 and Minnesota on Dec. 28.

If Miami, 9-4, beats Denver Broncos on Saturday and Baltimore, 9-4, loses to New England Patriots, then Miami will be the AFC East champion. If Miami lost and Baltimore both win, then Baltimore will be the East champ because it has beaten Miami twice.

But even if Baltimore wins, Miami can still gain the wild card berth with a victory if Cincinnati, 10-3, is upset by San Diego on Sunday. Miami would get a wild card spot ahead of Cincinnati because it has seven points—at least the better—at 12 for Cincinnati in a rating system based on a team's standing against conference rivals in the area of points for and points against.

In other words, if a team is third in the conference in points for and second in points against, it has a five rating.

So if Miami ends up as the wild card team, it would play at Pittsburgh, 12-1, the Central Division champion, and Baltimore would play at Oakland, 10-3, the West champion.

If Cincinnati is the wild card entry, it would play at Oakland and Baltimore or Miami would play at Pittsburgh. Cincinnati can't play a first-round game against Pittsburgh because the two clubs are in the same division.

St. Louis' chances of opening at home border more on being a miracle than a longshot. The Cards, 10-3, trail Minnesota and Los Angeles by a significant number of rating points.

The Cardinals would have to beat Detroit by a margin of 80-0 Sunday and Los Angeles and Minnesota, each 11-4, would have to suffer lopsided losses. Los Angeles plays Pittsburgh Saturday night and Minnesota meets Buffalo.

If Minnesota, the NFC Central champion, and Los Angeles, the West winner, both win, then Minnesota would play host to wild card Dallas, 9-4, Sunday while Los Angeles would be home against St. Louis, the East champion even if it loses Sunday. Minnesota would meet the wild card team because it has a 3-1 edge over Los Angeles in the rating.

Should Los Angeles win and Minnesota lose or Los Angeles overtake Minnesota in the rating, which is unlikely, then Los Angeles would open against Dallas and St. Louis would play at Minnesota.

If this has you confused, don't feel bad. Hardly anybody else understands it—either. What is certain is that Minnesota, Los Angeles, Oakland, Pittsburgh, Dallas and St. Louis are definitely in the playoffs. The other two playoff teams will be two of these three: Baltimore, Miami and Cincinnati.

CHANGES ANNOUNCED

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds announced two minor league managerial changes Monday, naming Jim Snyder to direct their Class AAA farm team in Indianapolis and Roy Majtyka as manager of the Trois-Rivieres baseball club in the Class AA Eastern League. Snyder, 43, replaces Vern Rapp, who resigned last week to become manager of Denver Bears. Snyder has been a manager in the Cincinnati organization for 10 years, including the last five in Trois-Rivieres. Majtyka, 36, has managed in St. Petersburg, Cardinals farm system for the last eight years.

Namath – "No One's Fault But My Own"

Broadway Joe Benched; Jets Lose

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Coach Ken Shipp decided to teach Joe Namath a lesson. He benched and fined the star quarterback of New York Jets for missing curfew Sunday night.

But Monday night, with Namath strolling the sidelines for the first 20 minutes and 29 seconds, the Jets lost 34-14 to San Diego Chargers, one of the losingest teams in the National Football League. Shipp says his decision had no bearing on the outcome, but Namath thinks otherwise.

Touchdown runs of four yards by Tony Baker in the first quarter, two yards by Rickey Young in the second and one yard by Bo Matthews in the fourth carried the Chargers to the victory, their second in a row after they lost the first 11 games of the season.

"I was dams near sick when I got the news," Namath said of his benching. "It was no one's fault but my own. I felt I really let everyone down, especially coach Shipp.

"I got caught talking to friends from back home who live in San Diego. I knew what time I was supposed to be in. I just lost all track of time."

Shipp wouldn't talk much about his decision or what led to it. And he did not disclose the amount of the fine.

He acknowledged, though, that he talked with Phil Iselin, president of the Jets, before he benched and fined Namath.

"I am only an interim coach," Shipp said. "and I had to consult the president of the club—and he was in favor of it."

Namath came on in the second quarter in place of young J. J. Jones and passed New York to the Chargers' goal-line—but couldn't get the final yard in four tries.

Namath's losses got the Jets 3-10, into position for their two touchdowns, one-yard runs by Steve Davis in the third quarter and John Riggins on the final play of the game. The rest of the scoring came on field goals by New York's Pat Leahy and San Diego's Ray Wersching who kicked one apiece.

When the crowd of 52,466—the largest to watch the Chargers this year—was told shortly before game time that Namath would not start, they booed. And when Namath took the field for the first time, with 9:31 remaining in the first half, they cheered.

Namath completed 15 of 29 passes for 181 yards. He was intercepted twice.

And in the end, Namath and the Jets were done in by both San Diego quarterbacks, Dan Fouts and Jesse Freitas, and by Young, a rookie running back who picked up 111 yards on 21 carries for his second consecutive 100-yard game.

"I have to give most of the credit to the line," said Young. "It did an outstanding job up front. The big difference in the team now is that everyone believes in themselves. We're making the big play, which we didn't used to do."

Fouts, who played a conservative passing game before being knocked out of action by a third-quarter injury, clicked on six of 11 throws for 86 yards to set up both first-half Charger touchdowns.

Company Offers Free Insurance

TORONTO (CP) — A sporting goods manufacturer has announced that it will offer free insurance starting Jan. 1 to hockey players in Canada and the United States who use the company's full headgear—helmet, eye shield and lower face protector.

CCM says a personal accident insurance policy will provide $2,000 dental coverage, $2,500 loss of sight indemnity and $5,000 accidental death insurance.

The coverage is underwritten by the Seaboard Life Insurance Co. of Canada and will be in effect during every supervised practice or game anywhere in Canada or the U.S.

Insurance application forms will be available from sporting goods dealers.

The program has been named the "Parsons policy" after George Parsons, a CCM vice-president, who lost an eye in a National Hockey League game for Toronto Maple Leafs many years ago.

Burden Sets Record

5 Rush Past 1,000 Yards

TORONTO (CP) — Willie Burden faced the final 60 minutes of the 1975 football season lacking 137 yards for the prize he covered most.

That was the yardage necessary to top Earl Lunsford's one-season Canadian Football League rushing record.

In 1961, Lunsford, now general manager of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, had run for 1,794 yards, the first player ever to rush for more than a mile in one CFL season. Saskatchewan's George Reed became the second miler with 1,768 yards in 1967.

Burden not only became the third member of the one-mile club, he took over the club presidency with a smashing 238-yard performance against Winnipeg Blue Bombers in that final league game which gave him a record total of 1,898 yards.

The Calgary rookie's 238-yard effort not only helped him to the season's record by more than 100 yards, it marked the third highest one-game rushing effort ever in the CFL. The two higher marks were Ron Stewart's 287-yard game in 1969 while with Ottawa Rough Riders and Reed's 266-yard effort in 1965.

That final performance also gave Burden a total of 10 games in which he had rushed for more than 100 yards, exceeding by one the season record shared by Reed and one-time Edmonton great Johnny Bright.

Also, Burden's 332 runs from scrimmage topped the one-season record of 303 set by Reed in 1967.

For the 11th time in 12 seasons, Reed rushed for more than 1,000 yards, taking second place to Burden with 1,454.

Chrysler Will Raise Average Car Prices

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. said Monday it will raise prices as much as $90.95 on a few of its cars to cover the cost of new government-required braking systems, effective Dec. 22.

At the same time, Ford Motor Co., citing the need to recover rising costs for labor and materials, said it will raise the base price of its cars an average 3.3 per cent or $97 next month.

The increases come three months after the opening of the 1976 model year, when all four U.S. auto-makers raised prices.

Sales reports for early December, issued by the makers Monday, showed the pace for the period was up 43.3 per cent to their best rate for the period since 1969 from the depressed levels of a year ago.

In the Dec. 1-10 period, sales totalled 259,418 or an average 21,599 in each of nine selling days. The sales pace was 15,330 a day in the period last year, 34,400 a day in 1969 and a record 27,751 in 1965.

Ford's sales in the Dec. 1-10 span were up 18.7 per cent from a year ago on a daily selling basis. The sales pace for General Motors Corp. was up 43.3 per cent, Chrysler Corp. was up 22.1 per cent, and American Motors Corp. rose 69 per cent.

Sales of domestic models are up about 30 per cent since the beginning of October and company officials say the industry's worst slump since the Second World War appears to be at an end.

Ford said that in addition to the base price increase, prices of optional auto equipment will rise an average 1.6 per cent.

The firm also said prices for light trucks will increase an average of 2.4 per cent or $123.

The suggested base prices of medium, heavy and extra-heavy trucks will increase an average of $239 or three per cent as of Feb. 1, the company said.

A spokesman for General Motors Corp. said the company had no plans to raise passenger car prices, although the suggested prices on light trucks will increase $52 Jan. 1 to cover the cost of improved seat belts.

American Motors Corp. said no decision has yet been made on whether to raise prices.

Quebec Economic Future Is Bleak

MONTREAL (CP) — The economic performance of Quebec in 1976 will be inferior to that of the rest of Canada, the provincial government predicted Monday.

A report presented by Guy Saint-Pierre, minister of industry and commerce, said recovery from the recession has begun but "Quebec's recovery is expected to be slower and milder than in Canada as a whole."

Quebec's real gross provincial product (GPP) will grow by three to four per cent, compared with five per cent for the gross national product (GNP), Mr. Saint-Pierre said at his annual year-end news conference.

He said the rise in wages and prices, a slight braking of employment, a slight braking of on the rate of the provincial economy, and a reduction in the rate of residential construction, . . . and a reduction in the volume of non-residential construction," he said.

"The highlights of the over-all economic picture for 1976 are in the rise in wages and prices, a solid revival of residential construction . . . and a reduction in the rate of non-residential construction," he said.

Business Sings

NEW YORK (AP) — The jukebox business has been ringing up a happy tune in 1975, D. J. Eaton, president of the Jukebox Owners Association, says, "It is a depressed business" and "when times are bad people seem to want music."

Moluccan Leader Warns Dutch Against Using Force in Siege

AMSTERDAM (AP) — The leader of Holland's South Moluccan community warned the Dutch government today not to use force against Moluccans who have held 25 persons hostages inside the Indonesian consulate in Amsterdam for two weeks.

"Violence means victims," said Johan Alvares Manusama. "There are Indonesian citizens in the consulate which would mean difficulties with the Indonesian government if they were harmed."

Manusama issued his warning after Justice Minister Dries van Agt said in a telecast that the government has "had enough of its patience is not endless."

There were reports that the captives intended to remain in the consulate until Dec. 21, which will be the ninth anniversary of the execution by the Indonesian government of Chris Soumokil, who led an unsuccessful guerrilla war to free the South Moluccan islands from Indonesia.

Police believe seven young Moluccans are holding 23 Indonesians, 10 of them women, and three Dutch nationals in the consulate.

Rev. Samuel Metiary, a Moluccan Presbyterian, resumed negotiations with the gunmen Tuesday, but there was no indication so made any progress toward ending the siege.

Manusama headed a team of negotiators who persuaded a second group of South Moluccans to surrender Sunday after holding 22 Dutch men and women hostage aboard a hijacked train in northern Holland for 12 days. The hijackers killed three Dutchmen, and an Indonesian died of injuries he suffered escaping from consulate.

The government has rejected the demands of both groups of Moluccans that it seek United Nations support for their/ease plans for independence of the South Moluccas from Indonesia, the one-war Dutch empire in the Far East.

Liberals, NDP Force Rent Review Reform

TORONTO (CP) — The Opposition forced its muscles in the Ontario legislature Tuesday, amending the province's rent review legislation and defeating two government-sponsored amendments.

In a series of recorded divisions, the NDP and Liberals combined against the Conservatives to pass eight amendments. In six other cases, the Liberals voted with the government to outlin NDP proposals.

In the only exception, Marvin Shore (L—London North) voted with the government in a losing cause. The amendment in question, sponsored by Housing Minister John Rhodes, would have allowed a rent review officer to set rents for comparable units in an apartment building at the same time. The vote was 61-43 against.

The most important effect of the various amendments was to bring virtually all rental accommodation in the province under the rent review legislation.

When it was introduced, the bill contained a series of exemptions, including housing operated by the Ontario Housing Corp., apartment buildings with four units or fewer, luxury apartments renting for more than $500 a month and units in new buildings.

The only exemptions are for units where rent is set with the direct approval of either the federal or provincial government, units in motels or hotels or vacation homes rented for less than four months and in buildings opened after Jan. 1, 1975.

The opposition combined on amendments to ensure that half of the rent review board, to be set up under the legislation, is made up of persons "representative of tenants."

The cabinet is to set the number of board members.

The opposition parties also amended the bill to say that at least two board members must be on land to carry out board functions and one of them a must be representative of tenants.

The board acts as an appeal body, following decisions of the individual rent review officers.

The NDP failed in an effort at amendment requiring the board to report to the legislature.

The bill sets an eight-per-cent ceiling for rent increases in the period between July 31, 1975 and Jan. 1, 1978. However, increases over that limit can be approved.

The penalty for violation is set at a maximum of $2,000. An NDP attempt to broaden the penalties section was defeated.

Wage Demands

Trenton Employees Seek 50 Per Cent

By JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Reported wage demands by two groups of municipal employees make town firefighters 36 per cent two-year objective pale in comparison.

The Intelligencer learned Tuesday that the 35 town-employed members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) is looking for a 50 per cent pay hike for 1976.

Such a demand is "bad out of bounds," according to CUPE representative Jack Rigby, "especially when a dictator (Prime Minister Trudeau) says we must settle for 18 per cent."

Meanwhile, Trenton's 25-member police force is beginning contract talks with town officials looking for a 36 per cent hike, that reportedly would give them a 25 per cent increase in wages. Representatives of both parties declined comment on the negotiations.

Today the wage dispute between the municipality and town firefighters is the subject of an arbitration hearing. Town clerk Aubrey Sharp last week prepared a report for council recommending the implementation of a volunteer fire brigade if the firefighters persisted in their quest for a 36 per cent salary hike.

As for negotiations with the town's CUPE employees, Mr. Sharp refused comment on their contract demands, but maintained the town would adhere to federal guidelines.

Most workers currently earn about $8,000 annually, and outside jobs are in the $10,000 range. The 25 employees have been negotiating with the town for the past month to replace the current contract expiring Dec. 31.

Local Men Remanded To Feb. 3

THUNDER BAY (CP) — Two Belleville, Ont., men charged with murder punishable by life imprisonment in connection with the stabbing death of a 46-year-old service station attendant here Nov. 26 were remanded Wednesday to Feb. 3 for a preliminary hearing.

Michael Paul Karkbeck, 17, and Frederick Charles Reet, 18, are charged in the death of Amadio Piante, an employee of the Arrow Service Station.

Wilson Faces Party Revolt

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government was trying today to head off a revolt by members of its own party in the House of Commons opposed to the government's £62.5-million ($125-million) plan to bail out the Chrysler automobile company's British subsidiary.

Parliament's lower house approved the salvage scheme in principle Tuesday night by a 25-vote margin. But at least a dozen Labor MPs abstained to show their disapproval, and 20 others would have abstained if the government had not presaged to meet them today to discuss the issue.

Had the 20 abstained, the proposal would have been defeated. It faces another test tonight when Commons votes on whether to authorize the funds the government says is necessary to save the struggling company from collapse.

"The government is not yet out of the woods," said one political source.

The bailout blueprint, announced Tuesday by Industry Minister Eric Varley, includes a guarantee of up to £24.5 million ($48.5 million) to cover British Chrysler's losses over the next four years, £55 million ($110 million) in loans and backing for a £55-million ($110-million) loan from British banks.

Quinlan May Have Been Hit Before Coma

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — An investigation into allegations whether someone tried to kill Karen Anne Quinlan before she lapsed into a coma might complicate her parents' battle to allow her to die.

Court papers filed Tuesday in Rock Island, Ill., said that Miss Quinlan, 21, had a lump on the back of her head and several bruises on the lower part of her body the night she was admitted to hospital, last April 15.

The New York Post, which broke the story before the court papers were filed, quotes unnamed sources as saying authorities also are trying to determine whether a pimp and an "older woman" who worked at a massage parlor may have somehow been involved.

The investigation also want to know whether Miss Quinlan was illegally supplied with the barbiturates and tranquilizers reported found in her blood and in urine tests the night she was admitted to the hospital, the newspaper says.

A judge last month rejected a request from the young woman's parents that would have allowed doctors to disconnect the machinery that has kept Miss Quinlan alive for eight months.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Quinlan have argued the young woman is in a vegetative state with no chance of recovery and have taken the case to New Jersey's Supreme Court. A hearing is scheduled for Jan. 26.

Meanwhile, New Jersey's attorney-general said he wants to see whether foul play was involved in producing the coma.

Seeks 5 Per Cent Growth

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Donald Macdonald said Tuesday he is seeking a five-per-cent growth in the gross national product (GNP) during 1976. He gave the figure in the Commons in reply to a question from Sinclair Stevens (PC—York-Simcoe), but added that growth in the GNP includes "a lot of factors beyond my direct control." The GNP is a measure of all goods and services produced by the economy.

Bricklin Resigns

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Malcolm Bricklin, who is dreamed of mass-producing a revolutionary new sportcar, has resigned as president of the financially-troubled company that bears his name. But Bricklin said he still will work "toward the betterment of transportation through the development of a revolutionary new engine." He did not elaborate.

Social Functions

Catholic Board Revises School Party Guidelines

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

The Hastings — Prince Edward Separate School Board Tuesday night bended down a new set of guidelines to control community use of school facilities for social functions.

The guidelines, recommended by the board's policy committee, were promoted by complaints about recent social functions at St. Carthagh's Separate School in Tweed.

The board will now require that social functions stop by 12:30 a.m. and the school premises be vacated by 1 a.m. Previously, the board asked that the function stop by 1 a.m. unless special board permission had been granted.

New fee schedules were also approved. Permit holders will now be charged $15 an hour for the school facility as well as $7.50 an hour for time required to set up furniture and prepare facilities. Permit holders will also be required to assist custodial personnel in the setting up and replacing furniture after the function.

In order to curb recent problems at the Tweed school the board also approved a recommendation that if any regulation is broken the permit is automatically cancelled and will not be re-issued.

That has been in effect before but trustees now want guarantees that the regulations will not be broken. Trustees asked director of education E.J. Neville to report monthly on the conditions at the Tweed school.

Some trustees objected to the guidelines on the basis that they would affect all schools when only limited areas, such as Tweed, seem to have the problems.

The board rejected a recommendation to have all church-sponsored activities approved by the local pastor. Some trustees felt this would bring the pastor into conflict with the community over social functions which involved liquor.

In a letter to the board a neighbor of St. Carthagh's school complained noise was excessive during parties and that liquor on the premises set a poor Christian example. The woman complained that many of the parties lasted until 3 a.m.

Maynooth trustee Rev. L.P. Casarielli, told trustees that if liquor is becoming a problem during these social functions the board should re-evaluate its position. Father Casarielli said the board had no business condoning the abuse of liquor on school premises.

Senate May Halt U.S. Funds to Angola

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional effort to end United States intervention in Angola is facing its first test as the Senate considers an amendment that might halt the use of U.S. funds to support factions fighting in the African country.

The Senate scheduled a two-hour overt session today before a planned vote on an amendment to the $112.5-million defense appropriation bill that would prohibit use of any funds for covert operations in the Angolan civil war.

A White House spokesman declined comment Tuesday on reports of U.S. involvement, but Senate Democrats said they are seriously concerned by "actions taken by the Soviet Union and Cuba in providing large quantities of military aid and men to Angola."

Meanwhile the Senate foreign relations subcommittee on military assistance approved 7 to 0 on Tuesday a resolution to cut off secret U.S. aid to any individual or group in Angola.

Jointly sponsored by Senator Dick Clark (Dem., Iowa), the resolution would permit, the president to use available funds to assist openly military factions in Angola unless either the House of Representatives or Senate disapproves within 30 days.

The resolution would be binding if passed by both the House and Senate and if signed by the president. It will be considered Thursday by the full Senate foreign relations committee.

The subcommittee resolution supports efforts by the Organization of African Unity to settle the conflict in Angola and calls on all countries to terminate military assistance to any group in Angola.

Boyce Explains Village Proposal

PICTON — Wellington Reeve Robert Boyce, chairman of Prince Edward County council's economic development committee, told councillors Tuesday there has been no detailed discussion of a proposal for a Loyalist Village in the county.

When asked by Picton reeve Larry Richardson why further information on the proposal was not included in reports from the economic development committee, reeve Boyce explained that no in-depth study has been done.

He said that there was no time for his committee to take any further action this year.

Albert deputy-reeve Harold Sills commented, "I think a Loyalist Village concept would cost this county a fortune. We had better think twice."

Reeve Boyce stressed that any discussion of the proposal at this point is premature as all facts relating to it are not

Location for Authority Offices Poses Problem

Belleville parks board is turning to city council in a dilemma involving new quarters for the Moira River Conservation Authority (MRCA).

MRCA offices, for years located at the Thurlow Township council offices at Caradoc, has chosen the highest point in Belleville for its building.

It's on land which is an extension of the West Riverbank Park area earmarked for greenbelt-recreation development.

The parks department already has its offices there, and MRCA wants to build north of the parks office—on a rise of land about 100 feet above the Bay of Quinte which, says parks director Lloyd Syer is the highest elevation in the city.

The greenbelt development has been a co-operative venture of the department and MRCA.

In fact, the city has leased the land from the MRCA for 20 years an annual $1.

Ald. Paul Hubbell, parks chairman, told a board meeting Monday that the MRCA was anxious to locate in Belleville. A recent meeting with its representatives indicated they were latest on the building on the greenbelt hillside — for which an observation deck surrounded by ornamental gardens has been planned.

The board decided to send the matter to council pointing out the site is reserved for another use and the board's "reluctance" to have a building on the spot. However, it also is willing to help the MRCA select another location said the resolution.

Pedestrian Injured

TRENTON — An 85-year-old Trenton man was sent to hospital for treatment of facial lacerations after he was struck by an automobile while crossing Dundas Street East Tuesday afternoon.

John Parker, Trent Valley Lodge Nursing Home, 195 Bay Street, was treated and released from Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Police said Mr. Parker was walking across Dundas Street when he was in collision with a westbound vehicle.

Mishap Causes $7,300 Damage

A 35-year-old Belleville man has been charged with failing to obey a traffic signal after a four-vehicle collision about 9 a.m. which sent three persons to hospital with minor injuries and caused a total of $7,300 damage.

Michael Ryan of 219 Farley Ave., was charged after a vehicle he was driving southbound along Herchimer Ave. was in collision with a vehicle driven eastbound along Bridge St., by Johan Horvath, 36, of RR 2 Belleville, said police. She was taken to hospital with minor injuries.

Police said one of the two vehicles in the collision apparently bounced into a northbound Belleville Department of Public Works truck then struck a following northbound car, knocking it sideways and then skidded across a lane into a house where it caught fire.

County Employees to Get First Crack at Vacancies

PICTON — New jobs opening up in Prince Edward County's roads department now will be posted to permit workers already working for the county to apply for them.

Explanation of the hiring policy followed discussion Tuesday of a motion in the road committee's report recommending that Paul Kirby become suboreman in charge of equipment at the county garage.

Road committee chairman Athol Reeve Keith Perry said in the past when job vacancies occurred a file of applications kept in the county engineer's office offered names of persons interested in working in the roads department.

"Available jobs haven't been advertised but we are changing it so that new jobs are posted in the county barns so employees can apply," said reeve Perry.

When asked by Ameliasburg deputy-reeve Gordon Rabbitt about open advertising reeve Perry replied, "We got away from this and we are trying to get it back on the track."

Restraint Watchword In Salary Increases

PICTON — George Foster, Sophiasburg reeve and chairman of Prince Edward County council's finance and personnel committee, told councillors Tuesday a salary scale complying with federal guidelines has been used in determining salary adjustments for county employees.

He said that during a lengthy meeting members of the finance and personnel committee eight-per-cent increase of 10 per cent for employees earning less than $8,000 a year.

Employees receiving from $8,000 to $13,000 will receive and eight-per-cent increase while those earning over $13,000 will receive a five-per-cent boost.

Reeve Foster said his committee had met with two county roads employees, the economic development director, the county engineer, the administrator of the county home and the county welfare administrator in relation to 1976 salary adjustments.

Sun Sets on Political Left in British Columbia and in Australia

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Is there a message for democratic socialists in their heavy defeats in two places in the Commonwealth — the province of British Columbia and in Australia?

Yes, there probably is, though a more than surface look at the circumstances suggests that reasons for socialist defeats in the two widely-separated locales are strikingly different.

First, the similarities. David Barrett in B.C. and former Australian prime minister Gough Whitlam are similar types, flamboyant, egocentric, dynamic on the hustings, inclined to turn an election into a contest of personalities.

Both men moved very quickly for socialists newly in power, by hitting hard at extractive industries, and in Barrett's case, at once he headed a national government, switching allegiances of Australian foreign allegiances from the U.S. and the U.K. to the Third and Communist worlds.

Another similarity was that both men and their socialist parties were new to power. The New Democratic Party had never before held office in B.C. And in Australia, the Labor party had been out of power for about a quarter century.

Hence the reasons for moving quickly, obviously too quickly for two democratic electorates in making the changes often prominent and frightening while in new and frustrating opposition.

Australia and B.C. are similar in being highly resource heavy on extractive industries which have been developed by outside foreign capital, rugged regions which are also under-populated.

And both socialist parties had moved to reduce the foreign economic control, in each case within weeks of coming to power.

The major difference of course is that we are talking of national governmental changes in one instance, a provincial one in another.

Some Canadians already believe the federal Liberal government with its heavy commitments to welfare, unemployment insurance and a future guaranteed annual wage is "socialist" not only in principle but practice.

And other socialist parties in Canada have not suffered the crushing defeat which pestering Premier Barrett endured the other day.

Saskatchewan's Allan Blakeney was re-elected in his province in a few-key election where his NDP government lost a few seats but was retained. The clearly result of his victory has been his scheme to nationalize the province's potash industry.

And in Ontario, one of Canada's bulwark heartlands, where citizens who are mainly doing well shun socialism, the NDP is the official opposition in the legislature.

Nevertheless, there is an unmistakeable trend in the parliamentary on two socialist defeats that hard-pressed electorates in democratic constituencies are fed up paying for larger governments and ever-growing state handouts.

The voter resistance to socialist parties in power with promises to enlarge the state functions, is not so much an ideological one as an economic one.

With taxes already at record highs and hundreds of citizens taking personal advantage of existing and efficiently-run welfare schemes, the honest taxpayer is fed up.

Any government that promises to add more and further the system is a winning kind these days.

Violence in Media

If anyone has had doubts as to the effectiveness of the Royal Commission studying media violence, they may have been decided to some extent at least by the recent hearings in Bancroft.

Not only did the hearing bare a lot of detailed evidence about violence in television programming and a commensurate lack of educational programming outside Toronto and Ottawa, but it was notable for some valuable observations by chairman Judy LaMarsh and commission member Scott Young.

Both encouraged those making submissions to take their complaints further, by writing to the CBC, the government, and their members of parliament.

It is so easy to let things slide and become apathetic on issues that demand strong opposition. There is "overkill" where violence is concerned, and the use of vulgar language is becoming more prevalent in the media. The hearings are providing an indispensable forum on these issues, but the public must go a step further by making their views known to the appropriate authorities. And this, in addition to whatever conclusions the Commission itself reaches when it comes to make its report.

Bowmen Hunters

Some facets of deer hunting by bow and arrow that are puzzling.

Arrows are designed to pass right through the deer.* If the animal is only wounded it has a better chance of survival than if hit by a bullet, which may lodge or disintegrate in the body.

An arrow will cause a clean wound, and any barbs left protruding from an animal are so designed that they pull free when brushed by undergrowth in the deer's flight.

A deer, thus wounded, has less chance of infection and a greater chance of recovery.

This information from a recent report by Terry Humbersome, conservation officer Napanee Office of the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Previously, it seems, there was a lot of "misunderstanding" of the sport.

It all sounds like good sport — for the hunter, but what about the deer, run through on so cleanly by those nice arrows, and if its lucky, only wounded?

On the other hand the needs of conservation are acknowledged and if they can be served humanely and safely — in the judgement of some — by bow and arrow, maybe there is something in it after all.

Christmas Seals

However cynical the view some take of Christmas and of human behavior at this time of year, its positive aspects surely outweigh the negative.

Christmas Seals is one of the expressions of concern for human needs which is brought to bear these days. It stretches back almost as far as the tradition of sending cards which came to North America from England in the mid-1800's. Borrowing an idea from Denmark, Emily Bissell, an American, drew the first design for a Christmas Seal and started a crusade against the then rampant disease of tuberculosis. This at the turn of the century.

Today, tuberculosis can be cured, even prevented by taking pills. Yet 3,000 Canadians have the disease.

As well as tackling the lingering presence of tuberculosis, Christmas Seals have broadened the process of health control to include a whole range of diseases that attack the respiratory system. Thus, they provide funds to fight emphysema, bronchitis and other lung diseases, cigarette smoking and air pollution.

It's a good time to think of physical fitness in general, of the fitness demanded of our hockey players for instance, and the younger fry growing up. It is of some significance that skating ace Toller Cranston is honorary chairman of the Christmas Seals campaign.

As well as demonstrating his prowess on the ice, Mr. Cranston also pursues a successful career as an artist. He credits his ability as up this way: "I believe in pursuing any ability one has to maximum capacity; I use both skating and painting to try to bring people close to other people." Admirable objectives for anyone. And right in line with the idea of promoting a fitter Canada of which the Christmas Seals program is a part.

Lewis Looks Over His Shoulder At the Poll in British Columbia

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — in the wake of British Columbia's remarkable election, questions are being asked just what impact the B.C. vote might have here.

Normally one doesn't expect a vote in one province to swing much weight in another.

One was that it was "polarization" which delighted the federal government.

Solid people from the other parties combined behind Social Credit and the crystallization of the vote which resulted was too much for Barrett to cope with.

It is unlikely, however, that there will be any such polarization here much as the government might like it.

Why? The New Democratic Party is the official opposition it is third in the people's vote and the Liberals remain too strong to consider any form of coalescing.

Over the years, in fact, when there has been any talk of coalition in our provincial ranks the proposal has been that the NDP and Liberals should get together.

This has never been seriously entertained in the past and is even less likely to be in the future.

One development we should see is much more use of the "socialist" label in referring to the NDP.

The government has already begun to make fairly wide use of this.

It apparently worked well for Bennett in B.C. and so we can expect even more of it here.

As for Stephen Lewis, he has cause for much thought.

The NDP leader had strong admiration for David Barrett. His quite often referred to the B.C. record in his speeches, and to some extent patterned his policies after it.

He particularly used to cite the good relationship the B.C. government had with industry.

Now, not only has the government been defeated, but Barrett has lost his own riding and very obviously relations with industry were far from good.

It is all enough to make the leader realize that if his party is to engage a breakthrough in Ontario, probably his policies will have to be reviewed.

Incidentally, there is the chance of some sort of federal axis between B.C. and Ontario on inflation control. Both Bennett and Premier Davis favor them.

Leopold II of the Belgians died 44 years ago today—in 1909—after ruling for 44 years. His main achievement was the exploitation of the Belgian Congo, which he ruled for much of his reign as a personal estate. Although the rule of the Arab slave traders was broken the Congo Free State was vigorously exploited. A British commission of inquiry said the natives lived in "veiled slavery." Under international pressure, Leopold transferred leadership over the Congo to the Belgian government.

American Economist Raps Government Extravagance

By RICHARD JACKSON

Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — The biggest problem for the government — any government, federal, provincial or municipal — is the "Attack on the Taxpayer," is credibility.

Fewer and fewer disillusioned taxpayers believe either the government or its self-serving public service.

Perhaps almost nobody does.

The politicians and public servants are going to have to do something really dramatic — and soon — if they are to regain even a crumb of credibility.

Something dramatic like making themselves subject to the same rules of restraint and control they are trying, so far unsuccessfully, to impose on everyone else.

International recognized leading economist Pierre Rinfret of Boston and New York said it for a great many cynical taxpayers when he received in his annual conference of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants:

"How can you control wages and prices and inflation when you can't control the idiots responsible for government spending?"

Politicians and public servants are not exactly looking good.

And they appear to be in league against the very people who support them.

Their seeming anti-taxpayer conspiracy goes back 10 years to former Prime Minister Lester Pearson who:

"Gave public servants the right to strike — which made governments following his lead — which has turned out to be the right to hold the taxpayers to ransom no matter what the cost to the public interest and the economy.

"Faced the successive and excessive increases in pay, pensions and fringe benefits for parliamentarians who are supposed to be acting not for pay but the public interest.

"Together, the politicians and public servants have managed to put themselves in a class apart, in an adversary position to the taxpayer.

Mutually they have run up their pensions to the point where they least the pack.

Who else but an MP can retire after six years with an annual pension of $5,000?

Who else but a public servant can retire, as former deputy Finance Minister Simon Reisman did, at 55 with a pension starting above $20,000?

Who else can index their pensions against inflation in such fine careless rapture that it's possible for a senior public servant to draw a larger raise in recommendation than he would in salary?

Ask a taxpayer ask a small this:

What is the psychological impact of indexing parliamentary and public service pensions — and will it do to allay their concern with inflation — when, as a select elite they have managed to protect themselves like nobody else from the economic damage it does to everyone else?

Your friendly neighborhood MP will tell you that 80 per cent increase he was shamed into cutting back from 90 per cent is spread over five years, really making it only about an annual seven per cent.

That may be, except that five years ago Parliament voted itself better than 33 per cent.

Except, too, that when they did the election last year, they knew full well the pay, pension and other fringe benefits — but after only nine months on the job voted themselves that 30 per cent pay raise and the faster pension, awarding themselves $7,000 in retroactive salary to their July 8 election, the day they got the job.

Except, finally, they stood still in the face of an objection — public servants vote, too, you remember, why make them mad? — when just before prime minister Trudeau announced Trudeau awarded those $60,000-a-year deputies a $10,000 increase.

A roll-back of this unbridled gluttony anywhere along the line would be a credible gesture to public servants. If done quickly and dramatically enough, might restore some measure of government credibility.

Compulsory Arbitration ?

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Without a union an individual is as helpless as a drop of water in a sea — seeing with regard to industry in general and also with regard to monopolies such as the Post Office, the Police Force, the Fire Force, and of course the Armed Forces, and also in the fields of medical profession, the medical profession, and all other professions including lawyers, barristers etc.

No matter what group an individual might belong to he must band together in order to have any rights at all. Individually he is nothing but together he is powerful. Question is, how to control the group once it realizes its power?

Without getting into the realms of pro's and counter-pro's that could be stated in answer to the above question I would like to simply state as follows:

1st. Members of any local should be outlawed! Disputes should be arbitrated.

2nd. Compulsory arbitration should be the law of the land.

3rd. Reason for the above is that governments and local should not be able to force their will on people, as they think, through the theory that Might is Right. The theory that should prevail is that "Right is Right". Who better could decide what is right than an elected government? In other words let the government arbitrate in any given situation." If you don't like the ruling of government public rebirates you can still vote in another government as long as you believe in democracy.

Government Handling Funds Queried by Macdonell

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Accountants are noted for choosing their words carefully, but few are quite as cautious as the auditor-general of Canada, James J. Macdonell.

So, when he says that the federal government's financial controls are significantly below the accepted standards of quality and effectiveness, you can be sure that your tax dollars are being handled somewhat casually in Ottawa.

Accounting and auditing aren't the kind of activity to stir people's emotions.

But, when even Mr. Macdonell is moved to warn that weak financial controls are an open invitation to fraud, it's time for the public to pay attention.

Noting the good reputation that the civil service has enjoyed, a reporter mentioned to the auditor-general that "there hasn't been much fraud."

Mr. Macdonell corrected him. "There hasn't been much fraud detected," he said, with emphasis on the final word.

The problem of fraud is almost inevitable in a sprawling bureaucracy that handles billions of dollars each year, with no single person or group having the responsibility of rifling herd on the spenders.

The government should follow the example of any large business enterprise, Mr. Macdonell, and appoint a chief financial officer.

Such a person could curb the spending excesses of the government before they are committed—which would obviously be more useful than having the auditor-general draw them to Parliament's attention after the fact.

Granted, the government does employ large numbers of people who are admittedly responsible for financial planning and controls.

But bureaucratic priorities have become so askew that the main preoccupation of handles civil servants is with the task of persuading the treasury board to authorize ever-greater spending programs.

That, in Ottawa, is how empires are built and careers advanced.

The comparatively dull job of keeping a lid on these expenditures, once they have been approved by the treasury board, seems to be given much less attention than it should.

Mr. Macdonell deserves the taxpayer's thanks for persuading 34 chartered accountants to leave their private positions temporarily and to work with an equal number of government accountants in searching for ways to make government spending controls more workable.

The accounting profession is also offering its advice to the federal government on the tricky problem of administering the anti-inflation program.

A subsidiary by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants says that an effective Trudeau's anti-inflation board should use its position to enjoy maximum national uniformity for the program.

(That's what the board seemed to be aiming for in turning down the 30-per-cent wage increase for mail sorters, but the cabinet overruled Mr. Pepin and his colleagues).

The CICA would assign the responsibility for monitoring compliance with the anti-inflation program to either the department of national revenue—which has been in the business of checking incomes for a long time—or the Audit Services Bureau of Supply and Services Canada.

One member of the anti-inflation board has suggested that mandatory such compliance should be the responsibility of the private auditors who scrutinize corporation's financial statements.

"While as a profession we are willing to co-operate in any way possible," says the CICA, "we see many practical difficulties in having shareholders' auditors so involved."

New Seniors' Home Highlight of Year Says County Warden

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Prince Edward County warden Clifford Walker Tuesday told county councillors if inflation is not "wrestled to the ground" while an advantage exists, it is unlikely that the prosperity of the past 30 years will return in their (council's) lifetime.

He termed the federal government's anti-inflation legislation as "the most important piece of legislation passed at the senior level of government this year."

The warden added it indicates the days of free spending and open-end programs are over.

In a brief summation of his year in office warden Walker observed that it had been a year of accomplishment.

The highlight, he said, was on Feb. 9 when all residents of Prince Edward's old home for the aged were moved to the new L. J. McFarland Memorial Home.

Warden Walkers added new senior citizen housing units now being built in Picton are nearing completion and he urged a meeting between councils early in the new year to reach agreements permitting county residents to occupy them.

He referred to effective reconstruction and maintenance of county roads and observed that there, was "some criticism" of the roads department this year.

"But we have the best county roads in the province," he said.

At the close of Tuesday's council session immediate past warden Keith MacDonald took the warden's chair to deliver a brief tribute to warden Walker.

Wolf Bounty Passes

PICTON — Prince Edward County councillors have voted to reinstate $25 wolf county to combat what warden Clifford Walker Tuesday termed "a pretty serious situation."

At a regular meeting of council Tuesday night councillors passed a motion instructing county clerk Thomas Walker to prepare a by-law bringing back a wolf bounty for presentation at the next council session.

Warden Walker said a ministry of natural resources report indicates that there now are from 600 to 100 wolves in Prince Edward County.

Taylor's Help Requested

PICTON — Prince Edward County councillors Tuesday passed a motion requesting James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward-Lennox to assist in expediting the processing of the county's draft official plan.

Approved at local level the draft plan was submitted for ministry approval several months ago.

The motion noted there has been "considerable delay" in final comments from the province concerning the draft official plan.

Sophisbury reeve George Foster told council that "the time has come to put pressure on the powers that be."

Traditional Favorites Make Holidays Special

In each family there is at least one food that means Christmas. Whether it's a sweet or a main dish, a long involved recipe or just cranberry sauce with orange, a traditional food favorite makes Christmas even more special. Here's a variety of special dishes that seem to be almost universal in their holiday appeal.

Mincemeat

four pounds chopped cooked beef chopped pared apples ½ pound suet
two pounds raisins
two pounds currants
8 oz. citron
2 oz. orange peel
2 oz. lemon peel
one cup molasses
two pounds brown sugar
¼ cup cider vinegar
two quarts sweet cider
two tbsp ground cinnamon one tbsp cloves (ground)
one tbsp allspice
one tbsp nutmeg
¼ cup brandy

Boil cider down to one quart. Prepare twice as many cups of apples as you have cups of cooked beef. Mix all of the ingredients except the brandy, together and cook slowly for two hours, stirring frequently. Add the brandy just before the end of the cooking time. This large recipe (you can reduce it) makes 16 quarts of mincemeat. (One quart will make two pies).

Tourtiere

½ lb. ground veal
½ lb. ground pork
¼ cup minced onion
¼ cup water salt
pepper

Combine ingredients in a small sauce pan and cook until all of the pink color is gone. Drain slightly and place in an unbaked nine-inch pie shell. Cover. Cut vents for steam and bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce over to 375 and bake an additional 20 minutes.

Cranberry Mousse Mold

2 cups fresh cranberries
¼ cup sugar
2 cups water
2 packages (3 oz. each) raspberry gelatin
1 cup (¼ pint) heavy cream

Sauce

2 tbsp cornstarch
¼ cup sugar
2 cups cranberry cocktail one-third cup orange flavored brandy

In a saucepan mix cranberries, sugar and water. Bring to a boil, lower heat and simmer for five minutes. Stir in raspberry gelatin until completely dissolved. Chill until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Fold in whipped cream and pour the mixture into 1¼ quart mold or bowl. Chill until firm. To prepare sauce, mix cornstarch and sugar. Stir in cranberry cocktail and brandy. Cook over low heat until sauce bubbles and thickens, stirring constantly. Chill until ready to serve. When ready to serve, dip mold (if used) into lukewarm water for a few seconds. Tap to loosen, and invert on platter. Ladle chilled cranberry sauce on each serving at the table.

BRIDGE STREET UCW

The Bridge Street United Church Women held their Christmas meeting recently, at which they installed their new officers for the coming year. Kay Summers is the group's new president.

The worship service was conducted by May Sanders, with Donnah Jefferson assisting.

A program of reminiscences of the past 50 years in the life of Bridge Street women's groups was given by Greta Morden, Fran Fiske, Bessie Marsh, Maude Rollins and Joy Nichols.

CANADIAN FEDERATION OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN

The annual Christmas dinner of the Canadian Federation of University Women (Belleville and District) was held at Mother's Restaurant near Madoc. Members were welcomed by the president, Carol Wilson. Grace was said by Betty McFarlane.

After dinner Connie Burns introduced the Beninger sisters, Loretta and Louise, who played the guitar and led the carol singing. Loretta, who was an exchange student in Germany last year, described Christmas as celebrated by a German family.

Santa arrived, and called upon some elves to introduce new members Sue Beevor, Elizabeth Edwards, Cathy Hodgins, Elizabeth Mitchell, Elaine McGrath and Ginny Palliser.

Presents for the mentally ill were collected and donations made to the Christmas sharing fund.

Connie, Burns and Julie Brock were in charge of arrangements for the party.

MARMORA IODE

Marmora Chapter IODE held their annual Christmas tea, bake sale and boutique at the Public Library on Friday afternoon. Proceeds amounted to over $100, part of which will be donated to the Canadian Legion Branch 227 for the Christmas baskets to needy families.

The boutique was looked after by Helen Meikle;John and Helen Brady while Mabel Brady and Vi Parks waited on customers at the home baking table.

EYEGLASS DONATIONS

Marmora Chapter IODE is grateful to the people who have turned in 44 pairs of eyeglasses for shipment to the Caribbean, where they will be given out to needy people.

The parcel will not be sent to IODE headquarters until after the new year so there is still time for other to locate any old glasses in their possession and leave them at the Marmora Insurance office or call 472-5723 for pickup.

NORTHBROOK SENIOR CITIZENS

Members of the Senior Citizens Club of Northbrook and District held their Christmas party recently. Roll was called and 22 members were present.

A vote of thanks was given by Vera Charlton to ladies who decorated the hall. Ina Storey, Grace Thompson, Ann Perry, Gena Armstrong.

The Club also thanked Clara McLeckie and Tressa Dafoe for donating the amount of $12 they received for quilting to the club.

Gena Armstrong, assisted by Ann Perry, was auctioneer for the evening and raised $16 for the club.

Eva Marinette was in charge of a stunt in which members had to toss rubber rings over pipes held in other members' mouths.

A recitation was given by Damon Boyden about old school days. Don and Ann Perry gave a couple of tunes on violin and guitar, and Ann and John Perry treated the members to a step dance.

MELROSE WI

The December meeting of the Melrose Women's Institute was held at the Tyendinaga Township Hall recently.

Helen McLaren, Marion Hagerman, Kaity Hadden and May Phillips decorated and conducted the program. The members exchanged old hats to wear for the evening at the roll call.

Christmas carols, accompanied by Rita Hadgley, were sung and after an exchange of gifts, Mary Ann Plews and Lynda Walsh served lunch.

QUEENSBORO WI

Bernice Cassidy was the hostess for the December meeting of the Queensboro Women's Institute held at the WI hall recently.

Madeline Rollins reported on the executive meeting she attended.

Goldie Holmes showed a quilt she made and read a poem she had composed about it.

Music Is Good Therapy For Retarded Children

EDMONTON (CP) — Two teachers at the Winnifred Stewart School for Retarded Children are proving that music can transcend the barrier of mental retardation.

Dolores Womy, once a performer for the Edmonton Opera Association, and Fred Jackson, a music instructor for 7 years, are music therapists for the 350 retarded children at the school.

Music therapy, developed in Europe during the 1930s, uses music to influence or change behavior. It is used extensively in Europe and the United States, where degrees in music therapy can be attained at several universities.

In Canada, however, there isn't one university offering a course in music therapy despite evidence that the technique works with the retarded and emotionally disturbed, geriatric patients and the physically handicapped.

Neither Mrs. Womy nor Mr. Jackson have degrees in music therapy, although both are accomplished music teachers who have taught themselves accepted therapeutic techniques by reading journals and attending seminars.

Mr. Jackson has worked at Winnifred Stewart for seven years but says he only began to see the therapeutic possibilities in music when Mrs. Womy came to the school, about two years ago.

"We were really only using it as a background; as an accompaniment for children wanting to sing," he said. "But after Mrs. Womy came, it evolved into more than that." Music became "almost a new sense" for the children at the school.

"There are things these kids can't do, things they might not feel adequate enough at. But music is something they can understand and do, and they seem to put more effort into it than most other things."

Mrs. Womy said retarded children "seem to have a basic beat."

"The beat begins each morning at a general assembly of students.

"We play contemporary and seasonal music; body music that gets them ready for the whole day," Mr. Jackson said.

Mrs. Womy said the school hasn't yet reached the point of playing music to motivate children during non-music classes, as do some schools for the retarded in the U.S.

"There is a lot of communication between other teachers and the music department, so they're aware of what we're trying to do."

She said adult retardants, who had not communicated with others for years, had been "brought out of their shells" after music therapy.

One boy, 15-year-old Glenn, came to the school last year on the edge of autism, a legacy of years of being misunderstood by his family.

The music therapists sensed his natural talent and began to bring him out of his state of desperation.

"We encouraged him to drum at first," Mrs. Womy said. "Soon we noticed he had a beautiful voice and we helped him develop his vocal ability."

Glenn now is lead singer in one of three choirs Mrs. Womy has started at the school. His attitude about life and his self-esteem have improved dramatically.

Mr. Jackson said he has seen Mrs. Womy bring about significant improvement in the speech of mongoloid children.

"We've had many favorable comments from parents on what music therapy has done for their children," Mrs. Womy said. "The parents are learning it is possible to bring their children out of their shells."

The two teachers handle eight classes a day for about 45 minutes each.

Mrs. Womy heads the classes while Mr. Jackson plays one of about 170 songs they have chosen.

Because retarded children have a short attention span, the former opera singer is almost continually on the move. The children learn to read music using a method developed in Austria that allows them to provide a percussion backing for Mr. Jackson.

A class may join in two or three melodies, for perhaps five minutes. Mrs. Womy then leads the children in a simple slide dance. Quickly she changes the activity to a game, a kind of musical chairs, with the children rushing to an up-tempo organ selection. The children then are led in a song or asked to play their percussion instruments again.

Mrs. Womy said she can't understand why Canadian universities don't offer courses in degrees in the area.

"I've gone about as far as I can go in Canada. If anyone really wants to learn anything about the subject they almost have to go to the States."

Ann Landers

Love Brings Change in Son

Dear Ann Landers: I had to write when I read about the woman whose lunatic husband wants to give his three-year-old daughter up for adoption because she is hyperactive.

I am the mother of a five-year-old hyperactive child. He used to bit, pinch, kick, spit, have violent temper tantrums, and couldn't play with other children. We took the boy to several doctors before one suggested our state university medical centre for evaluation. He was placed in a daily therapeutic program and the results have been fantastic. He is a different child.

I am grateful for all the help our son received there but I feel that most of the change was accomplished by love.—Grateful For Help in Connecticut.

Dear Cons: I'm grateful to be writing. I caught Holy Hell from hundreds of readers because I cautioned mothers against making little junkies out of their children. Too, often the response is put on drugs because it's easier than taking the time to be loving and patient.

I realize that some children are truly hyperkinetic and medication can be a godsend, but drugs should not be a substitute for parental time and attention. An excellent book for parents who need guidelines for raising children (not necessarily hyperkinetic, just normal healthy kids from one to five years of age) is Your Young Child And You by Eleanor Weisberger, Dutton is the publisher. I've read it from cover to cover and it is superb.

Dear Ann Landers: Yoo hoo! Bank tellers of the world salute you for your kind words about us tellers. Please come to the aid of bank tellers. You have no idea how much abuse we take from the public.

Why don't customers realize it's not the teller's fault if the line moves slowly? Most people can't decide what to do with their money until they reach the window.

So many customers who gripe about "the long wait" haven't filled out their deposit slips. They forget to endorse cheques. They hand us money rolled in a ball, which is difficult to count.

When we ask customers for identification they get mad—or insulted yell, "I've been cashing my cheque here every week for years, you oughta know me!"

Please print this and make thousands of bank tellers happy.—Your Friend in Chicago.

Dear Friend: It's a pleasure to be of help to the fine people who have served me faithfully for so many years.

Few Merchants Hiring Holiday Help

By AL ZARAS

Most local merchants are not hiring great numbers of additional sales staff this year to handle the influx of Christmas shoppers.

Canada Manpower officials say the government employment agency has had no requests for sales help from local retailers.

As far as Belleville is concerned, says Harry Young, manager of Walker's Stores Ltd. on Front St., it is a fallacy that retailers in small stores in smaller cities hire large numbers of Christmas help.

It may be true for larger stores — citing Towers and Sears as example — but not for smaller ones, says Mr. Young, adding his store has only hired one or two additional staff members.

At Towers, west of the city limits, manager Frank Strelenky says he has hired about a dozen persons as Christmas part-time help, "basically the same number of people as before in previous years".

Regular part-time staff get additional hours, Mr. Strelenky added. "It's only fair to them that they get the hours first."

Belleville Manpower manager Jim White says his offices are seldom used for retail staff selection at Christmas, because employers normally call in their regular part-time staff to fill in extra hours.

"In smaller areas," he says "Stores do carry a fairly substantial number of part-timers."

Manpower assistant manager Hans Fraser says that every commercial outlet uses the part-time staff that works in the store during the rest of the year at Christmas.

He says there is no "great sudden increase in hiring" at Christmas.

Marmora and Lakes Council Approves Multi-phase Recreation Project

MARMORA — Marmora and Lake Townships council recently gave its approval to a draft plan for future development of the Shawano recreation area in Lake Township as presented by John and Don Bowes of Hodgkins Inc. of Peterborough. Council, however, added the stipulation that the approval is subject to the approval of the Hastings County Planning Board.

Using maps of the area, John Bowes reviewed the draft plan which has been scaled down to 575 condominium units from the original plan of 1,400 units. Instead of a large commercial area with a hotel, the company now plans to build only essential services, Mr. Bowes said. The company began the Shawano project six years ago.

All but 20 of the original 250 single family cottage lots in Phase 1 of the development have been built on.

The latest plan calls for clusters of condominium units away from water frontage. Mr. Bowes said 905 acres out of 1,520 the company owns would be left for green space.

Band Plans Concert

TRENTON — The 11th annual Christmas concert of the Trenton Citizen's Band will be held Thursday, Dec. 18, 8 p.m. at Trenton High School.

The band under the direction of Ted Snider, will present a program of music and singing for the whole family.

"We try to present a light-hearted concert which is an opportunity for the entire community to be part of and enjoy the wonderful Christmas music, said Mr. Snider.

One Hurt In Crash

MARMORA — A Marmora area woman is in Belleville hospital today in satisfactory condition after a three-car collision that caused over $2,500 damage just east of here on Highway 7 Tuesday.

Madoc provincial police say the Dunham vehicle was westbound on Highway 7 when it was in collision with two eastbound vehicles one driven by Donald Bruce Walton, 37, of RR 3 Marmora and the other by James Carmel Cassalman 26, of RR 2 Marmora.

Car Dealer Robbed

PICTON — Twas police today are investigating a break-in at Grindrod Motor Sales Ltd. that netted a thief or thieves approximately $400 in cash.

Picton Police Chief Charles Fletcher said the service station was entered between closing time Tuesday and opening time today. Entry was gained when a window was broken and a lock opened.

District at a Glance

Grosbeaks Join County

PICTON — Prince Edward County is being invaded this winter by grayish, robin-sized birds. Birdwatchers say they are pine grosbeaks which are normally northern in distribution.

Tag Receipts Decline

MARMORA — Ray Brown of Deseronto has reported dog tag collections amounting to $705.50 for Marmora Township in 1975. The Township's council noted that $880.50 was collected last year.

Office Closes for Holidays

MARMORA — The Marmora and Lake Townships offices will be closed from 4:30 p.m. on Dec. 24 until 9:00 a.m. Jan. 6.

Animal Bylaw Passes

MARMORA — Third reading has been given by Marmora and Lake Townships Council to a bylaw which prohibits the running at large or trespassing of all animals, except dogs, and provides a penalty of not more than $50.

Council said recently that few, if any, people would be visiting the office to pay taxes during that time.

Cox Still Wants Four-way Stop

City councillor Joe Cox says he has had "numerous" complaints about hazards at the Victoria — Herchimer avenues intersection.

The spot has been a source of recurring complaints from area residents — which usually are mentioned at traffic committee meetings.

Last week, the committee was told traffic at the intersection does not justify provincial government spending standards.

Ald. Cox wanted the committee to examine the situation and bring in a recommendation — or reasons — for a four-way stop.

Ald. Ireland, committee chairman, replied such a stop signal would be a hazard to pedestrians, and with traffic not meeting provincial standards there would be no subsidies.

Goodrich Remanded On Theft Charges

Terry Arnold Goodrich, 21, of RR 3, Brighton was remanded by Judge Russell C. Haney in Hastings County Court here this week to Feb. 9 for trial by judge alone on charges of robbery and attempted robbery.

Trenton police say the charges were laid following an investigation into two incidents in Trenton on Oct. 30, 1974.

Police say two men threatened J. A. Walker, owner of Walker Food Variety and West at 186 West Dundas St. in Trenton with a knife but were forced to flee when Walker also displayed a knife.

Less than 30 minutes later, two men escaped with more than $140 from Birt's Handy Stand at 118 Byron St. in Trenton where three employees were threatened at knifepoint, police say.

New Chamber President Outlines 1976 Goals

By CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

Making the public more aware of what the Belleville Chamber of Commerce is doing is one of the top priorities of the group's newly elected president.

"There are lots of things the Chamber is doing that the public is not aware of," said Keith Allison, president of Shopette Stores Ltd., elected recently to replace George Thompson of Bell Canada in the president's chair.

Mr. Allison says the board of directors plans to ask city council to proclaim a Chamber of Commerce week for sometime next year.

One of the Chamber's newest projects is to regularly survey opinions of its approximately 400 members. Surveys, says Mr. Allison, will be done by mail.

The first survey of members will concern the proposed Belleville minimum building standards bylaw. It will be taken in January.

"Unless I ask the members how they feel how can I develop a Chamber stand on the issue," says Mr. Allison, a member of the board of directors for two years.

Another top priority will be launching of a boost Belleville campaign.

"I'd like to see a lot of thought go into it," he says.

The purpose of the campaign to include promotion of a city slogan, as yet to be determined, will be "to make people more aware of us and to give the people in Belleville more feeling for their city".

Revitalizing the downtown area and promoting shopping in Belleville will be another priority, says Mr. Allison.

"A lot of people shop out of town. We'd like to find out why and from the feedback improve upon our operations," says the new president.

Another major goal of the Chamber this year is to promote the free enterprise system in the schools.

"Free enterprise and democracy go hand-hand," says Mr. Allison.

He adds there is so much misunderstanding in the education system concerning business. The Chamber wants students to get first hand information from Chamber members.

Boost Belleville

Union Disciplinary Action Still Undecided for 11 Workers

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

Eleven inside postal workers who returned to work in Belleville and Brighton during the recent strike by the Canadian Union of Postal Workers will be disciplined sometime early next year, Walter Yateman, local CUPW president, said Tuesday.

But what the nature of that discipline will be is still unknown.

Mr. Yateman said the union's local executive — which has jurisdiction over 51 workers in the two centres — has not yet met to establish penalties.

Workers — five in Belleville and six in Brighton — have been suspended from union activities, although they continue to pay membership dues.

Union charges now are pending against them for working, "contrary to the purpose of the union during a strike", said Mr. Yateman.

All six CUPW members in Brighton returned to work during the course of the seven-week nationwide strike.

In Belleville, five persons returned to work crossing union picket lines over a week's time in mid-November.

Trenton's 12 workers also returned to work, but Mr. Yateman said Tuesday, any disciplinary action to be taken there will come from the CUPW national office.

"We don't have the right to try them," he said.

Workers falling under the Belleville-Brighton local's jurisdiction will be tried before a three-member union board which will decide penalties, set by the local executive, are to be imposed.

Mr. Yateman said he did not expect the local board to meet until the new year.

"But I don't think we'll be as drastic (in penalizing workers) as they are in Ottawa," he said.

The Ottawa local has suspended 196 postal workers until they pay the CUPW local money they earned after crossing union picket lines during the strike.

While under suspension, they cannot attend union meetings or vote on union business.

However, according to Mr. Yateman, they still are represented by the union in any grievance procedure with post office management.

Funding Key Problem

BGH Teaching Plan Delayed

By CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

Provincial medical education schemes are contradictory says Belleville General Hospital's retiring medical director, Dr. Reginald Anderson told members of the Belleville Rotary club Tuesday.

The ministry of health says community hospitals will be used as teaching hospitals and they can't have another dime.

Dr. Reginald Anderson retires at the end of this month.

Financial restraints have already delayed BGH from accepting doctors for post-graduate study in the hospital, he said. A director was to be appointed to the new program in January and it was to be underway by mid-1976. Dr. Anderson said the program, making BGH an extension of Queen's University medical school, will not be under way until mid-1977.

He disputed claims medical services or patient's rights would be affected by the hospital becoming a teaching facility.

Students trained under the program would already be licensed physicians, he said adding government quotas would require that half the students be trained as general practice specialists.

"The quality of medical services in the community is bound to improve if BGH becomes a teaching centre," said Dr. Anderson.

He said peer pressure" would force all doctors, even those not involved in teaching, to increase their learning efforts to keep up.

He said the junior medical students have been taught at the school in the past and some medical staff members are opposed to turning BGH into a teaching hospital but, said Dr. Anderson "Co-operation and participation of the majority of medical staff has been exemplary."

He said most staff members opposed to the proposal are not in favor of it due to the years they spent in teaching hospitals during their own training.

Patients, said Dr. Anderson, confirmed this week it will not renew the five-year lease for the price project at the corner of Bleecker and Pinnacle streets.

"If the patient wishes not to be used for teaching purposes he only need say so."

"Most patients enjoy the role they can play in helping young doctors," said Dr. Anderson

Situations in large teaching hospitals where beds are allocated to patients according to teaching needs "are not likely to be seen here," he said.

Training specialists takes two to three years following medical school graduation. Training family physician specialists at BGH would include training in the hospital, training in offices of family physicians throughout the area and training in a family physician centre to be established if the Edith Cavell building, the former nursing building on BGH property.

Potter Suggests BGH Buy Self-care Unit

A suggestion by Dr. Richard Potter, former Quinte MPP and health minister that Belleville General Hospital use Sills estate funds to purchase the Queen's Motel for the continuation of a self-care program was ruled out today by BGH board of governors chairman Carl Paterson.

Dr. Richard Potter today asked why money from the Sills estate could not be used to purchase the building.

"They (board of governors) can't use the money in the estate for anything but a convalescent home."

Mr. Bateman, however, said today his board has already considered the use of Sills money and rejected the idea on three points.

"The price asked for the motel was far in excess of money allocated in the estate for a convalescent home; the motel is too large . . . and finally we have to put the Edith Cavell building to good use," said Mr. Bateman.

The hospital board now is formulating an application to the ministry of health to create a smaller self-care facility in the 25th Concession building which is currently being used to some extent as a residence for Loyalist College nursing students.

Dr. Potter suggested that costs would be high if the board of governors hopes to renovate the former nursing school to turn it into a self-care unit.

"Naturally, I hate to see this thing closed out," said Dr. Potter. "There's no question about the concept being a good one."

Last week, the provincial government announced it will not renew its lease with the motel and that the present lease would be allowed to expire at the end of 1976.

Two Hurt In Crash

A Plainfield woman and her son were treated and released from Belleville General Hospital for bruises suffered in a one-car accident early Tuesday on the 20th sideroad near the 8th Concession of Thurlow Township.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville say Sara Tyla, 21, of RR 1, Plainfield and her three-year-old son, Sean, were transported to hospital by a passing motorist.

Police said a 1969-model Chevrolet was southbound when it failed to negotiate a curve, entered a ditch and overturned.

Constable Terry Lewis estimated $1,200 damage to the car in the 10:45 a.m. mishap.

Bay Ice Still Unsafe

Belleville Police Chief Douglas Crosbie today warned residents to stay off thin ice on Bay of Quinte.

"The ice is definitely not safe, particularly in light of the mild spell of a few days ago," said Chief Crosbie.

Skaters and snowmobilers should stay off ice for a week later in the season, Even then they should exercise caution, he said.

"There are spots in the Bay where the current runs that are never safe."

Self-care Facilities Good Idea: Director

Self-care unit beds may be the answer to the growing need for hospital beds during government austerity programs, Belleville General Hospital (BGH) medical director said Tuesday.

"I wouldn't be a bit surprised to see more hospital beds in the future with self-care units," said Dr. Reginald Anderson.

Erecting the 70-bed Queen's Self-Care Unit with a 40-bed unit in the Edith Cavell building, the former nursing school on BGH property, has been proposed by BGH officials. The province

Separate School Board Gets Tough on Vandals

In an effort to end vandalism the Hastings-Prince Edward County Separate School Board will ask Belleville city police to enforce the province's Petty Trespass Act and lay charges against people who shoulder no trespass signs.

Director of education E.J. Neville told trustees Tuesday night the vandalism problem has been on the increase during the last two years. He said three local youths were apprehended last month while trying to break and enter Holy Rosary School.

The board decided to ask city police to be the board's agent in laying charges against trespassers on designated separate school property.

Under the petty trespass act anyone who wishes a complaint to enforce trespassing rules on private property, by acting as agents for the board city police can patrol and lay charges against trespassers on separate school property.

Trespassing is not a criminal offence.

Mr. Neville said the board's sole purpose in taking this step is to curb vandalism at the school's and eliminate financial losses to the board.

Mr. Neville said the board would post no trespassing signs on certain school properties

Rape Suspect In Court

MADOC — Provincial court Judge R. C. Jackson committed William Marshal Jones, 22, of Madoc to trial by a judge and jury on a charge of rape Tuesday.

Jones, of 94 Rose St., was charged with the rape of a 19-year-old girl by provincial police after a "violent incident" outside about six miles north of Madoc.

Bail for Jones for trial has been set.

The Last Phase

Trees come down along East Dundas St. as final phase of reconstruction . . . from Bleecker Ave. to Pinnacle St. gets under way. But detour signs have caused some confusion among motorists, say city hall officials although directions specifically exclude only through traffic. All local traffic still has access to work zone.

Dundas Detour Causing Some Driver Confusion

Detours for through traffic around the East Dundas St. reconstruction project went into effect Tuesday — and caused some drivers confusion, say city hall officials.

The rerouting involves only motorists who are using Dundas as a through street — that is, those not stopping in the construction zone, which is part of the Highway 2 link through the city.

But local traffic — including those visiting friends or businesses in the sector — is not affected, city manager Wilbur Purcell emphasized Tuesday.

The work zone — from Pinnacle to Bleecker — is posted accordingly, but some motorists have mistaken the signs to mean all traffic must detour, he said.

"We fully intend, as far as humanly possible, to maintain access to all properties on that stretch of Dundas," said Mr. Purcell.

The standard detour signs went up as contract workers began felling trees in preparation for installation of storm sewers — the first of a two-part reconstruction program on the last stretch of the highway link to be upgraded.

Contract bids for the roadwork will be called later with construction starting after the sewer mains are in.

The through-traffic detour routes:

Westbound — Down Herchimer Ave. to East Bridge and back to Dundas via Coleman St.

Eastbound — Through Pinnacle St. to East Bridge and back to Dundas by way of MacDonald Ave.

Toboggan Hill In Good Shape

The toboggan hill at East Zwick's park is in even better shape for recreation this year, parks director Lloyd Syer said.

It told the parks board and recreation — arena committee Tuesday work on the new hill during the summer involved stump removal which will improve surface conditions.

Trash Along Roadside Worries Townships

BRIGHTON — Garbage along township roads is becoming a major problem in Brighton and Murray townships since a joint dump was opened earlier this month, it was learned Tuesday.

Smaller dumps in the two townships were recently closed and a new landfill site opened north of the village of Brighton.

George Murray, a spokesman for the firm contracted to manage the dump, said the problem is getting out of hand.

People are coming to the landfill on weekends, are finding it closed, and are throwing garbage alongside the dump access road, he said.

Provincial police say they will charge anyone found littering and have already issued several warnings.

There are also township bylaws under which residents may be charged.

Bancroft Gets Housing Grant

Bancroft is to receive an Ontario Home Renewal Program (OHRP) grant for $34,100 from the province's housing ministry.

The cheque will arrive "in about three weeks," says Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings-Frontenac-Lennox.

OHRP is designed to upgrade present housing.

City, Lions Discuss Project

One suggestion is that the Lions develop a children's activity centre in the park.

Ald. Paul Russell, board chairman, said Tuesday meetings with club representatives showed them "very interested" in such a project.

He told the board the club might spend up to $20,000 if it approves the project.

In total, he estimated such a project would cost $50,000 or more.

Toys Galore

Wrong Way on 401, Driver Charged by OPP

A Belleville man has been charged with dangerous driving after a car going in the wrong direction on Highway 401 was chased by police about 2:30 a.m. this morning.

Belleville OPP Constable Fred Fry began the chase after seeing a vehicle leave the Sen Valley Motor Inn and proceed eastbound in the westbound lane of Highway 401.

The cruiser was attempting to stop him before he (the driver) got killed," Corp. Doug Rutledge said today.

"Two tractor-trailers almost collided with the vehicle," said Corp. Rutledge. They were passing each other at the time and had to make way for the vehicle travelling in the wrong direction.

Put Cycle Path on Bridge Urges Wills

Motor vehicles aren't the only mode of transportation for which a new Bay Bridge crossing should be designed, says a Belleville businessman.

Bicycles should also be considered, says William Wills.

Mr. Wells said Tuesday he's writing a letter to that effect to Transportation and Communications Minister James Snow.

What he has in mind is a separate lane or lanes built to be incorporated into the design of the new Highway 14 bridge across the Bay of Quinte area's recreation and scenic spots.

But it's inevitable the machine will eventually become recreation use, he said.

For one thing, the automobile is "pricing itself out of favor" except where it's a straight necessity.

There'll come a time when bicycles will be used to travel short hauls — say up to 30 miles said Mr. Wills.

There is a growing need for setting aside areas specifically designed for bicycling, said Mr. Wills.

More people, he said, would ride bicycles on highways and city streets if it wasn't for heavy traffic.

"In time . . . this problem can be solved by providing separate paths" along traffic routes.

"However, when a new, permanent facility like a bridge is constructed special requirements like bicycle paths must be considered at the same time or be lost forever," says Mr. Wills.

Sharing Their Wealth

Cubs from the 11th Belleville Pack Tuesday drop toys into a box for Belleville firemen Stanley Ueno, a co-ordinator of the fire department's Christmas toy-sharing program. Enclosing the fireman (from fireground left) are Geoff McKnight, 8, Todd Bennett, 8, Robert Pagey, 10, John Summers, 9, Richard Jefferson, 8, and Peter Jeffs, 10.

Agriculture Outlook Bleak in 1976

OTTAWA (CP) — No news might have been good news at the 1976 agriculture outlook conference. As it was, all the news was bad.

Consumers were told Monday they could expect retail food prices to increase by up to 15 per cent next year. Farmers were told Tuesday their net income can be expected to plummet by 26 per cent.

The two-day conference, which attracted about 450 delegates from the agriculture industry, governments and universities across the country, held annually to give the industry a look at prospects for the coming year.

Thomas Bolton of Toronto, president of Dominion Stores Ltd., which has about 420 branches, was the one who said a 10-to-15-per-cent increase in food prices in 1976 "seems to be a pretty good guess."

One of the main reasons was that stores already are locked into contracts that contain cost-of-living clauses. As well, a 60-day freeze by some store chains on most commodities expires in mid-January.

"When the freeze ends, our rising costs will have to be passed on to the consumers," he said.

Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan did nothing to assuage anyone's fears in his opening speech by quoting experts as saying the world has enough food in storage to last 32 days.

"We are at a cliff-edge and everyone is nervous," he said. "Never have there been so many people so anxious to know what will happen in the next few years regarding food production."

The prediction that net farm incomes would plunge by 26 per cent next year was the work of Statistics Canada and was offered to the conference by agency economist Barry Pyond. But Mr. Whelan, in his closing speech, noted that the last agriculture outlook conference heard a prediction that farm incomes would drop by 17 per cent this year. Incomes actually rose.

"We can only hope that the crystal ball is wrong twice in a row," Mr. Whelan said.

Mr. Pyond said that although 1975 was the fifth consecutive year in which an increase in net farm incomes was reported, "1976 will be a year of downturn."

Recording Found

NEW YORK (AP) — A previously unknown recording of 17 privately taped songs of faith including traditional hymns, spirituals and a rock prayer composed by bass-baritone singer Norman Treigle, who died last February, is being sold by the Norman Treigle Memorial Fund. All proceeds will go to the fund's scholarship program for vocal students.

Refuse to Pay

PETERBOROUGH, England (CP) — Volunteers are checking how much water is boiled for tea or flushed in the loos at Werrington village hall near here. Villagers are refusing to pay a £57 bill from the water authority which says 750 gallons a day are used at the hall.

Only Future Will Show Merit Of Mid-east Shuttle Diplomacy

By JOHN HAY
Canadian Press

The shifting sands of Middle East politics in 1976 can determine whether the 1975 success of shuttle diplomacy, was real or just a mirage.

Bargaining through the mediation of the jet-propelled United States secretary of state, Henry Kissinger, Israel and Egypt agreed last summer on a further separation of their forces in the Sinai. U.S. civilians are to monitor the peace agreement.

More important, the two former combatants agreed that conflicts between them "shall not be resolved by military force but by peaceful means."

On the surface, they have promised never to fight each other again. But no treaty alone can prevent a war if one side is bent on fighting, and the treaty was quickly attacked by more belligerent Arab countries opposed to the very existence of the Israeli state.

In the coming year, the success of that treaty and prospects for a more limited truce between Israel and Syria rest on an old issue that has assumed paramount importance: the fate of the Palestinians.

The Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) will score another diplomatic point in January when it participates in a United Nations Security Council debate on the Middle East.

Its presence at the UN will bolster the claim of its leader, Yasser Arafat, to be the legitimate and authoritative voice of the Palestinians living throughout the region.

This claim has always been disputed by Israel and the United States. The PLO so far has denied the right of Israel to exist. Because of that, and because of PLO terrorist actions, Israel has refused to negotiate with Arafat's group.

But there are some signs of changes ahead.

The PLO recently has sometimes seemed to be on the verge of at least tacit recognition of Israel.

A joint communique issued when Arafat visited Moscow in November referred to establishment of a Palestinian state "according to United Nations resolutions." That has been taken by some to mean acceptance of Israel's existence.

Leading figures in Israel itself have begun to question their government's continued refusal to talk to Arafat. Among them are former foreign minister Abba Eban and the present information minister, Gen. Aharon Yariv.

What last year seemed improbable, therefore, now looks at least possible: a Geneva conference on the Middle East that would include both the PLO and Israel.

The plight of the Palestinian refugees, however, continues to poison relations within the Middle East and beyond.

Lives are lost every month as terrorists and Israeli forces exchange assaults across the Lebanese border.

In Lebanon itself, the presence of thousands of refugees has helped inflame the war between Moslems and Christians.

Syria has used the issue as a lever at the UN—making PLO participation in the Security Council debate a condition of continued UN presence on the Golan Heights between Israeli and Syrian armies.

Even in Canada, the prospect of PLO participation in a UN crime conference in Toronto led the government to withdraw its invitation. The meeting was held without incident in Geneva.

While the diplomatic fuss over the Palestinians, Canadians still are patrolling the truce lines in Sinai and the Golan as part of the UN peacekeeping missions.

GIVEN VOTING RIGHTS

Mexican women were given the right to vote in a presidential election for the first time in 1958.

U.S. Foreign Policy Takes Subtle Change

WASHINGTON (CP) — Thousands of pitiful, destitute refugees clinging to ships and helicopters as they fled Vietnam and Cambodia marked the final collapse of more than 20 years of United States involvement in Indochina in 1975.

There was a minimum of mourning and, despite warnings at home and serious concern abroad, there were few concrete signs that the tragedy would lead to greater U.S. isolationism.

It seemed clear, however, that the style and substance of American foreign policy began a radical if subtle transformation in the post-Vietnam period which may take years to emerge clearly.

For the refugees, nearly 100,000 of them, the Communist takeover in Vietnam and Cambodia brought a drastic change in their way of life.

Almost overnight, they were shifted from the bustle and clamor of Saigon and Phnom Penh or from rural rice fields and farms to a culture so alien that for many it seemed to defy comprehension.

About 1,000 of them found the prospect too daunting and were granted permission to return to an uncertain future in Vietnam.

For virtually all the others, American sponsors had been found by the close of 1975 and the major refugee camps were closing.

There seemed no clear pattern of adjustment among the refugees and for the majority the future seemed to dictate a long, slow grind to become familiar with the American philosophy.

The new pattern of foreign policy was hard to discern as Vietnam receded in the public consciousness.

Historian Arthur Schlesinger described it as "groping after humane alternatives to brute force in the painful realization that might is not always right."

Many seemed to agree with him. Former state secretary Dean Rusk commented: "What we are seeing is a return to a kind of diplomacy which existed before the two great wars of this century—perhaps a retreat to realism but not a retreat to isolationism."

The new style appears to concentrate on creating a stable power balance among Russia and Communist East Europe, China, Japan, North America and Western Europe.

The long and damaging war in Vietnam seems to have injected a novel ingredient into the process and nowhere was this more evident than in the bloody civil war in the African country of Angola.

Cuban troops sponsored by Russia are directly supporting a pro-Moscow movement fighting for control of Angola while China, South Africa, the U.S. and others back rival factions.

But Washington has avoided active interference and gives every indication of having abandoned its pre-war policy of fighting Communist advances wherever they appeared.

"It is a more subtle, indirect approach," says Schlesinger. "The Soviets are a world power with world interests and to pursue these. Particularly in an economic sense, they need an accommodation with the United States. We're no longer interested in fighting local wars. There is a greater awareness that these can be minimized by concentrating on global politics."

Retirement Does Not Mark Incompetence

OTTAWA (CP) — "Brainwashed" is the word Walker Turnbull uses to describe people who believe that age 65 marks the end of competence and the beginning of incompetence for human beings.

Mr. Turnbull, president of the Ottawa Senior Citizen Council, told seniors at a conference recently to get up from their easy chairs and wrestle with life.

"In spite of the fact that we know we have the ability to contribute much to our world, we listen to younger people tell us we should do this and not that until we get pushed out of our life's work at an age when we are just beginning to flex our wisdom muscles," he said.

"What is worse, after a while we start believing the fallacy that we really aren't competent, and sit around waiting for someone to coddle us."

Some senior citizens do need coddling, however, but not in the slang sense of the term.

Dr. S. E. Goldstein told the conference that the elderly do not get a fair share of health care, especially for the most common psychosomatic illnesses of their age group—loneliness and depression.

While physical ills are well cared for, emotional troubles, which sometimes cause those physical ills in the first place, are neglected.

His own predicament was proof. Dr. Goldstein is the gerontologist specializing in the psychologic and psychiatric problems of the elderly in the Ottawa region, where about 60,000 people over age 65.

"We have to change our stereotyped picture of old people," he said, referring to the myths of inevitable senility and memory loss connected with old age.

"These people are not crazy. They have a right to a psychiatrist's services as well as anyone else," he said.

Dr. Goldstein said the average stay of a senior citizen in his occupational-therapy program at the Royal Ottawa Hospital is a month but often after one visit to a psychiatrist, the patient's symptoms decrease.

Often the therapy is aimed at people who have lost their interest in life and need to get involved in the business of living again.

Illnesses brought on by depression can be cumulative completely in the majority of cases if the victim seeks help from professionals, he said.

Tablet Unveiled

LONDON (CP) — A memorial tablet to poet Gerard Manley Hopkins, a Jesuit priest who died in 1889 at age 44, will be unveiled at Westminster Abbey. It marks the first time a Roman Catholic poet has been commemorated at the Anglican place of worship since the placing of a memorial to Dryden, who died in 1700.

Quality is Low

LONDON (CP) — Judges for the annual Commonwealth poetry prize of $250 announced recently that no award will be made for 1975. They said the quality of the small number of entries was low. Previous winners included George McWhirter of Canada.

Mousetrap Plays On

LONDON (CP) — Agatha Christie's mystery play The Mousetrap, seen by 3.75 million people since it opened Nov. 25, 1952, recently celebrated its 23rd birthday. Miss Christie made her grandson wealthy when she made him a gift of all royalties at the time the play first opened. The theatre says it has advanced bookings until 1977.

Ministry Officials to Visit This Week

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

Vera Heimbach, chairman of the Quinte Information and Assistance Centre, says the suspects three consumer and corporate affairs ministry officials expected in Belleville this week will tell the centre what role it might take in channelling information to the federal anti-inflation board.

The chairman said early this week "We're going to come into it somehow but we don't know to what extent yet."

The visit, she said she believes is partly to acquaint the centre with methods for information referral. It will give the officials some first-hand knowledge of centre operations.

But just how active a role the centre will take in the anti-inflation board monitoring process is not known, said Mrs. Heimbach.

Reasons behind the visit are not fully understood, she said.

If the centre is asked to act as a information referral centre, such a request will have to go before the centre board of directors for approval, she said.

Last week, the board refused a request from its staff that the centre act as a clearing house for public complaints over wage and price increases.

Any request this week during the visit, said the chairman, will have to go before the board for a decision.

"We'll be asking them (ministry officials) how the individual gets information to the board," said Mrs. Heimbach, adding that procedures now are not clear.

That was one reason sited in the centre board's refusal to act as a complaint clearing house.

Court Date Set

Leland Herbert Diamond, 21, of no fixed address and a former Belleville area resident, will appear in provincial court here Dec. 23 for the first time on a charge of break, enter and theft.

Diamond was ordered detained at the Quinte Regional Detention Centre at Napanee during a bail hearing in provincial court here Monday.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville say the charge resulted from an incident at Cook Motors in Shannonville early Sunday during which about $100 in cash and a quantity of cigarettes were stolen.

Now you can shop for your lights where the people who lit the CN Tower shopped for theirs.

Ruddy Electric has always been different. We specialize in hard-to-find lighting designs. Like our award-winning lamps and chandeliers. Why? Well, we started out as a wholesaler. And we dedicated ourselves to pleasing the very, very, demanding tastes of Ontario's leading builders, architects, industrial designers and interior decorators.

Modern and traditional chandeliers $63.00-$1476.00

20 YEARS EXPERIENCE WITH THE PROS.

Actually we've had over 22 years experience answering the most demanding questions about lighting requirements—about taste. Decor. Function. Colour combinations. And wiring. Now, these artists of taste are just like you. Very grateful when their exacting demands are met. But often, they're very secretive about their sources. So we decided to let you in on their secret.

4 PROFESSIONAL LIGHTING SHOPS.

That's why we now have 4 professional lighting shops. Located where rents are low. After all, we know you're not interested in helping us pay for fancy locations. But you do want to find the one, particular lighting design that fits your home best. And just as important, you're willing to go quite a way to find it, and to get expert answers to your questions about colour. Period combinations. High fashion. And so on. Answers which our people have. Probably better ones than anybody else.

Tiffany Lamps $74.25-$799.95

The CN Tower Ltd. 1975. The tallest free standing structure in the world. Some of the lighting was supplied by Ruddy Electric.

LOOK WHO FOUND US IN BELLEVILLE.

But don't take our word for it. Talk to the people of the new Century Place at Front & Bridge St. We supplied the Quinte Mall with hard-to-find lighting designs. We did the same for the new Miracle Food Mart store.

Ask custom home builder Reg Breault, or Paul Bernard of Bernard Interiors about us. Or the people who bought 50 of the finest custom homes in this area during the last 12 months. (Of course, you may have some difficulty at first getting them to reveal our name.) As we said before, some artists are very secretive about their sources.) Ruddy Electric in Toronto even supplied some lighting for the CN Tower and the revolutionary new solar energy heated Ontario Hydro Building.

Brass Lamps $45.95-$215.00

TASTE MAKERS OF BELLEVILLE UNITE.

We suggest you join the search. First, visit the most convenient lighting store in your neighborhood. Or your nearest department store. Then gather up all your courage. And try to find one of our shops. (We've included some easy clues below). And, once you see our unusual selection of award-winning traditional or modern designs—you'll agree it was worth the effort.

WITH WINGS AS EAGLES: The Story of Soaring.
By D.A. Halsey.

Soaring is a growing international sport, with thousands of new enthusiasts taking to the air each year in planes capable of speeds of a hundred miles an hour, and distances of 500 miles. Mr. Halsey describes the fundamentals of soaring, the sailplanes themselves and the feeling he gets when flying along the crags of a windy ridge or passing a wheeling hawk. He touches on the beginning of the sport and gives a list of schools, organizations and publications.

MONEY: WHENCE IT CAME, WHERE IT WENT.
By John Kenneth Galbraith.

One of the foremost economists today has given us a history of money — and the lessons which can be learned from that history. It is a sweeping and comprehensive look at the use of coins and paper money and the way banks and governments have sought to use monetary policy to cure whatever economic ills were in evidence at a given time. Professor Galbraith says "From history we can see how money and techniques for it's management and mismanagement were evolved and how they now serve or fail to serve." This is a readable and sometimes fascinating book.

BOXING: A PICTORIAL
By Harry Carpenter.

Boxing as we know it today began in 1743 when Jock Broughton drew up the first humane rules. It was the era of bareknuckle champions and marathon fights which lasted for hours. Later the Queensbury rules modified the sport, and in 1867 the first heavyweight championship took place with gloves. Harry Carpenter, boxing commentator for B.B.C. Television since 1962, relates the story of the sport in the twentieth century in detail decade by decade. All the great fights are here and the great fighters, from Jack Dempsey and Joe Louis to Muhammad Ali. With photographs on every page, this is a book for all enthusiasts.

ONE DAY AT KITTY HAWK: The Untold Story of the Wright Brothers and the Airplane.
By John Evangelist Walsh.

Orville and Wilbur Wright have been presented over the years as equal partners in the development of powered flight. John Walsh has sifted through the original documents and it is his conjection that Wilbur was the true genius and Orville very much the junior partner. Wilbur died in 1912 and Orville, who lived until 1948, was able to control the archives and thus present a distorted view. In "One Day at Kitty Hawk" the author has created a step-by-step account of the aeroplanes development and feeling. He reveals Wilbur Wright as a brilliant man who planned and supervised the long series of dangerous glider experiments which preceded the famous pioneer flight in 1903.

FELTON AND FOWLER'S BEST, WORST AND MOST UNUSUAL.
By Bryce Felton and Mark Fowler.

This is a light-hearted collection of the best, worst, and most unusual aspects of anything and everything. Some of the judgements are the compiler's own, some are from other sources; the largest portion pertains to the United States. For example, the most unusual plaster is one containing millions of grasshoppers forced to land during a snowstorm; the best light bulb has been in use for thirty years.

Saints Stung by Rebounding

Unsung Starter Carries Nicks' Tune to CSS

DAN KRASZEWSKI

Centennial Secondary School appeared to have something going for them Tuesday night in opening game of the Senior A Basketball Doubleheader at Quinte. The Chargers were down by a mere six points, 29-23, to the powerful Nicholson Catholic College Nicks at half time.

However, the Nicks weren't long in asserting their dominance in the second half and by the end of the game had walloped the Chargers 72-29.

In the other contest, Belleville Collegiate edged the home Saints 31-47.

Nicholson demonstrated their awesome balance of strength in Tuesday's encounter. Charger coach, Pat Carty, specifically defended against NCC's six-foot-seven centre Dale Wilson. Though he scored 17 points, his check, Curtis Crawford kept Wilson from even keel scoring 15 points and hauling down 13 rebounds.

When the Nicks found their big man under the boards, being kept in check and tight reins on six-three gunner Jeff Boyle — he was limited to 14 points — they began dumping the ball off to five-foot eleven Danny Drasszewski, The shortest of the Nicholson starters. Drasszewski appears an unlikely threat, but he made his presence known hitting for 19 points.

BCI 51, QSS 47

Quinte Saints, without the services of their top rebounder, Al Rutherford, have been plodding along hoping for the best so far this season. Tuesday BCI controlled the boards and finished with a four point margin of victory.

Forward Brian Bell, a strong outside shooter, keyed the Collegians attack with 18 points. Centre Gord Wright added 14 and guard Mike Kirby had 13.

Steve Jones was tops for the Saints with 10 points and Steve McCracken and Rick Collins had nine apiece. Brian Hamilton was seven with eight.

Rutherford, who was suspended from participating against any Bay of Quinte Secondary Schools after a football altercation, will be back in the Quinte for lineup in the new year. His suspension lasted only for the remainder of 1975.

BOBBY CRAWFORD

Lions Hotter Than Ever

Belleville Lions Midgets, sparked by the two goal effort of Bobby Crawford, rolled to their eighth win of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association regular season Tuesday night, edging Kingston Township Centre 7b's 6-5.

The victory gave the local squad an 8-5-1 record on the year, their best ever since advancing to the AAA OMHA calibre.

Howie Coons, Bob Bunton, each scored singles in helping the home team to the win.

The Lions play a home and away series with Peterborough this weekend. Saturday the Petes are at the Memorial Arena at 7 p.m.

Oldtimers Sharpen Skills To Mark Arena Opening

MARMORA — Saturday at 8 p.m., Hastings-Peterborough MPP Charles Rollins will push a button to illuminate Marmora's newly renovated arena.

On hand for the event will be a number of invited guests, two hockey teams, the Ottawa Old Stars and Marmora-Trent Valley Oldtimers, and local residents.

The official re-opening marks the culmination of two years' work, a year and a half of which was spent re-scaling, ing all possibilities before a decision was reached in May of this year to repair the original arena at a cost of $90,000 rather than build a new one at an estimated cost of $400,000.

The committee which made the final decision was composed of two representatives from each of the three local municipal councils, Marmora and Deloro Villages and Marmora and Lake Township Council, for Gordon Bennett of Marmora Village was appointed chairman of that committee. With the help of Mr. Rollins the committee was successful in obtaining substantial grants from the provincial government and the three municipalities pledged the remainder. The actual work got under way in August.

Saturday's official ceremony is being held in conjunction with a hockey game between Ottawa Old Stars and Marmora-Trent Valley Oldtimers. All proceeds from the evening will go towards the expense of the local team attending the National Oldtimers Hockey Tournament in Lethbridge, Alta. in February.

The program will start at 7.30 p.m. with a demonstration by the Madoc Skating Club, followed by a warm-up of the two teams. Official ceremonies will then take place, after which the members of both teams will be introduced and a presentation of new sweaters and a cheque made to the home team by Keith Brown of Peterborough.

In addition to Mr. Rollins and his wife, Hastings MP Jack Ellis and Mrs. Ellis, Warden Bill McCrae of Hastings County and Mrs. McCrae, and Reeve James Pollock of nearby Rawdon Township and Mrs. Pollock are expected to be guests.

The guest list also includes George Wright, president of Superintendent of Marmorator Mining Company, and Mrs. Wright; Bill Jones, President of Local 4854, United Steelworkers of America, and Mrs. Jones; Paul Frapper, President of Branch 227 Canadian Legion, and Mrs. Frapper; Ken Gilpin, president of the Marmora Curling Club and Mrs. Gilpine; Leonard Bickell, president of Minor Hockey, and Mrs. Bickell. James, (Scotty) Cook, past president of Minor Hockey, and past chairman of Marmora Recreation Committee, and Mrs. Cook; Garnet Brownson, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the Marmora Arena Reconstruction Committee, and Mrs. Brownson and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Brown of Peterborough.

Tiber Pal, the design engineer, and Frank Burchard of the Panther Engineering Company in Kingston who carried out the renovation project, have also been invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Phillips of Marmora have received a special invitation in order that a plaque in memory of their son Larry may be presented by minor hockey.

The Ottawa Old Stars, who have been billed as the oldest hockey team on earth, will then take on the Marmora-Trent Valley Oldtimers in what is expected to be a crowd pleasing game of hockey.

The Dr. Hamilton Crawford Arena, as it is properly called, was named in memory of a general practitioner who served the people of Marmora for almost 36 years. It was built at a cost of $28,000 by the C. H. Maynard Company of Markham and the official opening was held on October 24, 1948. The entire cost of the arena was raised by public subscription. Many of the employees at the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company donated a day's pay and the company gave a sizeable donation.

The committee in charge of raising the money and building the arena consisted of the late Bernard Hughes as chairman, William Shannon (now clerk-treasurer of Marmora Village) as vice-chairman and Alex Fraser acting as secretary-treasurer. The reeve of the village at that time was Vincent Lynch, well known merchant.

Four years later, in 1952, the cost of an ice plant was raised through donations and installed at an approximate cost of $25,000. A replacement ice plant was needed in 1970-71 as the people of Marmora got behind a fund raising committee called the Marmora Arena Reconstruction Committee and raised another $20,000. The arena was showing signs of wear at that time and it was felt that the ice plant could be transferred to a new arena if one was built.

The Ministry of Labor forced the issue sooner than expected by issuing a closure order on the arena just before the 1974-75 season. Minor hockey and the curling club were forced to seek accommodation in neighboring community arenas for practices and games, an arrangement that taxed the players physically and their parents financially.

This was one of the reasons the arena committee chose to renovate the existing structure rather than build a new one, although the main reason was financial. It was felt by some people that another winter without the local arena would see the end of minor hockey.

Now, 27 years after the arena was built, about $100,000 is being spent to upgrade the building and insure that it is safe. The arena roof has been reinforced throughout and received a new skin, new fiberquote-colored sidewalls have made it attractive looking outside, new lighting is being installed, the plumbing has been replaired and proper sewage connections made.

League Continues Without Referees

Gas House Officials Learning No One Is Indispensable

Despite a boycott by referees, it's business as usual in the Gas House Hockey League. For the past two nights Mistake have refused to preside over league games. Regardless, all six GHHL games have been played this week.

In Tuesday's action, Bob's Sports moved back into first place with a 7-1 victory over Procter and Gamble, Bi-Temp Air Conditioning retained their hold on fourth place with a 7-0 shutout over Constellation Carpets and Bel-Con Engineering moved back into fifth place in the league standings with a 5-2 victory over Murray's Food Market.

Acting Gas House president, Barry Brown, said, "my own personal feelings are that the referees have a legitimate claim.

"Officials are demanding more money for their services per game. Currently referees and linesmen receive 56 and 35 respectively. Brown Mars Gas House referee in chief, John Lindfield, wants these amounts raised to $10 and $6.

Brown said he explained the matter would be discussed with at a full executive meeting and that the matter stand for such a gathering was Thursday. That, apparently, was not satisfactory with the striking officials and Monday they began their boycott.

Both nights the league made do with makeshift officials and it appears not to have suffered any ice it.

Bob's Sports continued their domination of opposition with another decisive win. Ray Summers collected a hat trick and drew a pair of assists to show the way. Mike Goegan was right behind him with two and two and Frank Wiles and Dorian Lessard each added singles. Ted Rowland assisted on three goals.

The lone Procter and Gamble goal was scored by Bob Kiddle. That single tally stopped Vern Whalen from dropping his goals against average below one per game. In 11 starts the red hot Bob's netminder leads league netminders with a stingy 1.00 goals against average.

Steve Campbell, one half of the number two goalie unit in the league, was between the pipes to collect credit for Bi-Temp's shutout. Larry Woodley gave him support with two goals and Rob Graham, Dem Di Tomaso, Bill Lynch, Steve Doxsee and Jim Meens each added singles.

Murray's, which leads the league in losses with 11 in 12 games, dropped their second in as many nights Tuesday.

Don Brookhouse had two goals and a pair of assists to lead the way for Bel-Con and Bill Burley scored twice. The fifth marker came from Richard Reid.

Warren Rushlow and Doug Semark replied for Murray's.

Atlanta Flames Are Believers

ATLANTA (CP) — Atlanta Flames extended their unbeaten streak to six games Tuesday night with a 5-1 triumph over Kansas City Scouts, and coach Fred Creighton compared his club's record to that of a golfer.

"You go back over the games and you see different people chipping in on different nights," said Creighton after his Flames defeated the Scouts in the only National Hockey League game slate move to within five points of second-place New York Islanders in the Patrick Division.

The Flames are third with 23 points, behind the leaders of New York Rangers. Kansas City remains fourth in the Smythe Division with 20 points.

It was Hilliard Graves, Claude St. Sauveur and Gerry Meehan doing the damage Tuesday night for the Flames, each scoring a goal.

Seven goals by Graves and St. Sauveur snapped a 1-1 first-period tie and sent the Flames to their fifth victory in six games. The other ended in a 3-3 tie against the Islanders. It also brought Atlanta's record to 7-1-1 in the last nine games.

"It's like in golf," said Creighton of his club which started the season slowly but now has a 15-13-3 record. "You hit a good shot and then you're probably going to hit three or four more good ones. Then you can't wait to get to the next tee. The guys are starting to believe in themselves."

Kansas City got its only goal at 15:23 of the opening period when Wilf Paiement scored his 11th of the year, beating goalie Dan Bouchard, who stopped the Scouts' other 22 shots.

"Every game we've played against this team, they've outplayed us," said coach Bep Guidolin of the Scouts. "I don't know what it is."

Graves, with his eighth goal of the year, and St. Sauveur, with his 10th, broke the game open, scoring within 28 seconds of each other early in the second period.

"We were a little too loose in the first period, but we played pretty good offensively in the second period and we tightened up on defence," said Creighton.

One unhappy note for the Flames was an injury to forward Larry Romanchych, who collided with Kansas City defenseman Ken Murray in the final period.

Creighton said Romanchych suffered strained ligaments in his left knee and will be out 10 days to three weeks.

Meanwhile, Washington Capitals, continuing to shuffle players in hopes of finding a winning combination, sent Ivan Boldirev to Pittsburgh Penguins in exchange for centre Harvey Bennett.

It was the second trade in less than 24 hours for the Capitals. Monday, Washington picked up right winger Bob Sirois from Philadelphia Flyers in exchange for a player to be named later.

Keep Politics Out—Esposito

NEW YORK (CP) — Phil Esposito of New York Rangers said Tuesday he hopes politics will be kept out of the eight-game series between two top Soviet teams and the National Hockey League.

Esposito stole the show at an NHL luncheon when he exchanged good-natured banter with Russian correspondents and recalled the Team Canada series of 1972 against the Soviet champions.

"I don't think I could ever go through a thing like that again," Esposito said. "It was a traumatic experience."

Esposito, then a Boston Bruin, rallied Team Canada to victory, four games to three with one tie.

"I hope the news representatives don't make this a political thing," Esposito said. "It's not. It's between two Russian teams and the NHL clubs."

He went on to say that "if the Canadians, or the Americans, or the NHL, or the Soviet Union, or the head of hockey in Russia want to make it a political football, that's their business. As far as I and the players are concerned, we want no part of that."

The Rangers open the series at Madison Square Garden Dec. 28 against the Soviet Army team, last season's Soviet champions.

Ten Russian players who will participate in the series are touring Canada with Moscow Selects. Five will join the Soviet Army Team and five will play with Soviet Wings.

WAYNE BELISLE

Saints Plan Action

TORONTO (CP) — Wayne Belisle, president of Minnesota Fighting Saints, hopes to involve his World Hockey Association players in a limited partnership agreement that will keep the team solvent.

"The players will become investors and part owners without the personal exposure," said Belisle in a telephone interview from Minnesota on Tuesday, adding the players will be asked Friday to help keep the financially-troubled franchise afloat.

"The limited partnership setup was granted by United States taxation authorities. With the tax benefits that will be afforded players, each dollar put in will cost them only 25 cents.

"If, for instance they put in $50-million, when and if the franchise is eventually sold, their $1 million will be the first money coming back. It's a hell of a deal."

The Globe and Mail says the Fighting Saints barely made Monday's payroll and chances are not good that they will be able to make the next one, scheduled for the end of the month, unless something is done.

Bruce Boudreau, a centre with the Saints, said the club's captain, Ted Hampson, told the players that Belisle would meet Monday's payroll but the president wasn't sure that he would be able to look after the next one.

The newspaper said two other WHA teams, Denver and San Diego, are likely to fold by the end of the season, with Cleveland, Calgary and Phoenix surviving only because of strong ownership.

Tardif Celebrates

$1.6 Million; 10-year Deal For Nordique

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Left winger Marc Tardif proved his worth to Quebec Nordiques and Winnipeg Jets Tuesday night as he continued to make life miserable for Toronto Toros.

Tardif, who recently signed a 10-year contract with the Nordiques for about $1.6 million, collected two goals and three assists Tuesday night to lead Quebec to a 7-3 World Hockey Association win over Calgary Cowboys.

The Jets improved their record over the Toros to 4-0 this season with a 4-3 triumph, thanks to Anders Hedberg's goal with 15 seconds remaining in their game in Toronto.

In other WHA games, San Diego Mariners surprised Houston Aeros 6-3, Edmonton Oilers defeated Indianapolis Racers 3-1 and Denver Spurs shaded Cincinnati Stingers 5-4 in overtime.

Tardif, who jumped to the WHA from Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League following the 1973-74 season, now has 29 goals—best in the league—and 28 assists for a league-leading 57 points.

Tardif, a native of Granby, Que., had 28 goals and 24 assists with the Nordiques last season in 33 games after joining the club in a trade December 1974, with the then defunct Michigan Stags. He had 12 goals and five assists in 1974-75 with Michigan after 23 games.

Christian Bordeleau with two, Benald Lecleric, Serge Bernier and Real Cloutier scored the other goals for the Nordiques. J. C. Tremblay picked up four assists.

The Nordiques, however, remained in second place in the Canadian Division with 41 points, five behind the Jets who increased their record to 20 wins and nine defeats.

The Jets thrive on their opponents in the Canadian Division, holding a 6-0 record on the road and a 10-2 mark over-all. The Nordiques are the only team in that division having not succeeded over the Jets, winning once at home and once in Winnipeg.

Hedberg took a blueline pass from linemate Bobby Hull, moved in alone on rookie netminder Dave Tataryn and flipped the puck over the goalie's right shoulder for Winnipeg's win over Toronto.

Peter Sullivan, with two goals, and Bill Lesuk, scored the other Winnipeg goals. Rookie Mark Napier, with two, and veteran Paul Henderson replied for Toronto, last in the Canadian Division with five wins, three ties and 18 defeats.

Tataryn was again outstanding, stopping 39 shots, including one from Hull on a breakaway in the third period. Curt Larson, in goal for Winnipeg, made 40 saves.

Tataryn, who called Hull the greatest, admitted he asked him for one of his sticks as a souvenir before the game.

Rookie Jon Norris and Gene Peacock scored in the third period to give the Mariners their win.

Norris' goal, his second of the night, and 11th of the season, came on a pass from Andy Devine at 1:34 and Peacock's 17th was the clincher.

Rusty Patenaude's goal early in the third period snapped the Oilers past the Racers.

Patenaude slid the puck into the unprotected net after Norm Ullman's breakaway effort was stopped by defenceman Pat Stapleton however. Stapleton crashed into goaltender Leif Holmquist, and the puck trickled out to Patenaude who converted the opportunity.

Denver's Barry Legge broke between two defenders after taking a pass from Mark Lomenda and scored an overtime goal at 5:25 to give the Spurs their win. Goalie Bob Johnson also drew an assist on the play.

GIVEN KEYS

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Veeck and his associates officially became owners of Chicago White Sox, the American League baseball club, in a ceremonial exchange Tuesday of money for keys to Comiskey Park. Veeck handed over deposits for "several million" dollars to John Allyn, who gave him keys to the ball park offices. Veeck and his backers took majority control of Artwell Co., which includes the baseball team, from Allyn at a cost of $19 million.

Danny Kaye After Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) Entertainer Danny Kaye and business partner Lester Smith met for two hours Tuesday with National League president Charles Feeney and expressed their interest in purchasing baseball's, San Francisco Giants.

Blake Cullen, league spokesman, said the two men told Feeney they were interested in acquiring a major league baseball franchise for Seattle and the Giants very definitely figured in the conversation.

At the same time, the board of directors of the financially troubled Giants met across town and considered purchase offers for the club.

Art Santo Domingo, public relations director for the Giants, refused to discuss the meeting.

The league has been leasing the Giants operating cash for several months, leaving Feeney with a substantial voice in negotiations between the Giants and prospective buyers.

The team has until Dec. 30 to come up a buyer or the league will take over its operations. Two groups from Toronto also have been seeking to purchase the franchise.

Big Win

LONDON (Reuter) — Third division leaders Crystal Palace clinched a spot in the third round of the English Football Association Cup, Tuesday night by winning its second-round replay 3-1 over south London neighbors Millwall.

David Kemp and Peter Taylor scored for Palace in the first half, the second goal on a penalty. Millwall got one back from Joe Moore in the 56th minute.

Rochdale of the Fourth Division jumped another non-league side out of the competition with a 3-0 triumph over Gateshead.

LEO CAHILL

Cahill Not Interested

TORONTO (CP) — Leo Cahill, unemployed since the World Football League went out of business two months ago, says he is not interested in joining Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Canadian Football League.

Cahill, former coach of Toronto Argonauts, started this year as general manager of the WFL Memphis Southmen and left that job for a similar one with Chicago at the same league. When that franchise folded, he joined the league's front-office staff as assistant to president Chris Hemmeler.

"I've had a number of contacts from football teams but right now I'm waiting to see what's going to happen to Memphis and Birmingham and their efforts to get into the National Football League," Cahill said.

Would he be interested in coming back to Canada?.

"Sure, why not?" Cahill said.

"You need somebody to generate it little life into the CFL. Football is show business too, you know."

Records Tumble

The team, made up of swimmers representative of 19 clubs throughout the province, outscored a combined Canadian team of Miami Hurricane age-group team and the Bassett Aquatic Club of Florida.

Ken Fitzpatrick of London, Ont., set three Canadian records in the 11-12 years division, winning the 100-yard butterfly in one minute, 7.7 seconds, the 200-yard individual medley in 2:16.5 and the 200-yard breast stroke in 2:28.1.

Christine Hodson of Ottawa swam the 200-yard breast stroke for girls 13 and 14 in a record 2:28.5 and Cathy Gerbis, a 13-year-old Toronto girl, broke the 100-yard freestyle mark held by Nancy Garapick of Halifax by two-tenths of a second, finishing in 0:57.8.

In the same age group, Peter Ward of Toronto established a mark for the 200-yard butterfly with 2:29.0. April Lind of Thunder Bay, the 400-yard freestyle in 4:18.1, and Alex Baumann of Sudbury, the 400-yard individual medley in 4:57.5.

Named In Suit

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Trainer Stanley Dancer and Maryland racing officials have been named in a $1.4 million suit arising from an operation that allegedly ended the harness racing career of Star Pilot, 1973 Harbletonian winner.

The suit, filed in United States district court Tuesday by John E. du Pont of Newtown Square, Pa., alleged the horse showed lameness in June, 1974, after an operation by Dr. Frank A. Churchill.

Du Pont said he had bought the gelding several months earlier for $200,000. He said Dancer informed him of the operation and recommended a period of rehabilitation.

DAVE CUTLER

Eskimo Goes All Out

TORONTO (CP)—When Dave Cutler breaks records he doesn't do it gently. He really shatters them.

With two games to go last year he was only three points shy of the Canadian Football League's one-season scoring record of 148 points set by Tommy Joe Coffey of Hamilton Tiger-Cats in 1968.

The Edmonton Eskimos kicker scored 12 points in each of his last two games in 1974 to increase the record to 169 points.

This season he went into the final game having tied the record of 36 field goals by Gerry Organ of Ottawa Rough Riders had set the previous season.

Instead of nudging Organ's record aside with one field goal, Cutler boomed four to raise the mark to 40.

Cutler also set one more record in his seventh year with the Eskimos out of Simon Fraser University in Burnaby, B.C. He now has a career total of 184 field goals, surpassed the old mark of 171 kicked by Larry Robinson of Calgary Stampeders in 14 years.

Cutler has a decisive margin in both categories in which he set records. Closest to his 169 points was Organ, the Eastern Conference leader with 134, and closest in the single-season derby was Zenon Andrusyshyn of Toronto Argonauts with 40 field goals.

The 1975 scoring leaders (x-two-point convert):

All Well Assures Official

NEW YORK (CP) — Roger Rossetto, commissioner-in-chief-general of the 1976 Summer Olympic Games, assured the United States Tuesday that the Games will go off as scheduled in Montreal next July, with tickets and accomodation for all who want them.

The only "critical" area remaining in construction of the Olympic facilities is the main stadium, Rousseau told a news conference, which he said was called to assure the American news media that all is well with the strife-plagued Olympic organization.

"From the operational point of view, we are ready," he said. "From the installation point of view, we are ready." Construction of the stadium, which had been hampered by work stoppages, now was proceeding "very well."

Wolves Sent Howling

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Fincups, in first place in the Ellins Division, scored four unanswered goals in the second period and two in the third to gain a 7-3 victory over Sudbury Wolves, leaders of the Leyden Division, in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A action Tuesday.

The game was the sixth consecutive victory for the Fincups and extended their undefeated streak at home to 12 games. It was Sudbury's first loss in 11 games.

The win increased Hamilton's lead over second-place London Knights to eight points in the Emms Division. The Wolves hold a 10-point lead over Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds in the Leyden Division.

In other games, Kingston Canadiens downed Ottawa 79s 8-5 and Oshawa Generals upset Kitchener Rangers 8-4.

At Hamilton, Rick Selling and Ed Smith each scored twice for the Fincups, who trailed 3-1 entering the second period. Rob Street, Archie King and Mike Keasling scored the other Hamilton goals before a crowd of 3,464.

Wes Jarvis, Ron Duguay and Rod Schutt scored for the Wolves, who were outshot 46-30.

Canadiens 4 79s 5

Generals 8 Rangers 4

SCOTS SURPRISE

Gimpy Legs and All, Forego Horse of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Forego, the huge gelding with the gimpy legs, was named U.S. thoroughbred racing's Horse of the Year for the second consecutive year on Tuesday. Other major awards winners were Buffalo Jim, the ill-fated three-year-old filly, and Wolfma, the late blooming three-year-old colt.

Forego, owned by Martha Gerry and trained by Sherrill Ward, also was again named best older male in voting by the Thoroughbred Racing Association's board of selection, the National Turf Writers Association and the Daily Racing Form. And he just missed repeating as sprint champion, a title that went to Robert Hoton's Gallant Bob.

The other 1975 division winners, who will be honored here Jan. 30 at the Eclipse Awards Dinner, were: two-year-old colt, Bert Firestone's Honest Pleasure; two-year-old filly, Richard E. Bailey's Dearly Precious; four-year-old filly or mare, Fred W. Hooper's Susan's Girl; and steeplechase, Mrs. William J. Van Allen's Life's Illusion.

Snow Knight, an English-bred four-year-old, won six of nine races and earned $281,436. His stakes victories include the Canadian International Championship at Toronto, Woodbine, Brighton Beach and Man o' War Handicap.

P b 1111 p g, purchased Snow Knight for his wife for $14,000. After the horse won the Epsom Derby in 1974, he sold 60 per cent interest in Snow Knight to Taylor for $1 million.

Buffalo Jim, who had to be detoured after breaking down in a match race against Foolish Pleasure July 6, was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Janney. Edd-Weil Stable raced Wolfma, who has been retired to stud under syndication.

Two AHL Streaks Snapped As Indians Down Robins

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The goaltending of Terry Richardson was the difference Tuesday night as the Springfield Indians defeated Richmond Robins 5-3 to snap two American Hockey League streaks.

Richardson turned aside all but three of Richmond shots as the Indians ended a seven-game losing streak in raining only their ninth win of the season.

Richmond, on the other hand, saw a five-game winning streak go down the drain as Springfield rebounded quickly after blowing a two-goal lead in the third period.

Goals by Andre Peloffy and Steve Coates within a 1:18 span pulled the Robins into a 3-3 tie early in the final period. But less than a minute later, Pete Harnsym caught Richmond goalie Jerome Mrazek by surprise and fired in what proved to be the game winner.

Then, 8:38 from the finish, Jerry Kemp added an insurance goal on a power play. It was his second goal of the night.

But Kemp's first score and a shot from the left circle by Hugh Harvey gave Springfield a 2-1 advantage after 40 minutes, and Billy Jaglis increased the lead to 3-1 on a power play

LOBLAWS PRICE - FREEZE POLICY

Loblaws Price Freeze is actually a self-imposed price ceiling on all products covered by the Price - Freeze program. Where cost decreases are received from our suppliers Loblaws will continue to pass these decreases through to our customers.

Price - Freeze books listing prices in effect as of Friday, November 21st., 1975 are posted in all Loblaws stores at the courtesy desk to enable you to check the actual Freeze Ceiling Price.

Loblaws will continue to offer weekly advertised specials as usual during the 60 day Price - Freeze Period — on food, non-food and general merchandise, as well as meat and produce.

Following the effective period of time for all advertised specials as indicated in our advertisements, these prices will be returned to a level not higher at which they were frozen on November 21st. - excluding fresh meat and produce, which remain subject to normal market fluctuations.

Opposition Predicts 1976 Election

QUEBEC (CP) — With what could pass for a touch of wishful thinking, opposition spokesmen in the national assembly are predicting a general election for Quebec in 1976, focused on next summer's Olympic Games in Montreal.

A recent, well-publicized poll showed separatist Parti Quebecois fortunes falling while the governing Liberal party's wane, so the PQ's interest in elections is understandable.

Some PQ members forecast that Premier Robert Bourassa will call a spring election before the anticipated Olympics deficit of $609 million becomes a votere-jecting fact.

Others lean to a fall election. They suggest that if Mr. Bourassa's takeover of the Games from Montreal in November rescues the Olympics despite soaring costs, construction delays and a bad press, the premier will try to capitalize on the success.

Mr. Bourassa himself said recently that a provincial tax increase—the first in six years—is in the cards for 1976, a possibility that suggests he doesn't want to postpone an election. His current mandate is valid until the fall of 1978.

If he does call an election, Mr. Bourassa will probably claim credit for, among other things, the historic James Bay agreement through which natives of northern Quebec received opposition to the James Bay hydroelectric project and surrender their native rights in return for $250 million in grants and greater civil status.

The agreement was signed Nov. 12 but requires popular approval by Cree and Eskimos in northern Quebec and legislative action by Ottawa and Quebec before it is implemented.

Mr. Bourassa's warning of a tent financial pinch, created in part by the Olympics situation and a provincial deficit estimated at about $600 million, it has forced cuts in the mammoth James Bay project and a freeze on hiring in the civil service.

At the same time as it moved to increase this year's $8.3-billion budget by about $200 million, the government directed its departments to cut spending by a total of about $300 million.

It also took steps to set up its own anti-inflation board in the wake of federal legislation to control prices and incomes.

The financial squeeze was not the only problem facing the government in 1975.

A judicial inquiry into organized crime resulted in the resignation of Guy Ledor, member of the assembly for Taillon, from Liberal ranks last February for "inexplicable" relations with underworld figures.

Gerald Shanks, member for Montreal-St. Henri, was suspended from the Liberal caucus in July after an investigation of municipal corruption revealed he his being charged in criminal court.

And in September, Jerome Choquette, a tough justice minister for five years before being moved to the education portfolio last July, quit both cabinet and party in disagreement with the government's language policies and the premier's style of leadership.

All three now sit as independents in the assembly.

In October, a public opinion poll for the first time showed the Parti Quebecois, whose six sitting members form the official Opposition, running ahead of the Liberals in voter popularity.

And on Nov. 11, Mr. Choquette surfaced as possible leader of a political "third force."

Mr. Choquette's aim is to rally elements of the splintered Ralliement Creditiste, the revive ine Union Nationale and others to occupy the no-man's-land between the pro-Confederation Liberals and the separatist Parti Quebecois.

The Creditistes had two sitting members until Fabien Roy, the party's house leader, was expelled from the party in November for promoting the "third force."

The Union Nationale, obliterated at the polls in 1973, elected one member in a 1974 byelection and is determined to make a comeback.

Standing in the 110-seat assembly is: Liberal 98, Parti Quebecois 6, Union Nationale 1, Ralliement Creditiste 1, Independent 4.

The interest in a new political party was particularly noticeable among the province's sizable English-speaking community and members of ethnic groups, all of whom found themselves in conflict with the French-speaking majority in September over language.

The outcry centred on the largely Italian Montreal-area municipality of St. Leonard, where about 200 children of Italian parents were denied admission to English-language schools because of provisions in Quebec's Official Language Act.

The children had passed language tests proving their proficiency in English but were barred under a quota system limiting the size of the English-language school population.

At the height of the crisis Mr. Choquette resigned, complaining that the act was unworkable.

The St. Leonard episode ended, for this year at least, when Finance Minister Raymond Garneau, who took on Mr. Choquette's education portfolio, resolved the quotas and the children were admitted to English-language classes.

Islanders Asked To Sell Land

OTTAWA (CP) — Landowners in the Thousand Islands region of Eastern Ontario are being asked to sell their land to the government for a planned national park expansion despite a promise that such negotiation would be delayed, a Progressive Conservative MP said Tuesday.

Tom Cossitt (PC—Leeds) said in the Commons that representatives of the federal supply and services department approached the owners of the island in the area and offered to purchase it on behalf of the government.

This was done despite assurances given by Indian Affairs Minister Judd Buchanan that no negotiations for land purchases to extend St. Lawrence Islands National Park would take place until there were consultations with people in the area, he said.

Mr. Buchanan said he asked for a hold on such negotiations.

However, 25 landowners had already approached the government on their own and negotiated with about three owners may be too far advanced for the government to withdraw he said.

Union Members Get Backing

OTTAWA (CP) — About 200 postal workers in the Ottawa local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) suspended for crossing picket lines during the recent postal strike still have the right to union backing, a CUPW spokesman said Tuesday.

Paul Mitchell said that under the Rand formula the suspended inside postal workers have the right to union backing and the presence of a shop steward when they are called before management on a complaint.

The Canadian Press disputed as erroneous report Tuesday that said the postal workers lost their right to union support when they were suspended.

Toronto Continues Awarding Lawyers

TORONTO (CP) — The provincial government intends to award the title Queen's counsel to a number of Ontario lawyers again next year, Attorney-General Roy McMurtry told the legislature Tuesday.

Liberal Leader Robert Nixon had asked the attorney-general whether he is going to accept the recommendation of the Law Society of Upper Canada that abolish the title.

"I can indicate to the house," Mr. McMurtry said, "it is the intention of the government to honor certain members of the legal profession on Jan. 1 of 1976."

Mr. McMurtry said it is his intention to award the title to lawyers who have made a contribution to the province, their community or the country.

Catholic Women Want Recognition

OTTAWA (CP) — Most Rev. Leonard Crowley, auxiliary bishop of Montreal, says that his two-year study on the role of women in the Roman Catholic church reveals that women want to have their contributions to the church recognized.

"Women are sensitive to the needs of others and have traditionally acted to help others," he said in an interview. "But no matter how important their roles have been, they have tended to be overlooked within the framework of a church run by men."

Although the question of women in the church came up at the Vatican in the mid-1960s, it was mainly through the efforts of Canadian Bishop George B. Flahiff, and his questions about the part women play in the church, that Rome established a committee to study the situation.

Bishop Crowley said there may be individuals in the church who would like to see the ordination of women priests but he has not yet sensed any pressure on this point from women themselves.

In terms of the Scriptures, there is no specific reference to the exclusion of women from the ministry, he said, "but the constant tradition in this area is an indication of the position of the church and you can't dismiss tradition easily."

The bishop said he would be willing to undertake studies on the matter of the ordination of women priests but, because of the complicated nature of the question, a lot of Biblical studies would have to be made before a decision could be reached on the subject.

There are a number of possible ministries to which women can be admitted and Canadian bishops have written to Rome asking that women be admitted to non-ordained ministries such as acolytes and lecturers, the Bishop said.

MP Doubles as Cabbie For Grass Roots Input

TORONTO (CP) — If you want to find Peter Stollery, Liberal member of Parliament for Spadina riding during weekends or when the House of Commons is recessed for holidays, you might look in a taxi cab.

Mr. Stollery has been a cab driver in Toronto intermittently since 1956 and when not in Ottawa accomplishes returns to drive a taxi.

"It's the real world," he said. "Politics isn't the real world."

Mr. Stollery says driving a cab relaxes him and gives him a chance to get away from Ottawa and politics.

"I also feel I'm with the average citizen. There's something about Ottawa that takes you away from that."

"You feel rootless, which is very bad for a politician. Driving a cab teaches you about the average person."

When the MP is in Toronto, he finds himself drawn to a downtown taxi lot where he will chat with the other drivers and swap stories about strange fares. Sessions have been known to run to 6 a.m.

Mr. Stollery started driving taxis when he was trying to industry earn money for a three-year trip around the world.

"I needed the money," he says. "That's the only reason anyone ever goes into the cab business."

People should have respect for those working in the service industries, he says, and one of the best ways to gain respect is to go out and work in the industry.

"I get cheesed off when I hear MPs saying how hard it is to live on an MP's salary. Driving a cab teaches you how hard it is to earn a buck. MPs forget that."

Mr. Stollery's biggest beef against the taxi industry is with restrictions on getting a taxi licence.

Horse Power Sparks Trade

PORT ALEXANDER, Ont. (CP) — Bob Lucier's work takes people back to the days when horse-power meant exactly what it says.

The young man, who runs a summer tourist camp here 20 miles west of Ottawa, spends his slower winter months restoring buggies and cutters in the basement under his restaurant-gift shop on Highway 17.

Parked at the front of the store is the stage coach that started it all seven years ago, when he first bought his 75 acres of land here.

Mr. Lucier thought it would be an added tourist attraction if he had an old horse-drawn vehicle to offer rides to tourists, and his search of farmers' barns in the Ottawa Valley showed there was no shortage of horse-drawn equipment.

He has never looked back and now has several vehicles in various stages of repairs, with others parked at the rear of the store awaiting facelifts.

A former job in upholstery gave Mr. Lucier the skill to refinish "the old vehicles" seats, which he says are often their shabbiest future. The floors, he says, also pose problems.

"The floors of the old buggies were usually made of poplar, a fairly soft wood that often wore through," he said. Custom-made models built of oak often survived much better.

Besides buggies and cutters there are two carts — with without the fringe on top. Mr. Lucier parks the horse-drawn vehicles outside his establishment on the highway where they are seen by passing travellers.

He has no record of where they have all gone, but he does know that two went as far as Ohio. Most, he believes, have wound up as transportation for tourists or as decorative, perhaps outside antique stores.

Stratford Police Moved Against Chief Last May

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — The Stratford Police Association passed a vote of non-confidence in former police chief E. K. Anderson last May 2, an association member testified Tuesday at a hearing of the Ontario police commission.

Constable Kenneth Sharpe said at the inquiry into the Stratford police, testimony that the vote was taken at a special meeting to discuss comments the chief had made to The Beacon-Herald and London Free Press about the association's latest contract with the police commission.

Mr. Anderson was quoted in The Beacon-Herald last April 29 as saying he did not know whether they (the local police commission) traded to the association certain things to get a favorable contract — they managed to settle two or three per cent less than most other departments settled for.

Stratford Mayor Betty McKinnon, a member of the police commission, testified that Mr. Anderson was warned to make no more controversial statements to the news media at a closed commission meeting April 4.

The hearing was called by the Stratford police commission in July after a report by two arbiters of the Ontario police commission indicated the department suffered from serious internal problems.

The hearing opened Sept. 2, but adjourned indefinitely on that date after Mr. Anderson resigned. The hearing resumed Monday and continues.

Gambler Gets Stuck

SURBITON, England (CP) — Hotel pianist Tony Hartwell, 34, of Surbiton struck a wrong note when he bet a customer he could wriggle through a bar stool. He was halfway through when the stool became stuck around his middle. Finally, firemen had to be called. It took eight men and an acetylene torch to release him.

Ottawa Reconsiders Multiculturalism

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — The federal government is conducting a major review of its four-year old multiculturalism policy, John Munro, minister responsible for multiculturalism, said here Monday.

He told the Trans Canada Alliance of German Canadians that there will be a shift towards "a more outward looking approach" instead of concentrated efforts on ethnic communities.

The policy will "bring various groups together as those who have developed such skills and techniques as community development and leadership training in a Canadian context can share their experience with other less well-established and less articulate groups," he said.

Mr. Munro said the government is considering funding "strong national organizations" groups anxious to establish a strong contact with government at various levels" and giving support to the ethnic press.

Wants Water

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Striking oil is usually a cause for celebration, but to the wellducging crew at the Pirate Mesquite Ranch plant, finding the black gold was little more than an annoyance. The crew hit oil five times before finally finding the water it was drilling for, 1,400 feet underground.

Advises Indians Not to Eat Fish

WALPOLE ISLAND, Ont. (CP) — The federal government has advised residents of an Indian reserve here to eliminate from their diets any fish caught in Lake St. Clair and the St. Clair River.

Dr. N. S. Black, zone director of medical services for the federal department of health and welfare, said at a news conference Tuesday that above-average levels of mercury have been found in the blood of four island residents.

Department nurses and technicians tested 175 persons—all but two of them island residents—during four weeks of testing which began Nov. 19, he said. Four of the 23 persons whose test results are available had mercury levels of more than 20 parts per million in their blood.

"In the general Canadian population you may find levels up to 20, but over 20 is above average," Dr. Black said.

Band chief Donald Isaac said the residents are not likely to follow the advice immediately because "It's going to take a little time for this to sink in. It is not natural to think that you just stop eating fish out of the river."

Olympic Products Will Make $2 Million

MONTREAL (CP) — The organizing committee of the 1976 Summer Olympics published its catalogue of licensed Olympic merchandise Tuesday and forecast that listed products manufactured by 68 licencees will return a minimum of $2 million in royalties.

The committee has been given permission to sell the merchandise in 44 countries and in return the national Olympic committees in those countries will receive 25 per cent of royalties for amateur sport.

The first overseas boutique handling the licensed merchandise was listed as the Galeria Tweedas in Madrid, while many others were being opened. The organizing committee of the Winter Games at Innsbruck had allowed its Montreal counterpart to set up a boutique in which 19 items would be sold.

The goods were being sold in numerous department stores and shops across Canada and ranging as far north as Frobisher Bay, on Baffin Island.

Maurice Allan, director of the licencing program, said the value had increased by $61,000 since the catalogue was printed.

"Some new licences have been granted and some of those licensed earlier have already sold merchandise far in excess of the minimum," Mr. Allan reported.

Merchandise headings include jewelry, sports equipment, apparel, games and toys, school and office supplies, handicrafts and housware.

Judge Presses Conspiracy Plot

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The federal judge who let Sara Jane Moore plead guilty to a charge that she tried to kill President Ford says he wants to find out more about whether she was involved in a conspiracy before passing sentence.

U.S. District Judge Samuel Conti, cancelling Miss Moore's scheduled trial, said Tuesday he is convinced that her last-minute change of plea to guilty was "not entirely voluntarily, knowingly and intelligently given."

But he expressed concern about Miss Moore's refusal to say under oath whether anyone encouraged her or helped her plan the attempted assassination of Ford before Sept. 22, the day she fired a shot at the president.

"I'm not completely satisfied with some statements she made that she acted alone in forming her intentions to commit this act," said Conti.

The judge urged her to give probation officers further information on the possible involvement of others in the attack on Ford. Such information, he said, "could assist in possible mitigation of sentence."

Conti said he will sentence Miss Moore on Jan. 15. He has the option of sending her to jail for any term up to life.

Her lawyer, public defender James Hewitt, urged the judge to order a jury trial at which he could provide Miss Moore with a defence of insanity or diminished capacity. "I think the case was very defensible," Hewitt said later.

But Conti said: "The court finds that, after reviewing all of the evidence, a jury of reasonable minds could find the defendant guilty as charged and there is a factual basis for the plea."

Miss Moore, a bookkeeper who turned FBI informer and infiltrated the radical underground, showed no reaction to the judge's remarks. She stood before the bench and once more calmly entered her plea: "Guilty."

Earlier, she admitted on the witness stand that she fired a shot at Ford as he left a downtown hotel and said she meant to kill him. A bystander deflected her gun, and the bullet missed the president.

But she evaded questions which raise the possibility of conspiracy.

"Did you intend to assassinate Mr. Ford prior to Sept. 22?" the judge asked. "Yes," replied Miss Moore.

"Did someone else encourage or assist you?" asked Conti. Miss Moore replied: "As to that particular date, I acted alone."

"How about some other date?" he asked. "I'm not going to answer that, Judge," Miss Moore said.

However, prosecutors say they have no evidence of a conspiracy and don't feel Miss Moore's remarks indicate one existed.

With Tuesday's events, Miss Moore became the second person to stand guilty under a federal law covering assault on the president.

Lynette (Squeaky) Fromme, a member of the notorious Charles Manson family, was convicted last month of trying to kill Ford on Sept. 5 in Sacramento and will be sentenced today.

Conti's decision to accept Miss Moore's guilty plea was based partially on reports from two psychiatrists who examined her.

One doctor, Gustave Weiland of Hyattsville, Md., said Miss Moore suffered from "pathological defects of her borderline personality." He felt her mental condition "had a pivotal effect on her actions of Sept. 22, 1975."

Hearing Aided

EDMONTON (CP) — New hearing aids used by the Alberta School for the Deaf enable students to hear, speak and move around more freely. The aids consist of microphones which convert inaffincent voices to radio signals and signal receivers worn by the students.

Close Calls

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — John McLucas, head of the Federal Aviation Administration, said Tuesday the FAA recorded 207 near-collisions of planes in flight in the U.S. during the first 10 months of this year. Sixty-one of the near-collisions involved airliners, he told a congressional hearing.

Sells Planes

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The U.S. has agreed to sell Israel four E-2C Hawkeye surveillance planes for an estimated $150 million, informed government sources said Tuesday. The sources also said the U.S. is expected next year to sell Israel another two Hawkeye planes, which have radar that can spot enemy ground movements at great distances.

Sells Coins

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union plans to market in the West 100,000 of the first gold coins to come out of Soviet mints in more than half a century, Swiss banking sources said Tuesday. Each of the 10-rouble gold coins, weighing 7.74 grams, is expected to sell at about $98.50 in U.S. currency, about five per cent above the price for the same quantity of bullion.

May Cause Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sex hormones prescribed for menopausal women may be causing 8,000 to 18,000 cases of uterine cancer in the U.S. the physician who heads Ralph Nader's Health Research Group said Tuesday. Dr. Sidney Wolfe told a Food and Drug Administration scientific advisory body that three-fourths of the estimated 8 million estrogen prescriptions filled annually in the U.S. are not warranted.

May Be Good

CALGARY (CP) — Anxiety is not always bad. Gerard Hillmer, an American university professor, says anxiety is a sign that a person is coping with reality. People need some anxiety to warn them of dangers, he says. When the feeling of anxiety is paralyzing it serves as a message to seek professional help.

Learn to Farm

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta government is providing a farm-training program similar to the apprenticeship concept in industry. Students divide their time between the classroom and the farm, where their instructors are local farmers.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE with Major Hoople

Lang Asked to Restrict French-speaking Pilots

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Otto Lang was urged Tuesday to restrict unilingual French-speaking pilots to areas in Quebec where there is bilingual air traffic control.

However, in replying in the Commons to Erik Nielsen (PC-Yukon), Mr. Lang would not commit himself to such a move.

The transport minister said "the only issue at the moment is the broad one of the pilot's basic ability to perform the functions which are required having regard to the control facilities which are available."

The Canadian Air Traffic Control Association (CATCA), which has long been pressing for such restrictions, repeated its demands in a statement Tuesday.

Jim Livingston, CATCA president, said transport department officials recommended more than a year ago that unilingual francophone pilots be limited to areas where there is bilingual air traffic control.

In the Tuesday statement, CATCA joined other aviation groups in protesting Mr. Lang's decision to extend the use of French in Quebec airspace.

Report Charges Province With Unequal Opportunity

TORONTO (CP) — A report issued in the Ontario legislature Tuesday criticized several provincial crown agencies for failing to implement programs to achieve equal opportunity for women in the civil service.

The report, prepared by Ethel Mc Lellan, co-ordinator of Women's Programs on the Status of Women Crown Employees in Ontario, indicated that of the agencies involved, only five have initiated programs to upgrade women employees.

She said agencies which have failed to follow the guidelines include the Ontario Teachers' Superannuation Commission, the Ontario Stock Yards Board, the Ontario Heritage Foundation, the Royal Botanical Gardens and the St. Lawrence Parkway Commission.

The report, commissioned by the government and prepared at a cost of approximately $530 000, includes 25 recommendations "designed to overcome discrimination which still exists in the civil service." Mrs. McLellan said in an interview, recommends that maternity, adoption and paternity leaves be renamed as child-rearing leave—a leave of absence for a minimum of four weeks, applying to fathers, mothers and adoptive parents.

The report also recommends that the employer continue its contribution to the benefits during the leave, such as life insurance, rather than having the employee bear the total cost of all contributions. Mrs. McLellan estimated this would cost the government about $172 per employee.

The report also recommends that the Civil Service Commission initiate a study into adjustment scales to provide equal pay where job duties are equivalent.

The report says that among 34,000 women Crown employees in Ontario, women are over-represented in the lower salary scales and under-represented in the higher scales.

The report says that 81 per cent of all employees earning $4,999 or less are women and only 16 per cent of female employees earning $15,000 or more. The average female salary of $9,203 is 72 per cent of the male average of $12,800, it says.

It calls for the government and the Public Service Employees Union to give high priority to developing a system whereby persons performing secretarial work are classified and paid according to skill, effort and responsibility.

Save the City

NEW YORK (AP) — Terry Cashman's and Tommy West's song "A Friend is Dying," released in 1972 as part of their American City Suite album, will be the first single release on Lifesong Records. All artists' royalties will be donated to New York. Cashman says, "Many disc jockeys are playing the song in conjunction with editorial statements about New York's problems."

Forgot Nature

STANTON, Mo. (AP) — One of the most photographed spots in Meramec Caverns is the closed television screen where tourists take pictures of themselves. This is more popular that the 100 million-year-old formations or Lost Rock, where Jesse James and his gang hid during the 1870s.

Navy Wants Sheep

PORTLAND, England (CP) — Rare Portland sheep are being brought back to this city by the Royal Navy after 50 years. It is hoped that if the sheep keep down grass and brambles, the roots will thicken and prevent subsidence of cliffs overlooking the naval base.

An offer so successful we're repeating it! So go ahead, compare. You'll agree, this is the best buy for the money. Yes, you could pay a lot more for a Powermate, but when you get all these features at this low price, why would you. Combines an extra-wide beater-bar with a side suction that cleans right up to the walls, and into corners, where you need it most! Now, that's cleaning power! Deep cleans all kinds of carpets, too, even shags. Tool caddy holds crevice brush, upholstery brush, dusting brush, crevice tool. Don't miss this buy! 20R 030 314 now that's value!

WE'RE WORKING TO PUT PRICE & PRIDE TOGETHER AGAIN.

Price without Pride is no bargain.
You know it. We know it.

At no price should Pride be forced to take a back seat.
And that's where we stand today.

Working together to make the Great A&P great again.

If we can't do it, nobody can.

A&P

A&P lowers your cost of Good Feasting with HOLIDAY SAVINGS

We wish you Good Cheer, Good Health, and the Merriest Christmas ! !

20,000 Draft Evaders Still Live in Canada

WINNIPEG (CP) — When Tim Maloney left the United States in 1969, American involvement in the Vietnam war was just beginning to peak. Now, more than a year after the last U.S. military man left South Vietnam, thousands of American men affected by the war still live in a foreign country.

Maloney, a 29-year-old community worker who acts as communications officer with the War Resisters Information Program, estimated that 20,000 men who evaded the draft, deserted the military or fled the U.S. for fear of indiction during the Vietnam era still are living in Canada.

And although public attitudes toward war objectors are changing both in the United States and Canada, Maloney said fierce opposition to amnesty continues in many parts of both countries.

"Most people in the United States are not quite ready to accept the amnesty idea — it's closer than it was years ago, the slight, bespectacled bachelor said.

"People seem to think that by amnesty we are condoning what kind of precedent would be set. They feel war resisters should be punished."

Maloney, who founded the Winnipeg Committee to Assist War Objectors shortly after arriving here in 1969, recently returned from a six-month tour of the U.S. and Canada designed to inform men still sought for draft offences in their legal status.

Unfortunately, it looks like many years before total amnesty for the victims of the Vietnam war. In the interim, some form of clemency program which allowed draft offenders to return to the U.S. if they agreed to work for a pre-determined length of time in such fields as social service.

"When a list of 4,000 names of men wanted for draft offences was released early this year, it seemed the amnesty issue was a major hurdle for the war resister movement in Canada, Maloney said. Up until that time, objectors were uncertain of their legal status if they returned to the United States.

Hundreds of men who lived in Canada the impression they would be prosecuted were able to return to the U.S. without fear of prosecution. Many, however, elected to remain in Canada.

"Most men, when they find out they are wanted, are distrustful...We tell them it's perfectly safe to return and they can't believe it."

Maloney himself, who has worked four years for a member agency of the United Way, said he would consider returning to the U.S. in the event of his death. Many of the resisters in Canada now have real roots here."

Slim Pickens In Comedy Film

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When movie producers want a stagecoach driven, an outlaw plugged or a cast heeled up, they more than likely send for Slim Pickens, the slowest draw in the West.

The Pickens lingo sounds totally Texas, which is odd for a fellow who has spent most of his life in California.

"That's right—I was born and growed up in Kingsburg in Fresno County," says Slim. "Course my dad came from Texas and my mother was from Missouri, so I came by my drawl naturally. I didn't pay a whole lot of attention in English class, and when I got on the rodeo circuit, I was a goner...

"I never met a rodeo cowboy who didn't sound like he'd just fell out of a cotton patch."

Luckily for Slim, nobody ever tried to give him elocution lessons. His rough-hewn charm makes him one of Hollywood's busiest actors—he averages four feature films and several TV guest appearances a year.

His next film is Hamps, a comedy about the U.S. army's attempt to introduce camels to patrol the great American desert in the last century. Pickens feels right at home as a camel wrangler.

"I done it before, 25 years ago in Salt Lake City," he says. "This here promoter got a bunch of camels and staged a race with rodeo guys. I came in first and got $40, more than I made in my first picture."

Slim was still on the rodeo circuit when he made his first movie, Smoky, with Fred MacMurray in 1946. Slim was paid $75 to ride a "whole-fightin' sort-of-a-gun named Sundown." The action was so sensational that it was repeated in the 1966 remake of Smoky with Fess Parker.

"My daughter saw the picture and came home all excited," Pickens said. "Daddy, she hardly recognized you," she told me. 'You were so skinny!'"

Indeed he suited his name during his rodeo career. Born Louis Dert Lindley Jr., he was 6 feet 3 and 140 pounds at 15 when he entered a bronc-riding contest near home. He needed an alias, and the promoter suggested Slim Pickens "because that's all you'll get in this rodeo."

He now is 220 pounds and "an old 56," the result of his rodeo career. "Once I got s-scared all over, an' the doctor looked at the pictures and said, 'You was in a pretty good wreck, wasn't you?'"

The x-rays showed 17 fractures, all engendered from his battles with recalcitrant animals. He once won third place in an event without realizing that he had suffered a fractured skull. A few days later he had the dent in his head examined. "An inch lower and you'd be dead," he was told.

In 1950, director William Keighley saw Pickens in a rodeo in Saugus, near Los Angeles, and hired him for an Errol Flynn western, Rocky Mountain.

He learned the trade in 20 Allen westerns, then began getting bigger parts. The film that established him was as a horse opera but Stanley Kubrick's black comedy of Armageddon, Dr. Strangelove, Slim was the mad Maj. King Kong, who rode the atom bomb to glory, whooping and hollering all the way.

"After Dr. Strangelove, my salary jumped five times," he said, "and assistant directors started saying 'Hey, Slim,' instead of 'Jley, you.'"

He contends in the suit that his wife is an unsuitable mother for four-year-old Tulip because she has been "intimately involved" with men and has posed for lewd magazine pictures since they separated.

His wife, the former Victoria Rodinger has been working as a go-go dancer in a Camden layout. She moves under the name of Miss Vicky, which she assumed while engaged to the singer.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Picasso watercolor valued at $25,000 was stolen from the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, police reported Tuesday.

The painting, "Abstraction, 1911," shot 17½ by 13¾ inches, Police Det. Robert Cash said the painting was taken late Friday or Saturday.

LONDON (Reuter) — Actor Rex Harrison's fifth marriage ended in divorce Tuesday in an uncontested suit.

Elizabeth Harrison, 39, was granted a divorce on ground of "unreasonable behavior" and the 67-year-old actor was ordered to pay costs.

Neil Sedaka Making Comeback

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Neil Sedaka, whose syrupy goody-two-shoes ballads carried him to pop music fame during the early 1960s and left him in the cold with the British rock invasion, thought the time was right for another run at stardom.

"It wasn't an accident," said Sedaka of his comeback this year. "I thought the time was right for a melodic composer. It all came together—the Elton John endorsement, the right people, my wife, manager, lawyer, musicians.

"I think people like my music because it's all voice, song and piano without a lot of glitter. Still it's an impossible dream."

John got the comeback rolling for Sedaka, financially backing his album and writing liner notes on his album jackets. Sedaka freely admits, "If it had not been for Elton John, Laughter in the Rain would not have been a hit."

At 34, Sedaka's tinsly bear voice, which came across in such early songs as Sweet Breaking Up Is Hard to Do, appears to be changing to a heavier, rock-ing sound in Bad Blood, which is backed by Elton John on harmonies.

"The initial problem was to shatter the old image," Sedaka said. "I had to widen the scope of my music. The old songs all sounded the same."

Sedaka's comeback contrasts with 19 years of musical famine and an unsuccessful try for the charts in 1970.

"It was a rude awakening," he said in an interview during a recent engagement here. "I found you could have a wonderful product but if it's not promoted properly it can be a lover."

That was where John came in. Sedaka new records for John's label, Rocket Records, and has a contract for two albums a year.

Sedaka met John when Sedaka performed at the Albert Hall in England in 1971, playing new compositions and old hits. They became friends. Sedaka said, "because we had a lot in common. We both were trained in classical piano, were composers and not popular as teenagers."

Sedaka began playing the piano at age 8, was performing at 19 and had his first hit, The Diary in 1958. That was followed by a string of others that sold a total of 20 million copies through 1963. His last hit came in 19.3 and since then he's concentrated on writing music.

Sedaka's now is booked up through 1976 with concert dates, recording sessions and personal appearances and is to be host AbC's New Year's Eve rock music special.

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

Thursday, Dec. 28

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today won't be all wine and roses for you, but if you can accept things philosophically, the rough spots won't bruise you at all.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll have to do some fancy juggling today to keep your budget in the black. Happily, you're sharp at manipulating things.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Associates may give you some stiff opposition today. Keep your wits about you and retain your sense of humor. Then beat them over.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Play your hunches in coping with a serious situation. Things can be handled if you don't back down on what you feel is the best way.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You've lucky today, but not in anything speculative. Confine your gambling to those things where your knowledge assures the right outcome.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Competition will be much stiffer today than you relish. But if you feel you can win, your positive approach will help you to overcome.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) To placate others, you have a tendency to subordinate your own views. This is a mistake; your thoughts are as good or better than theirs.

SCORPIO Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't hesitate to invest your time, your services or your good will today. When it comes to money, however, keep a tight on the wallet.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone you've close to will have opinions contrary to yours today. It isn't better. Don't let your ego cloud your judgment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Pressures are going to be heavy on you early in the day. Don't panic. Space things out a bit. You'll be better able to deal with them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Have your alternatives ready today. Something you hope to accomplish may not be possible at first. Your second move can prove more fortunate.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Feeding your vanity is not the prime consideration today. Go after those things you can put in the bank, to use later to keep warm and secure.

To Your Good Health

Many Factors Cause Insomnia

By G.C. THORTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thorteson: Can you give any advice to an insomniac, or a partial one, who invariably can drop off to sleep practically immediately upon going to bed, but awakens two to five hours later unable to return to sleep?

I have had an examination recently and am in good health. The question boils down to this: how can a person learn to return to sleep? L.R.B.

You have labeled yourself an insomniac, or a partial one, at least. Are you? Most people sleep more than they think they do, and often people who think they are not getting sufficient sleep are getting about what they require. I recall instances where hospital patients have complained of not getting enough rounds of "not getting a wink the night before. In most cases nurses reported that the patient "slept like a log."

Insomnia can occur for both psychological and physical reasons. Psychogic factors include tension, worry, anxiety, sometimes a rebellion against sleep itself.

Physical reasons can include discomfort (warm) rooms, poor mattresses, etc., pain from some muscle disconfort, or difficulty in breathing.

Some insomniacs have been found to have a drop in blood sugar during the night, causing restlessness and hunger. A small protein snack before retiring can correct this.

You don't tell me your age. Oldsters can require less sleep depending upon the degree of daytime activity. Perhaps a walk in the evening or other exercises would help, and there is always the warm glass of milk, a toddy, even. Avoid caffeine products in the evening and just before retiring. An aspirin or two with a glass of milk has wonderfully effective in some cases.

There is a tendency for the pill-popping society to resort to drugs. Avoid this. You can quickly find yourself in a vicious saw involving the need for pills to reverse the effect—to keep you up in the morning.

I think we all have little valleys of insomnia in our lives. With some of us it has become an obsession that we take to bed with us; there is the single male weepon against garden variety sleeplessness to be a book.

Some recommended a dull book, the duller the better. I would prefer a good, engrossing book, one you don't want to put down.

Strangely, a half hour of contemplation in a good yarn will find the eyelids dropping and then you go, into the arms of Morpheus!

Dear Dr. Thorteson: What would cause the permanent teeth to grow in real late? Two of my teeth (molars) didn't come in until I was 21 years old. Mrs. A.W.

Decidious or baby teeth begin to erupt by about the sixth month. The permanent teeth begin to replace them approximately between the sixth and 13th years. These normally grow into the spaces left by the teeth, but there are factors that can delay this process. The opening may not have been large enough to allow easy emergence.

There may also be crowding of the frontal teeth. Thumbsucking can alter the position of the teeth. If the other permanent teeth erupted on schedule, it is most likely some mechanical factor is involved.

Your dentist can give you further advice about this from the position of your "late bloomers."

CONFIDENTIAL NOTE: To the young woman who was sexually assaulted: You should be examined, and you should have evidence of the attack given to the police. Your information might help to prevent apprehension of this attacker. I understand that most rapists are chronic offenders. Failure to inform and accumulating from the victims offenses, is a serious omission. The medical examination would be a protective against venereal disease. Both the doctor and the police will handle this matter in the utmost confidentiality. To relieve your mind, at least, have this done.

Psychic Used

CALGARY (CP) — Two ministry officials are said to pay a psychic to locate mineral deposits in Alberta. Premier Peter Lougheed and Ron Wartmoth of Los Angeles says the psychic has a 95-percent success rate in discovering oil and mineral deposits, worth billions of dollars, by using psychic powers.

Opening lead—♣6

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

If you could always get off to the right opening lead you could ride away from your bridge game in a limousine.

No, we can be right all the time, but there are a certain principles you can follow that will help you a lot.

The most important of these is to lead your partner's suit. You won't always be right here, but even if it turns out wrongwhen your partner isn't likely to be unhappy with you. On the other hand if you enter into uncharted passages and try to find the right lead, you may really incur his displeasure.

West liked his club holding really blame West. That club lead might have been a winner, but this time it worked out badly for him. South grabbed the first club drew trumps with three leads, discarded two losing hearts on dummy's long diamonds and eventually lost two clubs and one heart. Of course, one club was ruffed in dummy.

Heart lead would have given East the first three tricks and South would still have had to lose a club at the finish.

Ask the Jacobys

A couple of months ago we showed how a player called "Desperate Dan" obtained a top score in duplicate by bidding six spades and being set three tricks. A couple of readers have asked us to explain why it was such a good result.

The answer is that his score was minus 800. If he had bid his opponents play the slam it would have been minus 1370 and everyone had bid the slam so his minus 800 became top for those holding his hand.

Survey Participants Wary of Politicians

TORONTO (CP) — A recent survey of 300 downtown office workers—from stenographers to senior executives—showed most of them have little faith in politicians, the Toronto Real Estate Board says.

The survey was undertaken for the board by Robert Mac-Bain Associates Ltd., to discover the views and concerns of downtown office residents. Personnel from 11 management companies participated.

Mr. MacBain said the survey indicates 75 per cent of those questioned believe politicians at all levels "great favors to those who back their election campaigns."

An even larger group, 79 per cent, do not believe political claims always put the public's interest first and only 11 per cent believe most of what politicians say, he said.

He added the survey also shows that the majority of those interviewed want a crackdown on guns. A total of 85% per cent say there should be a stricter control of the use of all firearms, including registration and licensing.

Most of the office workers want street soliciting and begging stopped, Mr. MacBain said.

He said the survey indicates that a total of 68% per cent object to people stopping them on the street and trying to interest them in religious tracts, body rub parlors or in giving them money and want soliciting banned.

Police disregard for the civil rights of criminals moves that 43% per cent is not object to police practices, while 41 per cent do not object to police arresting in high-speed chases, he said.

Mr. MacBain said a lot of 77% per cent favor capital punishment in certain cases. Of these 51 per cent said rape of the murderers sentenced to death over the last 10 years should have had their sentences commuted.

He said a multiple-choice question to assess civil servants showed only 3 per cent rate government employees with whom they deal as excellent. A total of 37 per cent rate them moderately, while 39 per cent rate them indifferent and 20% per cent say they are competent.

OHA Wants Proof Over Hospital Cuts

CAMBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Hospital Association (OHA) wants proof that the provincial government has a well-considered austerity program for hospitals, the president of the OHA said Tuesday.

Don Robertson said in an address to a local service club that board chairmen and administrators of 240 public provincial hospitals who meet Friday in Toronto with Health Minister Frank Miller plan to discuss hospital austerity proposals.

Mr. Robertson, also administrator of the South Waterloo Memorial Hospital, said he hopes Mr. Miller will provide a plan that can be "pursued vigorously and fairly for all communities."

He said the health ministry has been considering closing as many as 3,700 active-treatment beds in Ontario and "this would be close to 10 per cent of the total, approximately 1.25 million days of care, 125,000 patients and maybe the loss of 4,000 jobs."

Mr. Robertson said the OHA could not endorse the closing of so many beds at a time when hospitals are still bearing the burden of health-care delivery in the province.

Music Ruined

EDMONTON (CP) — Lubomir Melnyk, pianist and composer, says records are ruining music and he will not make them. He says records make music impersonal because they can't capture the emotional impact or the feelings communicated by the performer.

Unemployed Chef Wins $100,000

TORONTO (CP) — Alphonse Laland, 31, of Ottawa has won the $100,000 grand prize in the Wintario draw last Thursday in Windsor, lottery officials announced Tuesday.

Mr. Laland, an unemployed chef and father of two boys, had ticket number 12254 in series 15.

He discovered he was a winner the day after the draw, he said, when his wife checked the list of winning tickets against the tickets he held.

"She was very excited. She asked me: 'How can you stay so calm when I'm shouting and crying?'"

Mr. Laland held five tickets on the draw.

"I buy one everywhere I go," he said. "Sometimes I have six or seven."

Mr. Laland said he plans to invest the money in Canada savings bonds.

Break Barrier

EDMONTON (CP) — Dr. Melvyn Lavallee says he often finds it difficult to break through a barrier of distrust with patients who are taken aback when they see he is an Indian. Even at a weekly clinic on an Indian reserve, he says, some patients are more ashamed to admit problems such as alcoholism to him than to a white doctor.

Toronto Harbor Sets Records

TORONTO (CP) — The port of Toronto closed the longest overseas shipping season in its history Tuesday and harbor officials said the amount of cargo handled exceeded the 1974 total.

Toronto harbor commissioners said in a news release that 809,000 tons of overseas cargo were handled during the season, topping the 1974 total by 80,000 tons.

The foreign season had a record early start April 1 and lasted 259 days, five days longer than the previous record set last year, the release said.

Report Urges Sweeping Powers to Deal with Drinking Drivers

TORONTO (CP) — A report recommending new and sweeping discretionary powers for policemen in dealing with drinking drivers was tabled in the legislature Wednesday by Attorney-General Roy McMurtry.

The report says a policeman should have the power to suspend a driver's licence for 24 hours on the suspicion that a driver has been drinking.

It also recommends road-side checks by police without prior warning or evidence of drinking and driving.

A public information program designed to inform drivers of the implications of driving after drinking and increased random road-side checks also were recommended in the report from an inter-ministerial committee.

In an interview outside the house, Mr. McMurtry said he agreed the report's recommendations, if implemented, would give police wide powers.

"I agree that perhaps civil liberties are involved here," he said. "But with the human tragedy that is taking place on our highways I think this direction is warranted."

The attorney-general said he will urge the acceptance of many of the reports suggestions.

He said the recommendations regarding random road-side checks embodies one of the most important principles in the report—the fear of detection.

"I firmly believe tough punitive measures are important in the case of drinking drivers," he said. "But I think the real fear of detection is even more so."

The report said the .08 legal limit of alcohol in the blood is an arbitrary one, and many drivers are dangerous when the level is much lower.

The report also says present laws required drivers to take breathalyzer tests or be charged with refusing to take one, have done little to reduce the problem of drinking and driving.

"Death and injuries have continued to escalate," the report said.

The report concludes that tests suggested by Mr. McMurtry in a speech last week—are not feasible because the machines must be operated by a trained technician.

The report said 44,803 drivers in the province were charged with drinking-driving offences in 1974 and "police recognized that they are not even scratching the surface."

Mr. McMurtry said the average amount of alcohol in the blood of persons charged with impaired driving has been ...ff almost twice the legal limit. He said drivers licences should have photographs to help police enforce suspensions of licences by clearly identifying the drivers.

The report recommended that a provincial program against drinking and driving be strengthened by allowing police to confiscate car keys or impound the vehicle if necessary to enforce suspension of licences.

Wilfred Bolton, chief superintendent of Ontario Provincial Police, said in a telephone interview that he did not expect that the province would need more police to enforce legislation that might result from the recommendations.

Radiation Levels Too High Says Miller

TORONTO (CP) — Radiation levels as high as 30 times acceptable limits were found in recent tests in a Port Hope school, Health Minister Frank Miller told the house Wednesday.

Mr. Miller said the highest reading found in St. Mary's school was 47 picocuries per liter of air in the school kitchen. The acceptable standard is three picocuries.

However, the minister told the house that readings in various parts of the school changed from day to day. He said the readings, although relatively high, are considered harmless.

He said that in atomic plants a level of 29 picocuries per litre is considered acceptable. Workers could work in that level for 40 hours a week, 49 weeks a year without harm.

The problem is caused by radon gas—produced by decaying radium—seeping into the school from landfill dumped years ago by a nuclear processing plant.

VD Cases Now Reach Epidemic Levels

OTTAWA (CP) — A record 30,000 venereal disease (VD) cases was reported last year, a leading federal health department said Wednesday.

The report says the incidence of gonorrhea in Canada "has been revolving during the last decade, reaching epidemic proportions."

The number of reported gonorrhea cases in 1974 was 67,500, up five per cent from 1973—an increase 153.5 cases per 100,000 population compared with the 1968 high of 214.3 cases.

"The statistics for gonorrhea as national, provincial and municipal bases should be interpreted with caution," the report states. "Under-reporting of this disease is evident, but the degree to which this occurs is not known."

Alberta and Ontario had the greatest increases last year. Thirty-one per cent of the total cases were reported in Toronto, Vancouver and Edmonton, the report says.

"Over half the reported cases were between the age of 15 and 24 and 75 per cent were under 29, indicating the seriousness of the problem in the younger age group," it added.

Store Hour Legislation Undergoes Changes

TORONTO (CP) — Debate on the Ontario government's proposed legislation to control Sunday store hours ended Wednesday and a formal vote is scheduled for today.

An amendment proposed by the New Democrats which would include the shops in the list of shops forbidden to open Sunday got voice support from the Liberals.

The words "for religious reasons" were deleted from a clause allowing businesses closed for 24 hours in a 23-hour period before Sunday to remain open. In fact, the new wording would make the bill unconstitutional.

Outside the legislature, Sellar-General Marjorie Morgan said he was pleased that few changes were made to the bill.

Federal Budgets Will Be Slashed By PM Tonight

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC says Prime Minister Trudeau will announce today that the salaries of members of Parliament, deputy ministers and senior government officials will be frozen for one year as part of the federal government's spending restraints.

It says the restraints will include cancellation of the office subsidy and the grants to political programs, as well as decreases in the budgets of many departments.

The CBC says Information Canada, the Company of Young Canadians, Opportunities for Youth and the Local Initiatives Programs will be ended.

As recently as Tuesday, federal officials were insisting that the government would not be taken on the spending programs to be cut.

The CBC says the cancellation of the office subsidy will be a decrease of 10 cents a gallon in the budget for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. It says the cancellation of the political grants will be a decrease of 10 cents a gallon in the budget for the Canadian International Development Agency, which is limited to 19 per cent, it says.

Toronto's Principals Donate To Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto's 600 secondary school principals and vice-principals Tuesday gave 60 per cent of their November pay cheques to aid the strike fund of the city's secondary school teachers, a spokesman for the principals said.

Teachers in the province so far have donated $5,000 following a suggestion from the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation that teachers consider donating one day's salary, a spokesman for the federation said.

Harry Archer, chairman of the vicary committee of the principals and vice-principals, said about $170,000 was donated and each teacher received an additional $70 on their strike-pay cheques Tuesday.

About 8,800 Metro Toronto secondary school teachers have been on strike since Nov. 14, stopping classes for 140,000 students in 132 schools.

Teachers had been receiving 40 per cent of their regular wages in strike pay. This was cut to 30 per cent this week and will be cut to 20 per cent next week because of a dwindling strike-pay fund.

Postal Rates May Jump

OTTAWA (CP) — A bill to increase first-class postal rates to 10 or 12 cents from eight cents probably will be introduced in the Commons next March, Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey indicated Wednesday.

"I hope to get it in by the end of March if I can," he said in an interview.

Mr. Mackasey declined to say exactly what the new rate would be but he repeated that he said "10 might be 10 or 11 cents."

"It would still be probably the lowest-cost mail in the world, considering the vast size of Canada. He cited the 20-cent first-class postal rate in West Germany as an example.

Mr. Mackasey said he is in no rush to introduce the bill in the Commons but he repeated that rates should increase once the post office has received its efficiency after the recent strike.

The post office needs the increase to offset higher wages and higher costs for transportation, gasoline and other items, he said.

Wells Says School Aid Will Jump 8 Per Cent

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister Thomas Wells told Ontario school board trustees today the government will increase education grants by eight per cent in 1976-77.

The minister, in a morning address to the trustees, said the government will also increase money for new capital expenditures at least eight months next year.

Mr. Wells said more of the burden of education spending will have to be shifted to property taxes and local taxpayers.

The Weather

Synopsis: A cold Arctic air mass is expected to dominate Ontario weather the next couple of days. The south will be sunny and windy in most localities. The northwest areas, however, will have frequent flurries and occasional snow squalls.

12 Per Cent Increases

Separate School Board Approves New Contracts

By RON CARLSON
Staff Reporter

The Hastings-Prince Edward Separate School Board Tuesday went into closed session and approved three one-year salary contracts affecting the board's office staff, custodians and the administrative council.

Director of education E. J. Neville said Wednesday contracts with the three groups have been underway since October. He said the contracts reflect the spirit of Ontario's anti-inflation guidelines even though the board does not constitute an employer with 50 employees.

In the recorded vote of 10 to 4 the board approved increases of between 10 and 12 per cent for the administration council. Mr. Neville said the board requested this agreement go before the review board for approval.

The director of education's salary has been increased to $37,076 from $33,000. The board's only superintendent of education will now earn $31,000 up from $28,000. The board's business superintendent received an increase of $3,900, from $25,000 to $28,900.

Mr. Neville explained the board had to consider qualification increments in these salaries. The administration council also negotiated an additional fringe benefit clause which will allow the board to extend all contract privileges to retired personnel up to the age of 65. The board's share is currently 75 per cent of life insurance, hospital, medical, surgical and dental benefits.

For the other two groups, the salary increases represent a 12 per cent increase. The starting rate of a school secretary will now be $5,527 as opposed to $5,200 last year. A secretary with four years experience will now earn $7,332 as opposed to last year's figure of $6,547.

The board's own secretaries will now start at $6,802 and can earn a maximum of $10,434 after three years of service. The purchasing agent's salary has been increased to $11,369 from $10,

Trenton Employees Save Town $100,000

By JERRY BROWN

TRENTON — The 50-per-cent increase paid to employees by municipal indoor-outdoor staff is not excessive because the workers have saved the town almost $100,000 in 1975, said Jack Rigby, representative for the employees, Wednesday.

Mr. Rigby said in delivering a statement made early this month by town treasurer Fred Fagan that indicated there would be a $100,000 surplus in the municipal budget, Mr. Fagan said most of the surplus could be attributed to work within the public works department.

Mr. Rigby, spokesman for the employees represented by the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE), said this was because the department was a "complete construction industry."

"In most of the neighboring municipalities, contracts for the sewers curbs and storm systems will be cut from manpower-training programs.

The farm subsidy program will be affected by a $50-million increase in the agriculture department's budget, it says.

The budget for the external affairs department will be cut by $2.7 million, and the increase in the budget for the Canadian International Development Agency will be limited to 19 per cent, it says.

TRENTON — The 50-per-cent increase paid to employees by municipal indoor-outdoor staff is not excessive because the workers have saved the town almost $100,000 in 1975, said Jack Rigby, representative for the employees, Wednesday.

Mr. Rigby said in delivering a statement made early this month by town treasurer Fred Fagan that indicated there would be a $100,000 surplus in the municipal budget, Mr. Fagan said most of the surplus could be attributed to work within the public works department.

Mr. Rigby, spokesman for the employees represented by the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE), said this was because the department was a "complete construction industry."

"In most of the neighboring municipalities, contracts for the sewers curbs and storm systems is contracted to private companies but, in Trenton the public works department does all this work itself," said Mr. Rigby.

Mr. Fagan said this was correct and that a large portion of the surplus could be attributed to the department's efficiency but that the workers were paid as much, if not more than comparable labourers in private construction work.

The difference between the costs of private work and the public works department is probably partially the profit margin of the contractor and contingency monies included for any problems they might incur," said Mr. Fagan.

The town and union representatives are currently involved in negotiations about the contract, with inside CUPE employees currently earning about $8,000 annually, and outside workers $8,000.

There are 35 employees involved, 34 are in the public works department, and 11 are inside workers in the three orphanages and eight secretaries.

Two Area Real Estate Firms Join Relocation Service

Two Belleville real estate firms, Shea and Barry and Forchuk, have joined forces with Relocan Ltd. — the largest relocation organization in Canada, it was announced this week.

According to a company release, Relocan is the "largest firm of its kind in the country bringing under one roof the real estate services of 80 brokers, 350 real estate offices and 2,500 sales people in 230 communities from coast to coast.

Relocan Ltd. was formed through the merger of Canada Wide Real Assist and Realcare Ltd. Company president Richard Spel announced this merger this week.

He said member firms will help homeowners sell their homes and re-locate them in other Canadian cities using Relocan Ltd. — the Relocan's referral and listing system.

"Our national referral and listing service helps to bring buyers and sellers together — although they may be 3,000 miles apart," said Mr. Spel. "It's really a faster more efficient way to sell a house."

County Classroom Head Planning Program Changes

BY MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reptrter

BLOOMFIELD — The County as a Classroom, a community education program sponsored through the Prince Edward board of education, has suspended its sessions until the new year.

Program co-ordinator Sandra Beattie said that she plans to prepare a schedule for the first three months of 1976 that will reflect several changes in the program.

Mrs. Beattie said Wednesday, although County as a Classroom programs were presented twice weekly on Tuesdays and Thursdays - at various locations throughout Prince Edward.

A new winter program will feature one seminar a week to be held on Wednesday night.

Mrs. Beattie added that she hopes to bring all programs to either Queen Elizabeth School or Prince Edward Collegiate Institute in Picton.

This year, programs were presented at schools and other centres throughout the county but need for more central location, especially in winter, has been indicated, she said.

Although County as a Classroom seminars have been held only at night, there is a possibility that daytime sessions occasionally will be introduced, she said.

Mrs. Beattie explained one recent program, County Collections, required a great deal of work by participants and would have been an ideal weekend display in the community.

She also said interest has been expressed in programs that would instruct youngsters in pet care and training and possibly these sessions could be held on Saturday mornings.

Mrs. Beattie noted that the average attendance at programs presented this year was — persons. The largest single attendance was 56 persons and the lowest, zero.

Topics dealing with education and special education proved to be poorly attended and it is expected these programs will be held at other times in future. They have been dropped from the evening schedule now in preparation.

The County as a Classroom programs will continue through June with the classes next summer, Mrs. Beattie said.

Deputy Reeve Reports New County Home Running in Red

PICTON — Jack Sprague, Sophistsburg deputy reeve and chairman of Prince Edward County council's social services committee told council this week that county home administration is overbudget by $50,000. The deficit will be carried into 1976.

Deputy-reeve Sprague explained that "Many corners were cut" to reduce the cost of the $1.7 million home opened last February and county was forced on several occasions "to pick up some of the corners."

A parking lot was built and a flag pole purchased in addition to other expenditures.

Deputy-reeve Sprague told council the new home is running "smoothly" but there are a number of deficiencies.

He explained that a nurse's call system may be needed but no decision has been made as yet. This system was not in the original plan for the new home.

Also, the social services committee has been unable to obtain action from the contractors to correct several small problems with the new building.

Deputy-reeve Sprague added that the emergency power system is not operating properly but this is expected to be corrected soon.

Negotiators for Trenton and the municipalities fire fighters association presented briefs to an arbitration board to settle a wage dispute, Wednesday. A decision is expected from the board by the end of the year. Negotiators are (from left) Chief Cecil Ellis, treasurer Brian Fagan, chief negotiator and Trenton clerk Aubrey Sharp.

Wages Only Issue Blocking Firemen-Trenton Accord

BY JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — An arbitration settlement for the 1975 contract will be handed down by the new year negotiators for the municipality and the firefighters association were told, Wednesday.

Donald White, provincially-appointed chairman of the arbitration committee, told negotiators at the Knights of Columbus Hall he hopes the wage settlement, the only issue separating the two parties, could be resolved in time to allow the firefighters to receive compensation before 1976.

The town and the firefighters have been embroiled in a wage dispute over the associations demand for a 17-per-cent raise for 1975 which would increase the salary of a first-class firefighter of $14,001. The parties have been involved in the contract dispute since the 1974 award was made by another arbitration jury last summer.

The firefighters contend the department is undermanned, creating a dangerous working environment. It was acknowledged by Trenton Fire Chief Cecil Ellis that there were times on the night shift when the fire hall was undmanned if two alarms arrive almost simultaneously.

Additionally, the firefighters say they would like to maintain wage parity with area police and firefighters.

Aubrey Sharp, town clerk and a negotiator for the municipality said the firefighters are the only municipal employees who had not settled for the 12.4 per cent offered by the town.

The town brief also pointed out that since Murray Township is no longer serviced by the fire department their responsibilities are lessened.

Both parties have argued the other side has made negotiations difficult. The town has said the firefighters told them to accept their demands because it should be obvious treference to previous arbitration awards that when they go to the board the association's requests will be recognized.

The firefighters have said it is impossible to negotiate with the town because they are always being threatened with lay-offs if they do not capitulate.

Trenton town council is currently investigating the possibility of implementing a volunteer fire brigade in the town if the present system becomes to costly.

"If you can't afford a Cadillac, you have to look elsewhere," said Mr. Sharp referring to the volunteer system.

Further Lake Study Unlikely

MARMORA — Marmora Village and Marmora and Lake Townships have received replies from J.W. Tooley of the ministry of the environment and Clarke Rollins, Hastings-Peterborough MPP to answer in their request for a study of Crowe Lake.

Mr. Tooley said recently funds alloted for such studies are limited and these studies are undertaken on a priority basis However, he said he would forward the request to the technical support group for consideration.

Mr. Rollins told council he had been advised by the minister of the environment that a comprehensive survey of Crowe Lake was carried out during 1973 and additional testing of the lake's water quality was undertaken during 1974 and again this past summer. It is therefore felt, he said, a further comprehensive survey is not required at this time.

The ministry stated that with the exception of the two sources of public water supply (Hooster Park and Ameygeo Spring), which the minister is bringing to the attention of the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit, the bacteriological data provided by the Property Owners Association is typical of what one might expect to find in any recreational lake.

The county, the ministry said are high enough to support the position that no surface water should be consumed without prior disinfection but low enough to be well within the ministry's criteria for body contact recreation.

Major Powers—East and West—Are the Culprits in Business of Arms Supply

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Who is responsible for the endless conventional wars of our age, presently waged in the form of civil wars in Northern Ireland, Lebanon and Angola?

It's the arms merchants, who use that once-familiar word of the 1930s, when the titles of Basil Zaharoffs peddled the kind of weaponry which is child's play compared to the stuff around today.

The arms merchants were supposed to be operating in secret, against the drug peddlers of the '60s and '70's with popular rhetoric and "scoop reporters on radio trying to find out about their nasty activities.

There are still arms merchants in this kind around, plenty of them. Take Lebanon. Though the bullets fly, Beirut distinguishes itself in that it is empty, the weapons still get in and through the so-called seaport.

Or take Ireland. What possible purpose could a Libyan ship, of all nationalities, have in Irish waters? Loaded with arms, that's what, most of them bought earlier from the big powers for the Libyan armed forces, and going clandestinely to the IRA terrorists.

But it's no longer a problem to sell and re-sell weapons around the world to any and all who want them. The major culprits are the great powers themselves, capitalist and Communist.

And in the case of the United States, Canada and Britain these vast exports of weapons and machines to kill, maim and destroy have to be approved by congress and parliaments.

Take the latest weapons package which the U.S. Congress must approve. The newest of American aircraft and modern aviation support services are being sold at one and the same time to the bitterest of enemies, Israel and Saudi Arabia.

The Israelis want and will get the brand new F-15 jet fighter to replace the ancient Phantoms in the U.S. Air Force. The Saudis will get the rest of a complete modernization package of their air force and military air base facilities, the latter to cost a staggering $1.4 billion.

Shouldn't one query the mediocrity of this kind of business? While Dr. Kissinger was running back and forth between Israel and Arab capitals a few months ago trying to get agreements on Sinai and the Golan Heights, the American aircraft and weapons industries were busy selling to both sides.

France has announced a staggering $9-billion package to build an arms-making industry in Egypt from which the Egyptians in the future can make their own equipment, plus a new subway for Cairo.

What in heaven's name does Egypt want with that kind of outlay in a nation bursting at its seams with the population explosion of 36-million people, most of them still living close to the bottom of the economic scale of poor Third World nations.

How long would Jews and Arabs fight each other if the Israelis did not have U.S.-built F-4 jets to send screaming over Palestinian villages and the T-55 did not have Soviet automatic weapons and man-handled bazookas which can turn a market square into a bloody shambles.

Take away the weapons and most of these wars would not begin.

With very few exceptions it is industrial nations who supply the world with their guns and aircraft. These are the self-same countries who sit in the United Nations bewailing future doom from man's warring instincts which they are feeding at the same time.

Higher Energy Costs Promote Conservation And Boost Research

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

The economic dilemma facing Canada's policy-makers is a question of prices.

Canadians, by and large, are fed up with constant price increases.

Public exasperation finally led to the creation of the Anti-Inflation board and, in turn, to the board's recently-announced decision to impose a large number of Canadian businesses to submit any intended price increases to it.

But all increases are not necessarily bad, in Canada's view, if desirable results—such as conservation—flow from a price hike.

"Facing consumers and producers with higher relative prices for energy is the most important single policy available to promote more efficient use and production of energy," said the government's anti-inflation paper tabled Oct. 14.

One school of economic thinking—with the firm agreement of most producers—argues that price increases should indeed be used more imaginatively.

If the price of energy supplies (to use the government's example) is pushed high enough, consumers do scale down their use and look for cheaper alternatives.

That new demand, plus the higher level of prices, combine to encourage suppliers to develop new sources, substitute products and new production methods. Investment is shifted into more socially rewarding outlets, and everybody benefits.

Another side of that argument is that, in a free market, competition will keep prices from rising unnecessarily.

But the economic theory isn't always borne out in terms that the consumer must cope with.

While retail prices of energy supplies have been multiplying in recent years, there's been little if any evidence that the sharply - increased revenues have enabled producers to find new sources, to develop substitute products or to improve their production techniques.

Industry's position always seems to be that it's the best price increase, rather than the last one, that will be the key to future abundance.

Competition? Of course—collusion could land the businessman in jail, for one reason.

But the benefits of competition are felt much more by consumers in heavily populated places, than in areas where suppliers have a near-monopoly.

What does it all add up to?

The returns aren't in yet—and probably won't be until the anti-inflation program has been in effect for more than a year.

Even if the costs of doing business were frozen today, upward pressures on prices would be bound to continue for the next several months while cost increases that have already been decreed, worked their way through the pipeline and into final prices.

But business costs haven't been frozen. As one example, wage rates will be rising by 10 or 12 per cent a year—more in some cases.

And to another example, energy costs—which are basic to any enterprise—will be allowed to rise under the government's policy "to promote more efficient use and production."

Jean-Luc Pepin, Beryl Plumptre and their anti-inflation board have taken on a truly Olympian task in administering a program that will necessarily sanction many price increases—even if for the best of economic reasons.

Self-Care Unit's Fate

It comes as little surprise to learn of the impending demise of the Queen's Self-Care Unit.

Its closing has been a matter of speculation for some time and now, with restrictions on hospital expenditure as with other sectors the final decision merely puts the seal on what had been anticipated.

For all that, the Self-Care Unit has been an important innovation in the area of medical care and it has served an important purpose. That it could not have been made more viable economically is less the fault of administration than of these straitened times. It will be remembered as an idea of then Health Minister Dr. Richard Potter. The former motel facility became available and its conversion to use as a hospital auxiliary unit took place.

There is the possibility of a smaller unit being established in the Edith Cavell building but this will depend on a number of factors including finance. Discussions on such a project are scheduled with ministry officials this week.

What of the Queen's facility? It was once a popular model and restaurant and it was missed in this context when converted to a medical establishment. Should it revert to that use it would represent both a comeback and a welcome new addition to the Belleville scene.

A Fitter Canada ?

"As Canada heads into Olympic Year we are challenged, young and old, toward excellence of body fitness; to get involved; develop new standards, to 'keep on track.'"

This is the legend on the cover of a special appeal issue of "Concerns," which is published quarterly by Alcohol and Drug Concerns Inc., of Don Mills.

— It's a timely reminder of the health problems Canadians face as a nation, and of the vast improvements that could be effected nationally by a change in lifestyle. Of course it is easier said than done, but "Concerns" nevertheless believes it has a good "track record" in this context for an organization of its size.

Its work ranges from commercials aimed at counteracting those seeking to promote alcohol, for instance, as socially desirable, to a week-long university course on alcohol and drug-related problems, a trailer program — an on-street facility to contact youth and parents in a variety of community settings.

There's a cover picture of two young girl athletes in a relay race, reminiscent of the 50-cent Olympic stamp of a hurdler in action, and there's a contribution from Lake Ontario swimmer Cindy Nicholas who has proved herself to be one of the finest of our young athletes and a bright and intelligent personality too.

There is evidence that alcohol has become an increasing problem in our society since the lowering of the drinking age. This, coupled with the lower age for driving a car, is causing real concern.

It's not a happy thought on the eve of Olympic year and in the absence of any immediate change in the legislation, the positive work of groups such as Alcohol and Drug Concerns Ltd. compel our attention and admiration.

Grits Have Three Front-runners In Quest for Party Leadership

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — With their leadership convention little more than a month away the Liberals to date haven't been showing very much promise.

There is a group of candidates in the field.

And some hub-beating has been underway.

But the campaign to date has been far from inspiring.

Three of the candidates are to be given serious consideration: Stewart Smith, the new MPP and psychiatrist from Hamilton.

This is mainly because he appears to have substantial support in caucus.

He is acknowledged to be bright and many of his colleagues consider him to be an able politician, even though he is a freshman.

Peterson also has won some respect in his first term.

It has been prominent in committee work and it has been recognized that he could have a bright future.

But for the moment his youth is against him.

MacGuigan, it is said, will have some federal backing.

But still it is hard to rank him at the top.

He has now had quite a long political life in Toronto and Windsor and it seems he always just misses.

He has never been able to really make the big time.

And if the Liberals don't come up with somebody else it seems they may just miss too.

A fact of "this Liberal convention is that time is all-important.

The party probably will be facing an election within a few months of electing its leader.

And this calls for a man who can register quickly with the public and make the party credible.

Spending—at $31 Billion—'Out-of-Control' Macdonell

By RICHARD JACKSON

Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — It's only money.

It is more than $31 billion which the government this year is spending.

But it's your money. And you know how much you are paying in taxes.

It's still the same old story told every year by one Auditor General after another — waste, extravagance, duplicate, indifference. All opening the treasury to the peril of fraud with government spending out of control.

The story is such an old serial that Parliament's Public Accounts Committee, trying to keep pace with it, is running two and sometimes three years behind.

It isn't, says this new, subdued and low-key Auditor General J.J. Macdonell, that people in government are dishonest.

It's just that with so much money involved — think of it, $31 billion-plus — control has been lost, accounting has broken down and there's really nobody in charge of the federal store.

Treasury Board is supposed to be keeping a constant audit, scanning and trimming departmental spending.

But's its long too busy busting the bilingualism program and overseeing the staff operation of the ever-expanding bureaucracy.

So it has not really had time to bother with such non-essentials as out-of-control government spending.

That, too, until the last reshuffle of cabinet, Charles M. (Bud) Drury was President of Treasury Board.

And he was the one, the very one, who tried so hard to muzzle the former about-to-be-fired the honestopps Auditor General Maxwell Henderson.

To a degree he succeeded, too, for Bud and his cabinet buddies managed to make criticism of government policy a no-no for the Auditor General.

Which could have been one of the contributing reasons for the bungling Max Henderson's departure and replacement by the more diplomatic James Macdonell.

One more thing about Bud Drury — he let deputy defence minister some 25 years ago when he was a young man found on the Army's payroll at Camp Petawawa and volunteers were stripping living quarters there of stoves, fridges, washers and other household appliances and even running off with a Canadian Pacific spur line track.

But Bud has got durability and survived that as he will survive, as Public Works Minister, payment of nearly $900,000 rental for the government for office space it neglected to occupy, a waste that the Auditor General wants this year could soar to $4,500,000.

It's only money, though.

And the reason, says the Auditor General, that its spending is out of control lies backlog the bun bureaucrats, the deputy ministers, shuffle ir around at will.

Parliament votes a specific amount to a department for this purpose, and if it pleases him, the deputy can, and often does, says the Auditor General, transfer it for some other use.

And who is to know, much less object, until it's a couple of years too late.

Parliament doesn't and can't until it shows up in the Auditor General's report, and then what's to be done but perhaps deplore the practice and condemn it in yet another report that goes onto the shelf along with all the others to gather dust.

And who is to care, when former Prime Minister Pearson, regarding it as a joke, regaled a press conference with first-person stories — he was a deputy minister himself, he knew the angles — of how the boss bureaucrats hamboozled Treasury Board.

They would inflate their estimates, he laughed padding the spending plans with lots of wasteful fat. Treasury Board would cut off the lard, the deputies would end up with what they wanted in the first place. But in a "tough" fight been made, and everyone was happy except perhaps the taxpayer, and he, poor sap, didn't know what was going on.

Then accept confirmation from former Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Herb Gray who is on record with the admission that nobody — not MPs, no cabinet, and definitely not the voting taxpayers — has the "manipulative powers" of the boss bureaucrats.

They have got $31 billion to play with.

And in this reckless era of squandermania the "bright young men" who come up with new and "innovative" ideas for spending it are the ones who get to the top and into the multi-billion-dollar play.

Like the sharp young "innovator" who gave us the Company of Young Canadians, Opportunities for Youth, and other similarly manipulative handgrabbers.

He is an assistant deputy now with millions to play with. He will be a deputy, a boss bureaucrat one of these days, and he will be into the billion-dollar league.

But it's only money.

Artificial Shortages

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

May I add my praise to the Paul Collins letter. We were brave enough to cross picket lines and go back to work. The people who went back apparently realize that a fair raise was given so why try to kill the golden goose.

Some of the causes for labor demands could be the increasing rise in prices brought on by so-called shortages. May I suggest that these shortages could be caused by large financial groups buying, for example, practically all stocks of sugar and holding them off the market, and then, by creating a shortage, selling it at a handsome profit. Next it could be coffee etc., etc.

Now we are being told the only way to help conserve our dwindling gasoline supply is to raise the price so people will not buy so much, but what about the laborer who has no other means of travelling to his job? He will have to strike for higher pay one so the vicious circle will go on.

Why not ration any scarce item so all will share and not put a ceiling price on allowing the manufacturer a profit, labor will not need a raise.

CITIZEN

Mileage

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

A letter was printed in the Nov. 11 edition of your paper which was printed quite incorrectly... I have enclosed a copy of what you check my original copy, you'll see that the estimates of miles driven in the U.S. were 22 per cent less and 27 per cent less with only a 16 per cent drop in accidents.

Quite by mistake, I think, the typesetter left out the 3 (and again the three) in each case.

Ann Landers

Size of Your Family Is Nobody's Business

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have a beautiful five-year-old child. This is the only child we plan on having. Are we committing a terrible crime?

I'm sick of answering questions from ignorant relatives, nosy friends, co-workers, etc., as to why we only have one child.

These ignorameses actually make comments in front of the youngster. He is an alert and sensitive boy. Now he has started to ask why we don't give him a brother. We have tried to explain as best we can. Our answers satisfy him until some big mouth starts it all over again.

We've been very polite to these dummies but both my husband and I are losing our patience. What's the solution?—The Mother Of An Only Child.

Dear Mother: You don't owe ignorameses and dummies an explanation. The size of your family is none of their business. Since you obviously want to respond, simply say, "We could never be this lucky again so we've decided to quit while we're ahead. Any more questions?"

Dear Ann Landers: What can you do when the person you work under is, quite frankly, a lurker? If I need an ok for a project I have to go over his head because he is unable or unwilling to make a decision.

This lurker is not only indecisive but he is sheen-hinded, groveling, ineffective and he tends to be when it serves his purpose.

Although I'm the one who is writing, several people in this organization share my sentiments. No one actually dislikes the jerk but he is out of his element.

Unfortunately, the executives around here are totally insensitive to this person's inadequacy. Even though they have been told everything I'm telling you, they seem unwilling to replace him. It gets worse and worse. We need your advice.—Frustrated In Orange County.

Dear O.C.: You don't say if the turkey happens to be the boss's son-in-law. This could make a difference. Also, the turkey might have something on a member of top management.

If neither of these two possibilities are in the picture, be patient. It's just a matter of time and he'll get the ax. Do your own jobs and work around the bird.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm an 18-year-old college student (girl) with a serious problem. Mother. She swears she doesn't read my mail, but I can tell when an envelope has been steamed open and resealed. Sometimes the resealing doesn't stick. Frequently my mother betrays mentioning things she could have learned only from reading my mail.

Last night we had a long discussion about her snooping. She wouldn't admit a thing, but insisted I was a "selfish daughter" for depriving her of the pleasure of sharing my romantic experiences.

Am I wrong about this? Please tell me if you think so and I'll shape up.—Going Bananas.

Dear Nana: You are not wrong. It's your mother who needs to shape up. Mail is personal and private property. Your mother needs a hobby.

Pre-natal Detection Of Muscular Dystrophy

EDMONTON (CP) — Discovery of a method to detect muscular dystrophy during early pregnancy may only be two years away, a researcher said Monday.

Dr. Patricia Stewart, said in an interview the Hamilton-based McMaster University research group is close to a major breakthrough in early detection of the disease, which in its most common form is incurable and fatal.

"We feel we've found the defect, is shown long before birth," she said. The disease, which shows up in young boys in its most common form, now is usually detected only three or four years after birth.

Dr. Stewart said such early detection would pose a "terribly difficult" question for parents.

The mother would face a "great responsibility" in deciding whether to terminate the pregnancy or allow the child to face a short, frustrating life.

Most of those affected are in a wheelchair by the time they are 10 years and at 15, they cannot feed themselves or turn in bed. They usually die between the ages of 18 and 21.

Dr. Stewart said a cure for the disease probably is much further off.

For City Kids

TORONTO (CP) — The publishing company, Kids Can Press, is providing children with alternative literature which reflect city life. I'm a Child of the City, by Esther Pine and Ann Powell; Strange Sky, by Ann Powell and The Sandwich by Ian Wallace and Angela Wood are samples of books which children may identify to their urban surroundings.

Single Status Has Greater Cancer Risk

OTTAWA(CP) — Canadians who are single, divorced or widowed have a greater chance of dying of cancer than those who are married, says a United States expert.

Writing in the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. J. A. H. Lee, a professor of epidemiology at the University of Washington, says his study of 170-73 Canadian mortality figures show "differences (in the death rate) unlikely to be due to chance."

Dr Lee studied the rate of death due to cancer of the gastrointestinal tract—mainly the stomach and intestines—which he said account for 29 per cent of all cases of cancer and 30 per cent of all deaths from cancer.

The mortality rate for divorced men was 26 per cent higher than for their married men, he found. Widowed men have a 25-per-cent higher death rate and single men 18 per cent.

The death rates were 22 per cent higher for divorced women, 14 per cent for widows and four per cent for single women, compared with their married women.

Dr. Lee says no studies had been done to pinpoint the causes of the higher cancer death rate but speculates that lifestyles may play a big part.

He says he feels unmarried people may use more tobacco and alcohol than married people, and says this may contribute to their problem.

"Differences in mortality in the groups of different marital status may be the result of features of the unmarried state such as cooking arrangements," the article says.

Amy Marshall gives Rotary Club's Santa Claus an adoring look.

Santa Visits Handicapped Kids

Santa Claus was the guest of honor at a Tuesday night's Christmas party in the Parkdale Community Centre, sponsored by the Rotary Club for Belleville's handicapped children, the party was attended by 35 children and their parents.

Carol singing, led by Linton Reid and accompanied by Robert Johnston, opened the festivities following dinner.

Margaret Dyment and her daughter Sue presented a magic act that entertained the audience with all sorts of tricks, including a live rabbit brought out of an empty top hat. The two magicians also did mind-reading routines and sleights-of-hand that made scarves appear in the air.

A Christmas play by the Interact group followed, in which the actors were dressed as toys. Interact members are all students at Centennial Secondary School, who take part in various community services.

One Santa Claus appeared, presents were distributed to all the children.

The gifts were purchased by the Rotary Club, and chosen for the children by staff of the Ontario Society of Crippled Children.

Students Prepare Christmas Dinner

A Christmas dinner, prepared and served by students of William R. Kidd School, was held Wednesday noon in the school auditorium, decorated with Christmas stars.

The annual event was attended by students and staff of the school in addition to invited guests, including representatives from the Hastings County Board of Education and members of the community who are affiliated with the school's work-experience program.

Two students were host and hostess for the occasion, 12 other students served the guests from the buffet tables, and 30 students were involved in the preparation of the turkey dinner.

Some Timely Tips for the Prevention Of Tearful Tiffs on Christmas Day

There's a scene on Christmas Day that too many of us are familiar with . . . some child (maybe ourselves) bursting into tears of frustration or fatigue. Too often these tears are a signal for other children to join the routine, and before you know it, adult emotions are involved as well.

Although these teary tiffs are usually short and easily set aside on such a "special" day, they really needn't happen at all.

It's up to parents to carry out preventative measures, so that no child need have his Christmas spoiled.

How? Here are a few suggestions gathered from experienced parents who keep the Yuletide jolly.

Don't get your children "hyped-up" through your own desires to relive the Christmas of your childhood. Too many parents set their kids on to tremendous expectations prior to Christmas.

"Santa will be here in just 10 or 12 or 20 days, you better be good so you'll get lots of presents," may seem like a handy disciplinary technique . . . but by reaching for a pitch of excitement that can only lead to tearful time.

Keep your balance by stressing other holiday events — going tobogganing, or to a show, or to visit relatives — so that the children's focus is not only on Christmas gifts-getting. A little parental "merchandising" beforehand can keep everything in proportion.

If you see one of your kids getting wound up, spend him off by himself in the slightest sign of a quivery chin or whiney voice. Once he's cooled down, put him in charge of some activity — peeling oranges, handing out presents, being leader of a game — to keep him busy and feeling important.

If your family is still young, start "family traditions" that give the day order.

A stocking full of small gifts — little puzzles, card games, comic books — will keep early risers occupied until older children and parents are ready to get up.

In the stockings and under the tree, make sure there are plenty of oranges, tangerines and nuts to nibble. Since few children can tolerate breakfast until after presents-opening, keep them from getting over-hungry and irritable.

Open gifts one at a time.

Simple though that idea seems, many families let enthusiasm take over from good sense, and before you know it there's a mad scramble and suddenly it's all over.

The one-at-a-time technique gives each person several chances to be the centre of attention, either as giver or getter. It also spreads the excitement more evenly and gives each person time to look at what he's just got before he opens the next one.

Childish rivalries often rear their ugly heads at Christmas. "I got more than you got," is an unbearable taunt and the agony of "not trying as much as" can be painful to a nine-year-old.

Check that your children are being treated as equally as possible. If grandparents or other relatives send gifts, it's quite within your role as loving parents to open the parcels very carefully before hand to see what's been sent.

Grammies are only human, after all, and may show their otherwise hidden preference for one child over another in the choosing of gifts. If this happens, it can be neutralized by your choice of presents.

Even if sharing is normally a virtue at your house, squabbles can be avoided by stipulating that on Christmas Day, each child may keep his gifts entirely to himself if he wishes.

At the end of the unwrapping, have each child pile his presents beneath the tree and then choose one toy or game to keep out. This prevents a mess in the living room and the confusion of too much to play with at one time.

What about the tearful child who didn't get what he wanted?

This is frequent result of the pre-Christmas commercial build-up and is hard to counter. Try, however, to channel the child's interest into what he did get.

Explain, lovingly, that he should be glad about what he does have instead of wishing for what he doesn't have.

Say you know, that's not a bad idea for the grown-ups either.

Ask Santa to substitute some toy or game for the gift of the month — always the choice of dinner-time overeaters is suggested. Maybe he can spare his allowance to buy it later in the year.

Pocket Calculators Hot Commodity in East Europe

WARSAW, Poland (Reuter) — The Polish man-in-the-street asked seductively: "Have you got a pocket calculator?"

This is the hottest "I'm-looking-for-a-present-for-a-friend" question in this part of the world.

The Western traveller, who had crossed East Germany and now was entering Poland, was indeed in short supply somewhere in Communist border controls this time the pocket calculator wanted to spearhead Western "penetration" of the economies of the East.

In earlier years, East European checks concentrated on books, magazines, newspapers and western currencies as well as gold rings, diamonds, icons and great works of art.

Today the tiny pocket calculator testifies to the survival of the profit motive among East European citizens despite years of communism.

A calculator bought in West Germany or Austria for $10 dollars, can reap a 300-per-cent profit, based on the black market rate in Hungary.

Economics perpetually plague bloc tourism.

East European Communist states, chronically short of hard currencies, begrudge the money spent on tourism to Western countries unless they can recoup from the spending of Western tourists visiting their holiday spots.

But not every East European state has warm, sunny beaches to entice the West European sun bather.

Even the travel between bloc states, Communist economics and the individual's economic search for a quick ruble, zloty, forint, crown or mark can combine to upset the financial equilibrium.

When East Germany and Poland scored their frostiest to each other's citizens in 1972, Poles swarmed into East Germany and snapped up cheaper or better household goods and food.

The East Germans complained and Poland's tourist balance lurched into the red. A year later the whole scheme had to be changed, making it expensive for Poles to go into East Germany and cheaper for East Germans to visit Poland.

"It's simply that there are many more Poles than East Germans—34 million of us to their 18 million," explained a Pole.

Not that tourism with a shopping basket is a novelty in Eastern Europe. When East Germans visit Czechoslovakia, they buy cosmetics, sardines, fruit and gasoline at advantageous prices.

Prague shops are kept well stocked by the Czechoslovak leadership to counterbalance the crackdown on political freedoms which followed the 1968 invasion by Warsaw Pact allied Communist states subsidize different items at varying price levels—and there is always some price loophole for a bloc visitor to exploit.

For years Poles have sought to substitute, or jointly finance vacations abroad by taking out crystal or quality textiles in their luggage.

A Polish crystal vase sells well in Bulgaria and Turkey where it can buy an ornamental leather vest which in turn sells at a premium back home.

Traditional smuggling still thrives in Poland.

"Who owns this?" they demanded. No one owned up and the coach rolled on without a load of items worth hundreds of thousands of zloty.

The goods must have been plated there by gnomes who wanted to play a dirty trick on a respectable enterprise" was the ironic comment of Warsaw magazine.

African Place Names Don't Identify Locations

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (CP) — African place names here are not simply to identify a location.

Many of them tell a story, advising travellers what to expect when they arrive.

They tell of long-forgotten battles, of places to find food, water and shelter; of "evil" places to be avoided.

For the early African traveller, food was of prime importance whether it was game, fish or vegetable.

Chando, for instance, meant there were elephants in the vicinity. Charirie told travellers there was food from the thorny fruit tree and Nyabar was a salty patch at the source of a river.

Nyamangwena gave immediate warning that the river of that name was a place of large crocodiles and so to be forded with care

Doroemhembwe was a ready source of food. It gave the message that the land alongside this stream was wet and animals became stuck in the mud and were easily killed.

Chiyamakwaya told the wayfarer there was a well-stocked fishing hole where bream were easily caught.

Mtoba was the destination of many a thirsty African. From the name he knew there were pools that could hold water throughout the dry season.

Gukorebwe gave the message that there was a pool with many fish while Chepudo was the festivalon of those who wanted a delicacy. The name means place of baboons.

Chembendoro and Chesumba were locations to be avoided—they both mean a place of lions. For those with a palate for owl's meat, Chinyamazizi—the place of owls—was a prime destination. Kubekewa had to be a good hunting area—the name translates as the place where hunters cut up the meat of the animals they killed.

And if life became was a popular stop, both Zinabi and Buhi were to be avoided, the names mean evil, bad or unlucky place.

Mvumenzamala was as popular for the hunter as the modern day restaurant. It was the place where the animals became caught in the swamp, and with the result that easy it was really a matter of looking at the menu.

Vukuzela—hunting—means the spears and snares would be busy and the cooking pots filled. While Inyathi—place of many buffalo - Sikhwele - partridge and Sindonobe—place of tsetse with edible roots—were all names that told travellers of the type of food they could expect.

Teacher Gives Students A Lesson on Jails

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Teacher Catherine Tuttle gave seventh-grade pupils a lesson that no longer is uncommon in many schools: what it's like to be in jail.

Mrs. Tuttle and 89 other New Haven teachers were fired to return to classrooms at the end of an illegal strike, repeating a scene that occurred recently in Massachusetts, Illinois and New York.

"I didn't feel it was degrading," the young teacher of English said of her 11 days in Niantic women's prison. "I knew any I was there."

She and four other women teachers joined in prison routine with convicted murderers and other criminals while seven male teachers wore blue coveralls' uniforms at the Bridgeport state jail. The remaining 73 strikers were housed in a vacant military barracks.

Mrs. Tuttle said the initial reaction of her pupils on her return to East Rock community school was curiosity about jail, not contempt or disrespect because of her legal tangle.

She and other teachers say they do not expect jailing to cause disciplinary problems if teachers explain their reason for going to jail.

The president of the New Haven Federation of Teachers, Frank Corrano, who also was jailed, said that "good disciplinne isn't based on blind obedience. I don't want students to seem to understand that teachers chose jail because they felt the school board and legislature were making unfair demands on them.

"The (no-strike) law is so one-sided, it gives the board a sacred gun to point at the teachers," he said.

But Superior Court Judge George A. Saden disagreed. It was he who jailed the 12 union negotiators and 78 rank-and-file members—the first such mass jailing of teachers who are not union leaders in Connecticut history.

"You are supposed to inspire the young impressionable minds that you teach," he told the striking teachers in a courtroom lecture. He argued that their choice of jailing would reduce their effectiveness as teachers and suggested the school board consider firing them."

He fined the 90 teachers and the union a total of $224,500 as part of their civil contempt penalties. The fines, which the union's parent American Federation of Teachers (AFT) will pay, will go to the board of education.

Connecticut is one of 25 states allowing teachers to join a union or other bargaining group but also prohibiting them from striking, according to the AFT. Three other states permit teachers to bargain collectively and to strike.

Striking teachers in Secaucus, N.Y., Lynn, Mass., and Shelton, Conn., were jailed this fall for contempt of court.

In addition, no-picketing orders led to house arrest during non-working hours for about 200 Wilmington, Del., teachers for demonstrations.

A Chicago teacher union leader is appealing a strike-related five-month jail sentence, an AFT spokesman said.

Local Accordion Player Takes Top Student Award

"It was a shock," says Heather Ostrander, 12, of Carrying Place, who has been chosen top student in the Eastern Region of Ontario Conservatory of Music.

Miss Ostrander, who has been playing accordian for three years, is with her teacher Murray McNeely of Kingston. She was chosen from about 750 students in the five-studio region from Peterborough to Kingston.

She says she practices at least 30 hours a week at home, and she spends Sundays performing for friends.

Heather also takes singing at Keele School where she is in Grade 7. She's entering Grade 6 in her music studies with the Conservatory and wants to be an accordian teacher.

She's played the instrument about three years. Her mother tried to talk her out of taking it up at all because she played accordian by ear.

Heather says the instrument weighs about 25 pounds and is worth $1,500.

Each teacher in the five-studio region chose three students for consideration. They were judged on lesson attendance, compliance to missed lesson procedure, enthusiasm, willingness to perform and home practice.

The top student from the region from Peterborough to Kingston says the 13-year-old accordian player earned the award.

Outdoor Skating Fees Unchanged This Season

Are winters becoming milder?

Whatever the reason, sustained cold spells have become so unreliable membership fees in Belleville recreation department's outdoor skating program will remain unchanged this winter.

The parks board this week agreed membership charges remain the same for its program at the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club.

A staff report says each year it seems there is "less skating time available for the outdoor enthusiast."

Clifford Belch, recreation director, said after the committee meeting northern Ontario winters are not "really reliable" for outdoor skating. In Toronto, such programs already are being reduced.

"It seems to be a change in the climate" said Mr. Belch.

The fee schedule ranges from 75 cents for a skating lesson up to $15 for family membership.

Township Raises Snow Fee

MARMORA — Marmora and Lake Township's council has set $18.60 an hour for snowplowing and sanding service in Deloro Village.

Reeve Doug Lynch of Deloro said recently the service provided in the past by the township had been satisfactory and the Village would like it to continue.

Last year's rate was $8.00 an hour but because of increased labor costs the Township Council felt an increase in the rate is in order.

Dancers Perform

Peter Locke and Drew Brickland performed the Chinese pas de deux from the Nutcracker Suite this weekend during the Quinte Dance Centre's annual Christmas party. The performance was the main attraction during the three-hour party.

MPP to Attend

Mike Breaugh, New Democratic Party MPP for Oshawa, will attend the Christmas dance being held by the NDP Prince Edward-Lennox riding association at Napanee Canadian Legion hall dec. 18.

Ald. Dever Questions Use of Hockey Profits

Any net profits from minor hockey in Belleville pay for ice time, the city's recreation arenas committee was told this week.

A month ago, city councillor Wally Dever asked why youngsters were charged admission to such games.

Youngsters are charged 50 cents, adults $1.

A staff report said revenues from Ontario Minor Hockey Association events also go towards expenses for referees and staff.

Ald. Dever said he was satisfied that any profits were turned back into minor hockey.

Santa's Arrival Delights Children

MADOC — A large crowd lined the streets of Madoc Saturday afternoon for the Christmas parade, despite the weatherman's warning of freezing rain, which held off until it was over.

The parade started at the fire station on Seymour Street and proceeded south on Durham Street through the village's main street.

The floats of Sacred Heart of Mary Catholic Church, the Mariners Volunteer Fire Department, and the Madoc Y.E.S. Group took the prizes as the best three floats in the parade.

Entries included horses, the Hinchinbrook Band from Belleville, the Stirling High-Steppers Majorettes, Bob Dunfield's horses from Stirling, the Sea Cadets from Belleville, a covered wagon, as well as the local cubs, scouts, brownies and guides. Floats, besides the winning ones mentioned above, included the Wesleyan and Free Methodist Churches, the Public School, the O.S.S.A. Pee Wee Champs, the Outers Club (the Dollalliers and Rebekahs, which featured Ken Yarrow's horses and wagon.

After the parade, children were entertained by firemen in the Kiwanis Centre.

Sarnia Firemen Get 20 Per Cent

TORONTO (CP) — The city of Sarnia must give a 20-per-cent increase in pay to its firemen as recommended in arbitration proceedings, Attorney-General Roy McMurtry said in the Ontario legislature Wednesday.

He said it appears that the maximum increase under the federal anti-inflation wage guidelines is 11.4 per cent and that is the amount the city has proceeded to pay.

Mr. McMurtry said that while the Anti-Inflation Act now is law in Canada, the public sector is not involved until the province signs an agreement with Ottawa.

At that time the increase may be rolled back, he said.

Lang Will Announce Passenger Rail Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Otto Lang said Wednesday he plans to announce the government's new passenger rail policy before Jan. 31.

He said outside the Commons he wants to make the announcement before that date because the Canadian transport commission must decide by then whether the transcontinental passenger train service should be continued.

The passenger-train statement will outline the government's general policy, leaving it up to the transport commission to determine which intercity routes should be maintained or improved, the minister said.

MP Will Fight Cuts In Railway Safety

OTTAWA (CP) — With last week's Toronto train-bus collision still a strong memory, former Liberal cabinet minister Martin O'Connell says he is going to fight against any cut in rail safety spending.

Mr. O'Connell, Toronto MP for Scarborough East, told reporters Wednesday that he will urge the government in Liberal caucus meetings not to reduce spending on rail safety projects such as subways, overpasses and signals.

The government is to announce its plans for restraining government spending Thursday. The spending restraints are part of the government's anti-inflation program.

The transport department announced Wednesday that $3.3 million in grants has been approved for two subways at St. Clair and Midland avenues, two roads 1,200 feet apart crossing Canadian National Railway's main Montreal-Toronto railway line. Nine people died in a bus-train collision there Friday.

At a news conference called by Mr. O'Connell and Alan Martin [—Scarborough West], the former labor minister said more money should be spent on rail safety.

The federal share of rail safety projects amounted to 25 per cent of costs up to a ceiling of $50,000 until changes were introduced two years ago.

The federal government now gives grants of 80 per cent of the initial $1.25 million, 60 per cent on the next $3.75 million and 4[illegible] per cent of the remaining costs.

B.C. Crown Delays Murder Trials

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Murder charges against three prisoners involved in the June hostage-taking incident at the British Columbia penitentiary were stayed Wednesday at the request of the Crown.

Crown counsel Tom Fisher said he was staying the charges on the instructions of the attorney-general who said Dwight Lucas, Andy Bruce and Claire Wilson are already serving life sentences for murder and attempted murder in other cases.

Three knife-wielding prisoners seized 14 hostages, releasing one hostage a short time later. The remaining 13 were held for 41 hours in a vault in the classification area of the prison.

A prison classification officer, Mary Steinhauer, was fatally shot when armed guards stormed the vault after the hostages tried to rush their captors.

Lucas, 30, of Winnipeg, Man., Wilson 25, of Campbell River, B.C., and Bruce, 38, of Prince Albert, Sask., still face charges of unlawfully confinement, possession of dangerous weapons, attempted escape and assaults. The trial on those charges starts Jan. 12.

Asked why the remaining charges against the convicts are going ahead when the murder charge was stayed, Mr. Fisher declined to comment, saying his remarks could prejudice the Crown's case.

Miller Urges Safer Arc-Lamps

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Frank Miller said Wednesday he will study the possibility of changing provincial regulations to make mercury-vapor arc lamps safer.

He told the legislature that the arc lamps, used as floodlights in parking lots and for similar purposes, emit high levels of ultraviolet radiation, which can cause burns and eye damage.

However, he said in most cases the quartz arc tube is enclosed in a glass envelope, which cuts the ultraviolet emission. The only danger occurs when the outer glass is broken without harming the inner light.

However, he said the quartz arc tube usually is enclosed in a glass envelope, which cuts the ultraviolet emission. The only danger occurs when the outer glass is broken without harming the inner light.

He said there have been cases outside Ontario where persons in gymnasiums have suffered burns and eye damage due to broken lamps.

Mr. Miller told Fred Burr (NDP—Windsor Riverside) he is willing to have his staff look into the possibility of regulations to require that the lamps stop working when the outer glass is damaged.

Smith May Charge Negligent Parents

TORONTO (CP) — John Smith, Ontario minister of correctional services, said Wednesday the province no longer can accept parents' abdication of responsibility for their children and that he will urge prosecution of negligent parents.

Parents may be prosecuted for contributing to the delinquency of their children by abdication of their parental function which "surely includes knowing where their children are and who they are with," Mr. Smith in a speech to a group of volunteers involved in correctional work.

He said the province "can no longer afford to indulge whims nor tolerate the excesses of indulgent and affluent youth."

Teen-agers should also be required to carry identification cards with photographs, he said. The cards would be signed by the teen-ager and would contain his social security number where one has been issued.

The minister said he agrees McMurtry's suggestion that the legal age for drinking be raised to 19 from 18 and the driving age to 18 from 16.

A text of the speech was released prior to delivery.

Attached to copies of the speech given to reporters was a section of the Ontario Child Welfare Act prescribing fines of up to $25 for first offenses for parents who allow children less than 16 years of age to loiter in a public place after 10 p.m.

Approves 22 Per Cent

TORONTO (CP) — The provincial legislature Wednesday approved a select-committee recommendation that Ontario Hydro's Jan. 1 rate increase be held to 22 per cent.

The legislature also agreed to allow the committee to sit until March 31, 1976. The committee was to have ended deliberations Dec. 31.

Ontario Hydro earlier had reduced its increase proposals to 25 per cent from almost 36 per cent.

LIP Grant to Promote Safe Driving Stickers

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto man says he has been awarded a $15,000 Local Initiatives Program grant to help organize and promote production of 200,000 bumper stickers reminding motorists to use turn signals.

John Archer, who prefers to call the stickers safety strips, said Tuesday he will need an additional $10,000 to print the 10-by-four-inch stickers which will say: "Dr. a good turn-signal."

Mr. Archer, who suffers from multiple sclerosis and does not drive, said he got the idea for his project after hearing his wife complain about motorists who do not signal.

He plans to register the program with the federal government as a charitable institution which will enable contributors to claim tax deductions.

Douglas Crwan, an information officer with the transport ministry who has been recruited as executive-director of the program, said he thinks Mr. Archer's program will have no difficulty obtaining status as a charity.

Took Lessons

EDMONTON (CP) — Opera singer Cristina Deutekom started her career 25 years ago by taking singing lessons because she felt she didn't sing well enough to do a role in her church choir. Miss Deutekom was working in her own hosiery shop at the time and didn't plan on a singing career but since then she has appeared with many companies in Europe and North America.

Meat Dealers Charged With Selling Deadstock

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Four eastern Ontario meat dealers were ordered Wednesday to appear in court Jan. 6 on charges of selling deadstock meat for human consumption.

Richard Collins, 45, of Norwood, Ont., Gordon Elliott, 44, of Jasper, Ont., Nicholas Montague, 46, of Cardinaster, Ont., and Hans Kuhl, 44, Vankleek Hill, Ont., were released on their own recognizance.

Det. Insp. Eldon Bell of the Ontario Provincial Police criminal investigations branch said the charges of conspiring to defraud the public were laid following several months of investigation which began after a Quebec inquiry into organized crime earlier this year.

He said testimony indicated that several deadstock operators in Ontario had knowingly supplied meat, fit only for pet food, to Quebec residents for resale in both provinces.

Det. Insp. Bell said the men are charged with conspiring with three other persons from the Gatineau, Que., area to defraud the public during the period from Jan. 1, 1962, to May 1, 1975.

Names of the Quebec residents were not released.

Parent Training

EDMONTON (CP) — Family-life training is available to Edmonton high school students in a credit course called Being and Becoming a Parent. Each student is assigned a child and documents its developments through weekly sessions with the kids, visiting parents and attending meetings and workshops with them.

RCMP Charge 16 In Narcotic Raids

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — An RCMP spokesman said Wednesday that 34 charges have been laid against 16 persons after three days of narcotics raids in Northern Ontario.

The spokesman said the raids followed six months of investigation by members of the British narcotics team.

No names of those charged have been released, but the spokesman said the 16 persons are from Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury, Timmins and Thunder Bay.

Insp. Lloyd Larose said the street value of the drugs seized is more than $100,000.

The operation ended Tuesday when 17 charges of conspiracy to traffic in drugs, 13 of possession of drugs for purposes of trafficking, and four of possession were laid, he said.

Drugs seized were marijuana, hashish and a small quantity of chemicals.

Sonic Device Controls Canines

PORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP) — Mail carriers in this northwestern Ontario town are putting an electronic bite into the carrier population.

Postal workers have been issued a sonic device that effectively keeps would-be bite hitters at a safe distance by emitting sound waves painful to a dog's ears.

Ray Edgett a mail carrier who tested the device, said the device proved effective against a persistent pooch with ideas of taking a quick Christmas nip.

"A dog was coming at me from across the street at full gallop," he said. "When I let him have it with the sound of the dog-chaser, he stopped in his tracks about 15 feet away and just looked at me with a sort of a dumb, puzzled look."

Local mail carriers say as many as 94 dogs—most of them unfriendly—can be encountered during a single day's work. The device, manufactured in the United States, sells for about $8 and cannot be detected by human ears.

Canadian Ku Klux Klan Fined $2,000

CALGARY (CP) — The former imperial wizard of the Alberta Ku Klux Klan was fined $2,000 in provincial court Wednesday after he was found guilty of charges in connection with the death of a Mexican immigrant.

Teutach Mac A Phearsein, 27, of Calgary was fined $1,500 for criminal negligence and $500 for dangerous use of a firearm.

Mac A Phearsein was charged after Elias Aguilar Ramirez, 23, whom Mac A Phearsein brought to Canada as a servant, was found shot to death at Mac A Phearsein's home Sept. 12, 1974.

Mr. Justice W. H. Moore said the fact that Mac A Phearsein was waving Ramirez's loaded gun was "a reckless disregard for the safety of the deceased."

Mac A Phearsein resigned as head of the Alberta KKK following the incident.

Olympic Architect Bills Mount

QUEBEC (CP)—Architectural novelty in the design of the main building of the Olympic stadium caused a $100 million cost increase between June and November this year, says a report prepared by a group of consultants.

Tabled in the national assembly Wednesday, the report also blamed recurring technical adjustments and poor labor relations for the cost increase.

The report by Lalonde, Valois, Lamarre, Valois and Associates Inc. confirmed cost of the 72,000-seat stadium and swimming pools now is estimated at $984 million.

Futuremobile

Sam —Colosimo, 18, of Niagara Falls, Ont., sits in the Futuremobile, his two-passenger electric car built from scrap metal and plywood. The car weighs 150 pounds and has a shock-absorbing front bumper, wheels from a lawn mower and a starter motor from a car. Sam is uncertain whether electric cars will ever be practical because of the heavy batteries. He uses one automobile battery and each change keeps the car running 15 to 20 minutes. (CP Photo)

Search for Peace Priority for 1976

OTTAWA (CP) — In an effort to reduce food costs, shoppers are advised to cut down on all finest attitudes, conspicuous spending and overconsumption. These suggestions come from the food advisory services of Agriculture Canada.

In its publication, Easy on the Budget, the service suggests that shoppers buying groceries purchase the basic food groups first—the luxuries later.

"You'll be surprised at what your dollar still brings in dairy products, cereals, meat, fruits and vegetables."

Another idea is to rediscover home cooking.

"Take a tip from European or oriental countries who never had our riches—or our rich diet. Treat yourself to the ethnic food combinations that had humble beginnings, born out of the need to make a little go a long way.

"Try dishes such as curry, chili, polenta, Chinese stir-fry meats and vegetables or Stroganoff."

The department also suggests that homemakers cook less food, and if too much is cooked, it should be saved.

"Store it carefully and use it ingeniously in the next day or two. Give children small servings at first and seconds when they are ready. In our throwaway culture, some could feed another person with what we leave on our plates."

The department says stretching food dollars in today's well stocked markets "is a challenge to most shoppers, regardless of income."

The first step in meal planning is to choose the main dish. "Canada's Food Guide helps provide the answer to what should be chosen with the recommendation that one serving of meat, fish, poultry, eggs, cheese or dried beans or peas be served each day."

Also, eggs and cheese should be eaten at least three times a week.

Th cook should adjust the size of each recipe so it provides enough for a family meal without leftovers, the brochure be extended with a sauce, stuffing or some other food."

Other tips listed: Select the fresh fruits and vegetables in season when they are most economical; otherwise substitute frozen or canned.

Solar Heat Urged By Toronto Architect

TORONTO (CP) — John Atkinson, an engineer, who says he believes traditional home-heating methods are expensive and wasteful, has set about designing an apartment building heated by the rays of the sun.

Mr. Atkinson, who is looking for money to fund the project, said in an interview that the city has granted him approval to vary from bylaws so he can attempt to build the solar-heated building.

Solar - heating experiments have been started in many North American cities during the last few years and solar energy has been used for years to heat domestic water supplies in Japan and Israel, he said.

The experiments in other countries persuaded Mr. Atkinson to devote his time to improving solar-energy technology.

But the cost of constructing a solar-heated building are high and without government assistance, it may not be possible to complete the project, Mr. Atkinson said.

Last summer, $100 million was available for such projects through the federal government's Canadian urban demonstration program for innovative housing, but the government cut $1 billion from its over-all budget and the demonstration project was scrapped, he said.

The extra costs include solar-collector panels, which soak up the sun's rays and convert them into a different kind of ray which can be used to heat water passing through copper or tra piping to carry water through the house.

Solar-heated houses also retain a large water reservoir underneath the building and ei. piping to carry water through aluminum panels.

Appeal Unlikely in Meneely Case

There will apparently be no appeal of the reformatory term imposed on Jeremiah James Arthur Meneely, 19, of RR 3, Peterborough when he was given a one-year sentence for manslaughter by Justice Lawrence Fennell of the Ontario Supreme Court here on Nov. 18.

Crown attorney Glenn Dellire of Belleville said Monday to his knowledge an appeal had not been launched as of late Monday afternoon.

Both Mr. Dellire and defence counsel Ronald Thomas of Toronto had 30 days in which to apply for appeal.

Justice Fennell recommended Meneely be sent to the Ontario Correctional Institute at Brampton where he will be unable to secure psychiatric counselling.

A spokesman for the Quinte Regional Detention Centre at Napanee, where Meneely was taken immediately after the sentencing, said today Meneely was transferred to Brampton within a few days of the sentencing.

Meneely was on trial for eight days for murder punishable by life imprisonment in connection with the shooting death of his 40-year-old father, James Meneely, in their Rawdon Township farmhouse at RR 4, Marmora on Aug. 1, 1973.

A 12-member jury deliberated for about two hours and 45 minutes on Oct. 29 before finding Meneely guilty on the reduced charged which carries a possible maximum sentence of life imprisonment.

The 12-month sentence means Meneely will become eligible for parole after four months.

Councillors To Discuss Draft Plan

PICTON — Prince Edward County councillors will meet as a committee of the whole before the New Year to discuss a draft prepared on the re-structuring of county government.

Hillier reeve Allan Pettingill, a member of council's county government committee, said this week the draft for a single-tier government now should be presented to the full council for discussion.

"If they (Queen's Park) don't want to go any further then we feel we should drop that committee (county government committee)," he remarked.

Reeve Says Building Ignored in Report

PICTON — Prince Edward County's old registry office, vacated last spring when a new building was opened, has been overlooked in a grand jury report says Sophisburg reeve George Foster.

Reeve Foster Tuesday told county councillors this week the old registry office next to Shire Hall was not mentioned in the jury's report submitted to Judge Wilfrid Lane last month.

He added he feels the vacant office remains under jurisdiction of the grand jury's report as it is still county property.

Reeve Foster expressed concern that future disposal of the building could parallel the demolition of the old county home for the aged.

A grand jury report urged a new county home and council built one. The original home was demolished despite an eleventh hour attempt by the Prince Edward Historical Society for its preservation.

Chairman of council's property and supply committee, Athol deputy-reeve Harold Sills, said future use of the registry office has not been decided.

Area Lawyers Favor Retention of QC Title

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

Douglas Boyle, president of the Hastings Law Association, Wednesday described a group of lawyers who successfully spearheaded a vote to abolish the title of Queen's Counsel (QC) at the annual meeting of the Law Society of Upper Canada earlier this week as "young Turks".

"There was, I suppose, a rump group of younger lawyers who proposed the motion," Mr. Boyle said in a telephone interview.

The meeting's decision does not represent "the true opinion" of the majority of Ontario's over 18,000 lawyers, he said.

"I'm not going to say they're radicals, but they were bearded group of young lawyers," said Mr. Boyle, who attended Monday's meeting, but was forced to return to Belleville before the actual voting.

The motion to urge the federal and provincial governments to stop handing out the QC title was entered by John Swaigen, a lawyer with the Canadian Environmental Law Association.

About 450 lawyers voted in Toronto to abolish the title, saying it led the public to expect a greater degree of legal skill from those holding the title.

Mr. Boyle said that Mr. Swaigen was not in possession of the facts, in part, because he was only a year out of law school.

He disagreed with the "contention contained in the motion that QCs have higher fees and that titles are handed out as rewards for political or as political favors.

"Apparently, they had an axe to grind with the government," he concluded, saying he agreed completely with Attorney-General Roy McMurtry in his intention to haul out the title.

Support for the law society's motion was not widespread among Belleville lawyers as revealed in a sampling of legal profession by The Intelligencer Wednesday.

Lawyers George Murray and Ray Kaufman both said they opposed outright abolishment, adding that reform of the criteria upon which the title is given is necessary.

QC John Lennox and Robert McCulloch expressed little interest in either retention or abolition of the title, both declining to comment on Mr. McMurtry's position of support of the title.

Referring to his own entitlement, Mr. Lennox said, "Certainly, it won't affect me, except maybe in my obituary."

Former city solicitor, John Miller, who now is in private practice, said he supports awarding of the distinction, provided it is done so on merit and a barrister's work in court.

A lawyer's qualification for a QC was a key consideration among five of the six lawyers interviewed.

Mr. Kaufman said, "Perhaps, rather than abolish, we should examine the criteria to see if they are relevant and, indeed, valid."

The feeling has been prevalent among younger lawyers that to receive a QC one had to be a model citizen and have the right political affiliation, he said.

Mr. Murray was more emphatic. "All it now is political patronage, or at least 90 per cent of it.

"I don't think it should be given as a political favor. I should be restored to the position where it's given in recognition of courtroom competence," said Mr. Murray.

Red Tape Adding to Cost Of New Homes Warns Expert

BY COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

It is the responsibility of trade organizations such as the Quinte Home Builders to foster better understanding among builders and municipal councils, says Allen Klarer, a director of the Institute of Urban Development (IUDAC).

Mr. Klarer made the comment at a meeting of the Quinte association in Belleville Wednesday.

"The builder's biggest problem is municipal red tape," said Mr. Klarer later during an interview.

Municipalities, "through all innocence, are penalizing prospective home buyers by demanding too much of the builder," he said. "Councils and planning boards are demanding unnecessary services calling for Cadillac developments instead of a comfortable Ford model."

Through municipal red tape, subdivisions are being held up for too long. "The longer it takes to get a subdivision off the ground, the more I, the consumer, said Mr. Klarer.

"It is the responsibility of HUDAC members such as the Quinte association, to meet with councils and do something to speed things up."

Mr. Klarer was complimentary of the Quinte association saying "the group here strikes me as having very good relations with civic administrators."

The Quinte Home Builders, more than a year ago, explained to city council that more co-operation should be fostered between the two groups which subsequently led to the formation of the "municipal liaison committee. The committee meets several times a year to discuss problems in the housing industry that can be overcome with changes in city hall.

Commenting generally on the Canadian housing industry, Mr. Klarer said some 215,000 homes were constructed in Canada this year, slightly more than the target set by the federal government.

"This total will undoubtedly be surpassed next year" he said.

HUDAC represents 5,500 member firms across Canada.

Loyalist Preparing For Further Restraints

By CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

Finance director of Loyalist College said Wednesday "chances are slim" the school will get the 13 per cent budget increase he says is necessary to maintain current college programs and services next year.

"Without any change in staff and assuming guidelines for wage increases are held we would need a minimum of 13 per cent to stay at the same level," said Glyn Harry.

He said due to a new government funding formula for universities and colleges now being developed the college will not know until January how much of an increase they are to be granted.

It was announced earlier this week the Ontario Government increased funding to universities and colleges by 14.4 per cent for next year.

Twenty-two community colleges are to share $230 million.

"We're not really in a position to say how it will affect us. Some colleges will get more, some less," said Mr. Harry.

Loyalist College, with about 1,850 full-time students and about 8,000 part-time students, was granted an 11 per cent increase this year over 1974.

The 1975 budget totalled about $7.1 million, about 90 per cent of funds came from the province, the rest in tuition fees, said Mr. Harry.

He said the school anticipates a surplus of about $28,000 in this year's budget.

"We've been careful in our budget determination to break even . . . we haven't cut any services," he said.

If the college does not get what he feels is the necessary budget increase, he said, they would have to examine services and programs offered and "live within the funds available".

Mr. Harry said the situation is uncertain at the moment but if they do not get the necessary increase it would take about one month "to determine how we can best serve our clients with financial restraints we have to operate under".

Students To Paint Windows

Century Place will get a dash of Christmas color this Saturday morning as 30 King George Public School children converge on the building armed with paint brushes.

Bill Wills, a spokesman for Bell-Bridge Developments Ltd. — builders of the $3.5 million commercial retail project — said approximately 30 "blank floor windows will be decorated by the Grade 7 and 8 students.

The children, ranging in age from 12 to 14, are expected on the site Saturday at 8 a.m. and are expected to complete their art work by noon.

Bill Lasky, King George teacher in charge of the project, said each window measures approximately seven feet square. Students will paint a border on each window and a scene measuring about five feet square in the center.

Century Place management is providing the washable paint and hopes to have each window judged and prizes awarded for best efforts.

Home Builders Reject Comments by Hockley

The Quinte Home Builders Association has decided against making a formal reply to criticisms lodged by Bill Hockley.

Several weeks ago, Mr. Hockley attacked the home builders' participation on a city hall committee which at the time was preparing a building standards bylaw for the city.

Mr. Hockley suggested the home builders stood to gain from a building standards bylaw in the way of better repair jobs.

At a meeting, the association in mid October decided to have a lawyer file a formal response to Mr. Hockley's allegations.

"We decided against this course of action because we can see no sense in fighting this battle through the media," said Bob Marcotte, president of the association.

"We would only be giving Mr. Hockley more fuel for comment by responding."

"We actively participated in the building standards bylaw but we didn't author it," said Mr. Marcotte.

Builders were used as consultants on the document for their expertise in the building field.

MORE

Home Builders take ?

There's nothing to be gained by continuing the debate with him, said Mr. Marcotte.

Responding to a comment that builders could be lining their own pockets by ensuring a bylaw would mean more renovations, Mr. Marcotte said "nothing could be further from the truth."

"Association members aren't even in the business of fixing old homes," he said. "We're in the business of building new ones."

Smoke Detectors Unusual Gift

BY CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

Belleville's fire department has perhaps the perfect gift suggestion for the family that has most everything and doesn't want to lose it — a smoke detector.

"We feel they're the coming thing," says Insp. Paul Stephenson of department's fire prevention.

Although it may not by our idea of a fun gift you could certainly put it to immediate use protecting your home against the fire hazards of Christmas trees and lights.

"If anyone is looking for a Christmas present this is a great one," says Insp. Stephenson.

Recently, he says, a smoke detector in a home at West Park Village alerted a family about a kitchen fire.

Smoke detectors, which cost between $20 to $80, he says, detect particles of combustion in an ionization chamber.

Cigarette smoke doesn't bother them, but any other kind of smoke will cause the alarm to round.

"They're very sensitive."

For residential fire protection he said they are better than heat detectors which do not activate an alarm until the room temperature reaches about 57 degrees (135 degrees Fahrenheit.)

In smaller homes one detector is enough,he he says. In two-storey homes two will provide sufficient protection. said Insp. Stephenson.

He said the fire prevention department will provide information on smoke detectors and installation.

Alarming Gift

Belleville firefighter Walter Skinkle checks installation of a battery operated smoke detector. He said detectors are available in Belleville stores and as a Christmas gift offer excellent residential fire protection.

One Hurt In Crash

BRIGHTON — A two-vehicle accident on Toronto Rd. Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. sent one man to hospital and caused $700 damage Wednesday afternoon.

Police said a northbound pick-up truck driven by Frederick Reilly, 28, of Trenton, was in collision with a second northbound vehicle driven by Michael Patrick, 26, of Trenton.

Patrick was taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital where he was treated for minor injuries and released.

There was $300 damage to the Reilly truck and $400 damage to the Patrick vehicle.

In Germany, Children Get Twigs If They're Bad

By CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

Loretto Beninger won't get twigs in her shoes this Christmas as she may have last year when she spent the holiday in Germany.

According to German custom children put their shoes outside the door on Dec. 5.

"If you've been good, St. Nicholas gets candy in them. If you've been bad you get twigs," said Miss Beninger, Grade 13 student at Belleville Collegiate Institute, who lived in Germany for 11 months last year as part of a student exchange program.

"There's no Santa Claus. There is St. Nicholas who is the messenger of the Christ Child," said Miss Beninger.

Food, she said, plays an important part in Christmas preparations. She gained 20 to 40 pounds taking part in the festivities, she says.

"The whole month of December was a baking spree and everyone helps because it is considered good luck."

"Germany has so many traditions that are different that I often wondered what was happening," she said.

In small villages a man, usually the mayor, dresses as St. Nicholas and visits all the children on Dec. 6 to warn them to be good for Christmas.

"Dec. 25 is a quiet family day...I thought the table would break under the weight of the food: roast goose, lungue, turkey, long loaves of bread bursting with nuts and raisons, homemade pastries and candies."

Miss Beninger stayed in Germany near the Black Forest until June of this year and says she's glad to be back in Canada for Christmas this year. "I enjoy my Christmas more as Germany's is more spiritual and ours is more commercial. It's all what you're used to. I like the idea of special food you eat only at Christmas but I like receiving all my gifts at one time."

Christmas Tree Originated in Germany

The legend of the first Christmas tree originated in Germany, says Loretto Beninger. Grade 13 student who spent last Christmas near the Black Forest as part of a student exchange program.

Winfred, an English missionary, says Miss Beninger, according to the legend, was travelling through the Bavarian Forest and came upon a group of people about to slay Prince Asulf by an oak tree as a sacrifice.

Winfred demanded an end to the proceedings and cut down the oak tree. In its place grew a fir tree.

The people were filled with fear and awe and Winfred explained it was the tree of life.

Area Builder Tries All-wood Basement

Rollins Construction Co. Ltd. of Belleville is applying to provincial and federal governments for approval of all-wood house foundations — a building innovation that has been under serious consideration over the early 1960s.

Using specially-treated lumber and plywood, the system's developers say all-wood basements can completely replace concrete block construction.

The wooden members are impregnated with preservatives under pressure. All the wood is completely kiln dried, and, study, some old Canadian experimental nature, have the wooden basement. While most of these are located in western Canada, Rollins Construction introduced the concept to the Quinte area Wednesday.

Within an hour of reaching the site, just north of Foxboro, Rollins crew had all but completed the basement by directly nailing down pre-fabricated sections.

Time is really the big savings by going to this form of construction," said Bob Marcotte Rollins Construction vice president.

Robert Sumi, professional engineer and chief technical services for the Housing and Urban Development Association of Canada, said pre-fabricated sections add to greater control on this particular type of project.

Mr. Marcotte said the Foxboro project is designed as a prototype to show the Ontario Housing Corporation and the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

"We are hopeful that these two groups will allow wooden basement construction in future projects we compete for them," said Mr. Marcotte. "We are strongly hope to be the thin method of construction for future projects".

Saints and Whalers Play to Scoreless Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Minnesota Fighting Saints are humor after all.

The Saints, who went through three full World Hockey Association seasons without being shut out, were blanked Wednesday night for the second time in three games.

Frustrated by the acrobatics of New England goalie Christer Abrahamsson, the Saints battled the Whalers to a scoreless tie, the second such stalemate in league history.

The Saints, who lost 1-0 at Cleveland last week, really didn't deserve to be shut out Wednesday at St. Paul, but Abrahamsson ignored a rout near his left eye suffered in the first period and turned aside 39 of their shots.

"Abrahamsson is without a doubt the best goalie in the WHA and I'm not trying to blow smoke at anybody," said Whaler coach Jack Kelley. "He's played phenomenal hockey for us the last year and a half."

The Saints had nine shots on goal in the overtime period, including a half-dozen good opportunities, but Abrahamsson didn't waiver.

Skip Krake scored twice for the Oilers to help send his old Cleveland teammates down to their 12th defeat in their last 13 games.

First Period—Krake 1, B. McAneeley; Cleveland—Tammiento 2.

Playing before a crowd of only 2,362, third smallest in the club's history, the Crusaders were kept in the game in the second period by Juhani Tammiento, who scored both Cleveland's goals.

Edmonton's Bob McAneeley scored the only goal of the first period, a rebound of a shot by Bob Russell. Tammiento tied the score at 5:15 of the second period, whipping a backhander past Oiler goalie Dave Dryden.

Krake put Edmonton in front again with a 20-foot slap shot, but Tammiento tied the score at 5:2 when he picked up a loose puck just over the Edmonton blue line and beat Dryden with an 18-foot wrist shot into the upper left corner of the nets.

Krake broke the tie with his second goal on a centring pass from Mike Rogers at 2:15 of the third period, and Dryden shut out the Crusaders the rest of the way.

Hull and Howe Head Stars

TORONTO (CP) — Two veterans of the World Hockey Association—Bobby Hull and Gordie Howe—will lead their respective teams when the league's fourth annual all-star game is held Jan. 13 in Cleveland.

This year, it will be the Canadian Division against players from the Eastern and Western Divisions of the WHA, or as the league puts it, Canada vs. the United States in honor of the 200th birthday of the U.S. in 1976.

Ben Hatskin, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the WHA, announced the teams Wednesday as chosen by sports writers and broadcasters from Canada and the U.S.

Hull of Winnipeg Jets was selected on the first Canadian team at left wing, and Howe, president of Houston Aeros, was chosen at right wing for the first U.S. team.

Hull will be playing his fourth all-star game and Howe, playing in the WHA for the third season, will be competing in his third all-star game.

Rounding out the first Canadian team is Joe Daley of Winnipeg in goal, J. C. Tremblay of Quebec Nordiques and Larry Erik Sjoberg of the Jets on defence, Vaclav Nedomansky of Toronto Toros at centre and Hull's line-mate, Anders Hedberg, at right wing.

Gerry Cheevers, for the fourth consecutive year, has been voted the first-team goaltender. Other members of the U.S. first team are Pat Stapleton of Indianapolis Racers and Paul Shmyr of Cleveland Crusaders on defence, Andre Lacroix of San Diego Mariners at centre and Gene Peacosh of San Diego at left wing.

Bill Dineen of Houston will coach the U.S. squad and Jean-Guy Gendron of Quebec will coach the Canadian team. Houston beat Quebec in four consecutive games to win last season's WHA championship.

In addition, coach Gendron added the following players to round out the Canadian team: Thommie Bergman, Winnipeg and John Misnik, Calgary, on defence; Serge Bernier, Chris Bordeleau, both of Quebec, at centre; Frank Mahovlich, Toronto, and Rejean Houle, Quebec, at left wing; and Danny Lawson, Calgary, and Rusty Patenaude, Edmonton, at right wing.

Sabres Having Problems

Visions of Cup Fading in Buffalo

The Canadian Press

Any visions of a Stanley Cup that danced in the heads of Buffalo hockey fans in October took like pipedreams now.

They appeared capable of coming away and hiding from the competition in the Adams Division race when they opened the schedule with eight successive wins, especially when their main challengers, Boston Bruins, lost Bobby Orr early in the season.

But that early momentum was lost somewhere by the Sabres, who now find themselves in a tie for the division lead after they lost 3-1 to Detroit Red Wings on Wednesday night. The Bruins, who once trailed the Sabres by 13 points, grabbed a share of the top rung with a 5-2 win over Washington Capitals.

Veteran Eje Giacomin blocked 38 Buffalo shots, seven of them by Jerry Korab Overtime, as the Sabres continued a slump which they have picked up only seven points in eight games.

Detroit goals by Mickey Redmond and Nick Libett in the 12th minute broke a 1-1 stalemate.

For the first time this season, all NHL teams played at least nine eight Wednesday.

In Wednesday's other games New York Islanders blanked New York Rangers 3-0, Philadelphia Flyers downed Chicago Black Hawks 4-2, Toronto Maple Leafs downed St. Louis Blues 6-2, Minnesota North Stars edged Atlanta Flames 2-1, Kansas City Scouts edged Vancouver Canucks 6-5, Pittsburgh Penguins drubbed California Golden Seals 9-2 and Montreal Canadiens edged Los Angeles Kings 5-4.

The Capitals managed a team record 36 shots on goal but went down to another defeat when John Bucyk scored for the Bruins in the last minute of the game.

After chasing a Brad Park puck into the corner, the Bruins captain fired a shot past Washington goalie Ross Lee for his 500th career goal.

Denis Potvin scored twice for the Islanders in the meeting between the New York rivals at Madison Square Garden. Gary Smith recorded the sixth shutout of the season by Islander goalies.

The Islanders' forwards forechecked ferociously while skating with a discipline and determination that the Rangers seemed to lack.

"They just forced us and forced us," said Rangers goalie John Davidson. "They kept us skating from high pressure. The Leafs fired 37 shots at St. Louis and Stanley Salming.

Minnesota goalie Cesare Maniago extended his home-ice winning streak to five games, blocking 28 shots as the Stars defeated Atlanta to extend their streak at six games.

Dave Talbois swept in a rebound of a shot by Pierre Jarry midway in the final period for Minnesota to break a 3-3 tie.

DENIS POTVIN

Guy Charron, Gary Croteau and Simon Nolet scored three goals each for Scouts in their upset win over the Canucks before a Kansas City crowd of 5,382.

California's Gilles Meloche, who entered the game with the league's fifth best average, was in the net for all nine Pittsburgh goals. Syl Apps and Bob Kelly had two goals each for the Penguins before only 3,857 fans in Quebec.

The Canadiens extended their Norris Division lead over the second-place Kings to 13 points on goals by Guy Lapointe and Yvon Lambert.

Confident of Comeback

Boston Ace Looks Ahead To Return with Bruins

On crutches and recuperating from a fifth operation on the left knee Nov. 6, Orr was reported in high spirits last week when he left to spend the Christmas holidays at his home in Parry Sound, Ont.

He confided to close friends that he had dropped 18 pounds from his normal weight of 195 by dieting. That's so he'll be ready to resume skating in preparation for his return to the lineup in February.

"I know people wonder just how much any athlete's knee can take, but Orr remains confident and is looking ahead to his National Hockey League career.

"There's no way I'd think of quitting now," he said recently. "I'm only 27 years old and I feel I still have a great career in hockey.

"I have so much more to accomplish. There are Stanley Cups he won, and so much else to do."

The veteran defenceman, considered by many the greatest player in hockey history, obviously is encouraged by the report of his surgeon, Dr. Carter Rowe.

"There's no doubt in my mind that Bobby will play again," Dr. Rowe said after the last operation. "Right now we think he'll be ready about the first of February."

Since coming out of the amateur ranks as a teen-ager in 1966, Orr has won a record 16 NHL awards. He started by winning Rookie-of-the-Year honors.

The Norris Trophy winner as the league's top defenceman for the last eight years, he has set all kinds of scoring records for his position, leading the league twice.

All of his feats have been accomplished since he originally injured his left knee when he was checked in a game Dec. 4, 1966. He escaped surgery then, but the operations began in February, 1968.

He underwent his fourth operation on the knee last Sept. 29, but returned to action Nov. 6. He had five goals and 13 assists in 19 games before requiring another operation.

Asked about speculation that his hockey career is in jeopardy, Orr said:

Exhibition Bout Over in a Hurry

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former heavyweight champion George Foreman floored Eddie Brooks twice in the third round and twice more in the fourth before the referee stopped their scheduled 10-round heavyweight exhibition fight Wednesday night.

Referee Vern Bybee called a halt to the one-sided match at 1:12 of the fourth round.

Foreman, 225, tayed with Brooks, 220, of Milwaukee once his sparring mate-through two rounds, then, apparently goaded by scattered boos, opened up in the third round. He decked Brooks with a right to the head and later in the round sent him down with an uppercut.

In the fourth round, Brooks went down early from a combination high to the head that did not seem to carry any great authority. When Brooks toppled again seconds later, Bybee stopped it.

Battle to 8-8 Overtime Tie

Bears, Reds on Scoring Spree

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hershey Bears and Providence Reds scored eight goals each in three periods of an American Hockey League game Wednesday night but neither team managed to score in sudden-death overtime.

Andre Deschamps, Jean Guy Gratton and Yves Bergeron scored late third-period goals to lift Hershey into an 8-8 tie with the visiting Reds, who dropped three points back of Richmond Robins in the race for the lead in the AHL's southern Division standing.

Bergeron scored the tying goal at 18:48 of the third period to send the game into the scoreless overtime period.

Greg Holst scored two goals to pace the Reds.

In other games, Rochester Americans beat New Haven Nighthawks 6-3 and Richmond defeated Baltimore Clippers 4-2.

At New Haven, Dave Byres and Rick Addonio scored in the final six minutes to put the place out of reach for the Americans.

Rochester scored four consecutive goal in the second period to take control of the game despite a third-period goal by Stephanchi Al Langlais which narrowed the margin to 4-3.

Brian McCutcheon and Rick Chinnick gave New Haven a 2-0 first-period lead before the Americans tied the score midway through the second period.

Bruins scored two goals by Dave Rousseau and Barry Smith.

The win moved the Americans to within one point of first-place Nova Scotia Voyageurs in the Northern Division standings. It was the seventh consecutive loss for New Haven which is struggling in last place in the Southern Division.

Goaltender Michel Belhumeur played an outstanding game as the visiting Robins claimed the victory over Baltimore.

The Clippers humiliated Belhumeur with 16 shots in the last two periods while the Robins managed only 12 shots.

Dick Sarrazin and Mo Stefanski scored the only Baltimore goals.

Braves' Rookie Produces

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rookie Tom McMillen, getting a rare start for Buffalo, scored a career-high 18 points Wednesday night to lead the Braves to an 89-95 win over Houston Rockets in a National Basketball Association game.

McMillen, who had averaged less than 15 minutes and five points in 27 previous games and hadn't played at all in Buffalo's last two outings, set the call when Bob McAdoo's sore heel flared up.

The six-foot-11 McMillen, a former Rhodes scholar, played 28 minutes, hit seven of nine shots, four of six free throws and pulled down seven rebounds.

In Wednesday's other games,

Boston Celtics overpowered Kansas City Kings 118-104, Golden State Warriors trounced Detroit Pistons 113-102, New Orleans Jazz trounced Washington Bullets 125-88, Phoenix Suns downed Milwaukee Bucks 116-111 and Cleveland Cavaliers shaded Seattle SuperSonics 117-111.

In American Basketball Association games, Denver Nuggets downed New York Nets 109-101 and Indiana Pacers whipped the Spirits of St. Louis 113-102.

"I knew I have to be patient, but it does get frustrating at times," McMillen said. "Coach (Jack) Ramsay told me that I have to be ready, but I didn't know when. Sometimes it's an injury, sometimes a person is down."

Despite McMillen's heroics, the Braves needed Bob Weiss' 18-foot jump shot with 34 seconds to play to take the lead for good.

Jim McMillian led Buffalo with 23 points while Rudy Tomjanovich topped Houston with 25.

Orioles Are Tops Afield

NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore Orioles led all American League teams in fielding in the 1974-75 season with a .981 percentage.

Official statistics released Wednesday by the league showed the Orioles made just 107 errors in 6,434 total chances. Cleveland was second at .973 with 134 errors.

Boog Powell of Cleveland led first basemen in fielding with an average of .997, Sandy Alomar of New York Yankees led second base regulars with a .985 average, Rocky Dent of Chicago White Sox topped shortstops with a .981 mark, Brooks Robinson of Baltimore led third basemen with a .979 average. Detroit catcher Bill Freehan had a .991 mark to lead all receivers, and Baltimore's Paul Blair led outfielders with a .991 percentage.

It was Blair's seventh Gold Glove in a row and eighth in the last nine years. Robinson won the Gold Glove for the 16th consecutive season.

Montreal Comeback Stalled, Moscow Scores 6-4 Victory

MONTREAL (CP)—A goal by Vladimir Repkin with two minutes to play brought a 4-4 tie and Moscow Selects defeated Montreal Juniors 6-4 Wednesday night in an exhibition hockey game.

The goal ruined a comeback by the Juniors, members of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League who were bolstered by members of Nova Scotia Voyageurs of the American Hockey League, as well as some junior and university clubs.

Repkin caught the Montreal defenders running around in their own zone after Alek Sandr Lobanov had just missed open net after goaltender Ed Walsh had failed to clear the puck.

Vladimir Deviatov then added a goal into the empty net with 34 seconds remaining after Walsh had been lifted for an extra attacker.

Alexei Volchenkov and Deviatov staked the Soviet Union club to a 3-0 lead in the first period and added in the second, the visitors—who now have five wins and a loss in their tour of Canada—took a 3-0 edge on a goal by Sergei Kotov.

Vladimir Belousov scored Moscow's fourth goal in the third period after Montreal had come back to narrow the Selects lead to 3-2 on second-period goals by Garth McGuigan and Normand Dupont.

After Belousov scored at 2:45, the Juniors came back with goals 18 seconds apart with Dan Geoffrion scoring at 15:39 and Dupont at 16:17 to tie the score.

The Selects were by far the sharper of the teams in the opening 20 minutes as Montreal lacked cohesiveness in their attack.

Moscow had a 12-7 edge in shots on goal and moved into an early lead when Volchenkov drifted a long shot past Walsh with 1:39 gone. Just 80 seconds later, Deviatov beat Walsh with a 30-foot drive to give the visitors the two-goal edge they carried into the middle session.

Kotov put Moscow ahead 3-0 with 2:01 gone in the second period, knocking home Alexandr Koliko's rebound from the lip of the crease.

McGuigan then lifted the spirits of the partisan crowd of 13,000 when he scored Montreal's first goal at 11:44. It came about 30 seconds after Moscow goaltender Viktor Dorofeenko made two saves on Mike Jack.

Dupont narrowed Moscow's lead to 3-2 at 16:23 scoring from 20 feet out with 30 seconds remaining in a hooking penalty to Vladimir Kevin.

Apps, Sr. Named To Amateur Hall

MONTREAL (CP) — Former hockey star Syl Apps Sr., 18, among 11 persons to be formally inducted into the Canadian Amateur Athletic Hall of Fame Jan. 17, it was announced Wednesday.

Apps, best known for his exploits as a pro hockey player, won a gold medal in the pole vault for Canada in the 1934 Pan American Games.

Also joining the hall will be shooters John Primrose of Edmonton and Susan Nattrass of Medicine Hat, Alta., winners of the 1970 world moving target championships in the male and female categories respectively.

Other athletes to receive their certificates of induction Jan. 17 include former Olympic swimmers Richard Pound of Montreal and Mary Stewart of Vancouver, John Fitzgerald of Hamilton, a sprinter during the 1920s, swimmer Robert Pirie of Vancouver who won gold medals at the 1934 and 1938 British Empire Games, and golfer Sandy Somerville of London, Ont., six-time winner of the Canadian Amateur championship.

Admitted as builders of amateur athletics are Dorothy Forsyth, honorary treasurer of the Sports Federation of Canada and a long - time worker with badminton organizations, and Paul P. Hauch, distinguished in Canadian swimming circles as an Olympic competitor, coach and organizer. Hauch is currently honorary treasurer of the International Swimming Federation.

M. Laid Wall, a former member of Canadian Davis Cup tennis teams and long-time president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, is also to be inducted as a builder.

The Money is Secondary; It's the Principle

As it stands the monetary demands of the Gas House Hockey League Officials cannot be met.

"We just don't have the money," said league statistician Vern Whalen, "most of the guys I've spoken to don't want to give them any more."

At present, each team is assessed $30 per game. From that 800 total comes money for officials ($8 for referee, $5 for each linesman), time keeper ($1) and ice ($20). After each game, the league has to with which to work. But, by the time three games have been played in succession, things are running one-half-hour behind time and that costs another $15 in ice.

Should the dollar signs of the officials be posted, the league could not afford excess ice time and they would be $1 short in meeting straight-forward financial demands.

However, when the league executive combed through the coals as it might be since the first of the season, takes their stand against the officials boycott tonight at Cir. James Whitney, they may discover they've jumped the gun.

"The money isn't really important," said the head of the officials' makeshift association, John Lindfield.

What the association is hanging its strike on is a principle — cash!

"All we want is the support of the executive when we step on the ice," said the chief and he does speak for the whole tribe.

Lindfield's colleagues happen to be a bunch of guys who enjoy hockey and enjoy officiating. If they didn't like the sport, they'd hardly put themselves in the position of officiating. What they don't want is to have to tolerate the whippings they've had to. Those include, recently, the admission of one referee to Belleville General Hospital.

"If the executive would back us," said Lindfield, "I they would lay down the law with some of the guys in the league, instances such as that would not occur."

The association, such as it is (and' all it comes down to is a bunch of guys liking hockey), neither has a say as to league regulations or sit on the executive.

"We're treated like second rate citizens," explained Lindfield, "we've tried to bring our complaints to the executive's attention in the past, but have had no action."

Thus, the dramatic boycott of Monday night. All three officials were on the ice for the opening game of the GHHL's triple-header and then the defendants discovered, after being promised some action, they had been led down the garden patch.

So, all three officials retired to the dressing room: Voilar Bayeotti,

Though their actions appeared overdone, they deemed loose mildly drastic measures necessary just to let the executive know how desperately futile things appeared from the inside out.

Strength Up the Middle Works for Bobcats

Belleville Bobcats are headed into what shape up as one of the easier weekends in their 34-game Metro Junior B schedule. They play two games, but according to statistics their opposition doesn't come across too strongly.

They may get a run out of second place Central Division St. Michael's Buzzers, but Friday at home against the Elmbrow Selects the Cats should romp to victory.

Etobicoke stands second from last in the Central Division, just a few points up on North York Rangers, which Belleville walloped last Friday 15-2. The last time the Selects and the Rangers met, they battled to a 4-4 tie.

St. Mike's should be more competitive. They are currently two points back of first place Bramalea Blues and last Sunday the local Metro Junior B squad had to put together one of its best games of the 1975-76 campaign to win 6-4 in Bramalea.

Belleville's win Sunday lateved them into the second half of their regular season schedule. After 18 games, the Cats stand as the highest scoring team in the league, along with Oshawa Legionaires. Both clubs average 5.5 goals per game. Defensively, they also stand with the Legionaires with a 4.28 goals against average. That mark has been falling rapidly of late and now Belleville should be in contention as the best defensive club in the league.

The first half of the season left the Cats with an 11-4-3 record and, should they stay away from the number of suspensions they took in their first 17 encounters, the second half of the year could even better.

The boys have shown incredible strength at centre ice in the first half of the campaign. Team leader, Grant Goegan, tops the scoring sheet with 19 goals and 25 assists in 16 starts. 'GOG' seldom loses the draw and his hustle and spirit is obviously what makes the Cats roar. The couple-a-game veteran missed four games with a back injury but was through the first half and during that span the Io-cals managed only a tie. Since his return they've won the last three games and the 20-year-old has scored four times and assisted on seven others.

Paul Tilley, a veteran Junior from Peterborough, is another reason for the 'Bobcats' strength at centre and. Tony Meagher, a first year player, sums up the powerhouse story up the middle.

The quiet success story of the first half of the year though has to be veteran Andy Ricketts. This season the 20-year-old right winger has shown more finesse and tact than ever before in his style of play. The five-foot six-footer has done about his business in a surprisingly disciplined manner.

In 17 games the 195-pounder has scored nine times and collected 12 assists. Though he's always been a consistent performer, Ricketts has had problems staying out of the penalty box but that far has accumulated just 20 minutes in penalties — probably a new low for him — and among the lowest on the team.

With so many others out with suspensions and injury, Ricketts' experience and approach to the game has been a much needed cohesive force with the 7?-?? Cats.

Chargers Hot

Centennial Secondary School Junior Chargers stepped on the court to play ball Wednesday night. They meant business and the stats showed it as they hit an astounding 63 per cent from the floor. The end result: a 62-31 victory over visiting Belleville Collegiate.

In other Bay of Quinte Secondary School Basketball League action, BCI's midgets dumped the Chargers 55-33 and in B Division action, in Picton, Bayside Red Devil sophs upset Prince Edward 62-0, Bayside juniors won 42-33 and PECI seniors edged the Red Devils 45-43.

Centennial's powerhouse juniors took their third win in as many regular starts this season despite being without the services of their big centre Steve Whitley, for most of the game. The towering CSS giant ran into foul trouble early in the first half and sat out much of the second quarter. Then, just minutes into the third quarter he was fouled out.

Art Pultz proved most capable of picking up Centennial's slack as he pumped in 24 points. Jim Graham was next with 14 and Whitley, despite an abbreviated performance, scored 11.

BCI, down 21-24 at the half, got 12 points from John Donovan and 11 from Bruce Bell.

BCI 55, CBS 33

The midget Collegians, led by intimidating Mike Wright, kept tight record intact with this definive victory. Wright, averaging close to 30 points a game scored 28 Wednesday. Jay Wilson was next with 14 and Keith Smith had five.

Dan Cheney got eight and Rob Haggermias seven for Centennial.

BSS 62, PECI 60

Down seven at the half, the Red Devils bounced back to corn the win. Rob Reive topped the winners attack with 18 and Paul Dassylva in with 16.

Bayside's juniors were just as successful. They were six up at the half and nearly doubled that margin by the end of the game. Ken Lemoire was top top scorer with 20 points and Ron Bell added 16.

In the midget contest, the home team saved face with a two-point victory. Up 13-11 at the half, that margin remained throughout the contest. Jim Dassylva was Bayside's number one gunner with 26 points.

PECI scorers were unavailable.

Flyer Captain Named Male Athlete of Year

By MEL SUFRIN
CP Sports Editor

Bobby Clarke, the brilliant Philadelphia Flyers centre, has twice been named most valuable player in the National Hockey League, is Canada's male athlete of the year for 1975.

The 25-year-old native of Flin Flon, Man., who has led the Flyers to two consecutive Stanley Cups, is the runaway choice of sports writers and sports broadcasters in the annual 10-year-end poll conducted by The Canadian Press.

Runner-up Toller Cranston of Toronto, the Canadian senior men's figure skating champion for the last five years, and third is Bernie Parent, the 30-year-old native of Montreal who tends goal for the Flyers.

Clarke, a persistent forechecker and superb playmaker, has become the heart of the Flyers since being drafted from Flin Flon Bombers of the Western Canada Junior League in 1969.

He and Parent are the prime reasons why Philadelphia, admitted to the NHL in 1967, became the first expansion club to win the Stanley Cup.

Clarke, five-foot-10 and 176 pounds, is a remarkably durable athlete who has rarely missed a game in six full seasons in the NHL. Last season he played in all 80 games, scoring 37 goals and adding a record 89 assists.

He was named centre on the first all-star team and won the Hart Memorial Trophy as the league's most valuable player, an award he had previously captured in the 1972-73 season.

His truculence, exemplified by the fact that he spend 125 minutes in the penalty box, was perhaps best demonstrated in the 1972 Canada-U.S.S.R. hockey series.

Playing on a line with Paul Henderson and Ron Ellis, then of Toronto Maple Leafs, Clarke taught the Russians a few things about battling in the corners. And he wasn't reluctant to admit he used his stick to slash at the ankles of opponents.

The son of a miner, the baby-faced Clarke suffers from diabetes but for the first few years in the NHL was reluctant to discuss the condition.

"I've proved I can play in the league," he said two years ago. "In the beginning, if I didn't play well, I didn't want them saying it was because of that."

Having established himself as a genuine all-star, he became general campaign manager of a diabetes association in the Philadelphia area in 1973.

"It is an inspiration to all diabetics, especially youngsters, that only in Canada and the United States but all over the world, having made his mark in the toughest, fastest contact sport there is," said J. Richard Connolly, executive director of the American Diabetes Association. After Clarke was named MVP that year

To which Keith Allen, the Flyers general manager, added: "I'd hate to think where we would be without Bobby Clarke."

In the CP poll Clarke received 96 first-place votes, 19 seconds and five thirds for 130 points, based on a 3-2-1 value. Cranston received 52 points on four firsts, 14 seconds and 13 thirds and Parent 44 points on 19 firsts, four seconds and six thirds.

Fourth was jockey Sandy Hawley of Mississauga, Ont., with 35 points, fifth Ottawa Rough Riders linebacker Jim Foley with 27 and sixth Bobby Orr, the Boston Bruins defenceman, with 21.

Ferguson Jenkins, the major league pitcher from Chatham, Ont., who was named Canadian athlete of the year for a record fourth time in 1974, received only a single third-place vote after a co-so season with Texas Rangers.

Bobby Hull of Winnipeg Jets, who set a professional hockey league record with 77 goals for the World Hockey Association team last season, received five first-place votes and 12 points. Hull was named athlete of the year in 1965 and 1966.

Others receiving first-place votes included Bishop Dolegiewicz, the shot-putter from Montreal, Vancouver swimmer Steve Pickell, Guy Lafleur of Montreal Canadiens, world record harness racing driver Herve Filion of Angers, Que., Calgary Stampeders wide receiver Tom Forzani, Edmonton Eskimos place-kicker Dave Cutler, Toronto boxer Clyde Gray, Pan-American Games boxing gold medallist Chris Clarke of Halifax and Gordie Howe, the 47-year-old Houston Aeros right winger.

Deadline Extended

TORONTO — (CP) — The Ontario Racing Commission announced Wednesday that the deadline for registering standbred stallions for the provincial government's multi-million dollar sire-stakes racing program has been extended to midnight Wednesday night, Dec. 31.

Originally, the deadline for the registration of stallions standing in Ontario had been set for Dec. 1. However, after the recent Canada-wide postal strike, many Ontario breeders have protested that they will haven't received the stallion registration application forms which were mailed by the racing commission.

"We have extended the deadline for 31 days," said Dr. Glen Brown, chairman of the Ontario government's horse breeding and racing advisory board.

"With so much money at stake for the racing progeny of these stallions in the years to come, we wouldn't want the unfortunate delay in the mails to deprive any breeder of the opportunity to register his horse."

Farrell Dead At 62

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Kerby Farrell, manager of baseball's Cleveland Indians in 1952, died of a heart attack at his home Wednesday. He was 62.

Farrell played two years in the major leagues, with Boston under Casey Stengel in 1943 and with Chicago in 1945. He also was a former coach for Chicago under Alvin Dark and for the Indians under Eddie Stanky.

Foley Quits Hockey

TORONTO (CP) — Rick Foley, who has been playing for Baltimore Clippers in the American Hockey League, said Tuesday that he has quit hockey.

He said he made his decision after listening to a dinner speech last week by former football star Johnny Unitas.

"Unitas said that when a sport, any sport, no longer is fun then it's time to get out," Foley said. "I left the dinner and I couldn't forget what he said."

The 30-year-old Niagara Falls, Ont., native started his pro career in the Eastern Hockey League in 1966. Since then, the 6-foot-4, 225-pound defenceman has also seen action in the Western, Central, American World and National Leagues.

Fournier Marks Return

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — Bert Fournier, who returned to Chatham last week from Windsor Spitfires of the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A series, scored two goals Wednesday to pace the Maroons to a 4-2 victory over Mount Hamilton A's in Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League action.

It was the only game scheduled.

Tony Woitowicz and Joe Cammagnola scored the other Chatham goals.

Joe McKenna and Steve Hazlett replied for Mount Hamilton.

The teams were tied 1-1 after one period but Chatham led 3-2 after 40 minutes before a crowd of 328.

Hamilton's Jocy Gallant received a match penalty in the second period for his part in a fight with Chatham's Dennis Brewer.

Marchand Co-operates In Sky Shops Affair

OTTAWA (CP) — Jean Marchand, minister without portfolio, said Wednesday he will cooperate with the RCMP but is ready to go to court to prevent them from making "a fishing expedition" through his files.

Mr. Marchand was accused in the Commons by Tom Cossitt (PC—Leeds) of seeking to limit RCMP examination of his office files, thus raising "the perhaps intended unjustified implication that the minister has something to hide".

Mr. Cossitt repeated Mr. Marchand's comment that "if they wanted to go fishing in his office they would have to use their gaff."

Outside the House, Mr. Marchand said that, over the last two weeks, following an earlier RCMP visit to his office in search of material related to an investigation of Sky Shops Expo'67 Ltd., employees had been compiling an index of the files.

The Sky Shops investigation has been connected in the Commons with a 1972 lease extension for the company's duty-free store at Montreal International Airport and with Liberal fund raising.

Advertising Bill Under Criticism

OTTAWA (CP) — Secretary of State Hugh Faulkner is coming under fire from new pressure from publishers, printers and politicians to modify or abandon his controversial foreign magazine tax legislation.

The bill has been dropped from the government's list of pre-Christmas legislative priorities and some Liberal MPs say disenchantment within the government caucus will grow over the free-week Commons Christmas break.

The latest delay in giving the bill final Commons reading — paving the way for Senate approval and royal assent — will permit Time magazine, Reader's Digest and others affected by the measures to launch new lobbying campaigns.

Under terms of the bill, introduced last April, advertisers in Canadian editions of foreign-owned publications would be denied 100-per-cent income-tax deductions for advertising costs.

The Liberal MPs say they wanted the bill finally passed this week to avert further pressures from voters in their home ridings.

Halifax Retains Explosion Relics

HALIFAX (CP) — Relics of the 1917 Halifax explosion still be in storage in the city, the Nova Scotia's legislature Building, grim reminders of that catastrophic winter morning 58 years ago.

It was cold, clear and feature time when two freighters passing through the Narrows of Halifax Harbor unaccountably collided.

At 8:45 a.m. on Thursday, Dec. 6, a Norwegian cargo ship, the Imo, carrying relief supplies for war-ravaged Belgium, inserted itself in the forward port side of the French munitions carrier Mont Blanc, loaded down with 3,000 tons of high explosives.

Minutes later, the city was overwhelmed with massive death and destruction.

The dead numbered 1,600, their bodies torn, blackened, in many cases completely disintegrated. Another 400 were injured and 20,000 left homeless on the threshold of the coldest Canadian winter in 30 years.

Saved by the intervention of Halifax's Province House are the personal belongings of soldiers overseas, held all these years to respond to possible claims of surviving relatives.

THE INTELLIGENCER, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1974

blind panic at thousands of survivors attempting to find relatives' remains, while the shattered remnants of the city's emergency services fought to cope with a holocaust for which they had neither the facilities nor the training.

Hat it not been for prompt and generous aid rushed from Canada, the United States, the lots of Europe, the toll would have been greater.

Body No. 336 belonged to a well-dressed woman who was five pics, pick and nine.

She had no head.

A shabby-attired young man between 20 and 23 carried two pieces in matches, a knife and a glove. In his tattered coat pocket a rescue team discovered the latest Book of Funny Rhymes.

One hundred children were killed in the collapse of the Richmond public school in the demolished northern section of the city. Most of the other pupils were injured.

Weeping rescue workers—including dozens of frantic parents—were unable to lift massive beams from many of them before their bodies cries ended in death. Fifty boys and girls lost their lives in St. Joseph's School and in the Protestant Orphanage casualties were also heavy.

Mary Monovan was scurrying along, late for school, when she was struck down. Beside her body was a pamphlet containing several scribblers with God Save the King colorfully printed on each front. Inside one exercise book was Mary's completed homework. The neatly-drawn arithmetic and spelling exercises were perfect.

With communications cut off as a result of the collapse of telephone and telegraph lines, it was many hours before details of the tragedy spread.

Sixty-five miles away at Truro citizens who had rushed from their beds at 9:05 at the sound of the blast did not hear the full explanation for the arrival of the first emergency train. Most of the Truro men landed with injured and dying and delivered the first sketchy newspaper dispatches.

Outside help came quickly. Doctors, nurses and Red Cross workers poured into the city, along with reinforcements for soldiers and sailors working without rest or food.

Volunteer workers at hastily-improvised shelters and hospitals experienced their own kind of horror—recognition of friends and acquaintances among the battered dead.

The identity of an army private still remaining uncertain, but it was believed to be Private Keeble who had been on a furlough to visit his parents nearby in Wolfville and had soon after returning to his base at Halifax.

A pocket knife and an empty wallet were the only possessions found on the body. Many of the dead were soldiers home on leave after surviving two or three years in the trenches of France and Belgium.

A train about 30 had no chance to smoke even one of the cigarettes in his newly-purchased pack. They remain to this day in amazingly good condition, considering their decades of storage.

Among other articles recovered were a watches, rings, keys, now illegible diaries, time sheets from a railway engineer, a chauffeur's badge, a longshoreman's membership card, a receipt for a purchase of cheese, a carpenter's rule, a pocket knife and an Imperial Service Medal for "faithful service".

One of the most terrible aftermyths of the disaster was the high incidence of eye injuries caused by flying glass splinters. In one day 60 persons had eyes removed at the Victoria Hospital. Dec. 12 there had still been to 200. It was estimated that 100 between 200 and 300 were blinded permanently.

BIRTHS RECORDED

In 1521 a register of births, deaths and marriages was opened in Quebec making Canada the world's only country that has had a continuous series of birth records for more than three centuries.

McDonald's King Starts New Chain

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian entrepreneur George Tidball, 45, who brought the McDonald hamburger chain to Canada has moved into the United States market with his own string of restaurants.

Mr. Tidball, once a miner and accountant, used the expertise he picked up with McDonald's Restaurants of Canada Ltd. to set up his own restaurant chain, the Keg 'n Cleaver.

Six Keg 'n Cleaver restaurants are either open or near completion in key U.S. cities, in addition to the 16 operating in Canada.

By the end of next year, Mr. Tidball says his catering empire will number 32 outlets, 11 of them earning U.S. dollars with the profits coming back to Canada.

Next year, Mr. Tidball has plans to add two more restaurants in Seattle, a second in Chicago, and two others in Texas and Louisiana. In Canada, there are plans to open three more stores in Toronto as well as one each in Port Elgin, Hamilton and Kingston.

Mr. Tidball said the format for the Keg 'n Cleaver is the same as McDonald's—"a small profit margin, but a big volume of sales."

The two key ingredients, he said, are "steak and lobster of good quality, but sold at a price the ordinary guy can afford."

After high school in Pentiction, B.C., Mr. Tidball went to work as a miner, but after "having a great time" gambling and drinking away his wages, he entered university.

After a year in university, he switched as a chartered accountant for six years in Penticton during which he married his wife Dianne. They have three children.

He spent two years at Harvard Business School, helped by Dianne who earned extra money as a copy typist. From there, he worked for two years with an American management company in Chicago and Los Angeles, then took a job with MacMillan Bloedel of Vancouver, the forest industry firm.

One day, after the move to Vancouver, his wife confessed that her biggest disappointment in coming back to Canada was that there were no McDonald's restaurants.

The remark prompted Tidball to franchise for Vancouver from McDonald's, first by mail and then by personal contact.

"We opened our first restaurant on a Thursday and I was terrified," Mr. Tidball recalled. "What happens if nobody came?"

But by the following Sunday, Canada's first McDonald's restaurant had run out of hamburger.

"There were a bunch of aggressive young guys in our organization and by 1970 we had sales of $13 million annually. On the other hand, I could see our rate of growth declining. That was when I began to work on my Keg 'n Cleaver concept."

He opened his first Keg 'N Cleaver in North Vancouver four months later. Keg 'n Cleaver of Ontario was formed two years ago as a partnership between the western-based parent company and Ontario investors, headed by Julie Fine, a Toronto restaurant owner.

Oddities in the News

Trash Men Bright

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — When the city takes over garbage collections again Jan. 2, the change will be strikingly visible to its 60,000 households.

Crews will don bright orange jumpsuits, which the city will rent for its 95 garbagemen, at a cost of between $15,200 and $27,000.

"The uniforms will allow residents to spot and identify collectors," says assistant public works director John Reilinger. "And they also serve a certain public relations function. These men meet and greet 60,000 people a week."

The city takes over trash collection Jan. 2 from a private agency which has been handling collections for the last five years. The city claims it can do the job cheaper and more efficiently.

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — Newborn babies at St. Luke's Hospital sleep to a strange lullaby that seems to please them but startles the nerves of their nurses.

The nightly tune is a soft, whooshing sound, a recording of a pulse similar to the one the babies heard in the womb before birth.

"I guess you could say it's like putting a clock next to a puppy," said Julia Durand, head nurse for the delivery room. By calming the infants, the system helps them gain weight faster, because they don't use up calories crying, she said.

The record player in the nursery has proved especially effective in calming premature babies, Mrs. Durand said.

LONDON (Reuter) — British politicians are leading the field in a contest to determine the male chauvinist pig of the year, but tennis star Arthur Ashe of the United States has an outside chance at the title.

Main contenders in the BBC poll are Conservative MP Ronald Bell, well known for his anti-women's views, and Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey, "because he's against the housewives."

Ashe is leading the foreign nominees, apparently because of statements that he prefers his women "servile."

The winner will be announced on Dec. 31 and will be given a silk purse and the chance to defend himself on a women's talk show.

TAFT, Calif. (AP) — Molly Bliler said good-bye to fancy hairdos and hello to powerful tomcats when she signed on as one of the few women oilfield roustabouts.

Now, 46-year-old Molly spends her workdays elbow to elbow with hardened oil-well workmen at the Belridge holdings of Mobil Oil Corp., about 25 miles northwest of here.

Her long blonde hair had to go, the victim of regulations that her hard hat fit snugly. And the dirt and oil she collects while dismantling wells and working on pumps all washes out, she says.

Molly isn't the only woman battling dirt and goo in the San Joaquin Valley's oilfields. An Atlantic Richfield spokesman says seven women are working on its oil rigs in Kern County, about 30 Shell Oil Co. says two are at work on rigs here and several others at Coalinga in Fresno County.

"All I want to do is make a living," she said. "I don't go for women's lib. It's up to a woman whatever she wants to do. I think a girl should be a girl."

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — When electronics tycoon M. J. (Jack) Murdock died in a 1971 plane crash, he left no heirs. A simple will directed that his 500-million estate be given away.

Directors of the M. J. Murdock Charitable Trust say they will hand out $5 million each year, most of it in the northwestern United States.

The first grant, a $1.5-million gift to Lewis and Clark College in Portland, Ore., was made public Tuesday.

Murdock was co-founder of Tektronix Inc., a firm which makes electronic components at Beaverton, Ore.

CLAYLAND (AP) — The FBI has accused Garland Ramsey, 21, a janitor, of lugging 60,000 quarters out of the Federal Reserve bank during a 56-day period by stuffing his pockets at lunch time and just before going home.

Ramsey was arraigned Tuesday before U.S. Magistrate Herbert Zaban on a charge of embezzling $15,000 in quarters.

Agents said the thief had to cut into a wire cage in a highsecurity room where the coins were stored in 15 bags weighing 50 pounds each.

The FBI affidavit said Ramsey admitted emptying at least 60 bags of coins and walking past the bank's armed guards daily with his pockets stuffed.

Government agents said Ramsey started working at the bank Aug. 12 and was fired Dec. 10, the day the theft was discovered.

Showbiz Short

NEW YORK (AP) — The orchestra of the Metropolitan Opera said Tuesday it will strike the Met if no contract is agreed to by New Year's Eve.

The musicians have been working without a contract since Sept. 7, agreeing then to work until Jan. 1 so that negotiations might continue.

The 105 musicians now have a base weekly pay of $385. Last year, they were guaranteed 51 weeks of work and earned 52 weeks.

The Met is offering no pay raise for this year, a pay raise of five per cent next year and 44 weeks' work guaranteed this year and 46 next year.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — "How sweet it is," comedian Jackie Gleason, 59, said after he was married to Marilyn Taylor Horwich in a ceremony before a handful of friends at a private club Tuesday.

The marriage was Gleason's third. He was divorced from his second wife, Beverly McKittrick Gleason, Nov. 19 after a long legal battle.

Mrs. Horwich, the widowed mother of a 15-year-old boy, is the sister of choreographer Juno Taylor, a longtime Gleason associate.

CHICAGO (AP) — Blues musician Theodore (Hound Dog) Taylor, 38, whose bottleneck guitar style influenced many contemporary rock musicians, died Wednesday of lung cancer.

A native of Greenville, Miss., Taylor began his musical career there in 1953. He moved to Chicago in the early 1960s and began working the round of South Side blues clubs and taverns which produced such popular performers as Muddy Waters and Howling Wolf.

Although personally popular on the South Side, he did not record any of his music until 1957 and did not come to national attention until his featured performance at the 1970 Ann Arbor, Mich., blues and jazz festival. Taylor returned to the festival in 1972 and 1973.

In his later years, Taylor toured Europe and Australia, and gave numerous college concerts in the United States and Canada.

SEATTLE (AP) — Actor Bob Cummings was arrested Tuesday and accused of defrauding the telephone company, authorities said.

He was released on his own recognizance after appearing in King County superior court and posting $2,000 bail.

Booked as Charles Clarence Robert Orville Cummings Jr., the actor was arrested when police raided a downtown apartment building seeking the user of a "blue box"—described as a sophisticated electronic device that allows the user to bypass phone company circuits and obtain free long distance calls.

Cummings, 65, has been appearing for six weeks at the Cirque Dinner Theatre in the musical-comedy-musical No Hard Feelings.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Olga O'Brien, wife of actor Edmund O'Brien, has filed for a legal separation after 26 years of marriage.

Mrs. O'Brien, 48, filed the action in superior court on Tuesday against the 60-year-old actor.

They were married in 1947 and have three children ranging in age between 13 and 27.

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol
Friday, Dec. 19

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your biggest source of frustration today will come from the domestic area. Not one major blowup—but, more likely, a series of aggravations.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Mentally, you're prone to repeat your resources too thin today. If you must do something to challenge your imagination, concentrate on something creative.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Before assuming new financial obligations at this time, measure with a critical eye that which you have to keep solvent.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't put yourself out on a limb today. You can probably handle some difficulties, but not if you have to worry about others.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Matters that should have been attended to will be coming back to haunt you today. Don't let them collect any more charge.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Advance planning is fine, but this is not the time to lay out money for something unneeded. Wait until your position is more stable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Avoid situations today where the opposition has the advantage gaining it. Hold back a bit till you're in a position to operate on your own terms.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you don't watch your step today, you could blow something out of proportion that would involve and possibly hurt some friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's good to be loyal to your pals, but today you could get elsewhere and get a better price.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Seek advice of trusted counsel or learned friends before making any legal moves today. If you go on your own and make a mistake it'll be a bad.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You attempt to bite off more than you can chew today, physically and mentally. You'll even irritate those who try to pick you up.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There's no pie in the sky or get-rich-quick scheme that will make you wealthy overnight. Play everything close to the vest. You'll survive.

Colitis May Not Mean Infection

By GC THOSTESON MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: recently had an illness, and now I have colitis. The doctor said it often follows some other illness. How is this so? And what is colitis? What causes it, and what is the diet for it? W.E.H.

Colitis is defined as an inflammation of the large intestine. But it does not always mean the presence of an infection. It can be and often is a complication of an earlier illness, either a migraine of an infecting organism from the site of another inflammation or some functional bowel problem caused by such things as a change in eating habits (more fiber) by an illness. Antibiotics can on occasion cause colitis.

In general, the term colitis is not helpful unless the precise form of it is included. And you don't tell me what your previous illness was, which would be important to know.

Since your doctor has not discussed your diet with you, I have to assume that your colitis represents some rather simple bowel function disturbance which he feels will correct itself as your system adjusts to normal eating habits following your recent illness.

In cases of stubborn colitis a low residue diet is helpful because it reduces the amount of bowel activity required in digestion. Such a diet could not harm you and it might help you make your adjustment.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Just how serious is the migraine condition known as "scintillating" migraine attack. It is featured by a disturbance in sight in a localized portion of the eye while there is normal sight around it.

The term "serious" could not be applied to scotoma, except that it does herald the headache. We don't know much about the condition, not much more than we know about migraine itself, which is bad enough.

Headache can be a symptom of underlying problems ranging from allergies to vascular disorders to emotions.

Ergotamine tartrate can be effective in migraine, but this can cause some undesirable side effects with misinterpreting range use. These include tingling of the fingers and toes, muscle pain and general weakness in the legs. Vomiting is an indication that the medicine should be discontinued or the dosage adjusted.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A friend of mine, who is 18 years old, informed that if she has sexual intercourse the day after she stops her period she cannot become pregnant. Is this true?—Ta—

If the young lady in question has a long-established regular menstrual cycle, I would say her chances of her becoming pregnant at this time would be less likely. If her periods are irregular and vary in duration from month to month then she would obviously be pushing her luck.

Young Strippers Hired By Dubois

MONTREAL (CP) — Girls as young as 13 were hired by an underworld-controlled agency to work as strippers at seventy-year-old go-go dancers, the Quebec police commission inquiry into organized crime was told Wednesday.

A 17-year-old girl, formerly employed by a Paul Calce Agency, told the inquiry the agency was controlled by Marcel Dubois who at one stage also encouraged her to "do anything" to become a prostitute.

Dubois is one of nine brokers prominently described in inquiry testimony as members of a leading Montreal underworld family.

The witness, who said she was "so disgusted with myself" she couldn't become a prostitute, testified she never earned "less than $250 a week, and often up to $1,500" while she worked as a topless dancer in clubs.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

It was the last rubber at Castle Elsinore, Hamlet, sitting South, knew he should have passed the fair alphelia's diamond opening, but people tend to bid in the last rubber.

Similarly, Ophelia didn't have to jump all the way to three notrump, but she had great faith in Hamlet.

West opened the king of spades. Hamlet ducked, but had to win the spade ace continuing. Then he colleagued, "To gamble, or not to gamble. Ah, there's the rub. For whether 'tis better to suffer a small penalty or to test the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune and risk a seven-trick set. I'll try the latter."

Then he led dummy's king of hearts, overtook with his ace and led his ♦ 10 to dummy's ace. West's bid had marked him with a bit of high cards and he was more likely than not to hold the king of diamonds.

was correct. His partner had passed.

Our answer is that it was sound. He had 10 tricks all his own, but a forcing two-bid opening would have been far better. In spite of his partner's pass there might well be a slam.

Student Politics Time Consuming

OTTAWA (CP)—University life can be hectic, exhausting and frustrating and not all student council members are full-time students.

A 22-year-old six-foot architecture student, he is president of the Carleton University Students' Association (CUSA) and admits it is exhausting.

He cannot count the number of hours he has spent at both jobs. "When I'm not in the CUSA offices I'm over at architecture" he says.

Architecture, like Carleton's other two professional undergraduate schools, engineering and journalism, has the reputation of having a heavy work load. Most student politicians come from the arts department.

During the stress of being a fifth-year graduating student, Dunn does not seem to mind the pressure.

He became involved with student politics two years ago when he was elected architecture representative on the university's New Student Government (NUG).

As a representative, he says, he discovered that student interests were being ignored by faculty members and became a member of the students' council.

He decided to run for president of CUSA last February because, in his view, there was no one capable to head the organization and sympathetic to students' needs. "Leadership was needed, so I ran."

He faces the problem of declining provincial financial support. The whole quality of education might be affected," he says.

Already Carleton library hours have been cut with no desk service on the weekends.

Lights in various parts of the campus have been removed or turned off.

Students' council runs the campus pub, a coffee house and the campus music-listening area and sponsors social activities.

More students are becoming aware of university government and want to become involved, he said.

Ouellet Avoids Racist Charge

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumer Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet averred a Commons flare-up Wednesday over allegations that he had implied that a Progressive Conservative MP was racist.

The charge was made earlier in the week by Otto Jelinek (Toronto High Park-Humber-Valley) who said the minister had suggested that racist motives were behind questions he asked about the Montreal Olympics.

Mr. Ouellet he accepted Mr.Jelinek's word that there was nothing malicious about his questions.

The incident arose out of inquiries Mr. Jelinek made concerning the Olympic coins program.

Mr. Ouellet asked him to forward any evidence he had to proper authorities. No evidence was turned over, the minister said.

He felt MPs this led him to believe that Mr. Jelinek was more interested in asking controversial questions than in getting answers from the government.

However, he added, he would accept the MP's word that he was not acting with improper intentions.

Tighten Controls

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Niagara regional welfare officials announced Wednesday they are planning to work with the area Canada Manpower office to tighten requirements for persons seeking welfare benefits.

A spokesman for the region's social services department said a new system will be implemented whereby Manpower personnel will provide a form certifying that a person seeking welfare benefits has registered with their office for work and has been unable to find it.

New Appointment

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Provincial Police announced Wednesday the appointment of Chief Supt. C. A. Naismith to assistant commissioner in charge of the staff development division.

H. H. Graham, commissioner of the force, also announced the appointment of S.Supt. J. W. Lidstone to the rank of chief superintendent, second in command in the field division.

Introduces Bill

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Eaton (PC—Middlesex) introduced a private member's bill in the legislature Wednesday to control municipal mill rate increase. He said outside the house the measure would provide relief for homeowners, similar to the safeguards extended to persons who are renting accommodation. The bill would hold property tax increases to eight per cent. Private members bills routinely receive first reading but rarely are enacted.

Seven Die

NEW YORK (Reuter) — At least seven persons were killed in mid-Manhattan today by a fire that destroyed a restaurant-bar before it was brought under control, fire officials said.

They said three other persons were injured and firemen were searching for more victims.

Reports Loss

NEW YORK (Reuter) — American Airlines said Wednesday it had a net loss of $32.4 million during the first 11 months of this year.

By comparison, the company said, it had made a profit of $1.3 million during the same period in 1974.

Earnings during the 11-month period fell to $1.13 per share, compared with a profit of 71 cents last year.

During the three-month period ending Nov. 30, American Airlines lost $9.77 million, compared with a loss of $8.9 million during a comparable period in 1974.

The share loss totalled 34 cents, three cents more than over the same period last year.

Blood Services

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Frank Miller said Wednesday the government is prepared to consider setting up a centre for blood transfusion services in Sudbury next year.

Earlier in the week, Rod Germain (NDP—Sudbury) asked the minister why Sudbury is not included in the national blood transfusion service.

Alters Border

PRAGUE (Reuter) — The Czechoslovak federal assembly has agreed to alter the border with Poland because of a new dam, Ceteka news agency reports. The dam is to be built on the Polish side and its waters will flood 30,000 acres of land in Czechoslovakia. The submerged land will be given to Poland in return for equivalent Polish land further along the border.

Furs Sold Well

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — The total value of furs sold at the Ontario Trappers' Association's first auction of the season, which concluded Tuesday, was $1,320,000, a spokesman for the association said Wednesday. He said more than 134,000 pelts changed hands and the sale was "much better than we expected." The next auction is scheduled for Feb. 9-11.

Renewal Forms To Be In French

TORONTO (CP) — The threat of a province-wide protest campaign by Ontario's French-speaking community got results Wednesday when Transportation Minister James Snow announced that renewal forms for motor vehicle licence plates now are available in French.

The minister said in an interview the forms were distributed throughout Ontario and were made available Dec. 1.

The issuing of the forms follows a protest campaign last month in Ottawa.

Senate Continues Debate Over U.S. Military Aid to Angola

From AP-Reuter

The United States Senate was to hold its second closed session in 14 hours today to consider voting on a proposal that would halt United States military aid to anti-Soviet factions fighting in Angola.

Today's session was called after opponents of further secret briefings of warring Angolan factions said they have enough votes to end U.S. aid to the African country.

Senator Robert Griffin (Rep. Mich.) asked his colleagues Wednesday to limit their action to approval of his proposal to forbid introduction of U.S. armed forces in, over or off the shores of Angola.

But Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem. Minn.) and other senators warned that step-by-step escalation of U.S. financial involvement could lead to involvement in another Vietnam-type war.

Meanwhile, in Paris, sources said State Secretary Henry Kissinger met with the foreign ministers of Zambia, Nigeria and Zaire Wednesday night to seek a solution to the Angolan conflict.

Kissinger, who was attending the international economic cooperation conference, took time to see the three ministers separately.

He is believed to have urged the ministers of the three countries to work for a quick African solution to the Angola crisis.

South Africa also announced Wednesday it is sending reserve commandos into the Angola battle zone and tacitly acknowledged some forces are already deployed deep inside the war-divided territory.

Defence Minister Pieter Botha said in a statement that reservist units, many of them trained commandos, will serve three-months at a time instead of the usual three-week training period.

It has not been disclosed how many South African troops are in Angola.

South Africa has a total armed strength, including all reservists, of 80,000 men. Twenty thousand are regulars and there is a national draft intake of 22,000 men a year.

Fiction for Young Canadian Readers

By JUDY CREIGHTON
The Canadian Press

Whether the child on your Christmas list has literary tastes that lean to fiction, history or sports, there are several Canadian books to take into consideration.

A young writer, Nadia Cornum, and artist Emma Hesse have collaborated on a vividly colorful account of the history of Ottawa as the Canadian capital.

Entitled How Canada Got Its Capital, the textbook with a foreword by Prime Minister Trudeau was published in association with the National Capital Commission and McClelland and Stewart Ltd.

It takes a child on an explicit and well-documented tour through the history of the region—exploration by Champlain, the sometimes bitter experiences of the early settlers and the development of the Rideau Canal.

Young readers learn how Bytown, the original name for the capital, was changed to Ottawa and the reason why it became the national government.

Author Cornum sums up her particular feeling, for Ottawa when she writes: "If you come when Parliament is in session (during the fall, winter and spring months, except for Christmas and Easter recesses), go to the Green Chamber to watch the men and women who make our nation's laws discuss and plan what is best for our country. Don't be shy—they would like you to visit!"

How Canada Got Its Capital; Text by Nadia Cornum, illustrations by Emma Hesse; 46 Pages; $4.95; McClelland and Stewart

Urban children will like the collection of books on life in the city. However, rural youngsters too might find fascination in what it is like for a child to dwell in an apartment building.

Kids Can Press, a small but vital publishing house in Toronto run by young authors and publicists on a federal government grant, has put out a couple of books along those lines.

Sara and the Apartment Building by Yvonne Singer, illustrated by Ann Powell, is all about a little girl who, to get into her home, must press a button on a wall filled with other buttons and numbers.

She takes her friends home one day and from Sara's apartment building the pair can see the CN tower, other tall buildings and a traffic jam.

It is a positive look at a child's life in a high-rise—after so much has been said and written by experts on how detrimental it is for children to be raised in apartments, Sara doesn't think so.

This little book, along with The Sandwich, about life in an ethnic neighborhood, would make marvellous stocking stuffers.

Sara and the Apartment Yvonne Singer; $1.95; 28 pages; Illustrated by Ann Powell; The Sandwich by Ian Wallace and Anetta Wood; $2.25; 28 pages; both published by Kids Can Press, Toronto.

Crafts Council Finds Home

LONDON (CP) — It scarcely seemed to fit in with the season of peace on earth and good-will to all men when the father of two young children wrote to The Times newspaper in London a few years ago suggesting the formation of an anti-Christmas League.

He said it was not an anti-religious gesture but a protest against the commercial aspects of the season.

The attempt may have been well intentioned but fortunately for millions of Britons to whom Christmas is the high spot of winter, it failed, said writer Ruth Elliott.

"It is not necessarily irreligious to see the real miracle of the season in the spirit of giving," she said, "the activity often best personified in the robust and jolly figure of Father Christmas."

The origins of Santa Claus as he is better known, are somewhat vague.

Said Miss Elliott: "It is not so much a matter of religion as a blind of magic, all the better for being so accessibly domestic, and happening practically on the children's own hearth."

Even if there is no chimney for Santa's descent, some mothers will explain that he uses a balcony or comes in through a window, carefully left open and said.

In Britain, Santa Claus is beleaguered, up-to-date in other respects. He now has a telephone number; made available by the post office. Over 1 million children rang him during the two weeks preceding Christmas last year.

Tom Vernon, the British Broadcasting Corporation producer who plays this role takes great care the recordings they prepare keep the illusion of speaking to Santa Claus at the other end of the line.

They start off with non-committal questions such as: "Have you decided what you want for Christmas yet?" and leave pauses for the child's reply.

Then they continue their scripts for a few minutes, producing short playets as though busy Santa had been interrupted having his bath, going to a party, considering the purchase of a new sleigh, or resisting a takeover bid for the Reindeer Supermarket.

"We try to relate it to the life the children know about," explained Vernon.

Chairs Removed

KNOTTINGLEY, England (CP) — Four men, each carrying a chair through the town centre late at night, told a policeman they were taking them to a pub because they could never get a seat. He let them go. Later the landlord of an area inn reported the theft of four chairs.

Make It Routine

LONDON (CP) — A sign seen in a stationer's window said, "Make Christmas an annual event."

B.C. Resumes Oil and Gas Exploration

VANCOUVER (CP) — Oil and natural gas exploration has resumed in northeastern British Columbia.

Despite complaints of the holding country about the New Democratic Party government which was defeated last Thursday, the impetus for the resumption came before Social Credit's victory.

Operations got under way again following two idle winters after a natural gas deal with the B.C. Petroleum Corp. and introduction of new royalty regulations, producing a better net return on oil.

The moves were made in the fall under the NDP government.

This winter's program, in addition to the search for new pools of gas, will involve connecting capped wells with the transmission system, which will improve the supply.

Stan Jones, manager of the Calgary-based Gilwell Drilling Contractors, says 30 rigs were either working or committed in B.C. Five more were reported to be moving in before February and there was a possibility that one or two shallow well rigs—capable of 2,500 feet—would move in.

The work is in muskeg country and must be done during the winter while the muskeg is frozen solid, because the rig must get to the site, drill the well and move off which the muskeg is frozen, transportation is a vital and limiting factor.

"The access roads frequently cost as more than drilling the well," said Mr. Jones, adding that the provincial government should provide access roads.

"The government of B.C. has a large stake in the petroleum industry," he notes. "It makes at least as much out of it as the individual or company. We have as little as 100 days for a drilling season—in many favorable parts of the world they have 300 days."

Regional Government Will Spur Housing

TORONTO (CP) — Introduction of regional government in Ontario in the early 1970s has produced temporary housing shortages but will be the means of stimulating housing in the long run, according to a study by A. E. LePage Limited Realtor.

The study said regional government added another level of bureaucracy in approving housing projects, and delays in phasing in the regional program created costly time lags.

One result was temporary inadequate housing inventories in Ontario and higher costs for housing.

However, the study said that once the basic regional problems are resolved, and growth priorities allotted to appropriate areas, "Ontario's housing program will accelerate through the latter 1970s."

The study predicts a major shift in growth away from the metropolitan Toronto to Peel and Durham on the west and east of the Metro area. Metro, now the greatest growth area, will drop to third position by the year 2001 as vacant land becomes depleted.

Due Loans Total About $18.264 Billion

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumer loans outstanding on the books of institutions reporting monthly totalled $18.264 billion at the end of October, up 15.3 per cent from October, 1974, Statistics Canada reported Wednesday.

Credit outstanding included: Chartered bank personal loans, up 21.6 per cent to $12.9 billion; life insurance company policy loans, up 10.3 per cent to $1.135 billion; sales finance companies, down 18.4 per cent to $349 million in small loans but up four-tenths of one per cent to $1.936 billion in large loans; department and furniture stores, up 8.4 per cent to $1.371 billion.

Combined with other quarterly-reporting institutions, such as credit unions and mortgage and loan companies, the total consumer credit outstanding at the end of September was $22.38 billion, up 14 per cent from a year earlier.

Trudeau Scraps Youth Programs

OTTAWA (CP) — Th young, and the thousands they helped through federally funded service projects, took a battering in Thursday night's federal spending restraints.

Only the Local Initiatives Program (LIP) will continue to receive federal funds next year. But LIP will be reshaped and restricted to areas of high unemployment.

The Opportunities for Youth program, through which 28,700 jobs were funded last summer, is gone after four years. There will be none next summer.

The Company of Young Canadians no longer will receive federal funds after March 31 and Prime Minister Trudeau said he felt a "sense of personal sadness" about it. The act that created it in 1968 may be repealed next year, the company wants to continue as a "charitable organization" relying solely on support from private sources, officials said.

The Department of Young Canadians employs about 450 persons, mostly field volunteers working in 175 communities with people in need. CYC projects involve the help they helped the deserted, the elderly, the poor and the unemployed.

Government estimated that $36 million will be saved by ending the CYC program and $6.1 million will be saved in money that would have gone to the company.

"The people most hurt by inflation are those most hurt by the anti-inflation measures," Jo CYC official said in an initiation reaction to the news, which was kept secret.

The current LIP program for Canadian-based projects may survive, with about $150 million for 5,500 projects across Canada. Another $125 million was allocated last June for the 1975-77 period but the government indicated that $20 million would be lopped from this sum next year.

Another victim of austerity was the student "travel and exchange" program started in the mid-1960s to give youth a look at another part of the country. About $3 million was chopped from this program, the full federal contribution.

Surtax Proposal Hits 170,000 Taxpayers

—Proposed only on taxpayers with incomes in excess of $20,000 in 1976.

—Estimated to apply to 170,000 taxpayers and yield $115 million.

—Calculated as 10 per cent of federal tax payable over and above a surtax threshold—that is, above $5,000, which is approximately the federal tax payable on taxable income of $20,000.

Surtax Calculation

Married taxpayer with two children under 16 earnings of $25,000

Earnings	$25,000
Taxable income	$20,230
Federal tax before surtax	$3,357
Less surtax threshold	$ 5,000
Amount subject to surtax	3,357
Surtax	$ 336

To ensure that surtax liabilities of Quebec residents are the same as those of the residents of other provinces, the surtax will be computed without reference to the 24-per-cent abatement for Quebec.

Surtax payable at various income levels for a married taxpayer with two children under 16:

Gross income in $	Surtax in $
20,000	0
25,000	10
40,000	201
50,000	398
60,000	591
70,000	1,420
100,000	2,736

—Taxpayers in above examples have deductions of $1,000 added to receive wage and salary income. Family allowances, calculated at 1975 rates, are added to income in computing tax. Taxpayer is assumed to take the standard deduction of $100 in respect of medical expenses and charitable contributions. In addition to personal exemptions, the employment expense allowance of three per cent of wage and salary income to a maximum of $150 and unemployment insurance and Canada Pension Plan contributions, calculated at current rates, are deducted from income in computing tax.

Baby Bonus Increases Frozen for One Year

OTTAWA (CP) — The government Thursday proposed to hold down the rise in its spending by freezing family allowance, eliminating some spending programs and cutting others in the financial year starting April 1.

More than $1.5 billion will be slashed from spending plans, Jean Chretien, treasury board president, told the Commons. But government spending "will still grow by several billion dollars" next year.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield called the government statement "a public relations exercise designed to restore some credibility to its stumbling anti-inflation program." New Democratic Party Leader Ed Broadbent said it will add to the national jobless rate.

A detailed breakdown of the federal restraints shows that only $442 million will be taken from existing spending programs. The balance represents only reduced spending plans—cuts from what might have been.

The biggest, most controversial item is the $221 million that is being cut from the welfare department's budget by cancelling cost-of-living adjustments for family allowances in January. This is to last for one year.

"I'll take a lot of convincing that there aren't ways the government could save money without cutting mothers' allowances," Mr. Stanfield commented.

But Mr. Chretien said there is "very little almost nothing that can be cut without hurting someone." The saving per child by refusing the cost-of-living adjustment for a year is about $27.

Mr. Chretien refused to estimate what government spending will be in the financial year starting in April. That will have to wait for the main estimates to be published in February.

However, spending in the current year is expected to rise by about 14 per cent from last year to about $52.2 billion. A similar increase next year—Mr. Chretien said the government "hopes to do a little better"—would put spending at about $57 billion.

In a surprise announcement shortly before journalists had a locked-room preview of the spending restraints, Finance Minister Donald Macdonald announced a special one-year 10-per-cent surtax on that part of taxable income over $20,000.

He said to the government felt it had to move against high-income earners because its spending reductions affected mainly programs that serve low-and middle-income Canadians.

The temporary tax would add $202 in income taxes paid by a married taxpayer with two dependents earning $25,000 annually.

Mr. Macdonald said the government chose a 10-per-cent surtax because it "felt that would not have a severe effect."

Many of the measures in the restraint package were expected and had been reported previously.

For example, one-year freezes are being imposed on salaries for MPs and senators, which means they forego a scheduled Jan. 1 cost-of-living pay award.

Also frozen are salaries for senior civil servants earning more than $28,85 weekly. So, are those federal and provincial superior court judges. The number of job openings for civil servants in the $27,o-a-week and up category also has been frozen.

The treasury board estimates there are about 5,000 of them—with pay taxpayers $115.5 million per year.

Cut entirely were programs including the Company of Young Canadians for a $6 million saving. Opportunities for Youth for a $36 million saving; Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation for a $6 million and the secretary of state's travel and exchange program, $3 million.

Separate School Board

Trustee Objects to Executive Salary Hikes Above Guidelines

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

At the insistence of Belleville separate school trustees Paul Fleming the Hastings — Prince Edward Separate School Board is sending three executive salary increases to the federal anti-inflation review board for approval.

Mr. Fleming, one of four trustees who opposed the increases, said he believes that three of the five executive salary increases are above the 12 per cent guidelines.

The Hastings — Prince Edward Separate School Board went behind closed doors Tuesday night to negotiate new contracts for non-teaching personnel, including secretaries, secretaries and the administration staff.

Mr. Fleming, a city chartered accountant, said he had no objection to the two salary agreement which gave about 20 secretaries and 30 custodians general increases of 12 per cent.

Concerning the administration increases, Mr. Fleming and fellow trustees Ian Chapelle, John Granville and the board's chairman Austin Scott opposed the increases. Trustees Herbert Brown, Michael Collins, Bert Garrett, Frank Hyland, Angus Verke, Leonard O'Leary, Lillian O'Connor, Dan L. P. Cassarelli and Monsignor J. P. Sullivan favored the increases.

The three contentious salaries include that of the board's superintendent of education, Del O'Sullivan, who received $4,500 to bring his salary to $31,000 from $26,500 a hike of 17 per cent.

Superintendent of business, Ed Fitzpatrick received a $3,000 increase, to $30,500 from $25,500, a hike of 12 per cent. The third salary, that of director of education Ed Neville was raised $1,070 to $32,000 from $30,000 a hike of 3.5 per cent.

The other two salaries represented increases slightly under 12 per cent.

In handing down the agreements Wednesday night Mr. Neville argued that these increases for the administration staff are involve qualification improvements and that the percentage increase includes these additional increments. He said the actual figures are closer to 12 per cent.

Mr. Fleming said he believes trustees who voted in favor of the increases did so in good faith and that they acted upon their own convictions.

However, he said these increases above the guidelines will place the board in an awkward position next year during future contract talks.

He also said the current salaries were adequate and in view of the recently announced eight per cent provincial grant envelope the board may have to curtail some academic programs.

Mr. Fleming added that comparison of percentage increases can be misleading because a percentage increase on high salaries means a bit more money than on increases on low salaries, he made his criticism. Mr. Fleming said the board administrative personnel are doing a good job for the board.

Guidelines May Last Years

OTTAWA (CP) — Acting some programs, reducing others and slashing his own staff by 10 per cent, Prime Minister Trudeau promised Thursday a government spending restraint program that will last years into the future. "The government means business," he told a national television audience as he outlined the latest chapter in the government's two-month old anti-inflation program.

CLC Criticizes Program

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government's proposed spending restraints are mostly cosmetic and the newly-released anti-inflation board regulations are a "display of bureaucratic regulatory nonsense," the Canadian Labor Congress (CLC) said Thursday.

Toronto's Transit Invests

Moluccan Gunmen Surrender

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Seven South Moluccan gunmen seeking an independent Asian homeland released 25 hostages unharmed from the Indonesian overnight today, peacefully ending a 19-day siege that began in a blaze of gunfire and apparently getting nothing in return.

The freed hostages—including 19 women—smiled and waved and joyful residents danced in the streets under fluttering Dutch flags.

The surrender came hours after the gunmen threw a birthday party for one of their hostages, and five days after an other South Moluccans freed 23 hostages from a hijacked train 20 miles away, ending a 13-day ordeal in which three persons were killed. Those gunmen got no concessions.

One person an Indonesian official, died in the confusion stemming from inflicted sustained jumping from a window trying to escape.

The gunmer at the consulate periodically lowered their sacrificing from the building shortly before 1:30 p.m. local time, fired out at intervals and were driven off in three police paddy wagons.

Ottawa to Spend More Despite Government Cuts

OTTAWA (CP) — Highlights of government anti-inflation announcements Thursday:

Government spending next fiscal year scaled down by $1.5 billion from the original, secret projections, although total outlays to rise by "several billions of dollars."

January cost-of-living increase in family allowances withdrawn.

Company of Young Canadians axed, Opportunities for Youth program cancelled next summer, Local Initiative Program reduced next winter.

Information Canada abolished.

Surtax imposed on the 1976 tax levied against personal taxable income above $20,000 a year.

MPs and senators to forego scheduled pay increases and big public servants subjected to pay freeze for one year.

Big building projects to be exempt from pay and price controls under regulations.

Percentage fees charged by architects and real-estate lawyers expected to decline gradually in next three years.

Companies limited to no more than four cost-justified price increases a year.

Federal advertising bill reduced by almost $4 million a year from $25 million after a $20,000 ad campaign announcing spending restraints.

Hospital Increases Restricted

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario hospitals face a reduction of 1,000 beds and staff cuts of up to 1,000 persons in the next fiscal year, Health Minister Frank Miller said today.

Addressing a group of hospital administrators from across the province, Mr. Miller said budget increases in 1976-77 will mean that his ministry can offer an increase of only 11 per cent over the $3.029 billion spent on health care this year.

The hospitals have estimated they will need a 20-per-cent increase to maintain the present level of service during 1976.

Mr. Miller said he expects the health ministry to offer an increase of more than $300 million in the next fiscal year but even then, hospitals will have to shave $50 million off their present budgets.

LIP Leaders Here Were Prepared for Program Cuts

BY AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

Slashes in federal government spending are unlikely to affect the future of Local Initiative Programs now underway locally.

The reason is simple: few had expected to reapply for funding next year or seek grant extensions this year, a sampling of LIP officials revealed Tuesday.

Instead, some had been actively discouraged by government officials from contemplating re-application.

Enid DeSmidt, co-ordinator of Belleville Services for Handicapped and Senior Citizens, said Tuesday: "They have made me understand they didn't encourage this."

Jack Frame, administrator of a youth community recreation program, said he understood "there was no chance of an extension."

In the past, some LIP projects have been given additional money to continue operations past the expiry date of the initial grant. Others have been given new grants for the same basic project.

In Belleville, Miriam Bishop, chairman of the board of First Adventure Child Development Centre, said Tuesday her board has not discussed other financial provisions for supplying the custodial and transportation service made possible by a 90,000 LIP grant.

She said she had heard of day care or nursery facilities "who have opened the doors." several years.

But Mrs. Bishop said that "we've been very careful, originally we didn't talk about reapplication."

The centre looks to the community to share the cost of the innovative nursery school, some thing already done partly by the Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund Mrs. Bishop said "Without them, we couldn't have opened the doors."

Mrs. DeSmidt, who operates under a $27,000 LIP grant, chauffers about 100 handicapped people a week around the city. She said she has been actively seeking funds to continue the program.

In Bancroft, village clerk-treasurer said Tuesday he does not expect to need more than the $20,000 already granted to refurbish the municipal hall and related buildings.

After the expected cuts, and "if its still possible, and we do have a project that is applicable, certainly we'll try for it a grant," he said.

Leading the Band

The mood of the season was in the air last night as the Trenton's Citizens Band performed its 11th Annual Christmas Concert, under the direction of Ted Snider. One of the features of the night was Lead the Band. During this time, the younger members of the audience were asked to conduct the band playing Jingle Bells or Jolly Old Saint Nicholas.

Christmas Concert Hit with Children

TRENTON — A near capacity crowd listened to Trenton Citizens Band here Tuesday night at the band's annual Christmas Concert.

Songs from the Christmas season and other crowd pleasing favorites were played by the band's regular 31 musicians. Also sitting in during the annual engagement were four graduates of the band currently attending universities in the province.

The mood of the night was relaxed as the members started with Step Along With Santa and followed with Tryland.

Following the Syncopated Clock, Gayle D'Zon sang Climb Every Mountain.

One of the highlights of the evening, was the Lead The Band segment. This part of the show allowed the younger members of the audience to come on stage and direct the band with little or no help from Ted Snider, band master.

One by one, about fifteen children from the ages of 4 to 7 went on stage and lead the band in the renditions of Jingle Bells and Jolly Old Saint Nicholas.

Under the direction of Bob Young lullaby and later Ray Williams the Trenlones (The Trent Chapter of the Barbershop Chorus) sang songs ranging from Al Jolson, hits to Christmas favorites.

The show lasted about two and a half hours, with refreshments in the second half of the show by the Trenlones and Gayle D'Zon.

During the first half of the show, the town of Trenton presented a plaque to Ted Snider, director of the band for his contribution to the band which has been a great part of community for the last 11 years.

The Trenton Citizen's Band and the Trenlones have 51 and 32 members respectively.

Picton Post Office Reports Sharp Drop in Seasonal Mail

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Christmas mail at the Picton post office Wednesday was reported as "a steady flow with no surge" by postmaster Robert Carter, who added that the volume of holiday letter mail is down substantially this year.

To date, records show volume is down by 46,000 pieces of letter mail in comparison with 1974 figures for the corresponding period.

Letter mail includes Christmas cards and regular mail.

The postmaster added he expects final figures will show a total decrease of approximately 100,000 pieces of letter mail in contrast with other years.

Mr. Carter said that this year extra staff to assist with Christmas mail has been hired for just 65 hours to date, in comparison with more than 250 hours in 1974. He said he expects that fewer than 80 hours of additional help will be necessary to handle this year's holiday mail.

Although there is no place count for this year's parcel post Mr. Carter noted that it is "definitely down" from other years.

"The postal strike had quite an impact on Christmas," said Mr. Carter, discussing the decreased volume of holiday mail.

He added, however, that other factors may have contributed to the slow tempo of Christmas mail.

He suggested many young couples have dropped the tradition of mailing Christmas cards to friends and often use the telephone to exchange greetings.

Also, more and more people are visiting friends and relatives in other countries and there is no longer the same importance attached to an annual Christmas letter.

We Get Letters

Christmas mail at the Picton post office is arriving in a steady flow with no "surges" says postmaster Robert Carter. Postal worker James Hedges Thursday was busy sorting the cards and letters that have arrived.

Horse Killed In Mishap

BLOOMFIELD — A Bloomfield area man was treated at Belleville General Hospital for cuts and bruises Thursday night after his pick-up truck struck and killed a horse on Christian St., one mile west of Highway 14.

Injured was Douglas Snider, 23, of RR 1 Bloomfield.

A spokesman for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said Snider was westbound on Christian St. when a horse owned by Keith Gilbert of RR 1 Bloomfield, ran onto the road colliding with a truck.

The vehicle left the road, entered a ditch, struck two fences and hit a tree.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $2,500. Damage to the fences was estimated at $200.

The accident occured at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Two Cars Collide

PICTON — Two Picton motorists escaped injury Thursday morning in a two-car collision at the intersection of King and Elizabeth Street.

Picton Police Chief Charles Fletcher said Garth Smith 20, of Picton was eastbound on King St., and proceeding with a green light when his vehicle was in collision with a car driven by George Jones, 44, of Barker St., Picton.

Damage to the Smith car was estimated at $800, while damage to the Jones vehicle was set at $10.

Art Brightens Hospital Ward

PICTON — First year art students at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute this week will contribute approximately 40 drawings to the children's ward of Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital.

The brightly colored pictures of cartoon characters such as Bambi, Sneezy the Dwarf and Thumper and a Christmas gift for youngsters who will spend the holidays in hospital.

Blunt-speaking U.S. Ambassador Transfers from Ottawa to Saudi Arabia

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

American ambassadors are still being replaced for taking out-of-turn, no matter how well-intentioned, their personal opinions in public.

The immensely competent United States diplomat James Akins, both a physicist and an Arabist, surely the optimum choice for his ambassador's job in Saudi Arabia, is coming home.

The articulate yet cutting Akins disagreed with many of the hard-hitting statements of his boss Secretary of State Henry Kissinger about oil-producing countries taking more of the blame for current inflation. And he has said so publicly.

Or what he has said has become public information. As the White House adviser on energy matters in 1973, the forest Akins frequently briefed the American and foreign press in outspoken language.

During such a Washington briefing, I heard him define Saudi-Arabian foreign policy in about as succinct a way as it can be done. "Fo King Faisal," he told us, "Zionism is the father of Communism as Communism is the sister of Zionism."

We were then warned by him to watch out for a Saudi-Arabian future without the tough-minded and presumably pro-American King Faisal.

Well, he has gone, felled by an angry nephew's bullet but the Saudis seem to be quite about the same with the new king.

Former Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs Nathaniel Davis has been boisted out of his job for speaking out against any American arms involvement whatsoever in Angola. Mr. Davis who knows all about U.S. involvement from his time as U.S. Ambassador to Chile during the brief Allende years, felt strongly Angola is a purely African affair and should be left that way.

You will recall much of the alleged CIA activity inside Chile to unseat the unwanted (in Washington) Allende Marxist regime which took place while Davis was in charge of the U.S. Embassy in Santiago.

And now another strong American ambassador William Porter is leaving Ottawa where he has been during the last four years of rising Canadian nationalism and the period of the rejection of Canadian oil and gas exports to the United States.

His departure sounds extraordinary when we learn he is off to Riyad (capital of Saudi Arabia) to replace the talkative Akins.

The other day Porter sat down with the Ottawa press corps, many of whom "strong" that is write fredzone for in-fluential U.S. and European newspapers, and talked openly about the failing away of the once easy Canadian-American relationship.

And he had quite a catalogue of them to refer to. Other than the new much-publicized Canadian cutback in oil and gas exports to the U.S. with oil to be completely cut off by 1980, there is the current legislation forcing Time magazine's Canadian edition to be Canadian by next Jan. 1, the take-over of mainly U.S.-owned potash company by the Saskatchewan provincial Crown government and a nasty "border war" all about banning U.S. commercials on Canadian cable television systems.

Well, like the earlier comments of Messrs. Akins and Davis, outgoing Ambassador Porter's comments were published in the press and angered among others, Prime Minister Trudeau.

He said in reply, that the ambassadors comments had strayed "a little beyond the acceptable bounds within which an ambassador should range."

But the difference between Porter and the other two is that he leaves with the state department's good wishes, presumably one which was given to say what he did about Canada in public.

'Distress Sales' Up

The pressures of these inflationary times are reflected in a rise in "distress sales" of large commercial buildings.

The Globe and Mail notes this has been brought on by overbuilding and the continuing slow pace of business expansion.

Writer Patrick Howe says although the situation is well short of the so-called Manhatten syndrome that struck New York recently, many small investors are in financial difficulty with buildings that are empty and with no prospective tenants. Toronto, Hamilton, London and Halifax are among the centres affected. In Toronto for instance a bank has served notice it will exercise its power of sale privileges for the Courtot Building on Bloor Street because of default on mortgage payments by the owner.

Behind such evidence of business failure is the human element — the work of men who put perhaps all they had got into a venture only to find the odds and the times were against them. It may be asked, in the case of small businessmen game enough to risk their all if there is enough encouragement and assistance from government?

The bigger concerns can usually ride the storms. As writer Patrick Howe observes there is a growing tendency for commercial developers to be well financed and insulated from gyrations in the business cycle.

The smaller people are not that lucky.

The Human Touch

The human aspect of government and bureaucracy. It does exist; and newspaper offices are afforded glimpses of it from the information bulletins and brochures of government departments.

In a recent issue of the Ministry of Correctional Services' "Update" there is a picture of retired cabinet minister Dr. Richard Potter putting in some time fishing. The scene is eloquent of the "far-from-the-madding crowd" ideal and certainly far from the former Quinte member's often stormy career in politics.

Dr. Potter's successor is John Smith, MPP for Hamilton South. A 36-year-old bachelor, Mr. Smith packs a degree of experience that belies his years; he began working on election campaigns at the age of 14 and has been a member of the legislature since 1967.

There is a touch of the adventurer in Mr. Smith who has spent a lot of time in the north among Indian communities and has spent several vacations in a remote Eskimo settlement in northern Quebec. He says he has been strongly influenced by the Eskimos' basic belief in brotherhood and their respect for individuality.

Long Hours and Hard Work For Members of Legislature

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — As they lock their office drawers for now, let a word be said for the members of the house.

They are a sincere, dedicated and hard-working group of men and women who generally are not appreciated nearly enough.

Traditionally it has been a widespread public habit to be cynical about politicians.

And at one time, there possibly was some justification for this.

Not so many years ago the job of an elected member here was a part-time chore.

The sessions were short and the work demands light.

There was plenty of time for hours at the Royal York hotel in various revelries.

And the riding crse-load was light.

A member could easily do his work from a desk in the house with the services of a casual secretary.

But no more.

Being a member here today means long, long hours. Many of them dull, perhaps in the semi-obscurity of committee work.

Then other long periods in the office taking care of the interminable riding work.

Workmen's compensation board cases, mothers allowance claims, the list of local problems that now come before a member is endless.

And all carried out their duties without complaint?

Except for the occasional audo and the satisfaction of having straightened out a problem there is little reward for a private member.

Yet, I have never heard one complain about the work load—only that there isn't time to get more done.

These members are an exceptional group of public servants and deserve more acclaim than they get.

And a special word for cabinet ministers.

Just how they get through their workload has in recent years been a mystery to me.

Their days are long—the best time to catch one is at eight in the morning. The detail they have to handle is enormous.

They must constantly answer for their departments.

And yet they somehow survive, and mainly keep their health.

They carry a load which compares with that of people in private industry, any way you want to look at it.

Chloroform Water Count Especially High Locally

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Belleville with a chloroform count of 44 parts per billion gallons of water has the highest recording in Ontario (the average is 11) and one of the tops for North America.

CONCERNED

The Canine Population

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

The following is the text of a letter addressed to Mayor Clarke.

There has been a great deal of concern lately about the canine population in the Quinte area, especially when an increase in the licence fee was proposed.

In this age of rising prices it was inevitable that inflation now before our problems are truly bad — but why discrimination against the dog — what about other household pets — should they not be entitled to equal status as the dog when it comes to controls and fees?

I do not feel that the real issue is one of an increase in the licence fee as much as a question of control and service in the canine population.

Let's discuss these one at a time: service in return for the fees collected — no different than the basic services expected in return for Municipal Taxes.

Council has in the past legislated restrictive by-laws when it comes to dogs; it is about time there was a closer look at what facilities — might help reduce the problem and protect welfare yet maintain control of an explosive situation.

The problem of surplus cats and dogs gets worse with each passing day, resulting in more and more mass killings and rising costs to the taxpayer.

It has been estimated that it is costing Canadians via donations and taxation up to $70 million a year for animal welfare, mostly all due to the surplus breeding of pets.

If one doesn't care about the inhumanity of it, surely it is insanity from a financial aspect to continue spending such a tremendous amount on rounding up and killing, especially with spiralling costs today, when lower cost — number municipal clinics could gradually reduce the problem entirely.

It can be done, as Los Angeles has proved, so why are we so backward and inhumane here?

The impound and kill system should have become obsolete many years ago, so let's start with the latest and most advanced methods.

Consideration should be given to designating an area where dogs could do their thing — room and exercise with their owners providing sufficient restrictions were imposed so that the area does not turn into a cesspool of excrement and disease.

Remember dogs like humans require a certain amount of controlled freedom.

Following the letter by Mr. Scott Beale Dec. 11 and the interesting and timely remarks by our minister of highways who has the temerity to attempt to bring motor mayhem on our roads with a reduced speed limit, I am reminded of the old saying "The most unreliable thing about automobiles is the nut that holds the steering wheel."

Excise Tax Refund Entitlement for Commercial Users

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Starting Dec. 31, anyone who buys fuel for commercial purposes is entitled to collect a refund of excise tax paid.

The levy, 10 cents a gallon, was introduced last summer to help stabilize prices across the country, in the face of the rising cost of crude oil imported from the giant cartel—the organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Until now, the only refund claims being accepted were those of big users with substantial amounts involved.

Now claims under $200 may be submitted as of Dec. 31, and at six-month intervals from then on.

A surprisingly small number of $200-plus claims have been submitted. Commercial drivers may be tempted to ignore the refund process, thinking that the amount involved isn't worth the paperwork.

That's a temptation that should be avoided. Paying unnecessary taxes doesn't make sense at any time—and the documentation in this case has been kept to a minimum.

Anyone is eligible who buys gasoline for commercial or business purposes. That includes business and professional people, the self-employed, farm operators, commercial fishermen, hunters and trappers, and the three levels of government.

In addition, refunds are available to a broad range of groups, agencies and institutions such as non-profit organizations—but not to their individual members.

The gasoline tax is recoverable in the same proportion that the activity is deductible as a business expense for income tax purposes," says Revenue Canada.

In the typical case where an employer pays the expenses of his employees who use their cars on company business, it's the employer who claims the refund.

The company may claim either the usual 10 cents a gallon, or it may claim a refund of five-eighths of a cent for each mile travelled by the employee.

Revenue Canada Customs and Excise Commission, salesmen and others who are not compensated by their employers are considered to be self-employed. They may claim the refund directly for business use.

When income-tax time comes, the recipient of a refund must either claim the net amount of automobile expenses (that is, the actual amount paid for gasoline less the subsequent refund), or claim the gross amount but add the refund to taxable income.

Remember that your entitlement to a refund runs out two years after you bought the gasoline.

Refund application forms (the number is 2283) and pre-addressed envelopes may be obtained at post offices, taxation offices, customs offices and excise offices.

The claims are handled on what might be called the honeyguide system. You aren't required to attach invoices, receipts or vouchers, nor proof of business use—but you are expected to keep that kind of documentation on hand in case the tax collector decides to check.

Refund claims are processed by computer, so it's doubly important to answer all questions on the form—such as the employer number or Social Insurance number.

Claims should be sent to Revenue Canada, Excise Gasoline Tax Division, Ottawa, Ont., K1A 0L5.

For information and clarification, there's a different address—Excise Gasoline Tax Division, Box 245, Ottawa, Ont., K1N 8L5.

Questions can also be answered by phone, local excise office. Telephone numbers are listed on the refund application form.

Social Service Budgets Restricted by Ontario

TORONTO (CP) Provincial children's aid societies, municipal social services departments and homes for the aged will be allowed to increase their budgets by only 5.1 per cent for the fiscal year 1976-77, the Ontario minister of community and social services said Thursday.

James Taylor told a meeting of Ontario children's aid societies that the government's expenditures follows the government's policy of restraint.

"It is expected that in curtailing the growth of expenditures you will make selective cuts in order to preserve the present level of service to clients," he said.

"Rather than spelling out specific detailed instructions for budget cuts I feel that we together can make that decision taking into account local priorities.

The minister said he will not approve any new capital construction, debt retirement, new programs or special projects, except for programs for the mentally retarded. These projects already given approval will be completed, however.

A text of the speech was released in advance of delivery.

Information Canada Will Be Disbanded

OTTAWA (CP) — Information Canada will be disbanded March 31 but the saving to the government will be only about $3 million a year, a senior federal official said Thursday.

Government book sales, however, will remain open.

The official said the embattled information agency, established five years ago amid charges it was a propaganda tool for the Liberal government, has been given the deadline to wind up programs across the country and clear out of downtown Ottawa offices.

Word of the disbandment came as the government unveiled a series of cost-saving measures in its anti-inflation program.

The official said inquiry centres, media information offices and other services will be scrapped by March 31.

The agency's six book stores and its exposition branch will be spaced and transferred to another department.

The exposition branch produces displays for trade fairs and exhibitions.

The 677 Information Canada employees have been all hired guaranteed government jobs, he said.

About 200 book store and exposition branch workers will retain their present jobs and the Public Service Commission, the federal hiring agency, will give priority to the remainder in filling vacancies in other departments.

The officials said about $5 million of the $2.5-million budget is for salaries while another $2.5 million is for the book stores and exposition branch. He said the net saving will be about $3 million.

NDP Help Defeat Vote of Non-confidence

TORONTO (CP) — New Democrats in the legislature said Thursday there is still much work to be done as they joined the Conservative government to defeat a Liberal vote of non-confidence in the speech from the throne.

Jim Renwick, NDP—Hamilton Westworth, speaking against the Liberal motion, said the NDP voted with the amendment in itself but said "this is not a time for posturing, for petty political gain or for one-upmanship."

The combined NDP and Conservative vote defeated the motion 78 to 28.

The vote was the first of its kind to be faced by the minority Conservative government since the 30th session of the legislature opened Oct. 28.

The Liberal amendment criticized the government for becoming part of the federal anti-inflation program and urged it to set up its own review board.

Mr. Deans said the government it will have to shape up if it expects NDP support during the next session.

Wentworth said the people of Ontario expect the government to answer relevant questions.

He told Attorney-General Roy McMurtry that he should spend more time before the legislature and less before the cameras.

"You must re-impose the freeze on gasoline and oil, do something about an income maintenance program for farmers and look into shifters or safety and health."

He charged that all the over-expenditures and frills causing so much trouble now were brought on by the Conservatives themselves.

Pat Reid (L—Rainy River) spoke first in support of the amendment.

He said the provincial government had abrogated its authority in joining with the federal anti-inflation program where it concerned the public sector.

"I don't blame them for jumping into bed with the federal government," he said. "But I predict we will have our own anti-inflation board within six months."

Health Minister Frank Miller replied for the government and said the session which wound up Thursday was an historic one.

Feb. 1 Set for New Speed Limits: Snow

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's reduced speed limits take effect next Feb. 1, James Snow, minister of transportation and communications, said Thursday.

"I am assured the changeover can be effected within two or three days," the minister told the legislature.

During the change-over period the speed limits will be enforced according to the posted limit.

The government announced previously that it intended to reduce speed limits to 80 miles an hour from 70 on most of the major highways and to 70 miles an hour from 60 on other provincial highways.

Mr. Snow announced two exceptions to the government's original intentions.

On the Trans-Canada Highway 17 link between the Manitoba and Quebec borders, the speed limit for both passenger and commercial vehicles will be 85 miles an hour and the speed limit on Highway 11 from North Bay north and west to Rainy River will also be 85 miles an hour.

The minister said such regulations would conform to similar legislation expected in other provinces.

The changeover of speed limit signs begins Feb. 1.

Retail Phone Store Allows Some Choice

MONTREAL (CP) — Bell Canada has introduced a new kind of telephone-installation service in suburban Longueuil which will allow customers to choose their telephones from a "telephone boutique."

A company spokesman said the service, called Telebouticque, was introduced on a trial basis last year. Keith Morgan, Telebouticque manager for Longueuil, said 80 per cent of new telephone customers in his area have used the service.

The cities of Sherbrooke, Que., and Guelph, Ont., converted to the Telebouticque system at the same time as Longueuil. Mr. Morgan said in an interview this is the first time the system has been utilized on a large scale.

The new system requires a simple re-wiring of each residence with the addition of jacks similar to electrical outlets. Customers can have as many as five installed at no cost and can move their telephones to any room in the house where jacks are located.

More important, however, is the fact that a new tenant moving into a building equipped with jacks can have telephone service in a matter of hours instead of having to wait days for a service man to arrive.

The new telephone subscriber visits a Telebouticque store and chooses a telephone from the selection Bell offers. At the same time, he is assigned a telephone number. The whole operation takes less than half an hour.

Within two hours the phone may be plugged in and used. The customer is billed the normal rate for initiation of telephone service, but Bell has asked the Canadian transport commission for permission to reduce rates for subscribers taking advantage of Telebouticque services.

From Bell Canada's point of view, the Telebouticque concepts service costs by eliminating the need for a service truck to connect new residential phones. Moreover, because installation service is still available for those who want it.

Telebouticque also represents a more aggressive attitude in merchandising in a business where the market is virtually saturated. Since nearly every home has a telephone, Bell plans to sell a wider variety of services and equipment.

In addition to the 36,000 residences in Longueuil equipped with Bell's new service, the company has recently converted 23,000 dwellings in neighboring Brossard, Brossard, Ville Brossard, Ville Brossard, Ville

Black Lion Trainer Prepares for Toronto

HILLSBURGH, Ont. (CP) — It was incongruous to say the least.

A four-wheel-drive passenger truck wended its way through blinding snowqualls in rural Ontario about 40 miles northeast of Kitchener.

Hardly the setting for shooting a Tarzan movie or an episode of Born Free. Yet, nearby in a barn were eight almost-grown lions, two tiger cubs, a black lion-tamer and his two assistants.

The truck was carrying a reporter, a photographer, a circus publicity agent and his curious brother on their way to see where a Canadian circus—described by its owners as Canada's only circus—keeps its lions in winter.

The lion-tamer is Manuel (Junior) Ruffin, a 37-year-old native of Los Angeles who says he is North America's only black lion trainer.

The lions are Rex, Caesar, Bongo, Cherry, Samsson, Nero, Nickey and Mitch. They are between three and five years old and not quite fully grown, lacking the full mane that gives the big cats their regal appearance.

Ruffin is polishing a line act that he must have ready to go on the road with the Toronto-based Garden Brothers Circus by March.

The lions are all males.

"The males look a hell of a lot better when their manes are full grown although the females are easier to train," says Ruffin, who joined his first circus in 1949 at the age of 11.

His first job was with the legendary Clyde Beatty. He cleaned cages, fed the lions and did other chores.

One of nine children from a broken family, Ruffin joined the circus because "It was something exciting, something different."

Since then he has trained elephants, trained horses, been a mechanic and "put up the big top," as supervisor of the tent crew.

He will have his own lion act when Garden Brothers circus goes on the road in March, travelling across the North American continent several times between then and the fall.

He has been working with the lions since September and hedging by a demonstration written for the reporter and photographer, has made good progress.

He said the lions were partially trained when he got them but, since his act is different from the one they were being trained for originally, he had to start almost at the beginning.

"The act still has a few rough edges. The demonstration began with all the lions lying in front of the trainer. The second part was to feature one lion lying on his back in front of Ruffin while the others perched on stands around the cage.

One of the lions missed his cue. When the star of the act jumped off his perch and sprawled in front of the "stiner, the second lion thought they were still practising the first take and lay down beside the first animal.

All in all, Ruffin was satisfied with the cat's work.

"Today I had no trouble getting them to lie down in a row," he said. "Yesterday I had so much trouble with this.

"We still have plenty of time to get the act polished up and when it's ready it will be an exciting show."

The circus life is a good one for both the big cats and their trainer, Ruffin said. The cats get all the horsemeat they need and all the exercise they need by performing each day.

He said he doesn't mind the travelling. "It's staying in one place like this that bothers me."

He picked up his share of scratches from lions over the years, he said, mostly as the result of carelessness.

"I think circuses are on the upswing now. Ten or 15 years ago people just wanted to watch television and have everything handed to them. Now they want to get out more and do things like going to circuses.

"It's an interesting life and I'd do the same thing again. One day everything's smooth, the next it blows up. But there's a great demand now for animal trainers and circus performers."

Cyclist Is Cheecky

WORTHING, England (CP) — A high-speed bottom-pincher riding a racing bicycle swooped on four women and then dashed off, pedalling furiously, Sussex police say that they "want to find this lad for his own good as well as for the protection of the girls in the town." The women involved say he is between 11 and 14 years old and has a flushed face.

Guidelines Cause Deluge Of Paper Work for Firms

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal anti-inflation program will mean a deluge of paper work for thousands of companies required to make detailed calculations of the wages and benefits received by their employees.

A government source said Tuesday the onus will be on employers to determine the hourly value of both wages and all other benefits by filling out anti-inflation board forms.

The hourly value will be used in determining percentage pay increases allowed under the program.

The requirement for filling out the forms will be included in 40 pages of regulations to be published Thursday night containing details of how the program of selective pay and price controls is to be administered.

The government plans to distribute 300,000 copies of an information kit explaining details of the nine-week-old program.

The pay increases allowed under the program include a basic percentage—eight per cent in the first year—as protection against inflation. The government source said the regulations would reduce the inflation-protection factor allowed in future years for workers benefiting from a cost-of-living clause in their contracts in excess of eight per cent in first year.

The regulations also will include detailed definitions of possible examptions which could allow workers to receive larger pay increases. However, the anti-inflation board has the discretionary power of deciding when a group of workers is eligible for exemptions.

One method of exemption is to allow larger pay increases when they are required to maintain a historical relationship between two groups of workers.

An official said the regulations define historical relationships as existing under either of two circumstances:

—Where there is a demonstrable relationship between the level of pay and the timing and rate of increases for two different groups of workers for more than two years prior to Oct. 14; or,

—Where the two groups work for the same employer, are employed in the same industry and same local labor market and perform work related to the same product, process or service.

The anti-inflation board already has made clear in a number of rulings, however, that it will reject proposed wage increases meeting these criteria when it decides the increases required are too large or would do damage to the program itself.

The government's policy paper introducing the program also said the board may allow larger pay increases for workers whose previous contract had been signed prior to Jan. 1, 1974, because these workers had not had the chance to bargain since the inflation rate accelerated.

The regulations say that this provision would only apply if the previous contract had also expired prior to Oct. 14 and negotiation had begun on a new contract before that date, the official said.

The regulations will spell out in detail what the anti-inflation board already has made clear in earlier statements—that all forms of compensation including bonuses, fringe benefits and profit sharing schemes will count as income for the purpose of wage reviews.

COINS LACING

Due to the shortage of silver coins in 1879 and because paper money could be printed quickly, the Canadian government issued 25-cent notes, popularly called shin-plasters.

Franco Yielded Power Only in Face of Death

The Canadian Press

Francisco Paulino Hermenegildo Teodulo Franco y Bahamonde ruled Spain with an iron hand for 36 years. He yielded power only in death and he fought that as stubbornly as he ever fought his political enemies.

The generalissimo became master of his country in 1939 with the help of fellow-dictators Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini after one of history's bloodiest civil wars. He imposed the measure of stability upon a troubled nation at the expense of fundamental human rights.

When he died Nov. 19 at the age of 82 it was after an illness that lasted 29 days during which he survived a series of major operations that attested to his stamina.

The rest of the world took little notice when his designated successor, Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, 37, chosen by him four years before, became Spain's first king in 47 years.

Another world figure died in 1975, in relative obscurity. He was Haile Selassie, the former emperor of Ethiopia, the Lion of Judah and King of Kings, who had been deposed and forced to give up a personal fortune of more than $1 billion. Death came in Addis Ababa Aug. 27.

Death struck down other political greats of past years, among them Chiang Kai-shek, 87, president of Nationalist China. In Talpeh April 5; Nikolai Bulganin, 79, former premier of Soviet Russia, in Moscow Feb. 24, and Eamon de Valera, the fiery Irish rebel who became the revered president of the Republic of Ireland, in Dublin Aug. 29 at the age of 92.

King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, 68, fell before an assassin's bullet in his palace in Riyadh March 25. The gunman was Prince Faisal Ibn Musaed, the king's nephew. He was beheaded with a golden sword as thousands cheered. He was the first member of the Saudi Arabian royal family to be executed in public.

Almost last night of in a troubled year that recorded the deaths of many prominent people were Col. Richard Ratimbrawn, president of the Malagasy Republic, by assassination, Feb. 11, and the Duke of Norfolk, 86, Britain's premier Duke and Earl Marshal, in London Feb. 7 of natural causes.

The world of sports was shaken as it had seldom been before when Graham Hill, 46, twice winner of the world motor-car racing championship and Britain's "elder statesman" in that dangerous sport, was killed in an airplane crash Nov. 29 just outside London, a few miles from his home. With him died five members of his racing team.

Hill was the only man to win Britain's Big Three—the Grand Prix, world championship, twice the Indianapolis 500 (1966) and Le Mans 24-hour endurance test.

For 20 years he drove the powerful Formula 1 cars on the world's major racing circuits without an accident. He retired from racing last July to concentrate on building and sponsoring racing cars and was flying home in his own plane from Marseilles, after testing a new car on the Riviera, when he crashed in thick fog two miles from his landing point.

Two days before Hill was killed, Britain and the rest of the Western world were shocked by the murder of Ross McWhirter, co-editor with his twin brother, Norris, of the Guinness Book of Records, gunned down at the door of his suburban London home by assassins of the Irish Republican Army.

McWhirter had launched a "Beat the Bombers campaign," offering a $100,000 reward for the arrest of IRA terrorists who had killed eight persons and wounded scores in London in the previous few months.

If ever a man loved sport, sport without a price tag, it was Avery Brundage.

The Chicago tycoon was president of the International Olympic Committee for more years (1952-72) than his detractors cared to remember, but when he died in Garmisch-Partenkirchen, West Germany, at 87, May 8, he was recognized as Mr. Amateur Sport.

He threw Eleanor Holm off the United States Olympic swimming team in 1936 because she took a drink of champagne aboard ship while cruising the Atlantic. She said: "He's a jerk."

Canada's ice-skating darling, Barbara Ann Scott, said "thanks" after he told her to return to the donors the cowrthie given to her when she won the Olympic skating championship in 1947.

Never again will the fictional detective, Nero Wolfe, shift his 19-stone (268 pounds) bulk into his specially-built chair and call for beer after tending his orchids on the top floor of the old brownstone house that never was in downtown Manhattan. His creator, author Rex Stout, 89, died in Danbury, Conn., Oct. 27.

Aristotle Onassis, the 69-year-old Greek shipping magnate, died in Paris March 15. He was the second husband of Jacqueline Kennedy, widow of the slain United States president.

The death list of prominent persons in 1975 was lengthy. Among others in it were:

Al, the French boxer who was world light heavyweight champion in 1930 and who lost to Jack Dempsey in a historic heavyweight championship fight in 1921, in Paris, Oct. 27; Ezzard Charles, 54, former world heavyweight boxing champion, in Chicago, May 29; Casey Stengel, 85, major league baseball manager who won more World Series victories than any other manager, Glendale, Calif., Sept. 30; Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove, 75, star pitcher with the Philadelphia Athletics in the 1920s and '30s, May 22.

Arts and letters: Thomas Hart Benton, 85, painter, in Kansas City, Jan. 19; Sir Arthur Bliss, 85, composer and Master of the Queen's Musick, London, March 27;

In Appreciation

I wish to thank all my friends for the help and kindness which was shown concerning my new project at the Y.M.C.A.

Best wishes to all. Thanks Kindly.

Bail Reduced

Wendy Yoshimura the 22-year-old underground companion of Patty Hearst, arrives at the Alameda County court house on Wednesday where Judge Lionel Wilson reduced her bail from $100,000 to $25,000. Judge Wilson impressed on Miss Yoshimura that strong support from the Japanese-American community prompted him to reduce bail.

Volunteer Work Helps Build Cuba

HAVANA (Reuter) — For the Cubans packed in open trucks on their way to the fields or the construction sites, Sunday is just a normal working day—except that they do not get paid.

Many of them exhibit in their homes a diploma recording hundreds of hours of voluntary work, signed by one of the two men who started the scheme when economic hardship made it necessary—Ernesto (Che) Guevara.

Together with Premier Fidel Castro, the late guerrilla leader went out into the fields to cut sugar cane as an example to the masses.

In those days, the early 1960s, the voluntary work scheme was needed to overcome labor shortages, step up production and develop a socialist conscience.

It developed in an atmosphere of enthusiasm and confusion with crowds leaving their normal jobs behind to go out to the sugar fields.

Students, women, office clerks wielded machetes under a scorching sun for long hours with plenty of good will—but with poor skill and to little result.

Mass mobilization for the unsuccessful harvest of "the 10 million tons" of sugar in 1970 signalled the end of this first period after it caused near chaos in other economic sectors, which had become deserted.

Volunteer work now has become more productive as volunteers are asked to display their revolutionary zeal where they are most efficient, in their own trades.

More Married Women Are Deciding to Keep Their Own Surnames

By ISABEL HUGGAN

Traditionally, when a woman married, along with the white gown, confetti and wedding gifts, she got a new name.

Nowadays, however, if she chooses to marry, she may well do without the long dress, the gift-bearing guests and the rest of the centuries-old marriage customs. More importantly, she may decide to keep her own name instead of changing to her husband's.

But can she do that? Is it legal?

Absolutely.

The name change accompanying marriage takes place only through custom, not through law. Although the husband's name becomes the wife's name legally, it is only through usage that this occurs. In other words, once the woman starts using the name, it becomes hers.

It is convention, not law, that causes a woman to take her husband's name. But this convention is now being questioned, and with good reason.

In the past, the law took the view that upon marriage a woman lost her separate legal personality, that she became merged with her husband. The married change simply made this concept visible.

Gradually, however, the courts have begun to recognize marriage as a partnership of equal members, and family law is presently being reformed to provide fairer, and more realistic rights for women. Perhaps this partnership approach is partially responsible for the growing number of women who wish to retain their own names as married women, or to revert to their name after years of using their husband's name.

For some, this may seem a minor, even trivial issue. For many, it is often that a woman might not wish to be called "Mrs.—" is social heresy, a symptom of weaker marital loyalty, even a cause of eventual family disintegration.

Nevertheless, more women are choosing to take this action. The Ontario Law Reform Commission is currently studying the situation, and the problems that spring up when custom is defied. A study paper — A Woman's Name — is now available to the public, in order to stir comments and suggestions for reform.

And what are the problems?

There are the practical consequences of keeping track of families in police records, banks and credit companies, insurance policies and employers' accounts. There is the impact on society's structure, the possible lack of family continuity and identity.

Although there is no law requiring a woman to change her name, it is often difficult for her to keep her own and still be able to prove her marital status to stores, companies, government agencies or banks. This will only change if more women decide to retain their birth names.

Women who retain their birth names in a professional capacity and who use their husband's names socially still must use only one of them legally, for public record.

If a married woman wants to return to the use of her own name she must file an application to the county or district court stating the reasons for the change. Under the Change of Name Act she may "take back" her own name for public usage, after a formal hearing, usually a brief court hearing.

The Law Reform Commission is currently examining several proposals regarding the husband-name-change situation. One suggestion is that a woman should have the use either her own or her husband's name, as she prefers. But this practice would be more confusing than the present system, requiring elaborate cross-indexing under both names.

Another proposal is the use of hyphens, so that both the husband's and wife's names are used to make an entirely new name at the time of marriage. This custom is popular in many European and South American countries, but rare in Ontario. Although the lengthening of surnames by hyphenation would present troubles for computer-filing, the practice would preclude a marriage of equals, linking family members to both their paternal and maternal ancestors.

Unfortunately, this unconventional alternative would probably lead to further difficulties here because there is no established pattern for dealing with hyphenation. The system works best in countries where most surnames have a common language root, and where a cultural approach to marriage begins it out.

Some of the questions raised in the Commission's study search into the very heart of our attitudes to the family.

Should the law continue to require that children born in wedlock be given their father's surname? Should a couple be able to give a child a surname at birth name as its surname? Or hyphenated surname combining both parents' names? Or a totally different name from its parents?

Solutions to these and other questions are still far from being found. And in the process of the Commission's study, the symbolic, emotional and practical implications of name choice are being examined before any new policies are made.

If you would like a copy of the booklet A Woman's Name, or have opinions you'd like known, write to the Ontario Law Reform Commission, 18th Floor, 18 King Street East, Toronto, Ontario, M5C 1C5, before January 31, 1976.

It May Be Legal, But It's Still Not Popular in Belleville

A survey of shoppers in the Quinte Mall this week brought various responses to the question "Do you think women should keep their own birth names when they marry, instead of taking their husbands' names?"

In this particular survey, the women questioned gave more conservative, traditional replies than the men did. But as one man (who wishes to remain anonymous) said, "Men probably just appear to be open-minded out of diplomacy. And they know their place."

Mabel Read, a member of the Foxboro Senior Citizens' Club, says she knows the world is changing, but "if you marry a man, you should take his name. There's no need for a woman to keep her own name when she marries." Mrs. Read adds, however, that she feels name change is an individual decision. No women of her acquaintance have made this choice.

"I don't think there needs to be any changes made," says Dorothy Goodfellow of Foxboro. Mrs. Read's daughter, "I like the tradition the way it is. Young people have some very good ideas, but this is one I don't agree with. I think women should take their husband's names."

"It's legal," says James Fair of Brighton, regarding a married woman's right to keep her birth name. "And I think it's a matter entirely up to the people involved. It's a question that never came up when my wife and I married, but if she wanted to change her name back, she could. She's a free agent, after all."

"Changing your name is part of being married," says Betsy Kelly of Picton. "I think a woman should keep her husband's name. It's just confusing otherwise, especially if there are children. Of course, it's sensible to take your own name back after separation, but that's a different matter."

Laura Totten, a first-year student at Carleton University in Ottawa, is home in Belleville for the holidays. "I like the old-fashioned way," she says, "and I guess I just don't like changes. I think most of my acquaintances would prefer the old way too, where a woman changes her name to her husband's. I don't even go for the hyphenation idea."

Poet Charles Andrew Tupper, of Foxboro says "I imagine it's up to the individual," whether to keep or change a name. He recalls that when he got married, both he and his wife got entirely new names because the preacher mispelled "Tupper" as "Tuse", a mistake that was finally corrected after three months.

Mrs. Hilscott feels her own name is different. However, these difficulties are small ones.

"I've found most people very tolerant.

"I really haven't had a hard time," says Donna Whalen. And although his friends have teased Joe a little, he's got enough self-assurance to not be bothered."

Personal Identity: More Valuable Than Tradition?

"Marriage has room for two individuals."

Donna Whalen and Joe Hiscott believe this firmly. As a token of that belief, when they were married in July, Mrs. Donna chose to retain her own name.

But she is quick to point out that her husband was "absolutely supportive" and that he has continued to feel, as she does, that keeping her name is her right.

Although in doing so Donna Whalen is defying centuries of custom her intentions are not "revolutionary". She simply says that her name was a part of her that she couldn't give up.

"I've always been known as Donna Whalen," she says. "I think a name is a symbol. It stands for who you are. And my name is very much tied up with who I am.

"I've always felt this way. When I was 20 or 21 I decided that life would be what I wanted it to be, and that if I ever married, marriage wouldn't change my identity."

She prefers Ms. Whalen to Miss Whalen, and admits that she often gets called Mrs. Whalen by strangers who see her wedding rings and get "confused". But it doesn't bother or upset her.

"You see, I don't really care if the general public knows my marital status. I don't believe it's important in a public sense. Anyway, the people who know Joe and me know that we're married," she says.

"My married status is very important to me personally. Keeping my own name has nothing to do with appearing 'unmarried' or 'flirting around'. I have no objection to wearing a ring, for example."

Mr. Whalen adds that her earlier career in real estate was not a factor in her decision to keep her name. "But in terms of the career I hope to have as a writer, I've always intended to use my own name and maintain a permanent identity."

Now working at home, pursuing that writing career, Ms. Whalen has her own listing in the telephone book, in the manner that any two people of different names sharing a phone would have. Because of this, none of her friends who want to get in touch have to remember "who Donna married" in order to find her. In fact, keeping her own name has presented Ms. Whalen with few problems.

There have been a couple of bouts with an insurance company computer that balked at the idea, but computers are notoriously reactionary and slow to catch on.

And then there's the OHIP form that Mr. Hiscott fills out where his wife must be listed as his child because her name is different. However, these difficulties are small ones.

"I've found most people very tolerant.

"I really haven't had a hard time," says Donna Whalen. And although his friends have teased Joe a little, he's got enough self-assurance to not be bothered."

Husband and wife, Joe Hiscott and Donna Whalen.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fox

BGH Dessert Luncheon

The executive of the Belleville General Hospital Auxiliary held a business at the annual dessert luncheon.

At the luncheon, reports from auxiliary enterprises were made and reports on the hospital auxiliary association convention were presented by Pat Davis, Charlotte Holfelder, Marion Lewry and Sylvia Bickard.

The annual meeting and luncheon will be held January 27.

Fox — Fox

St. Joseph's Church was the setting for the fall wedding of Susan Deborah Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Fox, and Richard Keith Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fox of RR 1, Bloomfield.

Rt. Rev. J.A. Carley performed the service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk taffeta under silk organza, featuring a fitted bodice and a neckline of French lace. A centre panel at the back accented the skirt in a long train ending in French lace. The bride's long veil of silk illusion tulle was gathered to a crown of daisies and lace, and she carried a cascade of yellow sweetheart roses.

Laura Lee Fox, the bride's sister, was maid of honor in a gown of rusty red tiled at the waist with bolero lace, worn with a crepe jacket with scalloped sleeves and ties. She carried a cascade of white daisies.

Carolyn Morris, the bride's sister, Cathy Fox, the groom's sister, and Pat Reid were bridesmaids in gowns identical to the maid of honor's, also carrying bouquets of daisies.

Laurie Fox, the groom's neice, was flower girl in a princess line gown of rusty red, carrying a basket of daisies. He was accompanied by Christopher Fox, the bride's nephew, as ring bearer.

Roger Elliott was the groom's best man. Ushers were Roger Townsend, the bride's brother Tony Fox, and the groom's brother Gordon Fox.

A dinner and dance was held in the Elk's Hall following the wedding.

No Name Change Here!

When Susan and Richard Fox decided to marry, there was one question that never came up — Susan didn't have to consider whether or not she wanted to change her name. For Susan was already named Fox.

"We're not related at all," she says. "And we didn't meet because of our names being together on a class list or anything like that. We simply met through friends. Oddly enough, we had many of the same friends."

However, Mrs. Fox has had to go through the changing of her marital status on her driving license, social insurance and other records. "They're pretty fussy about whether you're married or single," she says.

And, she adds, she and her husband are used to being teased about their unusual situation. "We got a lot of kidding," she says.

Ann Landers Deathbed Cries Break Hearts

Dear Ann Landers: I was infuriated by the letter signed "The Other Woman" who was sick at heart because the man she had been sneaking around with for 12 years was dying of cancer. She bemoaned the fact that even though she was "first in his life" she would have to sit in the back of the church at the funeral while his wife sat in front, getting all the sympathy due a perfect wife.

As an R.N. who has seen more than one wife at the bedside of a delirious (or dying) husband and listened to him call The Other Woman's name in his delirium, I can tell you it is a heartbreaking thing to watch—especially if children are present, and they often are.

Most wives know about The Other Woman and do their best to hold their heads up while keeping one eye and one ear shut. Too bad someone can't put a gag in the mouth of a cheating husband or tie his tongue up so his last days aren't hell on his long-suffering wife.—On The Other Side.

Dear O.S.: Nobody can say this column doesn't give equal time to both sides. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been reading your column for at least 15 years. As a former English teacher, I would give you no better than a C for grammar.

I can't figure out if your strange and often unconventional use of the language is a result of the area where you grew up (Iowa, ugh) or were you poorly educated?

In the last month you used the word "ain't" twice. I realize "ain't" is in the dictionary but it's considered improper usage by respected authorities. Will you respond to this in print, please?—Observer in Waltham, Mass.

Dear Wally: A lot of those respected authorities who wouldn't dream of saying "ain't"—ain't eatin', as Will Rogers said.

As for "Iowa—ugh," did you know that Iowa has a 99-per-cent literacy rate? The highest of the 50 states? I accept your apologies.

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter and help a lot of people.

You are my father. You work like a dog and bring home a paycheque picked to poverty by taxes. You can't buy my mother what she deserves. Every day means another line of worry on your face. My heart aches whenever you light a cigarette. I would gladly trade my lungs for yours if you would stop. You have a lovely smile. Your eyes are always sad. You never tell me what bothers you.

You are my mother. You don't have the nice things other wives have. Our home is immaculate. You've worked like a slave for as long as I can remember. Your parents never gave you anything but aggravation.

You never go anywhere, waiting for your husband to come home. He's always too tired for anything but falling asleep on the couch. I know how lonely you must be.

You think I only care about my friends, but you're wrong. They don't make me cry at night. Every time you and dad fight I die a little inside. I love you both. I only wish I could help.—Your Child.

Dear Child: I wish I could help, too, but neither of us can. It's up to your parents to seek help. All we can do is hope they will—and soon.

Smarten Up To Be Equal

TORONTO (CP) — If women want to be equal with men, they should smarten up, several members of the Ontario Status of Women Council said Thursday.

Ruth Cunningham of Thunder Bay said men well remain in school and upgrade themselves, women "grab what they need and disappear into low-paying jobs or marriage and children."

She was speaking during presentation of a brief on the status of women in Ontario's 22 community colleges.

Laura Sabia, chairman, said that when she talks about women's rights, she is dismayed at the apparent I'm-all-right-I'm-married attitude of many women.

"Some women automatically assume that to be married is an automatic life insurance policy."

Mrs. Sabia said answers from girls at secondary schools are particularly shocking.

"I ask them what they plan to do when they graduate and invariably they'll answer that they want to get married.

The Attack on Inflation

Inflation is the most serious problem we have in Canada. That makes the Attack on Inflation the most serious and important program in front of us today. And success in this program becomes our most important national objective.

The evils that inflation brings are painfully clear. Soaring prices that hurt us at home every day and make our products less competitive in international markets. Special hardships for anyone with a fixed income. Frustrating difficulties in all family budgeting and planning. Bitterness and fear of compromise in union-management relations.

Controlling and correcting these evils is the purpose of the anti-inflation legislation that has just been passed by Parliament.

The law establishes Guidelines and Regulations which are designed to create a fair and livable economic climate. They make it possible for all of us to attack inflation together. For the good of Canada and for the good of each Canadian.

A working explanation

What we will do

The Anti-Inflation Guidelines apply to everyone and all Canadians are expected to comply with them. The Guidelines will keep price increases within strict limits. They will also control profits, incomes, dividends and professional fees. While many Canadians are simply asked to comply with the Guidelines, five groups are required by law to do so.

1. Businesses with more than 500 employees.
2. Construction firms with more than 20 employees.
3. The Federal Government.
4. Participating Provincial Governments and municipal institutions.
5. Professional individuals or firms.

The Anti-Inflation Board will apply the Guidelines evenly and fairly to everyone covered by the law, including the Government of Canada. The Government is making major cuts in costs and spending and will abide by the Guidelines.

Price control

To make price control really work on a lot of the things we need and use every day, a number of rules will be enforced. For example, over 100 of the biggest companies in Canada, making or selling over 2000 kinds of goods, have to notify the Anti-Inflation Board 30 days in advance of any planned important price increase. Even then, these companies and all others covered by the legislation can only raise their prices to cover an increase in costs. They will have to prove that their real costs have gone up and not all claims of cost increases will be accepted.

Profit control will also be used to hold down prices. Some companies can't tell how much it costs to make a single item. They will have to price their products so that their overall profit margin is no more than 95% of what it was on average over the last five years. This Regulation will help keep price increases to a bare minimum. It will also result in a drop in prices if the companies' costs go down. All companies are expected to pass on cost savings to you, the consumer.

Salary and Wage Control

Now that the law restrains price increases, it is fair and reasonable to expect restraint in incomes. The Guidelines limit increases in income to an average of 10%. If an employee group has had lower than normal increases in the last few years, this limit can go up to 12%. The limit on wage and salary increases can also drop to 8% for groups that have enjoyed above normal gains. The highest average increase for any group is $2400.

An exception is made for someone earning a very low income. Under the Guidelines, these people are entitled to try for an increase of $600 a year or whatever it takes to bring their earnings to $3.50 an hour, whichever amount is greater.

The Guidelines are designed to let you keep a little ahead of the allowed price increases. As a result, wage and salary control need not be a special hardship for anyone.

What you can do

There are many things you can do to fight inflation and to protect yourself against price increases. As a start, look out for price changes. If you don't like a price increase, taking your money elsewhere is the best protest there is. Or, if you suspect that a price change is breaking the Guidelines, ask questions. Ask the store. Ask the company that makes the stove or suit or car or pair of shoes. And if you're not satisfied, tell the Anti-Inflation Board about it. One of the roles of the Anti-Inflation Board is to give new help to you the consumer in the battle against rising prices.

This kind of participation, as well as your personal support of the Guidelines will help the Attack on Inflation succeed and succeed as quickly as possible. Canada's wealth and resources are far from unlimited and it is very important to the anti-inflation effort that we try hard as individuals and as a nation to produce our goods more efficiently and to live within our means. Your attitude of restraint, common sense and commitment will be as effective as any legislation in beating inflation.

What the Anti-Inflation Board is and how to use it

The Board has two major roles to play in the Attack on Inflation. First of all, it is the working arm of the anti-inflation legislation. The Board will keep a close check on prices and profits and will review salary increases and wage settlements. The Anti-Inflation Board will make the Guidelines stick.

The Anti-Inflation Board will also work with you and for you, answering your questions and complaints, and hearing your suggestions. If you are aware of any Guideline violations, such as an unjustified price increase that has affected you personally, the Board wants to know.

Lalonde Says Ottawa To Study Child Abuse

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is prepared to spend money and time on research to define child abuse and prevent it from spreading, Health Minister Mrec Lalonde and Solicitor-General Warren Allmand said Tuesday.

But before any definite pledges are made, they said, the facts have to be gathered.

Both Mr. Allmand and Mr Lalonde told the Commons health and welfare committee they have some possible answers but each cited contradictory studies, inadequate research and the fear and ignorance of the public as major obstacles to overcome.

Sayeed it is difficult to define child abuse and separate it from child neglect or failure. Mr. Lalonde said that 68,000 children in the custody of welfare officials in Canada as of June, 1973 were victims of neglect—wilful or unintentional maltreatment.

He said that in 1973-74, the number of abused or battered children in Canada totaled 1,985. In legal terms abuse usually includes physical attack, severe discipline such as lengthy solitary confinement, the deprivation of basic needs like food, or any other action that could cause physical or mental damage to a child.

Battering usually means intentional physical harm, he said.

Mr. Allmand expanded those definitions to include sexual abuse and noted that Mr. Lalonde's figures included only reported cases.

"Conservative estimates of the actual number of cases in Canada put the figure between 2,000 and 4,000 per year," he said.

Both cited the need for a strong reporting system under which people would not be afraid to report cases of child abuse.

In most provinces, such reporting is mandatory. But people still unjustly fear legal reprisals, unpleasant involvement in legal action or damaging personal or professional relationships, he said.

"Child abuse is a criminal act by anybody's definition," Mr. Allmand said in a brief to the committee, but both ministers said changes to the Criminal Code would not put an end to it.

Mr. Allmand cited section 43 of the Criminal Code which allows schoolteachers, parents or persons replacing parents to use force to discipline a child "if the force does not exceed what is reasonable under the circumstances."

Mr. Allmand said up to Nov. 30 of this year, 580 such acts "beyond reasonable force" were committed in Ontario alone and eight of those resulted in the death of the child.

Both ministers agreed that need for co-ordination among social agencies and professionals including police, nurses, doctors and social workers.

In a multi-service centre, Mr. Lalonde said, a parent might come for help for alcoholism or mental illness, before he or she reveals that he or she is an abusive parent.

One current problem he said, is the "prejudice between police officers and social workers." Social workers don't want to involve the police because parents accuse them of "selling out to the cops."

Both ministers stressed, a self-help, or child care course, and improved social services under provisions of the proposed social services act. The act will extend federal-provincial cost-sharing plans to community-based programs.

Passengers Lucky In Near Air Mishap

BONN (Reuter) When two fighter planes strayed into the airspace straight ahead of his Boeing 727, Captain Manfred Baiser saw only one way out.

Passengers catapulted from their seats as he threw the 40-ton plane in to a dive. Several were slightly hurt, but the 91 people on board were lucky—it was only a "near miss."

Airline pilots and air controllers are wondering how long West Germany's luck will hold. In its crowded airspace, a near miss is reported virtually every day.

Since 1970 nearly 2,000 have been recorded over West Germany, where planes from eight air forces of the North Atlantic alliance share the airspace with airliners criss-crossing Europe.

West German air traffic controllers recall that one of the worst air disasters in history occurred in mid-air when a fighter plane and an airliner collided over Japan in 1971, killing 162 people.

The federal air safety agency says military planes are involved in seven out of 10 near misses.

The recent incident with the two West German Flat G-91 fighters prompted West Germany's Lufthansa airline, whose Boeing was involved, to appeal for action by the transport ministry.

One of the main points Lufthansa made was that co-ordinated air traffic control was needed for all flights over West Germany, whether military or civilian.

At present, the 570,000 airliner flights each year are guided by civilian traffic controllers while air force controllers watch military flights on their own radar screens.

Kalaupapa - an Eden For Small Population

KALAUPAPA, Hawaii (AP) — Once a purgatory for society's outcasts, this isolated, tranquil peninsula has become a freely chosen Eden for its dwindling dozens of residents.

Those who, lived here were once cut off from society by law. Those who remain today still are set apart, not only by geography but also by the ignorance and prejudice that surround their common affliction—leprosy.

Thanks to modern science, there is no medical reason for lepers to live in this 100-year-old settlement. The government is thinking about closing it.

But for the 140 lepers who call this home, the biggest fear is not being allowed to live out their lives here.

"I don't want to leave," said John Cambra, who has spent 38 of his 71 years in this four-square-mile tongue of land jutting from the rugged north face of the island of Molokai. He recalls the day he was exiled to Kalaupapa as the saddest of his life, but says he found contentment here.

"This is the life I wanted," he said. "I wouldn't change it."

Living is easy, quiet and slow, with the restless Pacific on three sides and a spectacular vertical backdrop of 2,000-foot-high mountains.

The settlement has dwindled from a high of 1,313 patients in 1890. Only 370 patients have been admitted since 1969, when the government stopped requiring lepers to be isolated here. No patients have been admitted since 1972, and last year the state government announced that all new leprosy cases would be treated on an outpatient basis.

Sulfone drugs have made 90 per cent of leprosy cases curable. More recently, rifampin and clofazimine have virtually eliminated the possibility of contagion.

A recent state report recommended closing the settlement in 19 years but also noted that most patients prefer to stay because they may feel ill equipped for the pace of life outside and the prejudice of outsiders.

Some patients are unmarked but others, particularly those who contracted the disease before the advent of modern drugs, are ravaged.

The state provides separate cottages for three-quarters of the residents. The rest live in an antiquated hospital or a [illegible] home. [illegible] receive free medical care plus allowances for food, clothing, incidentals and utilities.

Aside from 40 civil-service workers, the only non-lepers are the handful of visitors who come by plane or mule train.

Free to come and go, the leprosy patients sometimes travel as far as the United States mainland on vacation—a striking contrast to a century ago. When leprosy erupted in an epidemic among native Hawaiians in the 19th century, forced isolation was the only answer. Countless crumbling grave markers attest to leprosy's horrors.

The disease attacks the nerves, often leading to a loss of feeling in hands and feet. Small blisters can become ulcerated sores.

Network of Paths Suggested in Report

CANNIFTON — Scenic cycling and hiking could be available in the Belleville area, if the Quinte Bayfront Plan conception becomes a future reality.

A continuous network of pedestrian and cycling pathways along 16 miles of shoreline centred on the city is a major suggestion in a study presented to the Moira River Conservation Authority Thursday.

These are the suggested routes:

Starting at Montrose Blvd. in Sidney Township, a path-way suitable for bicycles could be credited south of Highway 2, between the roadside ditch and property lines. It could follow the high-way for as the Canadian Pacific overpass near the Belleville cemeteries, in parkland at Avondale Rd.

From the Quinte Conservation Area (formerly the Potter Property) a separate pathway could follow the shoreline to Avondale.

Through wooded Belleville both pedestrians and cyclists could follow the shoreline around the city filtration plant to West Zwicks Park, under the Highway 14 bridge to the Moira River. Crossing the river would call for extending the pathways on existing piers beside the CN railway bridge, once carried the old Canadian Northern Railway across the Moira.

The pathways would then head east from South Front St. along existing sidewalks. Where the park strip now ends, the path would follow the Canadian Northern right-of-way to the Union Carbide plant, swing up the Highway 2 and follow the road for a half-mile.

From there the pathways will head into a proposed Parkland Belt extending north. The route would follow railroad embankment around the sanctuary — a stretch requiring several bridges, including over over Blessington Creek.

Through the rest of Point Anne, the pathways generally would follow the road system.

A similar system is proposed along the Moira River to link up with greenbelt and routes already planned by the city parks department.

Where possible, walkways should take precedence over bicycle paths. It could be possible to construct a pathway along the east river wall and cauliflowered over the water.

Meeks Says Government Ignored Fish Quality Report

CANNIFTON — In 1976 the Moira River Conservation Authority should:

(1) Press provincial resources authorities for a pickerel-stocking program.

(2) Undertake a study of ways to determine the species of predators responsible—whether walleye, coyotes, dogs, or hybrids.

The suggestions came from Stu Meeks, city council's representative on the MRCA and chairman of the association's fish and wildlife committee.

Ald. Meeks called 1975 a "frustrating year" in attempts to prompt response from provincial authorities on fish stocking programs and possible fish contamination.

"We're just knocking your head against a stone wall," he complained.

He said requested report on the quality of fish being used to stock waterways was never answered by provincial authorities. It was sought after a cohoe salmon caught locally showed arsenic content 79 times the permitted level for safety for human consumption.

Meanwhile, attempts to have cohoe stocked in the Bay of Quinte was turned down because the waterway is partly a long — term study to measure environment benefit of anti — pollution programs. Cohoe stocking was ruled out since it is not a native Quinte species.

But the pickerel is a local fish and a delegation should be sent to Queen's Park in 1976 to urge a pickerel — stocking program, said Ald. Meeks.

BGH Self-care Unit Move May Leave Some Patients Without Beds

BY ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

The possible move of the Queen's Self-care Unit to cramped quarters in the Edith Cavell Block and a threatened reduction in Belleville hospital ceiling on the number of beds which can be utilized in 1976 might force a decrease in patient care at Belleville General Hospital, hospital board of governors learned Thursday.

The board has been notified the ministry refuses to renew the five-year lease on the former Queen's Hotel on East Dundas St. as part of government spending restraints next year.

It means the 30-bed unit will close when the lease expires at the end of next year — spelling an end to the pilot project launched by the Ontario government in 1971.

The unit was designed to ease pressure on BGH bed space by providing a less-costly centre for patients not in need of active hospital care.

However, the board has been told the ministry will require a 10% reduction in the Cavell Block of the unit's residence — and a former nurses' teaching centre — can be converted at a reasonable cost.

Jerry Joyce, chairman of the board's planning and property committee, said recommendations and an estimated cost for the move will be available to the new board in February.

He said the major cost in renovations would be for dining room facilities and for transportation of food through the tunnel from the BGH complex — some sort of motorized cart system.

It would also cost for physical changes of two floors in the Cavell Block — to accommodate upwards to 40 - 50 beds - are not expected to be high.

He pointed out the ministry will require projected funding of the new unit's physical operation in 1977 — a guarantee to be provided in BGH administration.

"Some patients may not be accommodated there (Cavell Block) who were accommodated at the self-care," he commented.

Philip Rickard, BGH executive director, said the ministry has informed Ontario hospitals it will set a maximum number of beds each hospital will be allowed to operate next year.

Bridge to Cost $12.9 Million

Impact on environment and navigation must be known before a firm recommendation is made on location of a new Bay Bridge link joining Belleville and Rossmore.

That's the word today from Harry Vander Kooij, supervisor of the provincial government design team in charge of the project.

A suggestion aired in Belleville this week with local municipal technical staffs, suggested a new fixed level facility locate just east of the 7 years-old swing bridge-causeway which now routes Highway 14 across the Bay.

Mr. Vander Kooij indicated a recommendation was planned for meeting with local government politicians last Monday. That meeting was cancelled.

The reason: The transportation and communications ministry team discovered it still had to secure clearance from federal transport authorities on boat channel depths. A decision on environmental impacts is also a prerequisite.

Cost of the proposed 50-foot level bridge was estimated at $12.9 million. But, said Mr. Vander Kooij, this is not the final, fixed estimate. The total can only a planning estimate, based on 1974 costs.

When the federal and environmental decisions are known the team will meet with municipal representatives,and later the public.

Bayfront Study Details Broad Redevelopment

BY HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Development of big boating centre near the mouth of the Moira River is Belleville's is a major proposal of the Quinte Bayfront Plan.

The study, a long - range conceptual plan for increasing public access and usage along the Bay of Quinte shoreline in the Belleville was presented the Moira River Conservation Authority (MRCA) Thursday.

The marina centre should be sited east of the federal government wharf, the study proposes. It would include a yacht basin with an adjacent small-boat harbor and launching facilities at the end of George St.

Landfill could be used to create shoreline promontories which, in turn, would include a beach, suggests the study.

The projects could be a key ingredient in the overall redevelopment of the entire south side of the town, it says, shops boutiques, restaurants and other should be part of an" over-all scheme to make Belleville's waterway entrance as Belleville's and Bay's core of the Bayfront.

"I recommend that everybody is going to agree with our recommendations," said Toronto consultant Ralph Crysler, as he outlined details of his year-long study to a general MRCA public meeting. "I think everybody is going to agree with some of them. We had to decide the best way the Bayfront could be developed."

Other highlights in the conceptual plan include:

— Creation of a 300-acre wildlife sanctuary at Point Anne, with an interpretive centre for educational use.

— An unbroken network of bicycle and pedestrian pathways along the miles of shoreline from Montrose Rd. east of Bayside to Point Anne. Similar paths along the Moira would link the city's existing riverside parks to the Bayfront.

— Two new shoreline-area parks in west Belleville: (1) Between Avondale Rd. and Sidney St., and (2) On unused land south of the Grand Trunk Wahney School for the deaf.

— Cutting a channel so that the Victoria Park harbor area would be made an island, with proper water and sewage services.

— Enlivening Belleville's Footbridge Lane by encouraging further shops and boutiques.

— The Quinte Conservation Area (formerly the Potter Property), west of Belleville, be a day-use area south of Highway 2 with a launching ramp.

— Launching ramps at Foster and Herchimer avenues.

— Building a pond area flanking easiest waterfront parks to protect a small marsh area now used for outdoor educational purposes.

— Designating a 25-acre wetland west of the Ontario Cerbide plant as a Little Marsh area.

The consultant estimates the total cost of implementing all his suggestions along the waterfront and at close to $2.9 million.

Cost of the marina development alone is projected at $740,000. It could be a project of private enterprise or the city, the MRCA, Belleville Harbor Commission, or all three.

Mr. Crysler's suggestion for the big marina facility notes pressure on present pleasure-craft facilities is growing by an upsurge in boating. As a result there is "obviously a need for more dockage and service facilities" the reports says.

But there are some significant qualifying conditions. Including a major caution about investing public funds in projects that could compete with private enterprise.

Current or contemplated development includes expansion of boating services on the Marek Industries site on the west bank of the Moira River mouth. There also is a projected $3 million hotel — marina — housing scheme for the waterfront in the same area as his proposed yacht and small — boat basins.

"Dock space created with public funds should not compete unfairly, or unreasonably, with tax — paying private enterprise," warns Mr. Crysler.

A public facility should be developed only as demand increases and not be "unfair competition" to private business.

The proposed hotel-urban scheme would encourage redevelopment of the South Front area. But there is "always the danger" such a project" could crowd out public recreational use of this central waterfront sector.

If the city's official plan is amended to permit the development, the change should ensure the public has "convenient, adequate and unimpeded access along the waterfront," the report states.

Victoria Park, once on island, could be returned to the former state by re-opening a canal at its southwest. A bridge would give access to the island.

Victoria facilities now include several agencies — the harbor commission, the city's parks department and its harbor improvement committee. The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club holds a 25-year lease on the park's south end.

In simplify operations, Mr. Crysler suggests the city and commission could hire the yacht club to operate and maintain all facilities — keep rights of boaters and the public would be maintained.

Estimate Uncertain

If all recommendations in the Quinte Bayfront Study are implemented, it could cost $2.9 million.

But that estimate, emphasizes Ralph Crysler, "cannot be considered firm and is quite vulnerable to many variables.

First, until the extent of facilities suggested in the study are agreed on "any cost estimate is really only hypothetical."

The completed study was presented Thursday to the Moira River Conservation Authority (MRCA).

Mr. Crysler said he aimed at "realistic" estimates, based on good, but not extravagent" design standards for projects that range from parks to pathways to a major marina development in Belleville.

Inflation even makes escalation provisions "seldom accurate, or even close."

Funding the recommendations could involve several sources including local government levies, and provincial and federal subsidies under various senior government programs.

Capital could also be raised through public subscription, he suggested.

In his report Mr. Crysler includes these cost breakdowns for projects within the three municipalities in the study area:

Belleville — $1,589,500 of 10 projects (including a marina, pathways and a new westend Bayshore park.

Sidney — $234,000, including pathways and a conservation area.

Thurlow — $975,000 for a Point Anne sanctuary, an interpretive centre at the sanctuary and pathways.

The Concept

Toronto consultant Ralph Crysler outlines recommendations on how Belleville-area Quinte shoreline could be developed for future public use. Discussion came as he presented results of year-long study to Moira River Conservation Authority.

Transit Commission Makes Wage Offer

The Belleville Transit Commission placed its wage offer before representatives of its 23 employees Thursday, as contract talks resumed and both sides met for the third time.

BTC chairman Marylea Birth said Thursday "We talked money this time", but refused to reveal amounts, sticking to an agreement with the union to withhold news about negotiations.

But the chairman did say the commission's offer was "substantially lower than their demands."

Based on rough calculations, she estimated the BTC wage package as 75 per cent lower over the two years the contract would be in force.

Hugh Kerr, member of the negotiating team and president of Local 126 of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, would make no comment.

Mr. Kerr said the union will have to study the wage offer.

Talks resumed after a Thursday's meeting, he said.

Mrs. Birth said the parties feel "we are all that far apart to reaching an agreement."

Mr. Kerr said he felt the one, and possibly two meetings, to be held in January "would be fairly productive."

The current contract — expiring Dec. 31 — was negotiated earlier this year and a settlement was finally reaching after a two-week strike. Driver agreed to return to work after accepting a 21.2 increase over one year.

Ambulance Operators Meeting with Ministry

Ambulance operators from across the Quinte area were to meet with the Ontario ministry officials to discuss the financial future of their operations.

During recent weeks, the operators from Belleville, Picton and Trenton have been drafting a Ambulance and proposal that would reduce the cost of service in the area.

Approximately one year ago, ministry officials told the operators of ambulance services terned Belleville a "high cost area" and began a study that would recommend areas that could be trimmed.

Although the complete study yet to be made public, the ministry has already acted on one its recommendations which called for central radio dispatch of all area ambulances.

The central system located at Belleville General Hospital — would erase the need for each of the four communities operators to have its own radio buy station and operator.

Last week, the operators of Belleville, Picton and Trenton have been drafting a Ambulance and LaSalle and City Ambulance of Belleville met to discuss the ministry proposal.

Operators agreed to concentrate on that meeting saying a press release "should be written following today's meeting.

Unofficial sources from the meeting last week said if the government's proposal is accepted completely, staffing in the area would be reduced by 50 per cent. Operators, in a written statement, said they agree to work within the ministry guidelines with some modifications.

BGH Board Chairman Offers to Run Again

Restraints on government spending will have effect on the operation of government appointed hospital boards, established the Belleville General Hospital (BGH) Board of Governors to retain the services of one of its workforce members.

Carl Bateman, board chairman, said Thursday he would it had been his intention earlier this year to retire at the end of 1975.

He explained the rule of chairman is time consuming but commitment the hospital will face "very trying and testing months ahead."

Not willing to leave at the start of an impending financial crunch, Mr. Bateman said he will throw his hat into the ring for chair of the board's 1976 executive.

Belleville General Hospital's supply processing and distribution centre has benefited from recent use of Loyalist College's computer, says Ken Clarke, chairman of the chairman of the BGH board of governors finance and audit committee.

Mr. Clarke told the board Thursday the computer is being used at a nominal cost and is a boon to BGH administration due to better control of items.

Land Acquisition First Priority

Acquisition of private lands required to implement any of the recommendations in the Quinte Bayfront Study should be given top priority.

The emphasis is made in the document by the author, Toronto consultant Ralph Crysler.

Shoreline lands in the study area — a 1-mile strip from Montrose Rd. east of Bayside to Point Anne — should be acquired by a mix of ownership: Private, public and institutional, notes Mr. Crysler.

Where private land is vacant, private development could frustrate the Bayfront plan, warns Mr. Crysler. Speculation could increase costs "unreasonably."

Therefore it seems "imperative" that where private land is required, acquisition "must have top priority."

Such parcels include land parts between Avondale Rd. and Sidney St., in Belleville, where a park is proposed; a strip east of Herchimer Ave. — suggested as a marshland preserve; parts of Point Anne, where creation of a 300-acre wildlife sanctuary is proposed.

"Once these key parcels are obtained, actual development can proceed in a logical and in any sequence," says Mr. Crysler.

Implementation priorities may also be complicated by the fact the study covers three municipalities — Belleville, and Sidney and Thurlow township — which may have their own preferences, he says.

While acquisition and budget priorities are being worked out — estimated cost of all recommendations in the study is almost $2.9 million — work can start on some projects.

In Belleville these include:

— A launching ramp at the end of Foster Ave. since there is "an obvious need" for more such facilities.

— A start on parts of a away system up the Moira River which eventually would link northend riverside parks to the Bayfront.

In Thurlow the major project is creation and development of a nature sanctuary at Point Anne, marking and recording of historic industrial ruins connected with the early days of cement quarrying and production.

In Sidney, there is need for one or more shoreline parks. Property acquisition for such development should have top priority "since it will give development alienates all the shoreline to other uses."

Authority Unhappy With Budget Cuts

CANNIFTON — Eastern Ontario is the poor cousin of provincial government conservation funding, the Moira River Conservation Authority (MRCA) was told Thursday.

The criticism was levelled at the MRCA's last general meeting of the year here as it contemplated a 1976 budget sharply pared down to $229,300 by provincial review officials.

J.H. Mc Leod, MRCA secretary - treasurer, said later the original estimates submitted totalled $1 million.

The cuts last week prompted a delegation to Queen's Park to plead for funding of two ice-control dams in Belleville — a project planned for next year but left off provincial authority.

Stu Meeks, city council's MRCA representative said he came away from that meeting with the impression "we were the poor cousin to the east.

"I think we should just keep hammering and hammering until (at) the provincial government" — said Ad. Meeks." We should be standing up and telling them we want a lot more money in eastern Ontario.

"I agree with you entirely," said Guy Hayden, MRCA chairman. "We're poor eastern cousins."

Among recommendations agreed by the meeting was one calling for sufficient government funds to build the dams — sited near College St. and downstream at Reid St.

The result of the Toronto outright grant, said the MRCA will now prepare a submission to have the dams built as a special project, said Mr. McLeod.

Roots Run Deep

CANNIFTON — The Moira River Conservation Authority has put down plenty of roots in its watershed over the years.

It now has 16,900 acres under forest management, James Spry, of Rawdon, chairman of the MRCA's forestry committee, reported Thursday

In the past year 90,000 trees were planted, he told the authority's general meeting.

The total number of trees planted in MRCA forest-management lots now is estimated at 2,657,450, said MR. Spry.

Candlelight Rehearsal

Robert Reid, director of Bridge Street United Church junior and senior choirs, leads rehearsals Thursday in preparation for candlelight service to be held at the church Sunday at 7 p.m. About 50 choir members will take part in the annual service. S. Alec Gordon plays organ.

United Way Goal Nears As Directors Discuss Drive

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

United Community Services (UCS) directors can "cry out from the roof tops" to announce the comparative success of the 1975 United Way campaign, executive director Gordon Mills said Thursday.

The campaign has achieved 88 per cent of its $146,000 goal, with another $3,050 expected shortly, thereby bringing the final sum to 92.5 per cent.

"No matter how you slice it," said Mr. Mills, "it looks good."

The executive director of the UCS, the United Way's administration body, said the success of this year's campaign over that of 1974:

— About $135,000 is expected in gross receipts, about $13,000 more than last year.

— To date, just less than $122,000 is in the bank, whereas last year at this time the bank account had $115,000.

— Over-all, the percentage of goal reached is expected to be higher. Last year 87 per cent of the $140,000 goal was reached.

—Agencies funded by the United Way will have more to divide among themselves. The 15 will split about $117,000 compared to $103,00 in 1974.

About $17,000 of the amount taken off the gross collection by pay campaign expenses, a practice which has been shown by the board Thursday at the finance, discussion forum, to some areas in which improvement was felt necessary.

Jim Gubb, chairman of a three-member publicity subcommittee, told directors there was too much to do and too little time to do it in during the campaign.

Preparation, he suggested, should begin in April — July, thereby allowing a more relaxed campaign for organizers — one Gubb outlined the campaign month.

Mr. Gubb said his committee will review the kick-off across, an events that such he suspects requires too much time and effort for the impact it makes in the city.

In speculating about its effectiveness, he added that "perhaps Belleville is ready for something different to spotlight the campaign."

Anti-inflation Measures Unimpressive Says Ellis

OTTAWA — "Skepticism?" That's the the reaction of most Canadians to Thursday night's announced federal government spending restraints, predicts Orval Ellis, MP Hastings

Despite the cuts, freezes and new taxes, the next federal budget will still run way ahead of the national inflation rate, Mr. Ellis said in a telephone interview from here shortly after the government's plans were defined in the Commons.

"What's going to happen is that the Canadian people are going to be pleased with this a great deal of scepticism," he said.

Some cuts-abolition of Opportunities For Youth and a reduced Local Initiatives Program could have been made earlier, he said.

Other 10 per cent reduction in backbenchers defence staff salaries "is a symbolic gesture that is anti-defence."

Also, the cutting reduction to Canadian National Railways only means CN will have to out and borrow on the public market."

Islanders Gain 4-2 Win

Harris Calls Shot on Leafs

Harris – Pressure Works

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Forward Billy Harris of New York Islander says a little extra nerve on Toronto's defence is all it takes to get the Maple Leafs on the run.

Harris and the rest of the Islanders pressed the Leaf defence Thursday night and their approach paid off in a 4-2 win in their National Hockey League game.

"If you get on that defence, they'll crush the puck up," says Harris. "They'll move the puck out of their own end in a way that is hazardous.

"If you can jump on them they'll make a mistake."

Toronto coach Red Kelly, one of the best puck-carrying defencemen in NHL history, agreed with Harris' analysis, at least for Thursday's game.

"They got pressure on us," said Kelly. "We were slowed down to a walk and our guys were caught standing second."

In Thursday's only other game, three goals by Richard Martin sparked Buffalo Sabres to a 5-3 win over Minnesota North Stars.

The Leafs held their own in the first period of the game at Uniondale N.Y., but by the second period the Islanders were in charge and only the goaltending of Wayne Thomas kept the score respectable.

Gary Howatt of the Islanders broke a 2-2 tie when he scored midway in the second period. Andre St. Laurent, Clark Gillies and J. P. Parise had the other New York goals.

New York goalie Billy Smith kicked in Toronto's first goal, credited to Dan Weir, and the second, awarded to Leaf rookie Pat Boutette, bounced off Smith's glove, chest and shoulder and into the net.

Toronto lost left winger Lanny McDonald with a bruised shoulder when he was checked by New York defenceman Bert Marshall in the second period.

The Sabres battled a four-game winless streak with their win and regained sole possession of top spot in the Adams Division, two points ahead of Boston Bruins.

Buffalo coach Floyd Smith was the win, only the third in 11 games for Buffalo was badly needed and added: "We had to work hard for it after it looked like it might be an easy one."

Martin, an all-star left winger for two years, was moved to right wing, a line with Peter McNab and Brian Spencer, a combination that quickly proved its effectiveness.

Spitfires Hold Wolves to Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three goals by Randy Pierce—highest scorer in Thursday's action in the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A series—lifted Sudbury Wolves to a 7-7 tie with Windsor Spitfires.

In other games, Hamilton Fincups downed Peterborough Petes 4-3 and St. Catharines Black Hawks dumped Oshawa Generals 7-5.

League action resumes tonight with St. Catharines visiting Kitchener Rangers, Toronto Marlboros playing the 67s in Ottawa Sudbury meeting the Knights in London and Hamilton travelling to meet Kingston Canadians.

Playing in Windsor, Pierce scored his third goal with less than four minutes remaining to play to earn the tie for the Wolves.

Windsor trailed 6-5 earlier in the period but scored twice in 54 seconds to take the lead.

Other Sudbury goals went to Alex McKendry, with two, Rod Schutt and John Walker.

Scott Miller and Jack Anderson each scored twice for Windsor with single goals going to Joel Quenneville, Tom Friesen and Mark Renaud.

Sudbury held a 46-25 edge in shots.

Fincups 4 Petes 3

A crowd of 2,620 spectators watched Archie King and Ed Smith score to give the Fincups a first-period lead of 2-0 and Sean Sullivan in the second period to bring the margin up to 3-0.

Brad Pirie and Mark Kirton replied for Peterborough later in the period.

Hamilton's Dale McCourt scored into an empty net at 19:08 of the third period.

Hamilton outshot Peterborough 40-19 and took 11 of the 12 penalties assessed.

Hawks 7 Generals 5

The Hawks trailed 1-0 after the first period but pulled into a 4-3 lead after the second before a home crowd of 472—smallest attendance this season.

Ron Wilson and Greg Craig led St. Catharines with two goals apiece. Singles goals went to Kevin Kennedy, Doug Caines and Marc Thiel.

Brian Dillon led the Generals with a pair. Alex Jeans, Greg Malone and Glenn Kirkham each scored once.

Gil Catharines received four of the six penalties called and outshot the visitors 31-30.

The puck bounced and as Jordan was about to enter the Quebec bench he saw the red light flash signalling his second goal of the season that gave the Nordiques a 5-4 win over Winnipeg in one o three games played.

In other action, Phoenix Roadrunners smashed Indianapolis Racers 7-1 and in San Diego, the hometown Mariners topped Cincinnati Stingers 7-3.

"I don't know how it went in," said Jordan of the shot that eluded Jet netminder Joe Daley.

The goal gave the Nordiques their first win in three home-ice appearances against the Jets and brought their over-all record against Winnipeg to 3-2. It also moved Quebec to within three points of the Jets, who lead the Canadian Division with 46 points in 33 games.

Bobby Hoefer's goal at 23 seconds of the opening period gave Quebec an early lead but the Jets scored three times in a span of three minutes and one second to take a 3-1 lead in the middle period.

Pete Sullivan, Lars Sjoberg and Andres Hedberg scored for Winnipeg in the first period and Bill Lesuk added the Jets goal in the second.

Barrie Goalie a Standout As Marlies Down Selects

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Marlboros got outstanding goaltending from import Grant Cole to hand Moscow Selects a 5-3 defeat Thursday night in an exhibition hockey game before 6,370 fans.

Cole, borrowed from Barrie Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series, allowed one goal in the first period and two in the second before shutting out the Russians in the third period.

John Anderson's goal at 18:33 of the second period broke a 2-2 tie and gave the Marlboros, an Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A team, the lead for the first time in the game.

Mike McEwen's power-play goal for the Marlboros was the only goal of the third period.

The team was the Selects second in seven games on their Canadian tour.Their first loss was a 5-4 decision Monday night to Edmonton Oil Kings of the Western Canada Hockey League.

Repnev, a member of the Soviet Wings team that will play four National Hockey League teams in two weeks, put the Selects in front 1-0 at 8:35 of the opening period.

Dillon, younger brother of Wayne Dillon of New York Rangers of the NHL, scored the only other goal of the first period at 18:16, beating Selects goalie Mikhail Vasilienok with a hard shot that trickled over the goal-line.

Popov, a veteran of the 1974 series against the World Hockey Association's Team Canada, put the Selects ahead 3-1 at the 56-second mark of the second period, but Murphy tied it for the Marlboros at 3:25.

The Selects went ahead 3-2 at 5:17 on Shvertsov's goal but Jorgensen beat Vasilienok from back of the net at 6:34 to tie the game 3-3.

The Marlboros had a two-man advantage at the midway point of the second period when Vladimir Krikunov and Alexei Vulchenkov went off 28 seconds apart for minor penalties but the Canadians failed to score.

With a minute left in Vulchenkov's minor, Trevor Johansson picked up major penalty for boarding the Selects Alexander Kulkov. The Marlboros killed the penalty without the Selects getting a major scoring chance and seemed to turn the game around in their favor.

Anderson beat Vasilienok with a slow wrist shot on which the Russian goalie was heavily screened.

McEwen's goal came on a power play at 2:34 of the final period.

Cole stopped 46 shots, 17 of them in the second period while Vasilienok handled 27 Toronto shots. The Marlboros added four other players to the roster for their game—defenceman Rick Green of London Knights, and Kingston Canadiens high-scoring line of Brad Rhinesz, Mike Crombeen and Tom McKechney.

The Kingston line failed to pick up any points in the game but applied defensive pressure so the Selects had their forechecking in for their two periods.

Repnev drew a misconduct with a minute left in the game for bumping into the referee.

New Oakland Manager, Tanner Has 2 Paydays

CHICAGO (AP) — Charles Finley, owner of Oakland A's, announced Thursday he has hired Chuck Tanner as the new manager of his American League baseball team.

Tanner's salary will be partially paid by Bill Veeck, new owner of Chicago White Sox, who compete with the A's in the American League's West Division.

Finley made the announcement less than 24 hours after Veeck gave Tanner the axe as field manager of the White Sox.

Details of Tanner's three-year pact were not disclosed, but Tanner is still in the last three years of a multi-year contract with the White Sox, one that would pay him $80,000 annually.

Tanner said: "Both men (Finley and Veeck) are paying my bet I'm working for Charlie. This a really something."

Finley, who was reported to have voiced against Veeck's purchase of the White Sox at last week's winter baseball meetings, also refused to disclose contract details.

Veeck, who invited Tanner to stay with the White Sox in any other capacity after hiring Paul Richards as his manager Wednesday, was not immediately available for comment.

CHUCK TANNER

Tanner, 47, piloted the White Sox for five seasons and was named Manager of the Year in 1972, after taking over the club with the worst baseball record in 1970. He succeeds Alvin Dark as manager of the A's. Finley fired Dark after his three-time World Series champs lost to Boston in three straight games in the A's playoffs.

Tanner said he plans to take about coaches Al Monchak and Joe Lonnett, who were with him at the White Sox. Tanner's pitching coach, Johnny Sain, is not mentioned as the manager has already rehired Wes Stock as the A's pitching coach.

Tanner, who managed several minor league teams before, became pilot of the White Sox in 1971, became embroiled in controversy in Chicago with his favored treatment of slugger Dick Allen. He was allowed to skip batting practice and spring training.

The controversy came to a head before the 1973 season when the White Sox sold Allen for $3,000

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A summons to appear in court on a complaint of assault was served Wednesday on defensive end John Matuszak of the National Football League Kansas City Chiefs. Matuszak, 25, was named by Glenn Wates as the man who beat him Monday night in a tavern parking lot. Matuszak denied the allegation. A hearing was scheduled for Feb. 19 in Municipal Court.

Meagre Payoff A Record

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A record for the lowest paying daily double at Windsor Raceway was set Thursday when the combination of Meddlesome and Happy Heels paid $5.

Attendance was about 3,000 bet 5,756 tickets were sold on the combination.

The previous low for a daily double at the track was $5.60, paid by the combination of Mighty Creed and Cola's Duke on Jan. 12, 1967.

Meddlesome, a two-year-old colt driven by Greg Wright, returned $2.70, $2.30 and $2.40. Ken Harty drove three-year-old Happy Heels to victory, returning $3.10, $2.70 and $2.40.

Driver Bill Gale led four horses to victory to increase his wins during the meet to 56 and to regain the lead in standings.

In the featured claiming pace, Shooest, driven by Chet Dewbre, gained his ninth victory of the year and was claimed for $10,000 by Larry Gald of Ancaster, Ont., from Harry Magulis of Ashville, Ohio.

The tractor of Dodgers Image, Marks Guy and Kentucky Pick in the fourth race paid $277.80. In the 13th race, the tractor of Revolution Mark, Clerkie and Shadow Rather returned $39.60.

A crowd of 3,349 wagered $159,502.

CIAU Denied Permission to Appeal

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union (CIAU) has been refused permission to appeal a decision by the Supreme Court of Ontario involving its eligibility rules.

Mr. Justice Robert F. Reid denied leave to appeal the decision, which overthrew the CIAU suspension of University of Windsor's football team for using a player, quarterback Dave Pickett, who was ineligible to play under CIAU regulations.

Mr. Justice Reid's decision presents the CIAU only from appealing an injunction granted by Mr. Justice John O'Driscoll against the suspension. The suspension was overthrown in time to let Windsor play in the national football playoffs.

Mr. O'Driscoll told the CIAU it needs a two-thirds majority vote of its general assembly and approval from the federal ministry of consumer and corporate affairs to make its rules valid.

The CIAU decided last week to hold a general meeting in Toronto on Jan. 1 at which its bylaws its rules will be made valid.

Mr. Justice Reid's ruling will have no tangible effect unless the necessary two-thirds vote approving the rules is not established.

Robert Pugh, executive director of the CIAU, says he does not expect his organization to appeal to trial the issue of the rules themselves though it is so entitled.

Windsor had used Pickett in its regular season games because he was eligible under Ontario Universities Athletic Association (OUAA) rules, which were at odds with CIAU rules.

The OUAA voted last week to bring its rules into line with those of the CIAU.

Trotter Savoir Gets Nod as Horse of Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Savoir, richest American-owned trotter of all time, edged pacing fifty sensation Silk Stockings today for 1975 harness Horse of the Year in the United States.

The U.S. Trotting Association announced the seven-year-old gelding earned 22 first-place votes to 49 for Silk Stockings in balloting by the U.S. Harness Writers Association.

Nero, the early three-year-old pacing standout this year, was chosen on 29 ballots for third place. Hambletonian winner Bonefish, partly owned by Mac Cuddy of Strathroy, Ont., was fourth with 21.

Savoir, owned by Allwood Stables of Far Hills, N.J., won $351,385 with 13 victories in 21 starts, coupled with five seconds and three thirds. That pushed his career earnings to $1,004,56.

The Star's Pride gelding swept three international trots at Roosevelt Raceway and won Canada's Maple Leaf and Civic Holiday events.

Only 264 Watch Flyers Post Win

BARRIE (CP) — Paul Regan scored three goals to lead Barrie Flyers 8-3 win over Niagara Comets in the only Ontario Hockey Association Senior A action Thursday night.

Regan scored twice in the first period and once in the second for Barrie which took period leads of 3-1 and 6-3 before 264 spectators.

Don Pagnotti and John MacMillan each added a pair for Barrie with Corky Adams and Gary Lyte getting the others.

Bob Ferguson, Tom Goodfellow and Mike Flanigan replied for Niagara.

After a second-period fight between Niagara's Ron Dean and MacMillan, both players received fighting majors and MacMillan was assessed a match misconduct.

Games between Lindsay Lancers and Whitby Warriors scheduled for Thursday was postponed and another date has not been announced.

League action resumes tonight with Cambridge Hornets travelling to meet Orillia Terriers.

Record for Receptions

CFL Missed a Catch But McGowan Didn't

TORONTO (CP) — To say Georgia Tech coach has the memory of an elephant wouldn't overemphasize his powers of recall.

The veteran Edmonton Eskimo receiver, told that his final catch of the year broke a long-standing Canadian Football League record for receptions in a season, said the information was wrong.

Pass catch No. 97 for 1975 was posted Nov. 1 in the Eskimos' season finale against British Columbia Lions at Vancouver, a quick toss to the flat that went for no gain.

"But that shouldn't have been the record catch," the 39-year-old from the University of Kansas corrected. "Somebody didn't get credit for a catch I made in our first game of the season against Winnipeg. I've been meaning to ask someone about that but I never got around to it."

McGowan had been credited with six receptions for 105 yards against the Blue Bombers, but a check of the play-by-play report of the game and subsequent checks of game film confirmed a seventh catch for 30 more yards was indeed passed over.

Thus, more than a month after the season ended, the five-year Eskimos veteran was credited Thursday by the CFL with 98 receptions, breaking the old mark of 96 set by Terry Evanshen, then of Calgary Stampeders, in 1967.

The extra 29 yards also were important to the CFL's outstanding player in 1973, who missed most of the 1974 season with a severe hamstring injury. It increased his yardage for the year to 1,473—third highest one-season yield in league history behind Hal Patterson's 1,954 (1961) and Jim Thorpe's 1,682 (1967).

And instead of his record catch going for no gain, No. 97 became a four-yard advance that preceded team-mate Brian Cutler's record 4th field goal of the season.

In that final game, quarterback Bruce Lemmerman threw 17 passes in McGowan's area. Three were intercepted, two were knocked down, one was dropped and he caught 11, although two receptions were eliminated by penalties.

"I can't remember dropping one," McGowan responded in a post-game interview when the subject of the pass he failed to get credit for in the season opener was first discussed.

Evanshen, now with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, showed little concern for McGowan's amazing efforts which removed his name from one area of CFL record books.

The scrappy little wide receiver was the possessor of setting a league mark of his own, handing Ed Gombosi's mark for a career total of 76 while except past Bobby Simpson of Ottawa Rough Riders (65) Patterson (64) with Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton) and Tommy Joe Coffey (63 with Edmonton and Hamilton).

Evanshen, who also played with Montreal between his stints with Calgary and Hamilton, moved into second place for career receptions with 520—exactly 100 behind record-holder Coffey—and dislodged Bobby Taylor from the top receiving yardage Canadian-based players in receptions and total yardage. 7,060 Taylor totalled the year career with 521 catches and 8,229 yards.

Ebett Dawson of Saskatchewan Roughriders was runner-up to McGowan for receptions in the Western Conference with 87 for 1,191 yards. Tony Gabriel of Ottawa led Eastern Conference pass catchers with 65 for 1,115 yards.

Gabriel caught eight passes in the last game of the season to break by Toronto's Mike Eber, limited to one reception in the Argonauts' final game.

Nicks Giving Nothing Away

Nicholson Catholic College gave basketball teams from Trenton High School a rude welcome in Bay of Quinte High School League A play, Thursday. The Redmen school swept all three games, senior, junior, midget, from the visiting Tigers.

The senior Nicks made it four wins in as many starts by posting a convincing 72-41 win while the Juniors were just as demonstrative in their victory, outscoring Tigers 75-38 and the home team midgets scored a 46-40 win.

In the senior match, the pace was set early as Nicks rounded in front 20-10 in the first quarter. The winners put together two more 20-odd quarters and finished up with a 13-point lead.

Dale Wilson topped all scorers in the game, leading Nicks with 23 points. Jeff Boyle hit for 16. Others in double figures were Danny Krastevski and Mark Soule with 10 each. Trevor Collins and Dave Holland were big in the playmaking department.

Blaine Rittinger led Tigers with 11 points. Paul Yates was good for 10.

Nicks have a two-point edge over Belleville Collegiate Institute in the battle for first place in the standings.

The Nicholson team will be in Waterloo during the holiday season to participate in the Waterloo Senior Basketball Tournament.

Nicholson Juniors were powered to their victory by the 24-point performance of Doug Halsbow. Steve Dolan checked in with 14 points while Bernie Trumpour had 13 and Frank Mosquito nine.

Rob Campbell and Paul Hywrnak with 12 and seven points respectively, were tops for the visitors.

It was Mark Crawford who proved to be Trenton Midgets' biggest nemesis. The Nicholson sharpshooter hit for 19 points.

Tim Coates was next in line with 16.

Top man for the losers was Terry Scuccato with 10 points.

Jim's Blanks Oshawa

OSHAWA (Special) — Something about Oshawa brings out the best in Belleville Jim's Pizzeria Juveniles.

Producing a solid overall performance in an Ontario Minor Hockey Association AAA match here, Wednesday, the Belleville skaters blanked the home side 5-0. It was the second Belleville win in two meetings, between the two clubs this season.

According to team manager Bill Thompson, "we had everything working in this one, especially the defence."

Thompson praised goalie Allan Portik's shutout performance while observing that the defence "played super hockey".

Manning the blueline positions for the visitors were Roger Chapman, Paul Svoboda, Tom Belch, Dave Giddings, Mike Willman and Brian Hamilton.

It was win No. 20 for Jim's. The team has lost twice (both times by a margin of one goal) and has two ties.

Carl Male keyed the Belleville attack, counting a pair of goals. The big Belleville man was Ray Skelly who scored once and earned three assists. The other goals went to Mark Porter and Ken Lynch.

Sunday at home, the Belleville team will be shooting for its third win over Oshawa in a 7.30 p.m. game at Memorial Arena.

Beaten to the Puck

Beaten to the Puck Grey Ewe could prove to goalie Warren Hay's rescue as Belvedere Hotel's Ron Fullerton looks for loose puck on jaunt into Reid's territory during Thursday night's Dairy Hockey League play at Memorial Arena. Belvedere Dairy leader trailed Reid's 5-4 and Fuller picked up three assists.

These Books Made for Giving

Every year at this time, a new selection of sports books hits the shelves in the stores. The timing is excellent. And many of the books are, as well.

Many of the books offered to time for Christmas giving, deal with sports instruction.

Two recent publications from Prentice-Hall of Canada are among the list of stocking stuffers. Both offer instruction from knowledgeable authors. And each carries a price tag of $4.95.

Alpine Skiing comes from the husband and wife team of Al and Maddie Greenes of Raine.

Al, former Canadian National Ski Team coach and now Ski Development consultant with the Government of British Columbia certainly has the credentials to put an effort of this type across.

And who can argue with Nancy's abilities in this direction?

Remember her Gold Medal for Canada in the giant slalom at the 1968 Olympics?

A member of the National Sports Hall of Fame, Nancy is now engaged in coaching with husband Al.

The Raines cover everything from equipment and conditioning . . . to the mechanics of the sport and there are sections for beginners, novices, intermediates and experts.

Based on their experience in ski racing, the book, instead of dwelling on that part of the sport, puts the focus on basic technique.

Technical illustrations are taken shots of the world's top racers.

These well presented tips from the top should be well received by the skiing fraternity, whether neophyte or veteran.

And for hockey players and coaches, Terry Meeker is back with More Hockey Basics.

The effervescent Meeker, not every one's cup of tea, definitely has the knack to get these efforts on his favorite subject across.

The former pro (player and coach) of Hockey Night in Canada analyst turned author, admits that he is hot sure his system is going to turn out winning teams but is convinced it will produce highly skilled youngsters who can learn to play the game for fun and/or profit.

"What I do know," offers Meeker, "is there is not a minor hockey team in Canada which is ready for this book".

He says that it is the last two years during his clinics, he has yet to meet one 12 or 13-year-old who was ready to be taught how to play the game.

The boning of hockey skills should come before points of strategies and philosophy, in Meeker's opinion.

Marmora, Ottawa Teams Meet in Exhibition

MARMORA — The hockey game Saturday night between the Ottawa Old Stars and the Marmora-Trent Valley Oldtimers promises to be a good one.

The game is being held in conjunction with the official ceremonies marking the re-opening of the Marmora Arena after its renovation project.

Many of the Ottawa players are former pros and they have a proud record as a team.

The Old Stars are goalies, Jack Gervais, Guy Renaud and George Hainsby; defence, John Kozak, Rocky Graham, Gus Vinelle, Bob O'Neill, Charles Putnam, Bob Lowery, Al Neeland, and forwards — A. Johnson, Guy Beauregard, Al Smith, Bobby Gordon, Contini, Ken Wagate, Andy Hochman, Jim Johnston, Jim Oliver, Ray Greplet, George Greene, Bill Kings and Ken McFarlane.

Marmora-Trent Valley Oldtimers team consists of players from Marmora, Havelock, Madoc and Campbellford. Many of them played in the Trent Valley Hockey League as far back as the 1940s.

The team participated in the National Oldtimers Hockey Tournament held in Peterborough earlier this year and have been accepted for the National Tournament in February at Lethbridge, Alta.

A number of money raising events have been held during the year to help the team with expenses which are expected to run about $10,000 for the trip there and the three-day tournament. All the receipts from Saturday Night's game will go to the team.

The team has been reduced to 25 members to cut expenses. Each of the members had paid $100 to join the club, and the players pay their own practice time and will be expected to pay a good share of their own travel expenses. It has been estimated that the club will cost $230 for each player. They leave February 13.

Keith Brown of Peterborough is providing the Marmora team with new sweaters and is also giving them a sizeable cash donation to help with the Tournament expenses. The presentation of the choose will be made during the official ceremonies Saturday night.

Belvedere Upsetting

Jason Morris led the way as cellar dwelling Belvedere Hotel went up to knock off league leading Reid's Dairy 5-4 on Thursday night Quinte Hockey League play at Memorial Arena.

Morris scored twice and picked up an assist as Belvedere were paddled with their third loss of the season.

Jim Donovan, Ken Just and Ron Polzer clicked for the other Belvedere goals. Puzzle's marker was the winner.

Sweeping the firepower for Reid's were Ron Hunter, Carl Bounhower, Al Ray and Rick Barnhart. Bounhower and Hunter also earned two assists each.

Reid's made a last ditch effort to pull it out of the fire and salvage at least a tie, removing goalie Warren Hay and king an extra attacker with the lamed in Belvedere's nose, 27 seconds to play, and the opposition attempting to ice off a penalty.

The Hotelmen held on clearing the puck the length of the ice from the faceoff and locking up the win.

In other league action, Bewelin Combines defeated O'Brien Steel 3-2 with Frank Pinder potting the winning goal midway through the final period.

Don Jobbin and Wayne Andrews were the other marksmen for the winners.

Counting the O'Brien goals were Terry McElroy and and Tim Yoha.

Sports Briefs

CHICAGO (AP) — Paul Richards, 77, a firm believer in speed, pitching and defence in his managing days of the 1950s, was named manager of the Chicago White Sox on Wednesday by owner Bill Veeck. Chuck Tanner, who has three years to go on a managerial contract with the American League baseball team, will be allowed to stay with the club in any job capacity he chooses, Veeck added. Richards managed the White Sox for four seasons from 1951 through 1955 when the club saw its best days since the late 1930s.

NAMATH FINED

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Joe Namath, who earns an estimated $400,000 a year, was fined $500 for breaking curfew 15 minutes Sunday night, coach Ken Shipp of the National Football League's New York Jets said Wednesday. Namath, who missed curfew by 25 minutes, had benched during the first quarter of Monday's 34-16 loss to San Diego Chargers.

In Memoriam

ROBERTS — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, George Roberts, who passed away December 19, 1971.
To one we will never forget,
His memory is dear as ever,
His like we will always regret.
Sadly missed and never forgotten by Bob and Jackie, Ricky and Cheryl.

BROWN — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Robert F. Brown, who passed away suddenly December 19, 1971.
Time takes away the edge of grief,
But memory will not let you go.
Gone, but not forgotten,
Lovingly remembered by Marlene and Christopher.

DURAND — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Al Durand who passed away December 19, 1974.
One year has passed since that sad day,
When one was taken from our home,
God took him home — It was his will,
We miss him more — We love him still.
Always remembered by his wife Ethel, son Paul and Wayne, and children and Family.

CLARKE — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Ernest Clarke who passed away at Kingston, Dec. 19, 1971.
Just a prayer from those who loved and miss him.
Time may pass and year may roll,
But to those who did love him,
Memories are precious, dear to our soul.
— Sadly missed by Lilyan, Ethel, Ernest and wives.

BROWN — In loving memory of a dear mother — Mrs. Ethel Mae Brown (Bob) who passed away Dec. 19, 1971.
Years have been long and lonely
Since you were called away,
So many things to share with you,
Had you been left to stay.
Every day I think of you mother,
Though sadly I miss your smile,
Though sleep you are very near,
Still, I miss you mother dear.
— Sadly missed by brother-in-law Everett, Velma, Elizabeth and John Perks.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to my friends and neighbours for the kind kindness while I was a patient in the Belleville General Hospital and in Rev. Ross Ivy Manor and Lodge care. Also special thanks to Drs. Macintosh and Simpson and to the nurses who were so kind.
— Morley Pascoe.

AT HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sandercock, R.R. 2, Frankford, wish to let home to their friends and relatives on Sunday, December 21st, from 2 to 5 p.m. to celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary, and wishes no other invitation.

Reunion Spurs Memories Of Christmas Past

Editor's Note: Sometimes the Christmas season remembers best was once spent far from home and its comforts. For Ed Mc-Ginn, CP's Newfoundlands at that correspondent, a chance meeting in the mists of Eve in the shipmate brought back memories of a long-ago Christmas Eve in the North Sea.

By ED WALTERS
ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A dirty east wind was blowing cold rain over the harbor and the Christmas Eve street scene when his face appeared among the crowd of early Christmas shoppers.

The greeting was in the melodious Newfoundland southern shore Irish accent that sounded the same as it did 31 years ago.

I heard you were after giving up the ghost, packed-in-the-job, if like, bein' ashore all the time!"

The question led to a flurry of explanations and then reminiscences about the way things had been at sea in the when seafaring was all that mattered. We spun the years deep and full.

Yes, I guess it was a bit better or two, it seemed that we were not standing on the sidewalk but on the heaving deck of a little tanker bove to in a cold North Sea gale as the eight bells of midnight announced the change of watch and the arrival of Christmas Eve.

Distress calls—the international code word Mayday repeated three times—were coming in over the radio in the engineroom. Some poor, sad soul far away, were about to die.

The ship was a little more than 1,200 tons, minute for an ocean-going tanker, maybe 200 feet long. She was laden with Canadian soybean oil destined for Rotterdam.

The six of us who were classmates—the crew was teen-aged and four men—signed on in St. John's for a month. There were 17 others in the crew, including the captain, mates, engineers and steward's department.

"Hold out, now," said the second mate, as we moved through the harbor on St. John's early in the 12-4 watch on a day near the middle of December, 1944.

"She's touchy to steer and like to turn around and bite you in the face if she gets a-broadside."

The need to keep a delicate balance on the Delta-Jaguar the tiniest bit to port or starboard—"Port a-little, port a-little, starboard a-little!"—the second mate moved across the atlantic with kind but a mild civil weather. On the 12th afternoon Bishop's Rock lighthouse sighted and we moved up the English Channel.

Storm warnings were being broadcast by Christmas Eve, Dec. 23. In the afternoon ships bound for Rotterdam were ordered to stand away and not attempt to enter the mouth of the River Maas because of gale-force winds and massive seas.

For us, heading for the North Sea meant putting her head into the gale and full speed ahead on both engines to keep the ship from being tossed by God whoever was at the wheel. Christmas was coming the ship's attempts to fall up from the trough.

If she fell away broadside, it was certain she would be overwhelmed by the North Sea waves.

Because poor devils are too far away for us to help even if we could manage to put about," the master said at one point as we Mayday calls from the stricken West German ship sudenly ceased.

By the time we came on watch at midnight, the holiday of Christmas Eve, there was not a single lightbulb left in the crew's quarters. The vessel would lurch and come to a standstill each time she dipped her bluff bows into a wave, like hitting a concrete wall. The revolving studder had the "Merry Christmas" lights from their sockets.

One Red Ensign Christmas had been washed out of its chocks and most of the railing along the maindeck was gone.

The mate was over the forecastle head, marched unbidden by the sea and lashed against the fore part of the bridge with hundreds of tons of water.

"She should stand it, all right, but we can't keep her up, sir," the master said.

"We'll have to slowly contrary to give up and roll over," said the mate.

Around midday Christmas Eve, the storm was over and we moved into the Dutch pilot, in the afternoon. At midnight we berthed at Vlaardingen, across the river from Rotterdam.

The ship's agents came aboard with mail and a stock of Dutch beer and cigarettes for the crew. We knew the beer was strong.

We didn't find out about the cigarettes until much later. Beer was what we had to offer the messmates of the incident boat, the Dutch pilot and the harbourmaster.

The second mate eventually told us how the cigarettes had been commandeered by a senior officer of the ship.

The ship's agents came aboard a said goodye on Water Street 21 years later.

"Where would he be to now, that rubber who took the cigarettes?"

"He's probably dead by now," I said.

"Well, where he's gone, he won't have to reach very far for a light."

Indira Gandhi Visits Former Himalayan State

GANGTOK, Sikkim (AP) — Indira Gandhi walked through the streets of Gangtok to the cheers of thousands of Sikkimese overcoming the prime minister on her first visit to the former Himalayan kingdom since it became a state in India.

Mrs. Gandhi's popularity in this mountainous region of 200,000 people is unknown. Indian officials hoped the visit would demonstrate to the international community that the Sikkimese were happy with their status of India.

For the first time in more than a year, foreign reporters were allowed to enter Sikkim along with the prime minister.

The 2,800-square-mile territory wedged between Tibet and Nepal was a separate, though not independent, kingdom like Goa and Kashmir (sking) ascended the throne in 1641.

The Chogyal, or ruler, Tashi Thondup Namgyal, was reduced to a commoner and his 250,000 subjects became Indian citizens after voting in favor of statehood in a referendum India organized in less than four days.

The chogyal now is a virtual prisoner in his Gangtok palace and his American wife, Hope, lives in New York City with their two children. She left Sikkim two years ago after her husband had been forced by the internal administration to end his international activities during a revolt against his rule.

Although Mrs. Cooke said in recent months she has been interest in improving Sikkim's international status, she ruled out boosting the export of Sikkim's cardamom, which she evidently has no plans to return.

The Indian Parliament Congress last month passed a special act restoring her American citizenship. Her husband's decision to marry the then crown prince in Hong Kong, Princess Coral Pearl (queen) in 1963 at Nangyal's coronation.

Sikkim's merger with India was the climax of a two-decade feud between the chogyal and Kazi Lhendup Dorji, a wealthy landowner who had campaigned for sweeping political reforms and a reduction of the monarch's powers.

Dorji drew his support from the Nepali immigrant community, which numbers about 70 per cent of Sikkim's population, while the chogyal's following came from adherents to the spiritualities—the Bhutias, descendants of Tibetans who fled

Every Home Needs a Computer

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Ed Cobb, 17, has built himself a computer terminal installed in his den two years ago and says it has become his hobby and work.

Known as the father of cable television, he says the complete "was to be temporary but now it's permanent fixture."

He spends about five hours a day working on computer programs invaluable to London Cable TV Ltd. which he is president, and the group of Canadian cable system companies he heads.

His company installed its first computer in 1969 and his father, his son Ted, a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, began writing a program on remote access. Ed's mals was bothered because his dad was have something he didn't have.

He had been a leader in using computers since he was a boy, developing a computer system to keep track of his collection of stamps and coins. He was called up immediately from the computer memory when cable television operators need to know something about a particular subscriber.

"There's no static mathematics involved here," he said. "It's straight adding, subtraction and multiplication."

But for cable system designers, simple arithmetic is so laborious that it is done by machine, the whole list of calculations is done by computer.

"And sometimes they'll say to back-track and do it a little faster than trace back through it all," he said with a smile.

The computer eliminates errors, speeds up the system designs and allows easy amendments to the system.

"I'll doesn't replace the man. It is a damn good tool to give that man."

Mr. Jarmain has never taken any formal computer training or instruction. What he has learned he learned on his own, he said. He said it was slow but interesting because he was working from scratch.

Experts in the field told him it would take a man 10 years to develop a remote, time-sharing terminal program, but he wrote it in three.

He enjoys the engineering end of the cable business and added "administration work is a bore."

Thanksgiving Day 1975 Will Always Be Remembered

By R.J. ANDERSON,
The Canadian Press

It was Thanksgiving night and Canadians were counting their blessings when, Prime Minister Trudeau pre-empted national radio and television to say, in effect, "enough is enough." He announced imposition o the toughest prices and wages restraints since the Second World War.

They were not full controls and fell short of the freeze or rollback urged by some citizens concerned with Canada's No. 1 problem: inflation.

But they were stiff and reaction to the Oct. 13 announcement was swift and largely critical.

Labor balked. Business was not happy but accepted the anti-inflation measures as necessary. Conservative leader Robert Stanfield groaned. He had lost an election a year before for advocating the same thing.

Seventeen leading economists and academics told the government that controls will not work. They blamed federal spending for the country's financial troubles that by November had led to the highest unemployment rate in 14 years—7.3 per cent of the working force.

The enabling legislation for the controls went through Parliament Dec. 10 after a stormy passage. Progressive Conservative Leader Stanfield said they should last no longer than 18 months, not for the indefinite period—at least three years—proposed by the Liberal government.

Indicative of labor unrest at a time when ever-increasing prices seem always to remain ahead of prevailing wage levels was the 42-day postal strike, longest in Canada's history. Throughout months-long contract negotiations Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey stood firm. The strike ended Dec. 2 when the 23,000 inside postal workers narrowly voted to accept Mr. Mackasey's terms: an increase of $1.70 an hour over a basic wage of $3.28 an hour for 30 months and an unchanged work-week of 40 hours. They originally went after an increase of 71 per cent and a 30-hour week.

That seemed to bring peace to a long-troubled labor front but the anti-inflation board said the terms violated the government's wage guidelines. But the federal cabinet over-ruled the board.

Financial losses to the business community as a result of cessation of postal service were in the billions. Most of the population suffered inconvenience.

Still, when Canadians took time out from their own affairs to look at the world around them, they counted themselves well off.

They saw turmoil almost everywhere. Political terrorists used bombs and guns and bare fists and murder as a means of achieving their ends. The "Irish situation" remained just that—a situation in which there seemed no solution—as Protestants and Roman Catholics kill each other in Northern Ireland, as they had done for almost a decade. The Middle East was uneasy—and many countries elsewhere were in an uproar.

A woman in International Women's Year showed she was undisputed mistress of India.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi didn't like it when a court June 11 convicted her of wrongfully using government officials in a parliamentary election campaign and barred her from office for six years.

India's Supreme Court, not unaware of things political, voided the conviction but that wasn't enough for India. She pushed legislation through Parliament that made everything legal, retroactively wiping out any little thing that might have been amiss. And she imposed police powers on her country that effectively stifled any opposition.

A major political upset occurred in New Zealand. The Labor government of Wallace Rowling was swept from power in a general election Nov. 29. The big winner was Robert Muldoon, National party leader.

In Australia, Labor Prime Minister Gough Whitlam was thrown out of office Nov. 11 by Governor - General Sir John Kerr, an action almost unprecedented in Commonwealth history. Whitlam was ousted when the opposition-controlled Senate blocked his budget, leaving the government without funds.

Australians said what they thought of that in a general election Dec. 13 when Whitlam was soundly defeated by Malcolm Fraser, leader of the Liberal-National-Country coalition.

In the United States, President Ford, who took over in 1974 from Richard M. Nixon, centre of the Watergate scandal, said he will seek the Republican nomination for the presidency in 1976.

Vice-president Nelson Rockefeller who, like Ford, had not been elected to office, announced Nov. 3 he wouldn't be available to run next year. In the things was Ronald Reagan, movie actor turned politician, who said Nov. 20 he would seek the Republican presidential nomination.

President Ford travelled widely at home and abroad and found his own country more hazardous than, for instance, China, where he was given an enthusiastic reception early in December.

On Sept. 5, in Sacramento, Calif., Lynette Fromme, 26, got within two feet of Ford with a loaded .45-calibre pistol. She was convicted on a charge of attempting to murder the president.

Seventeen days later, in San Francisco, Sara Jane Moore, 45, was alleged to have fired a shot at the president. Her case is before the courts.

Patty Hearst was captured in San Francisco after a year-and-a-half search that spanned half Canada. The newspaper heiress faces 11 federal charges. Her kidnapping and subsequent activities, allegedly criminal, made headlines in 1974.

New York City, with an annual budget of about $4 billion, more than that of some countries, almost went broke, due to years of over-spending and mismanagement.

Twice it came close to defaulting on its obligations but in the end, Congress came through with long-term assistance of some $2 billion.

Spain became a monarchy again after 47 years when Generalissimo Franco, dictator for 36 years, died Nov. 20. Prince Juan de Bourbon, Franco's designated successor, became King and he faces problems with a Basque independence movement in the west.

Next-door Portugal was troubled by conflict between Communists and anti-Communists—the anti held sway at year's end—and Lebanon, in the Middle East, was rent with religious strife. Moderns and Christians fought for control of Beirut, the capital, and the death toll was in the hundreds.

Back on the home front, the Olympic Games were a concern to many Canadians who fear they will be faced with a whopping bill.

Strikes and slowdowns on the construction site and ever-all financing problems left pessimists feeling that Montreal won't be ready for the July 17, 1976, opening. Mayor Jean Drapeau pooh-poohed all that, but he was chastened Nov. 20, when the Quebec government stepped in to oversee construction and exercise general supervision.

A deficit of at least $60 million faces the Olympics organizers.

Ontario's Premier William Davis was chastened, too.

He put the record of his Progressive Conservative government on the line in an election Sept. 18 and, to his surprise, emerged with a minority government. He won only 51 of the 125 seats. The New Democratic Party became the official opposition.

On the economic front, Mr. Davis provided a fillip to business by lowering the provincial sales tax to five per cent from seven—only to the end of the year — and eliminated — until Jan. 1—the tax on sales of automobiles as a boost to that hard-pressed industry.

NDP Premier Dave Barrett of British Columbia, a province hard hit during 1975 by labor troubles, put a price freeze on rents and essential commodities and services Oct. 24.

He also put his government's record before the voters in an election Dec. 11 and was overwhelmingly defeated by Social Credit.

The country was stunned Sept. 10 when John Turner resigned as federal finance minister to return to private life. He said nothing untoward should be read into his resignation. Donald MacDonald got the finance post; one of the cabinet's toughest, in a cabinet shuffle.

October stunner was the defeat Oct. 14 of Communications Minister Pierre Juneau in a byelection in Montreal Hochelaga, long considered a Liberal stronghold. He got a job in Mr. Trudeau's office after he resigned from the government Oct. 24.

Time magazine threw in the sponge Dec. 10 when it announced it will close its weekly Canadian news section. Provoked legislation requires it and Reader's Digest to have 80 per cent Canadian content to qualify for special income tax exemptions long enjoyed by their Canadian advertisers.

The Digest said it will hand on for the time being at least.

Father Truchan took son Justin with him on a couple of trips, one to the Far North and to Calgary Nov. 25 for the Grey Cup game (won by Edmonton 9 a over Ottawa). Mrs. Trudeau had given birth to their third son, Charles Emile, Oct. 2.

In belief, the bodies of 11 persons, believed victims of gangster grudge slayings, were found in a closet in a Montreal bar Jan. 21; Margaret Thatcher, 46, became leader of the British Conservative party Feb. 11; 14 died in the crash of a London subway train Feb. 28;

Florida Still Popular With Many Canadians

OTTAWA (CP) — The rising cost of air fares, fuel, hotels and food have driven travel expenses up again this year. But more Canadians are travelling to the sunny South than ever before, say Ottawa travel agents.

A spokesman for The Travel Place Ltd. estimated Wednesday that the Caribbean is attracting 25 per cent more customers this year than last. Admiral Travel Agencies reported about a 20-per-cent jump in vacation travel despite increased costs.

Popular destinations include Jamaica, Barbados, Florida, Cuba and the Dutch Antilles. The Dutch islands have gained popularity in the last three years, local agents said.

Christmas vacationers may experience some difficulty in visiting Hawaii this season. United Airlines service from the U.S. is grounded by a strike and, as a result, most other airlines are reported fully booked for Honolulu flights.

Some travel agents have been revealing their customers from Hawaii to Jamaica and Barbados because of the strike, but most places in the Caribbean already are full for the Christmas season.

Cuba recently has gained popularity because, in a spokesman for Voyageur Travel, said, the price is right. Packages to Cuba usually were all-inclusive with airfare, hotel accommodation, three meals and drinks covered in one relatively low price.

One-week tours to Cuba are more popular than two-and three-week packages because, as an Admiral Travel spokesman put it, there is not much to do in Cuba for more than one week.

The most expensive warm-weather spots are Hawaii and Mexico; the cheapest are Freeport in the Bahamas and Cuba. The travel agents said Mexico is expensive to get to and the hotels are costly, but food is described as relatively cheap.

A spokesman for Travel Cuba said Florida now is the most popular spot this year because it offers better value than the Caribbean.

Admiral Travel and other agencies noted a decline in overseas travel this Christmas season, although London show tours were sold out.

I. T. A. Travel Agency and Admiral reported a big drop in the popularity of ski-holiday packages this year. Air Canada and CP Air western ski packages remained popular, however.

More people are choosing southern cruises because they are relaxing and sometimes cheaper, some agencies said.

Cruises may seem more expensive but all meals are included in the price and the drinks are often cheaper, he added. Cruises become more popular in February when people are really anxious to escape the cold, said a Voyageur spokesman.

For the price-conscious tourist, the agencies recommended taking a meal plan in the package. They said food in most Caribbean countries is expensive and a meal plan may cut costs.

A spokesman for Admiral Travel speculated that prices for Caribbean travel may drop next year if other islands follow the example Jamaica set this year.

Jamaica is extremely popular, he said, because it offers a low-price inclusive contract bulk fare, a one-week trip from Toronto to Jamaica, including airfare, meals and accommodation, is offered at under $200.

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

Saturday, Dec. 20

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't attempt to burn the candle at both ends today. Your luck, energy and drive have very definite limitations.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Late in the day is not the time to try to resolve serious family problems. Wait till everyone has a chance to sleep on the issues.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be careful today that your remarks aren't too caustic or biting. Someone you'd put down will not forgive readily.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You tend to be a shade selfish today where your self-interests and resources are concerned. You must give a little in order to get.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your resolve grows that you are lazy lengthens. Don't give up on something important just because it doesn't come off on the first try.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is likely to be a rather busy day for you. You're apt to run out of steam rather early in the evening. Don't make it a late night.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Goals that eluded you yesterday are achievable today if you're willing to exert yourself. Be ingenious and you'll succeed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The general drift of today's events will at first appear to be working against you. Conditions will later alter to your satisfaction.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Have faith in yourself and your ideas today. There is a solution for each problem if you take time to think it out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't be afraid to bargain a bit today. If you take a firm position, the other fellow will eventually come around to your terms.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'll have the opportunity today to let a friend who has been loyal to you know that you're also an ally who can be relied upon.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You may be a bit of a slow starter today, but, once you set your mind to a task, you're capable of gaining desirable results regardless of obstacles.

Absent Mind Neurotic Sign?

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like your personal advice on what could be a small problem. I am a 19-year-old girl who is very self-conscious. What bothers me is that I DON'T want to be that way, but I can't seem to do anything about it.

Once I'm interrupted at doing anything I completely forget what is was and go back to doing something else. Is there anything I can do about this problem or will I have to accept being an absent-minded-professor type person? M.S.

There can be physical factors involved in memory deficiency, most of which are associated with the aging process. And if a brain dysfunction were involved, you would report more dramatic symptoms than mere forgetfulness. A complete physical examination at this point in your life would be in order, if only to establish that nothing more serious is involved.

Discounting such possibilities, the next most important factor in memory deficiency is the neurotic personality.

The neurotic type is likely to become panicky and before long a minor problem is blown out of proportion. In younger people what is called reminiscence efficiency can often be a lack of concentration or limited attention span. While this is usually found in children, a certain inattentiveness can linger on through the teen years. The person may quickly acquire the label "scatter-brained."

From your letter I suspect there is nothing wrong with you that some self-discipline, maturity and responsibility wouldn't cure. For some people, the demands of life, as in marriage or business, are rather heavy. Let's signate the problem. You, I know, respected men in business, for example, who have completed recall of the most minute details of an old business transaction years ago but must grope to recall where their cars are parked.

We tend to remember things we consider important. Conversely, we tend to forget those things we consider unpleasant or unimportant. It has been that if we remembered "everything" we would be as bad off as if we remembered nothing.

So what can you do about it? People in your situation are often found to be spreading themselves a bit thin, so to speak.

They are into so many things that they cannot do a self-satisfying job in any. You might try concentrating on a few activities or projects you particularly enjoy.

Be sure you are getting sufficient rest. Fatigue can engender forgetfulness over small details. Work consciously on your problem by developing a more orderly lifestyle. Keep a diary, in which you are forced to recall the significant events of the past day.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it true that a person can have a hemorrhoid operation, then in years later require another? Mrs. A.R.

Yes. Hemorrhoids can recur, but the chances of this happening are not great. About 90 per cent of hemorrhoidectomy patients are cured permanently. If a second operation is required it is for hemorrhoids occurring at a different site in the rectum and involving different veins. Hemorrhoids are varicosities, as you know.

Post-hemorrhoidectomy care is very important, especially because of the fact that the anus must be kept very clean to completely immobilized, but must continue to serve its regular function.

I'm sure you can attest to the relief you got from your hemorrhoidectomy. I'm glad to hope you plan to go back in for another one.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told I have dystrophy of the cornea of my eyes. I have a fear that, in there a cure for it? L.R.M.

Corneal dystrophies are disorders stemming from faulty transmission of the membranes. This results in a clouding and progressive lessening of vision. There is no inflammation present.

The cause is not known, but it does tend to run in families. I cannot say whether this type of disorder would be corrected by corneal transplant. I suggest you discuss this further with an eye specialist. I rather doubt that it would be.

North and South were expert playing together for the first time. North thought they were playing jump raises as invitational—not forcing. South thought they were playing them as forcing. Thus, plus a little mutual optimism, got them to six hearts.

South looked at the dummy with distaste. There was at least one trump loser, plus an apparent diamond loser. He couldn't do anything about the trump loser; perhaps he could take care of the diamonds.

He hummed, "With a little bit of luck," and proceeded to make the contract.

He started by playing the ace of hearts. Both opponents followed and there was only one heart loser. Then he cashed the second high spade; played king of clubs; ace of clubs; small club to the ruffed. Next came the ace and king of diamonds followed by a small trump.

West won and had to lead a black card. South promptly discarded dummy's losing diamond, ruffed in his own hand and claimed the slam.

CP News Roundup

Development Funds Will Be Cancelled For North Bay

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — A total of $12 million in development funds promised for North Bay this year has been cancelled, says Dick Smith, Liberal member of the legislature for Nipissing.

He said in a telephone interview from Toronto that a letter he received Thursday from Treasurer Darcy McKeough said it is impossible to give North Bay the money during the years 1976-77.

Defers Rates

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board has decided to defer an average 35-per-cent increase in its assessment rates on industry pending completion of a review by an anti-inflation committee of the provincial cabinet.

Holiday Delayed

OTTAWA (CP) — Prolonged debate on proposed changes to the unemployment insurance plan could mean that Parliament will not begin its Christmas holiday today as scheduled.

Opposition Continues

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Military sources said today that all force rebels vow to continue their uprising until Isabel Peron is replaced as president of Argentina, despite government claims the crisis was under control.

The government's Belgrano radio station, seized by the rebels, broadcast rebel manifestos and military marches through the night after Interior Minister Angel Federico Robledo told the nation the rebellion had been checked.

Rejects Loans

HAMILTON (CP) — The federal government's General Adjustment Assistance Program has rejected an application for nearly $1.5 million in loans to Essex Packers Ltd., a spokesman for Labor Minister John Munro said Thursday.

The federal body was presented last week with a report on the long-range viability of Essex, forced into receivership in October. The report was reviewed by the department of industry, trade and commerce.

Students Walk Out

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — Students walked out of classes at two Kent County high schools Thursday to protest the lack of a settlement in a contract dispute between the county board of education and the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation.

Rusty Club

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — About 40 car owners in Ontario have formed the Rusty Ford Owners' Association to investigate the possibility of taking a class-action lawsuit against Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd., a spokesman for the group said Wednesday.

The group is being co-ordinated by Tom Rennie of nearby Georgetown, who says his three-year-old pickup truck has rusted so badly that the box is loose.

Allow Increases

TORONTO (CP) — The ministry of health will allow nursing homes to increase their rates to $19 a day from $18.50 effective Jan. 1. It was announced Thursday. The Ontario Health Insurance Plan, which previously paid $12.88 a day, now will pay $12.85 and residents will pay a daily rate of $6.15, an increase of 25 cents.

Wells Warns Property Taxes Must Rise

TORONTO (CP) — Property taxes will have to cover more of the burden of education costs, Education Minister Thomas Wells warned Thursday.

He told 800 school board representatives from across the province that the government will increase education spending by $151 million this year, which means provincial per pupil will rise only about eight per cent.

Mr. Wells, Premier William Davis and Treasurer Darcy McKeough all addressed the gathering, repeating the warning that Ontario is determined to cut spending, and adding that money will have to come from local tax increases.

Mr. Wells also said there will be no capital projects approved in the next fiscal year.

Mr. Wells said $125 million in capital projects were approved in 1975, with most of the financing to come out of next year's budget.

However, he said, only $80 million is available for 1976-77 and that will go to high-priority projects from the 1975 budget. No new projects would be approved and low-priority projects from 1975 would be delayed pending a better financial climate.

Mr. Wells said school boards have requested $344 million in capital expenditures for next year, all of which is to be shelved.

However, he pledged that vital school expansion will go ahead.

Basically, the total provincial grants to school boards will rise to $1,714 billion next year from $1.563 billion.

The grants will be $1,000 for each elementary pupil and $1,238 for each secondary pupil and boards choosing to spend beyond those figures will not be able to get grant increases based on extra expenditures, he said.

Mr. Wells said the eight-per-cent grant increase will not cover projected increases in education costs. He said teachers' salaries alone are expected to be 27 per cent higher next year and property taxes will have to make up the difference.

Mr. Wells said he is removing the ceilings on expenditures to allow what he calls the discipline of the mill rate to hold down spending.

The minister also announced that money saved due to teachers' strikes—Metropolitan Toronto school boards have an extra $13 million in unpaid salaries due to the current strike by high school teachers—is to be placed in special funds to help reduce mill rate levies next year.

He said he plans amendments to the Education Act to allow the funds to be set up. The legislation will be introduced in the next session of the house and be made retroactive, he added.

Mr. Wells said he understands that property-tax increases will not be subject to federal selective wage and price controls, adding that he cannot be certain until details of the federal guidelines are examined.

Guidelines Are to Break Inflation Psychology Admits Trudeau

OTTAWA (CP) — While Prime Minister Trudeau says the spending restraints program is designed to show that the government "means business" its main thrust is to break the "inflation psychology" among Canadians generally.

And officials acknowledge that this was the chief reason for its carefully-orchestrated series of announcements—including a nationwide television broadcast—which launched the program with such fanfare Thursday.

Normally, a restraints program would be announced with one simple statement in the Commons. In fact, two years ago, former finance minister John Turner announced such cutbacks during an informal meeting with a group of reporters in the Parliamentary Press Gallery lounge.

But like Mr. Trudeau's dramatic Oct. 14 television broadcast, announcing the imposition of selective price and wage controls, Thursday's follow-up was pre-arranged for maximum impact.

For days in advance, reports filtered out of government that the Thursday announcement would be a bonshellel, that most Canadians would be startled by the measures. The CBC, for one, established a special "desk force" of four reporters and a large back-up crew just to cover the impending event. Speculation flowed freely.

Government calls were being placed with senior officials'MPs, with word they were being briefed in advance. The prime minister even phoned former prime minister John Diefenbaker, vacationing in Barbados.

There had been nothing like this since the 1970 imposition of the War Measures Act.

Word came that reporters would be given that information in a "locked room"—that is, they would have three hours to study and write the information while being confined to a guarded room. They would be allowed out only when Treasury Board President Jean Chretien was ready to deliver the Commons at 8 p.m.

In the meantime, the details had been stretched out with an unexpected announcement from Finance Minister Donald Macdonald at 3 p.m. about a new 10-percent surtax on corporate profits on taxable incomes over 30 per cent. And, for a time, this appeared even more dramatic because the announcement indicated the surtax would be on incomes over $30,000—not just on the taxes paid on earnings over this amount.

And the finance minister touted in a warning about the announcements coming later that evening.

"Those cutbacks unavoidably will affect a great many Canadians, but particularly those of moderate incomes."

Meanwhile, the time of Mr. Trudeau's telecast to the nation was being shuffled so often that no one was quite sure when that broadcast would break. It added to the excitement.

When reporters normally go into a locked room, all the confidential information is handed to them on arrival. But this time some of it was two hours late arriving, adding fuel to the drama.

By this time, no one would have been surprised if the government had abolished wine allowances, instead of just cancelling a planned small increase.

About 100 typewriters were clacking constantly in the lockup room, the old railway committee room adjoining a corridor from the Commons chamber. Television employees were busy making display charts to show what was being done by the government. Television reporters were recording before the cameras, ready for later broadcasts. There was more excitement than for an annual budget.

And perhaps more has been written and said than for the average budget.

Whether the government achieved its desired objective of pounding the public with its message remains to be seen. But in the light of the dramatic buildup, some officials say it is now important that opposition MPs, and sections of the press, be cooled by skeptical eyes in some of the cuts.

Sugar Price Case

Ouellet Will Appeal Refineries' Acquittal

MONTREAL, (CP) — Consumer Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet said Friday he will ask the federal justice department to launch an immediate appeal of the acquittal of three sugar refiners charged with fixing prices.

Mr. Justice Kenneth Mackay of Court of Queen's Bench ruled Friday the prosecution had not proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the companies were guilty of the offences, and any "enhancement of the price of refined sugar was not the result of a conspiracy or agreement between the accused."

In an interview in Ottawa, Mr. Ouellet called the acquittal "a complete disgrace" and adding that he could not understand "completely unacceptable", stand how Mr. Justice Mackay came to that decision.

But James McGrath, Progressive Conservative consumer affairs critic, said he was glad "the cloud of suspicion" has been lifted from the sugar companies.

Charged with conspiring to fix prices and lessen competition in six provinces from 1960 to 1973 were Redpath Industries Ltd., Atlantic Sugar Refineries Co. Ltd., and St. Lawrence Sugar Ltd., the latter charged jointly with SLSR Holdings Ltd.

The trial had lasted 18 months and heard testimony from more than 40 witnesses in Europe, India, South Africa and the United States, as well as in Ottawa and Montreal.

The judgment, believed by consumer affairs officials to be one of the most important in anti-competition action in recent years, was contained in 132 pages.

Much of the Crown's case was that the three companies, the only refiners in Eastern Canada for part of the period, attempted to prevent a fourth group, Cartier Sugar Ltd., from opening.

The Crown alleged the three companies tried this by refusing to buy from South African producers who supplied Cartier.

Eventually Cartier did open, but it was unprofitable and was later taken over by Steinberg's Ltd.

Mr. Justice Mackay said in his judgment he could not gather from the evidence that there was "an actual or tacit agreement between the three companies to cut off Cartier's supply of raw sugar, nor that it was another step in a conspiracy to prevent competition."

The judge also dismissed charges the companies conspired to set identical prices for refined sugar, saying the law "does not prohibit a member of an industry from taking into account and following his competitors' price changes, be they up or down."

Kidnappers Release Manager's Wife

HULL, Que. (CP) — A Hull bank manager and his wife were under police protection in an undisclosed location today following the woman's release Friday night by kidnappers who had demanded an $150,000 ransom.

Patrick Pelletier, 29, and her husband Robert, manager of a Hull branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, were assaulted 24 hours after Mrs. Pellerin was kidnapped Thursday morning by two armed men at the couple's home in suburban Touraine.

The money, made up of small bills and filling two small boxes, was recovered from a garbage can at the rear of a west-end Ottawa supermarket where it had been left by Mr. Pelletier as the instructions of his wife's abductors.

Mrs. Pellerin was released in downtown Ottawa shortly after 7 p.m. Friday while her husband was receiving a series of calls from one of new-kidnappers at telephone booths in the downtown Ottawa area. She took a taxi home.

Mr. Pelletier had been waiting at his home for nearly 24 hours after an abortive attempt to meet the ransom demand Thursday evening when he was called shortly after 8 p.m. Friday.

He was told to go to a telephone booth in central Ottawa. When he arrived, he was told to go to another and the pattern was repeated twice until he was finally told to leave the money in a black garbage can at the rear of a west-end A&P store.

He deposited the money and returned home to find his wife awaiting him. Police then recovered the money.

April 1

Minimum Wage To Rise 30 Cents

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister John Munro said Friday the federal minimum wage will increase by 30 cents on April 1 to $2.90 an hour.

Ontario Labour Minister Bette Stephenson said Thursday that she expects to announce on Monday an increase in Ontario's minimum wage, now $2.90 an hour.

Only about 12,500 of the 350-000 employees covered by the Canada Labor Code are at the current federal minimum of $2.60 an hour, but thousands more are earning salaries between $2.60 and $2.90.

Mr. Munro said in an interview the increase will benefit 32,000 workers in industries under federal jurisdiction, including employees of government-owned hotels, railway workers and bank employees.

The last increase in the federal minimum wage took effect July 23, when it was raised by cents to $2.60 an hour from $2.45.

In a letter to Mr. Munro said the proposed increase to $2.90 an hour does not violate federal anti-inflation regulations because the government amended its program to allow any workers to bargain for increases above the 10 per cent ceiling allowed by the controls in order to bring its hourly rate up to $2.90 an hour.

News Briefs

Snowmobile Deaths Up

OTTAWA (CP) — A total of 122 persons were killed in snowmobile accidents last winter, up from 127 the previous year, Statistics Canada reports. About 45 per cent of the deaths resulted from collisions with other snowmobiles or motor vehicles. Other causes were breaking through ice, collisions with objects such as trees, victims being thrown from the snowmobiles, collisions with trains and with fences or cables.

Food Prices Decline

OTTAWA (CP) — The anti-inflation board said Friday that food prices have been declining for the last six weeks. It said the major reason was seasonally lower prices for some items and it identified the anti-inflation program as a factor.

Governor Shot Dead

From AP-Reuter

BEIRUT (CP) — Qassem Allmad, governor of North Lebanon, was shot dead today by three gunmen as he was leaving his home in Tripoli, it was announced here. A police spokesman said the governor's wife was seriously wounded.

Dief's Wife Suffers Stroke

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuter) — Mrs. Olive Diefenbaker, wife of former Canadian prime minister John Diefenbaker, was admitted to Queen Elizabeth Hospital after suffering a mild stroke Friday night. Mrs. Diefenbaker, 73, was taken ill at the west coast Coral Reef Club Hotel where she is spending a month-long winter vacation with her husband. Canadian sources said Mrs. Diefenbaker had suffered from minor hemorrhaging from the stroke but was conscious and "quite cheerful."

Belleville Contractor Killed In Accident

By RACHAEL SPENCER
Staff Correspondent

STIRLING — A well-known Belleville housing contractor was killed and his brother injured when a car hit bridge guardposts on Highway 14, six miles north of here today.

Provincial police late this morning identified the victim as Michael DeMark, 30, of 4 Fenwood Gdns., R.R. 7, Belleville. His brother, Henry, A. DeMark, 25, of 24 Tracey Park Dr., driver of the car — was taken to Belleville General Hospital.

The impact caused $3,500 damage to the 1973 car.

For the past several years Mr. DeMark has been active in the Quinte Home Builders Association. He has served as a director and vice-president of the association and for two years was its president.

Last Wednesday, Mr. DeMark was presented with the National Reserve Award from the Housing and Urban Development Association of Canada for his work in promoting association growth.

He is survived by his wife Sandy and two children.

Miller Cuts Hospital Budget

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Frank Miller told hospital administrators Friday that they will have to pare $50 million off their budgets next year in keeping with Ontario's rigid austerity program.

The health minister said cuts next year probably will include 5,000 active-care hospital beds and up to 3,000 personnel.

City Police Purchase 17 Special Revolvers

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Belleville police commission moved Friday to bring sidearms issued to its force in line with new weapons standards for Ontario police forces.

Most pistols now carried by the city's 41-member police force already meet the new regulations.

But Police Chief Douglas Crosbie told the commission that 17 new pistols were required if the department's weapons were to conform to the recently-announced regulations.

The standards — set by the Ontario Police Commission — call for all-steel revolvers to replace pistols made of lighter alloys.

A man reason is that ammunition with a stronger charge is the new standard issue. Used in the lighter weapons it could cause barrel expansion, thus reducing accuracy.

The OPC's concern with accuracy also involves safety — reducing the chances of a passerby being hit when police have to fire.

Bullets used now had been known to ricochet off the curved and angled glass of shatterproof windows. On impact with a human body they could also disintegrate, inflicting more serious wounds.

The new regulations also call for revolvers issued male officers to have a four-inch barrel and those to police women a three-inch barrel.

Use of special circumstances, a police chief can authorize surrounds of his force to carry some other firearm.

Notably, these include the unobtrusive snub-nosed pistols favored by detectives. It also is a model Chief Crosbie carries himself, he told the commission, who approved the purchase.

The new pistols will cost $100 each. Trade-in allowance from the force's gun supplier is $37 a piece for the discarded revolvers, said the chief.

Sidearm Of The Law

Belleville police department is ordering new pistols to meet recently-introduced official standards. Lighter alloy sidearms — like revolver shown by Police Chief Douglas Crosbie to James Driscoll, police commission chairman — are to be replaced with all-steel weapons to ensure accuracy and safety.

Sniper Rifle?

A Christmas Message Of a Different Calibre

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Outwardly, there were no conscious dramatics about the hard realism implied in the decision.

It was simply made around a table late Friday morning in a generally quiet committee.

It's a community more customarily inured to violence than screeching tires: a family fight, a sweetheart drinking heavily, maybe even a torn police shirt and the other violence it reads about — on television.

Around this table was the mayor, a local judge, a businessman and the police chief.

The chief was talking about a sniper rifle for his force.

"We have one," he said, "and we feel we need another."

The mayor mused aloud about happening elsewhere of hostages held at gunpoint. He indicated it was hard to imagine such an incident in his community. (At last count the census was 28,000.)

Nonetheless: "This has come to be a crazy-world," he admitted.

Agreed the businessman: "How do you know? You never know what can happen."

The mayor told police chief: "I think you'd better go ahead."

The judge seconded the recommendation.

It was the last meeting of the year for Belleville's police commissioners.

The Weather

Synopsis: A winter storm crossing southern all the Ontario taken today will dump an additional 10 to 15 centimetres of snow in southern Ontario areas and five to 10 cms. elsewhere before moving east. Temperatures will rise to near normal today but southeasterly winds Sunday will bring back the below-normal temperatures under generally sunny skies.

Snow Creates Shopping Hazard

BY JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

Trenton's municipal workers have become so caught up in the holiday spirit they now think the town is Santa Claus.

Wage demands being made by various municipal employee groups have been so incredibly high it is surprising that lines of people are not forming in the town offices to submit applications for employment with the labor-outdoor workers, fire department and police force.

Town officials have expressed concern that the exorbitant demands would effect other municipal contract negotiations.

Aubrey Sharp, town clerk and administrator for the past year, must be wondering if life is a dream or an intensive study course in labor negotiation and arbitration hearings for muncipal officials.

The firefighters say their overtime is underpaid and they deserve more money but some people are wondering if they warrant more money than the responsible treasurer who is responsible for millions of dollars or the tax collector who has been with the municipality for more than 25 years.

Most people acknowledge the police have a dangerous job, which they do well, but according to press releases issued by the detective squad there is never any crime in Trenton.

The indoor-outdoor workers of CUPE suggest they are entitled to a 50 per cent increase because their department saved the town almost $100,000 but say they will have no vote on whether they will agree to accept a wage cut if it loses money next year.

The town is crying poverty, complaining they could not possibly meet all the demands, acting the part of Scrooge in this Christmas comedy, trying to hide the budget surplus from the poor municipal employees.

The only ones apparently benefiting from the constant confusion is the ratepayer, who for the first time in many months can sit back and be entertained by good, old-fashioned, family-comedy entertainment.

Viz Virginia, there is a Santa Claus.

Town Employees Look for Santa

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — The Picton Merchants' Association is urging Prince Edward County residents to shop locally but customers who comply this winter literally run the risk of becoming "fall guys."

The potential hazard surfaced following the first major snowstorm of the season when over 11 inches of the white stuff was dumped on Picton streets.

A number of merchants neglected to properly clear away the ice and snow and, consequently, much of Main Street was glare ice. Only a handful of store owners seemed concerned with removing the slush before it freze to create a hazard for shoppers.

Stretches of sidewalk above the Armory Mall and on Ross Street were particularly icy following the storm.

Although Main Street had been transformed to a mini-rink there was no sign of sand sprinkled over the ice to reduce the dangerc to pedestrians.

An advertisement inserted in the local press by the Picton Merchants' Association this week states, "The merchants of the town of Picton have searched far and wide for the best possible selection of goods and merchandant available. Why not take advantage of this selection by shopping in downtown Picton!"

Apparently brokeln legs, sprained wrists and bruised knees will be tossed in free to courageous customers who tackle Main Street following a storm.

If Picton merchants sincerely wish to woo the shopper who visits secrlor malls to make purchases then every consideration should be offered toward customer comfort.

Senior citizens have no reason to worry about falls and broken bones while shopping indoors at a mall or even downtown in another community where sidewalks are sand shovelled and properly sanded.

Similarly, young persons may enjoy firmer footing in a mall where getting from store to store is convenient.

Obviously, if Picton merchants expect local residents to patronize them they must expect to offer properly cleared entrances to their shops.

Should the town's public works department seem remiss in supplying sand for icy walks then merchants should land together to request better service in this respect.

Picton's stores look year are attractively decorated and well stocked to serve the Christmas shoppers but merchants can scarcely expect customers to break their necks in grabbing local bargains.

PICTON — Roger's Tire and Battery, in operation for over since 1947, has been sold to Tom Mills of Peterborough, a former Picton native.

Roger Blakely, owner of the service centre and his sister, Thelma, who has worked in the business since 1940, said they plan to retire.

New owner Tom Mills recently worked as manager of a Firestone tire store.

Water Plants With Care

By ROSS HAWTHORNE

We get phone calls. And letters. And people bringing ailing house plants to us at Vesper Farms. And I don't think I'm exaggerating when I say 75 per cent of those ailments are centred around moisture — either an excess or a deficiency. An excess in the pot and a deficiency in the air. In short — overwatering or a lack of humidity

A lack of humidity in the air is part of the natural climate profile of a room or a portion of a room, such as near or over a heat source. Overwatering is of course an imposed activity.

A lack of humidity can be overcome a number of ways:

1) Buy plants with low humidity requirements.

2) Add a humidifying device to the room over and above the furnace humidifier.

3) Move plants away from the heat source.

4) Set pots on a saucer of pebbles, filled with water.

5) Mist plants daily with an atomizer.

6) Group plants so they set up their own humidity profile, transferring moisture to and from each other.

Watering presents a different set of problems. And if you're in the habit of saying to yourself "Today I'll water my plants", then that is the first problem. Because you're treating all of your house plants as though they all had the same watering requirements. And chances are they don't.

And so, unconsciously, you continually overwater two or three plants. And they start to look sickly. And so you figure that watering might help. And you compound the felony. And they get worse. And you water some more and so on and fintum.

How much better that you should learn the watering requirements of each plant you own or are planning to own and treat them accordingly.

Some plants' watering requirements are similar and others are widely divergent. And such factors as type of pot, (clay or plastic), air, humidity, all play a role.

But most house plants fall somewhere in the following categories of soil moisture requirements.

1) Wet — a rare requirement, for houseplant soils except for a few of the swamp plants such as the venus fly trap or the umbrella plant.

2) Damp — damp to the touch at all times and never allowed to go dry — a condition loved by ferns, zebra plants, violets, cyclamen, azalea and thousands of other.

3) Damp-dry — where the soil is allowed to go dry between heavy waterings. A must for peperomias, jade plants (and most succulents), crotons, chinese evergreens, poinsettias and a multitude of others.

4) Seasonal — watering during the growing season and a minimum or no water — during dormancy. A requirement for all cactii and many of the tuberous, or bulb originating plants such as gloxinia and amaryllis.

Newman Suggests Tool Co-op

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister William Newman said Wednesday he is willing to meet farmers and equipment manufacturers in an attempt to set up regional equipment pools for peak periods.

"I'd do anything to help the farmers," the minister told the legislature.

Ed Philip (NDP—Toronto, Etobicoke) asked whether pools could be established, especially at peak times such as planting and harvesting, because of difficulty in obtaining equipment.

On another matter, Mr. Newman said the government's payments to the Ontario cow-calf price stabilization program this year are much higher than anticipated.

Livestock Sales

Receipts were lighter on most classes of cattle and calves at Belleville Livestock Sales Tuesday. Prices were generally steady on good steers and heifers and cows were strong. Good stocker cattle sold steady. Good stock steer and heifer calves sold strong. Good dairy cows and heifers were in strong demand at steady prices. Weaned pigs and shoats were lower.

Choice steers .39 to .45; Good heifers .35 to .38; common and medium .34 to .35; good cows .28 to .32; top of .34; medium .16 to .20; common .14 to .18.

Good heavy bologna bulls .34 to .35; medium .22 to .34; common .18 to .22.

Choice heavy stocker cattle — 750 to 900 lbs. — .36 to .40; good stock steer calves .35 to .38; good stock heifer calves .29 to .32; choice veal calves .30 to .38; common and medium .16 to .30; bob calves $5 to $25.

Lambs .50 to .60; sheep .18 to .30.

Fat hogs .58 to .61 on live-weight basis; light sows .48 to .52; heavy sows .42 to .48; shoats .50 to .65; weaned pigs $40 to $55.

Good springers $500 to $750 each; good heifers $350 to $500 each.

It took less than a minute to peel the fleece from this sheep during demonstration by Dr. Alan Downes of the Australian Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization. Though the fleece from the chemically-treated sheep tumbled to the ground at the sheared's touch, the procedure is not yet ready for commercial application. Present treatments are administered as infusions to the jugular vein, but developments considered necessary will allow chemicals to be given as a drench or by injection.

Trade and Raw Materials Parley Now Of Many Touching Lives Of Everyone

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

This has been a year of many international conferences dealing with the relations between the rich and the poor countries.

Some have forgotten about most of them, though they all have been reported in your paper and commented about in this column.

Equally important, you may think they have had no direct repercussion on your life-style with the likes of Henry Kissinger, Harold Wilson, Pierre Trudeau, President Ford in attendance.

The fact is that the international meetings of 1975 concluding with the International Conference on Trade and Raw Materials which has just ended in Paris, have had greater impact on all of us than the many earlier ones dealing mainly with political issues.

This is because all these summits are having impact on future world where inflation will continue to remain high, where we in the rich countries, with 17 million out-of-work in Canada, Europe and the U.S. must still continue to bear some of the burden for bringing along the many, many poor countries in our world.

What the representatives of the 27 rich and poor countries in Paris said out loud about the availability of oil will ultimately affect us.

The poor, Third World nations have our strong bargaining position, that is those ones who are sources of needed raw materials. They are forming tough-minded economic cartels through which they, not the user-nations like Canada, will set future prices.

This is not a trend coming in the future. Commodity cartels were formed last year in bauxite and continued during 1975.

During 1976 we have seen the following conferences dealing with the vital question of relations between the world's many nations on economic matters:

There was the United Nations special session in early September on the priorities of the poor nations, the meeting in August of 85 so-called non-aligned nations in Lima, Peru, the annual meetings of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund also concerned with financial and economic development of poor nations, an economic summit in Paris late month which excludes Canada, and now the Paris nation conference just concluded in Paris.

A very jarring note was the resolution passed by the United Nations General Assembly last month defining Zionism as a form of racism. It did no good whatsoever to the important and co-ordinating activities of the other meetings I have mentioned.

The other day in the same UN assembly, Daniel Patrick Moynihan, U.S. ambassador, called the world's ills in that body, "the theatre of the absurd."

Both he and his boss, Henry Kissinger, have strongly supported the activities of the PLO (Lib'n) and beyond the summitries and the stimulus their cause has received from many countries receiving United States aid or technical assistance.

On the other hand, one must wonder about the fact that the amount of aid Israel is requesting from the U.S. represents almost half the total American aid budget for next year.

Given that bitter and destructive vituperation against Zionism, the international meetings held this year were as the economists say on balance more positive than negative.

As our world becomes increasingly more complex to live and work in we must talk to each other under as many auspices as possible, the international conference remaining a vital one of these.

Doubts About Detente

Whither detente? The high point of contemporary U.S.-Soviet relationships seems to have passed with the visit of President Ford a while back.

Mr. Ford has said any return visit by Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev will have to await further progress in arms limitation talks.

A startling reminder, meanwhile, of the fundamental differences between the two societies and political systems has been provided by film smuggled to the west and shown by television networks in recent days.

Taken by a Russian, or so we are told, the film purported to show a prison camp outside Riga, capital of Latvia. Some prisoners are shown on trucks, but there is no overt evidence of mistreatment. On the other hand there are guards with dogs and the film is said to have provoked a sharply critical reaction from the French Communist party as to the conditions within.

Interestingly, the camp is called a "gulag" which forms part of the title of exiled author Alexander Solzhenitsyn's book on Soviet prison life, "Gulag Archipelago."

Solzhenitsyn's views on the Soviet system, from first-hand experience, are uncompromising. Since establishing residency in the West he has warned repeatedly of the dangers of pursuing detente — a viewpoint with which the Chinese, incidentally concur.

How much credence should be given to the warnings of Solzhenitsyn and others? Plenty! In the second of two addresses delivered in New York last July, under the auspices of the AFL-CIO, and quoted in part in this month's Reader's Digest, the Soviet author gives an answer to the premise held by many that "it will never happen here." He quotes a Russian proverb which says: "When it happens to you, you'll know it's true," and adds: "Do we have to wait until the knife is at our throat?" He cites reasons, political and military — not least the fact that Soviet nuclear strength is now ahead of that of the United States.

There are other straws in the wind — for example, Soviet and Cuban involvement in the volatile situation in Angola . . . and evidence of U.S. aid too, to opposing factions.

A Reader's Digest news agency article notes that Christianity has not died in modern Russia, but the October issue of the Los Angeles-based publication, "Underground Evangelism, claims Christian children suffer mental and physical abuse in Soviet schools.

The moral may well be, if the West, and the U.S. in particular, is to pursue detente, it should continue to do so only from a position of strength.

Upward Spiral

The cost of living continues to make increasing claims on citizens and government at every level.

On the positive side it is good to be informed that the Quinte Mall generates about $250,000 or more in city taxes. The city can also expect more from the scheduled Mall expansion and from the new Century Place complex nearing completion downtown.

While a healthy tax picture however there are parallel increases in municipal costs. As city council learned Monday major work programs have been hit by inflation and sewage disposal costs are up.

The government's anti-inflation program notwithstanding some increases have been building up for some time and these are reflected in the figures released in recent days.

Auto Thefts Mounting

Motorists are all too familiar these days with the high cost of keeping a car on the road.

The cost of gas . . . and insurance. All but out of sight.

Add to this, insurance losses from automobile theft and the figures are staggering. Losses from theft alone are expected to reach a record $40 million this year, up from $34.5 million in 1974, according to the Insurance Crime Prevention Bureau. Combine these statistics also with the 1973 monetary loss of a mere $25 million and we have some idea of the escalating problem.

Bureau statistics show that car thefts across Canada in 1974 totalled 80,736, up from 69,838 in 1973. Quebec led the dollar loss last year with more than $16 million compared with Ontario's $9 million plus and British Columbia in excess of $5 million.

But even these figures pall when set against overall insurance-related crime which bureau president J. M. McFadyen notes at $100 million a year in losses "is growing at a frightening pace."

And this is but one facet of our high-priced economy in which waste, obsolescence and more to an increasing degree, crime, are intertwined.

Olympics Trusteeship

Montreal-Matin: The provincial government has given the Olympics game back given the Liberals some much-needed political capital.

What better way to demonstrate the shillelas of a team of "young and competent administrators" than to perform a last-minute salvage of the Games that extravagence had imperiled, but that 63 per cent of society wanted. . . .

It should be said that the Olympics installation board and minister Victor Goldbloom's involvement appear to be good signs. Athletes now can be treated to realism where they once heard the songs of spectacular triumph from Mayor Jean Drapeau. . . .

The provincial government's involvement comes as a psychological treatment for Montrealers. After all, Mr. Goldbloom's announcement of a $75-million savings, through cuts, on a $609-million deficit, is hardly enough. . . .

The psychological treatment should also have some effect on workers at games construction sites. The workers have been under enormous pressure, some of them working as many as seven days a week.

From now on, they'll get holidays and vacations, and their work week will be trimmed to six days and 66 hours from the current seven days and 84 hours. . . .

Another victory for the installations board is its decision to be more open and to grant more information on progress of Games construction. . . .

But let's try to be as realistic as Mr. Goldbloom. The Olympics remain in opposition to the primary needs of Montrealers. The Games are an administrative mess and a nest of patronage.

The board remains our only hope of cutting our losses.

Foreign Programs

Ottawa Journal

With respect to TV, Ireland lies in a position something like that of Canada. Both countries lie under the umbrella of a larger neighbor more prolific in markets of a much larger kindred, both countries, in terms of their financial resources, find it easier to reproduce foreign programs than to develop their own new programs, though both feel the desire and need for more programs originated at home.

But Ireland has access to less variety than Canada. For the weekend and holidays in the Irish Republic, only one channel is available; that of Radio Telefis Eireann, Ireland's national broadcasting organization. This carries some programs with Irish content and some in the Gaelic language but also BBC and continental programs and thereby is related: even graduated, to the Canada U.S. soap opera. The east coast of Ireland can pick up English TV channels and some of these are brought by cablevision into homes in the Dublin area. (These areas lying near Northern Ireland can get British TV as boosted in Ulster.)

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

The ranks of organized labor must be truly proud of their power today. In British Columbia the NDP government of Dave Barrett lies in ruins. Probably the best and most left wing government the people of BC ever had.

Taking advantage of the problem leanings of the NDP, organized labor embarked on a calculated program of strikes, civil disobedience that could only end one way — by totally disenchanting the most powerful group the ordinary, unorganized average voter.

Barrett recognized too late the mood of the people when he sent Canadian farmers rank with the world's most efficient and least protected and these are points of established record.

The 39 farm product marketing boards operating in Ontario have responsibility for 49 farm commodities in exactly five cases production quotas are imposed to balance production with market demand. In the seven cases prices are set by the boards, but these products must compete for price and quality with imported product, which customarily enters our markets ahead of domestic product.

The strikers that were paralyzing the province back to work. Too many had been out too long, at great a cost to the rest of the people. Now, they will pay — every price once the new NDP government hits its stride. Worker priority has never been high in the Social Credit list.

At the federal level the Trudeau government has probably cooked its goose with the decision to over-rule the Antidumping Board on the penal issue. Now, other groups will all yant to be in the same category.

I feel the country will be moved to the right in the coming months as the feeling of fear on the part of the unpolitical and moderate majorities itself in a vote toward the Conservatives.

We will then endure a period of soup kitchens, food Queues and country before a massive swing the other way. How far it will swing will depend on the level of apathy among the ordinary man and woman. If they are sufficiently fed up with being the victims of the corporations and big labor, we may end up with something truly representative. If they don't show an interest we will be calling each other "comrade" and it will have been our own disinterest and non-involvement that did it.

Former Davis Aide Is Now Industry and Tourism Deputy

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Jim Fleck has been picked as the man to run the show.

Since Premier Davis took power in 1971 James Fleck has been the province's number one civil servant.

The premier decided he wanted an executive director for his office and Fleck, who had been the executive director of the committee on government productivity, was named to the position.

After two years he was made secretary to the cabinet. Just recently he was put in charge of the province's anti-inflation program.

And now he has been made deputy minister of the ministry of industry and tourism.

Fleck has been a controversial figure from the start.

A combination entrepreneur and academic, he is a self-made millionaire, a graduate of the Harvard School of Business and a professor of business administration, including a spell in the Orient.

But he has no political background, and without this, represents the ultimate mandarin.

There are those who believe (the mandarins) that you can administer government without political background. That the systems and theories of the universities and industry are sufficient for it.

Then there are those who believe that the final function of government is public service and that it can be administered well or properly without a full appreciation of this and the obligations and responsibilities involved.

The politicians that have been made of Jim Fleck have been that though he has been a good administrator (some say superb) he doesn't have a political soul.

And without it he has been unable to effectively judge the public issues which have come before him.

Whether this thinking is right is an emotional controversy to which there probably is no resolution.

In any event in his new position, Fleck is taking on a job to which he is admirably suited.

Industry and tourism has a high involvement with management and the economy.

The tricks and industry section has the key job, one becoming always more important, of stimulating and guiding the economy.

The direction of such a program is right in the Fleck niche. Industry, incidentally, is appointing him, the premier indicates he hopes to make this a "show-case" ministry—near the top in the government.

Faulkner Will Press Advertising Legislation

OTTAWA (CP) — State Secretary Hugh Faulkner said Friday he is determined to press on with controversial tax legislation affecting advertisers in Canadian editions of Time magazine and Reader's Digest.

He refused to accept appeals from some members of Parliament, including several Liberals, for delays and modifications in the bill. He said in an interview he stands by an earlier offer to give Reader's Digest time to become 75 per cent Canadian-owned.

Mr. Faulkner said a further delay until late January in giving the legislation final reading will bring the government under strong new pressure to back down.

Defends Guidelines

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Donald Macdonald said Friday he does not believe the proposed 10-per-cent limit on prices of exports exceeding the anti-inflation guidelines will have a serious detrimental effect.

He was replying in the Commons to Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield, who said the proposal, announced Thursday, may encourage multinational corporations to shift export production from Canada.

Partridge Dies

TORONTO (CP) — John A. Partridge, 58, national vice-president and honorary counsellor of the Canadian Red Cross Society, died Thursday of a heart attack while vacationing at Naples, Fla.

Mr. Partridge held several offices in the Ontario division of the Canadian Red Cross Society before he served as national president of the society from May, 1967, to May, 1969.

Mr. Partridge, a chartered accountant who lived in Kingston, Ont., also was a member of the board of governors of Kingston General Hospital.

Increase Rates

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro will increase its wholesale power rates by 22 per cent effective Jan. 1, Robert Taylor, chairman of the Hydro board of directors, announced Friday.

The 22-per-cent increase was recommended last week by a three-party legislature committee on Hydro rates. Hydro had asked for a 25-per-cent increase.

Receives Grant

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A Kingston senior citizens' club has received a $7,813 federal grant to play shuffleboard despite the government's program to reduce expenditure, it has been announced.

Lay Off 295

STE. THERESE, Que. (CP) — A production slowdown next month at the General Motors of Canada automobile plant here will result in the indefinite lay-off of 295 of the plant's 3,000 employees, the company announced Friday. Effective Jan. 8, production is to be reduced to 40 units an hour from 45 units an hour at the Montreal-area plant.

Blocks Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, with assurances of President Ford's support, approved Friday a compromise bill to block an income tax increase scheduled Jan. 1.

Approval was a step toward resolving a tax-and-spending dispute that threatens to increase average income taxes as much as $8 a week.

MPs to Get Tax-free Raise Despite Freeze

OTTAWA (CP) — Members of Parliament will get a raise in tax-free income starting Jan. 1 despite a government pay freeze presented Thursday as part of its anti-inflation program.

Senators also will benefit under a small-print exception to the proposed pay freeze. The exception went generally unnoticed—and prompted not a word of public comment in the House of Commons or Senate.

The 263 MPs, including cabinet ministers, will get an increase in tax-free allowances to $11,300 a year from the present $10,000. The 80 senators receive a raise to $5,600 from $5,300 in tax-free income.

"At our level of income and tax brackets, the $700 extra in tax-free money is equivalent to almost twice that much if it were an ordinary, taxable pay increase," Stanley Knowles said in an interview Friday.

"The government is trying to give the impression that it is freezing our incomes but it is not. We're supposed to be setting an example but we're going to get this nice little extra."

The veteran MP added that revelation that the pay freeze is only partial comes when the government is trying to push through legislation before Christmas that, among other things, will sweeten future pensions of MPs—by about one-third.

Mr. Knowles said he will fight passage of the pensions bill at its extraordinary Saturday sitting of the Commons, called to get the bill through.

MPs voted themselves pay increases of 33 1-3 per cent last spring, to a taxable salary of $24,000 plus $10,000 a year tax-free allowance, along with a cost-of-living provision to boost both by a maximum of about seven per cent each Jan. 1.

Senators get $24,000 plus $5,300 in tax-free allowances.

Ministers, parliamentary secretaries and other officers—about 65 MPs in all—get

Postpones Plant

MONTREAL (CP) — Alcan Aluminium Ltd. and its partners in Alcan Ireland Ltd. have announced they will postpone the start of construction on a proposed alumina extraction plant in the Republic of Ireland. A statement issued Friday said construction was being put off because of the "slow economic recovery in most countries and in the aluminum industry." The decision will be reconsidered in 12 to 18 months, the statement said. The plant would process bauxite, mainly from West Africa.

U.S. Price Index Shows Lower Prices for Gas, Sugar

NEW YORK (AP) — The latest U.S. government report on consumer prices, issued last week, produced a little bit of cheer but just as many unpleasant surprises.

For a change, the month of November saw gasoline prices go down 8-10 of a per cent. Sugar prices were more than 10 per cent lower and other food prices, including beef and pork, also declined.

But while inflation seemed to cool for the moment on those long-standing trouble spots, it boiled over in the cost of vacation services. Insurance rates rose 9.5 per cent in November. Mortgage rates were up 1.6 per cent.

In all, the labor department's consumer price index, reported Friday, showed that while the seasonally adjusted consumer price increase in food had moderated and gas prices were declining, service costs took their largest jump in more than a year—a surprise to admiralty tratics economists.

Consumer prices over-all were reported up 7-10 of a per cent in November, or 8.6 per cent on an annual basis.

New car prices also were reported up 9-10 of a per cent in November, but signs appeared in Detroit that the spiral might be slowing.

Early in the week, Ford and Chrysler announced plans to raise prices early next month. Ford's increases would range $122 on cars and light trucks, while Chrysler's would be $25 to $70 on selected models to cover safety equipment.

However, General Motors had made no move by week's end to increase its prices. Ford said it might reconsider the price increase if it hurt sales.

Meanwhile, Chrysler chairman John Riccardo apparently won a war of nerves with the British government over the fate of Chrysler's money-losing British subsidiary.

Last Tuesday, Britain's governing Labor Party agreed to rescue Chrysler U.K. at a cost of about $225 million. Without the aid, Riccardo said he would liquidate the British company, throwing 25,000 Britons out of work. Even with the rescue, 8,000 jobs will be lost.

Harried holiday travellers received some good news at the end of the week as a tentative agreement was reached between United Airlines and striking ground employees. The two-week walkout had contributed to serious snarling of airport traffic in the holiday crush.

American Telephone and Telegraph Co., with more shareholders than any U.S. corporation, reported a small decline in the quarter ended Nov. 30. Earnings per share were $1.30, compared with $1.32 a year ago.

Company chairman John DeButts said the "prolongation of the recession's effects on Western Electric," the communication giant's equipment manufacturing arm, was the most significant factor holding earnings in check.

Canadians Asked Not To Lose Faith in God

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians have been told not to lose faith in God or the prospects for a better world in the annual Christmas message from prominent churchmen.

"It has been well said that Christmas means that God has not too much of himself into the world ever to abandon it now," said Rev. David W. Hay, moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

The troubles of our time demand that Canadians show concern for the world's less fortunate, he said. "If the Third World believes that we really care there will be new hope all round."

Most Rev. G. Emmett Carter, president of the Canadian Catholic Conference of Bishops, said Christmas is a time to feel especially grateful to God "for the awakening of our sense of responsibility to our fellow men . . . for the realization that we must curb our greed and share with those who suffer hunger and deprivation.

"Most of all, I am grateful for God's continuous love and his patience as we struggle to fulfil the Christmas promise of peace."

Most Rev. E. W. Scott, primate of the Anglican Church of Canada, said the message of Christmas is not escape from the world with its terrifying possibilities, but a reminder that Christians are not alone.

"We move out to face the challenges of today and tomorrow with Him and countless others whose hearts are given to Him," he said.

Rev. Dr. R. Fred Bullen, general secretary-treasurer of the Baptist Federation of Canada, said Christmas is a season for everyone.

"... the season comes to all men in whatever attitude or condition they may be found," he said. "Affluence and poverty are typical extremes. ... Our Christmas list must include those unknown persons to whom we cannot be indifferent."

Rt. Rev. Wilbur X. Howard, moderator of the United Church of Canada, urged Canadians to live with the spirit of Christmas throughout the year.

"The truth of the matter is that Christmas comes wherever and whenever you want it to come," he said. "It's the spirit of Christ and his love rising up renewed within you."

Rev. Earl S. Trenoch, general secretary of the Lutheran Council of Canada, asked Canadians to think more seriously about the meaning of Christmas.

"So much of that with which we are confronted is really only superficial," he said. "You are surrounded with many opportunities to dig more deeply . . . Spend some time thinking of its importance for you and for all people."

Pentecostal Building Under Construction Here

A new $217,000 headquarters for the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada (Eastern Ontario and Quebec District) is now rising from the ground on the western outskirts of Belleville.

District superintendent Rev. Gordon Upton revealed Wednesday plans for the district headquarters, needed because the present offices are too small.

Now with a full-time staff of five persons, the offices on King George Square have simply been "outgrown", he said.

Plans for the new single-storey structure call for a brick exterior surrounding about 4,000 square feet of floor space on a five-acre site, immediately west of the Belleville Cemetery.

The land is adjacent to a 10-acre waterfront parcel owned by Calvary Temple in Belleville.

Mr. Upton said Wednesday future plans for the headquarters site might include in future a joint senior citizens housing project with Calvary temple.

Temple pastor Rev. Charles Benn announced in mid-1974 plans for a new church and a major $3-million complex for the elderly.

But Mr. Upton said that, as yet, no serious negotiations have taken place, but a joint venture is possible because Calvary Temple is one of the Pentecostal Assembly of churches.

Money for the new district headquarters comes from three sources, said Mr. Upton. A third of the funds offered by the district's church members for world overseas missionary work is applied to district work.

Additionally, pastors from this district's 115 churches hand over five per cent of their yearly income. Each church also donates a sum from it's general funds.

New headquarters to be completely air-conditioned are due for completion in May, 1976.

Frozen Vegetables Better Than Fresh

Fresh vegetables from the supermarket may not be the nutritional bargain you think they are.

Robert Stark, head of the food processing section of Agriculture Canada's Kentville, Nova Scotia research station, says that while fresh vegetables just picked from your own garden are the best vegetables you can eat, once picked, vegetables begin to lose nutrients, flavor and texture quickly.

"Unless the supermarket produce manager really gets the stuff out on the shelves fast, the vegetables lose an awful lot between the time they are harvested and when you put them in a pot to cook."

Mr. Stark says that frozen vegetables are often better tasting and have superior flavor and texture than fresh produce. He is one of a group of researchers who hopes that frozen produce will improve with the introduction of a new method of processing food for freezing.

Steam-blanching is the new technique, one which nutrition conscious people have used for years. Currently, vegetables are rushed from the field through a water blanching process and into the freezer.

"Most of the nutrients and fresh qualities are locked right in," Mr. Stark says. But the water blanching results in the loss of nutrient and flavor compounds.

The new process, being tested now at the research station, uses steam to heat vegetables which are resting on a conveyor belt. In a second stage, cool air is blown over them along with a fine spray of water, recirculated from the steam, which should put back into the vegetables some of the water they lost during steam blanching.

The experimental, process will be used with a wide range of vegetables and finally, the possibility of expanding it to commercial use will be studied.

If there's some chicken on the menu in your household lately, you can thank pork producers.

At least that's what Eugene Whelan, minister of Agriculture, says in Outlook '79, a publication of things to come in the field of agriculture. The department predicts a drop in pork prices near the end of next year while beef and poultry prices will remain steady. In spite of that, Canadians will increase their annual rate of beef consumption to about 100 pounds per person.

Price increases to the consumer for fresh milk will continue but should be more moderate than this year's increases. You'll probably use more milk but less butter. Stored apples and pears will be cheaper because of the huge crop this year. Maple syrup prices will go up in the spring.

The Ontario Fire Marshalls office has issued a bulletin to remind you that there's more fire danger in your homes at Christmas than at any other time. Remember: no candles on any tree, no electric lights on metallic trees and be wary of plastic trees made from styrene — they are highly flammable. Water natural trees. The Fire Marshall's office says that a fire retardant chemical spray is an suitable for immersion in water and does not recommend it.

Kids' Holiday Entertainment: Pig Tales at Corby Library

Looking for holiday entertainment for your children?

Then make a point of going to Corby Public Library at 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday, December 23, to see a play especially written for children.

It's called Pig Tales, a 50-minute play about two little pigs who start on their way to "Hogtown" to be in the movies, but end up instead having a series of marvellous adventures, including a run-in with a wolf.

Written by Ernie Schwartz of Studio Lab Theatre in Toronto, the play is directed by Larry Taylor, theatre arts teacher at Prince Edward Collegiate. The actors are theatre arts students, all members of the school's drama club.

Mr. Taylor says the play is suitable for children from age three to 12, and "very entertaining for adults too! Parents will enjoy themselves if they bring their children."

Pig Tales features some audience participation, including a dance routine taught to 10 children by the actors.

The cast includes Robert Holleti as Dumpy, Sharon DeVries as Dinkdot, David Sherwin as the Sheriff, Nancy Powers as Miss Pickles, and Donald Elson and Fred Lester sharing the role of the Wolf.

The production of Pig Tales in Belleville is sponsored by the Belleville and District Branch of the Canadian Federation of University Women. The play will be held in the library's upstairs gallery, and is free.

Pine Cones Make Wreaths

A wire coat hanger makes a frame.

Daina Honeyman's pine cone wreath.

A large outdoor wreath can be made.

Coat hangers and garbage bags are two of the household items Daina Honeyman transforms into sophisticated Christmas wreaths suitable for indoor or outdoor use.

Mrs. Honeyman, who is widely known for her dried flower arrangements, each fall collects bushel baskets of cones from many kinds of pine trees. The cones, with the coat hangers and green plastic and spaghetti moss, the wreaths are easily made.

A coat hanger is bent in a circle and wrapped with spaghetti moss from the florist. Mrs. Honeyman says some authorities recommend the use of wet moss but she prefers to use dry moss. Green garbage bag are cut in strips about five inches wide and wrapped around the moss to make a thick circular form.

She begins the wreath, which will eventually include about 70 cones of varying sizes, by wiring cones for the inner and outer edges of the circular form. The thin flexible wire is purchased in 15 inch lengths from a florist or hobby shop. Each cone is wrapped with wire and then closely attached in the frame. When the inner and outer edges are filled with cones, she wraps the form tightly once more with green plastic strips to conceal most of the wiring.

Next, using little green wooden sticks with pieces of wire attached, Mrs. Honeyman wires the cones for the centre of the wreath. The sticks, which are purchased from a florist, are simply slid under the layer of plastic.

A special touch is cone flowers, which Mrs. Honeyman makes by cutting pine cones with pruning scissors. Husband Stuart drills nuts and acorns to add to the wreaths.

The wreaths are hardy indoors or out and Daina Honeyman's first wreath, now 10 years old, still decorates their Crematrix Drive home each Christmas.

Sudbury Wedding Held

Grace Smith, who for 40 years lived in the Albury community in Prince Edward County, was married recently to Charles Sandberg in her new home, a nursing home near Sudbury, Ont.

Mrs. Sandberg, 87, moved to the Sudbury area two years ago to be near her granddaughter, Wendy Hatfield. A widow for 18 years, Mrs. Sandberg was married to Ed Smith, a Prince Edward farmer. Before her first marriage, Mrs. Sandberg, who was born in Bristol, England, worked at Sir James Whitney, then the Ontario School for the Deaf. Mr. Sandberg is a native of the Sudbury area.

Mr. and Mrs. Sandberg will reside at the nursing home.

LADIES' AUXILIARY HASTINGS MANOR

The final meeting of 1975 was a pot luck luncheon for the members of the Hastings Manor Ladies' Auxiliary.

Following the lunch, Marguerite Wessels, president, took charge of the business meeting.

Three self-propelled wheel chairs were on view, gifts from the auxiliary to the manor.

The slate of officers for the coming year is as follows: Marguerite Wessels, past president; Daisy Bongard, president; Lil Harley, recording secretary; Kay Hall, corresponding secretary; Helen MacLaren, treasurer; Dorothy Markson, tuck and coffee shop; Margaret Skinner, social; Maude Hay, flowers; Eva Blaind, phoning; Clinton Parry, visiting; Jean Kilburn, press; Doris Davidson, historian; Annis Dickens, pictures.

Pearl Holmes conducted the election and Ruby Bertrand installed the officers. At the conclusion of the meeting, gifts were presented to all residents.

QUINTE DANCE CENTRE VISITED BY SANTA

Santa Claus came to the Quinte Dance Centre Sunday, December 16, with candy and gifts for all the ballet students. The party was sponsored by the school's administrative committee.

The Chinese pas de deux from the Nutcracker Suite was performed by Peter Locke and Drew Strickland, and films and carol singing completed the program.

BELLEVILLE WRITERS' GUILD

The second meeting of the Belleville Writers' Guild took place Wednesday at the Corby Library. The guild, recently began to give local writers a chance to discuss their writing, features individual readings at each meeting.

Harry Grills read one of his short stories and Joan Grieve read her poetry to the group, who then offered criticism and opinion.

All writers, published or not, are invited to join the group. For more information, call Donna Whalen at 968-3650

QUINTE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

A Christmas party was held by members of the Quinte Women's Institute recently. A turkey dinner was attended by 23 members of the group.

Pearl Holmes spoke on agriculture and Eileen Darling reported on the Brea convention. Erma Lloyd, Phyllis Fraser and Lillian Dearden conducted a Christmas program. Others participating in the program were Evelyn Wood, Mary Davis, Denise Keene, and Helen McLaren.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Belleville General Hospital' Auxiliary presented Christmas gifts to more than 100 extended care patients and 50 children in the pediatrics ward Wednesday at the annual Christmas party. Santa Claus visited the patients and many hospital volunteers were on hand to join in the festivities, which included refreshments.

Short Work Day for Parents Proposed

STOCKHOLM (Reuter) — More than half of Swedish women with pre-school age children are working mothers—and the government is planning to invest heavily on expanding its day-care program.

The opinion is divided on the effects on young children of day-care centres.

A working mother who sends her three-year-old son to a centre says youngsters there are well-adjusted and learn to communicate better.

... mother who prefers to stay at home with her two young children says youngsters who spend their days in centres are often love-starved.

Among the programs that Sweden, one of the world's most advanced countries in social services, is considering is a six-hour work day for parents of pre-school age children.

At a typical day-care centre in Stockholm, the children spend the day at play, in organized discussions, baking cakes, watching television, and helping the adult staff to clean up.

Many children in centres are Inger Rindsjoe, 27, lives with her husband Johan and her three-year-old son Kalle on the Kalle has attended a day-care centre since he was five months old.

"Kalle lives his own life at the day-care centre," said Mrs. Rindsjoe. "He's happy there."

She said: "Many parents Johan both work full-time, and outskirts of Stockholm. She and Interfering Grandparents 'Spoiled Kids Rotten'

Ann Landers

Dear Ann: I am writing in panic and desperation. If I wait till I "cool off" I'll never mail this letter.

My wife has two teenage daughters (14 and 16) and a son 29. The girls are a handful and the boy acts like a 10-year old. My parents live two blocks away. They have always spoiled our children rotten—insisted it was their privilege.

When the kids were small they ran away to grandma's after every scolding or spanking. She would bring them home and take their side against us. I know it should have been stopped then, but I didn't want any family arguments.

Now when we try to discipline our children they tell us, "Grandma and Granpa say you should stay out of our lives." The boy is a hopeless case. When we suggest he move out and get a place of his own he says, "I can't afford it."

Today I made my top and told my mother everything that has been on my mind for the last 30 years (15 and 18) and a son 29. years. She was taken to the hospital a few hours ago with a "possible heart attack." I know I'll be blamed.

My children hate me and my husband is mad at me.

How do I clean up this mess? Is it too late?—Beside Myself.

Dear Friend: You need more help than I can give you. I suggest a therapist if you can afford it. If not, call the county or state association for mental health. Someone will tell you what facilities are available.

It may not be too late to salvage your children if you get some counselling on how to deal with them and can summon the strength to do it.

As for your mother, if she did have a heart attack, you didn't cause it. But you do need professional help to rid yourself of the guilt. Get going.

Dear Ann Landers: What should a motorist do when he comes upon a dog or cat, or squirrel or possum who has been hit by a car and is in terrible pain?

My father says it's an act of mercy to club the animal to death. Right or wrong—Ease Claire, Wis.

Dear E.C.: Wrong. Call the Humane Society and ask them to come and get the animal. And keep your distance. An injured animal can bite.

More Pollution, Less Caviar

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Caviar lovers of the world, eat up while you can still afford it. Your fancy black fish eggs will cost about twice as much by next year.

And the trend after that will continue as industrial pollution has killed off sturgeon in Iran that the Caspian Sea is the only important fishing ground left for caviar-producing breeds.

Iran's fisheries department sells high-quality beluga caviar to the United States for $28.60 a pound.

Importers add shipping costs and their profit, make the delivery on super-crust preserves by the time it reaches the delicatessen shelf.

Things weren't always as bad for caviar gourmets. Time was when a person could taste it on a free lunch counter at the corner saloon, where he then paid five cents a beer.

In three days sturgeon were abundant in the Atlantic, the Mediterranean and many big rivers of the world.

But that's all over now. People who want to impress their guests with caviar canapes have to compete for a limited catch from the Caspian, bordered by Iran and the Soviet Union.

The small Black Sea production by Soviets and Romanians is largely consumed within those two countries, with the Soviets importing from Romania.

Iran has purposely controlled its output at about 210 tons a year, half the world's supply. It ships 35 tons to the United States, another 50 to Europe and gobbles up 30-40 tons at home. But even in Tehran, a small serving in a modest restaurant costs about $6.50.

The remaining 65 tons of Iran's catch go to the Soviet Union, where big caviar appetites can't be satisfied by home production because industrial pollution on the Soviet end of the Caspian has driven fish toward Iranian shores.

'Older Person Has Much Going for Him'

By DORIS CLARK, M.S.W.

Our ever-half-century-mark Canadians have a lot going for them. What, for instance?

They — we — have 50 years or more of life on this earth to draw on for ideas and knowledge of how to cope. We have developed skills along the lines of our work. We have learned a few key patterns of how to get along with people, how to organize our days and weeks, how to be truly useful.

We have learned a lot about psychology and coping with younger and older generations. Whether we use it we know or not, we do have some ideas about what works when it comes to organizing a home or an office association. We have learned something about child behavior: something about basic needs of the world around us. We have come up against enough of the sorrows as well as the joys of life to know what we can take.

These are the things that give us the poise which is so painfully earned by our young people.

Teen-age years are supposed — in some quarters — to be the happiest of our lives. Take it from me, they are not. It just isn't easy to grow up, and the hackiest of teen-agers are those who have loving, understanding parents — the kind that give them confidence as well as teaching them self-discipline.

From 'teen' one a human being begins spreading his wings. These early years are largely shaped by the examples of maturity that he sees, around him. During the teens he is trying his wings and trying with encouragement he manages; with discouragement he flounders. In either case there are times he must run for cover — back to those older adults who can have so much to do with his becoming mature.

So there we are back at what we started with — a review of what the older person has going for him.

Let me tell you about some of the recent stories reported to me by over-fifties:

One man, 72, serves as consultant with several large companies. He is an elder statesman — a wisdom born of many years of going through the toil and finding solutions.

A woman of 82 is having the best time of her life, according to her own report, in an organized program of volunteer visiting. She is meeting others, talking with people within her own age group, and bringing joy to strangers.

A retired doctor, a woman who has been executive in her own hospital setting, is learning to speak Italian and visiting in Italy regularly. She takes others with her and a whole new part of the world is opening up for her. Then she comes home and shares it.

I could go on and on. Yet how many Canadians look at that date of retirement with fear? For some, it seems to be the end of the world. For others, it looks like an ideal time to have no responsibilities: "To fish all summer and snowmobile all winter."

Neither attitude brings happiness, because the thing that keeps us alive, and rejoicing in being alive, is to keep expanding ourselves through activities which we find worth while. A man or woman who gets a general sense of uselessness in retirement has a reaction throughout his whole system which all too often leads to early death.

In this country there seems a prevalent attitude that once you retire or get out of the ongoing stream of lively activity you are somehow a second-class citizen. Strangely enough this does not apply to politicians or doctors. But where it does apply, all too often the retired industrial worker, office worker, or executive is inclined toward a depression which affects him mentally, physically and emotionally to the point of illness and far-too-early death.

We stereotype people. Youth is lost in the middle age — well — it depends on where you sit how you look at it. But if you get to be over 60, and certainly when you get to be over 70, you are classified as on the downgrade.

If, in addition to a lack of things to do, you experience loneliness and boredom, you are likely to feel like a third-class citizen, which is even worse. If you are unlucky enough to need nursing home care, you may suffer a deadening isolation. Not fair!

What we need — and are working at getting — is a whole new look at our growing-up-and-growing-old as a population; we need to replace pessimism with what Norman Vincent Peale calls a tough-minded optimism.

And we need a complete change of attitude towards our older citizens on the part of all Canadians.

Christmas Has Irresistible Charm

Dr. Gordon C. Smyth

Of all the seasons there is none more fascinating than Christmas. We are at once wearied of it, yet rested. We are disturbed by it, yet delighted. We are critical of its commerce and crowds, yet captivated by its carols and color.

There is an irresistible "something" about Christmas. That "something" is charm!

Christmas is a song of creativeness. It began in the mind of God at the dawn of time. It reached its "hallelujah chorus" in the birth of Jesus.

His birth occurred in an unlikely place, at an unlikely time, in order that unlikely man might have life abundantly.

Christmas is not only a song of creativeness, it is a story of selflessness. Note how this theme runs through the narrative of the nativity.

Joseph, perplexed by events that he could not grasp, unselfishly stood by as the protector and guide of Mary. The shepherds, excited by strange news, hurried to see an infant who would become the Good Shepherd. (They might have lost their jobs).

And the Magi, at the cost of relatives and friends, ease and luxury, encountering all the obstacles of first century travel, journeyed by the light of a star to Bethlehem to present their gifts to One destined to be the light of the world.

To read the story of selflessness—and then to live it yourself—is to capture the charm of Christmas.

Moreover, Christmas is a portent of better things to come. The announcement was clear and definite. "To you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord" (Luke 2:11).

A beggar sat daily in a street across from the studio of an artist. The artist painted the beggar's portrait and eventually called the beggar in to see it.

"Who is it?" he kept asking. As recognition dawned, he inquired dubiously, "Is it me? Can it be me?"

"Well, that's the man as I see him", replied the artist with a smile. Then the beggar, with an act of faith, responded, "If that's the man you see, that's the man I'll be."

Herein is a parable. God is the artist. Mankind is the beggar. Christ is God's portrait of the ideal person—creative, selfless, and filled with the promise of eternal life.

To breathe a prayer, "If that's the potential you see, that's the individual I'll strive to be."—is to do this is to capture the full charm of Christmas!

Former Pastor Honored

BATAWA — Rev. W. H. Dunphy, recently retired pastor of Sacred Heart Parish, will be honored by institution of a scholarship in his name for students of two schools here: Sacred Heart and Batawa Public.

Mr. Dunphy became pastor of Sacred Heart Parish in 1959 after retirement from R.C.A.F. as Wing Commander. He was forced to retire due to illness and is now convalescing at Trout Valley Lodge.

Those wishing to contribute to the scholarship fund are asked to send cheques payable to Father Dunphy Scholarship Fund to the manager of Batawa Bank of Montreal.

Cranberries Anyone?

PORTLAND, Ore (AP) — Oregon's production of cranberries this year has increased by three per cent from last year to 86,000 barrels, the Crop and Livestock Reporting Service says. The cranberries are of good quality but were slow to color and ripen, the service said.

Little Things Ruin

VIENNA, Austria (CP) — Franz and Johanna Neumann's marriage ended because of 653 garden gnomes. The 40-year-old salesman had filled their home in this city with his collection of the tiny reptiles and even took some to bed. Finally Mrs. Neumann sued for divorce and had her husband and the gnomes thrown out.

Resolution Made

ASHFORD, England (CP) — A friend of Mrs. M. Maidstone of this town told her his New Year resolution was to drink and smoke. The man said he had abandoned both habits last Jan. 1, and had never spent such a miserable year in his life.

Commuting No Fun For Many Asians

SINGAPORE (Reuter) — Millions of Asian commuters dispute the old adage that getting there is half the fun.

They are pushed into trains in Tokyo and taxed in Singapore, ride jeeps in Manila and motorized rickshaws in Bangkok and somehow, usually, manage to get to work.

But their daily struggle with poor bus services, high fares, narrow streets and endless traffic jams sends tempers soaring.

Some streets seem more suitable for oxcarts than high-speed buses, and good roads are often clogged with cars—so much so that in Singapore car-driving commuters are taxed if their car is not full.

Some big cities are planning, or considering, underground or above-ground commuter rail services which will cost millions.

The biggest and most efficient of existing services, in Tokyo, is heavily overloaded.

The 45-year-old underground system and the 10-year-old monorail are the envy of major Asian Capitals. But plans for new surface trains have hit objections by residents who fear noise from ground-level trains and loss of light if tracks are elevated.

Only one tramline has survived in Tokyo, where the car reigns supreme on the roads.

In Singapore commuter pressure became so great that the government was forced to commandeer school buses to help during rush hours.

Private cars and taxis wishing to enter the capital's business area must carry at least four people or face fines of 50 Singapore dollars ($20 U.S.). Alternatively they can buy licences costing $1.20 (U.S.) a day.

Though the new measures have forced many motorists on to buses, traffic flow remains sluggish. The government has warned that if there is no improvement it will legislate higher road taxes and increase entry restrictions to business areas.

On Hong Kong island and mainland Kowloon, some million commuters daily buses, trams, minibuses, trains and ferries while statistics show there are 800 motor vehicles for every mile of road.

Mushrooming parking lots are altering the character of the old sector of the British colony with its narrow streets.

The government has approved a nearly 19-mile underground railway linking the island with the mainland. It is expected to carry more than a million passengers daily when in partial operation by 1980.

In Manila, apart from the usual means of transport, there are the jeepneys, open jeeps whose owners vie with each other on psychedelic paint and pungent slogans.

A Japanese public works team has recommended an underground rail scheme but the Philippine government has not decided when construction should begin. Until then the jeepneys will remain kings of the road.

Getting around the Thai capital of Bangkok is a nightmare if you are in a hurry. There is an inadequate bus service, which usually means the rich go by car and the poor by foot.

Of course you can bargain with one of the 6,500 drivers of the three-wheeled motorized rickshaws called sam-lors. But rates are higher for foreigners and even for Thais who wear a tie.

In Jakarta, confusion reaches a climax during rush hours with the four million citizens battling to work on a jumble of private buses plying roads planned for half the present population.

There are three-wheeled pedicabs whose sinewy pedalers can grind the Jakarta traffic to a halt, though most of the 5,000 buses give way to nothing.

Jakarta Governor Ali Sadikin has returned from Holland enthusiastic about underground rail systems, but in the short term is thinking of reintroducing trams banned in the 1960s as road hazards.

The South Korean capital, Seoul, boasts the only underground railway system in eastern Asia outside Tokyo built from a $35-million Japanese loan and designed to carry 400,000 commuters a day.

The Korean planners hoped to cut their 3,000 buses to 1,000 but the people of Seoul appear to prefer the buses and only 250,000 use the underground daily.

Christmas

'One Solitary Life'

Here is a man who was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in another obscure village. He worked in a carpenter shop until He was thirty, and then for three years He was an itinerant preacher. He never wrote a book. He never held an office.

He never owned a home. He never set foot inside a big city. He never travelled two hundred miles from the place where He was born. He had no credentials but Himself.

He had nothing to do with this world except the naked power of His divine manhood. While still a young man, the tide of popular opinion turned against Him. His friends ran away. One of them denied Him. He was turned over to His enemies. He went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed upon a cross between two thieves.

His executioners gambled for the only piece of property He had on earth while He was dying — and that was His coat. When He was dead He was taken down and laid in a borrowed grave through the pity of a friend.

Nineteen wide centuries have come and gone and today He is the centrepiece of the human race and the leader of progress. I am far within the mark when I say that all the armies that ever marched, and all the Kings that ever reigned, put together have not affected the life of man upon this earth as powerfully as that One Solitary Life.

Judge Lane Finds Prisoner Transportation Costs Inequitable

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Dissatisfaction with provincial government funding of transporting prisoners to regional detention centres was expressed Friday by a Belleville police commissioner.

Judge W.S. Lane, of Picton, called government payments "inequitable" compared to the costs incurred by local police departments for such service.

His critical comments came as the commission received its latest provincial grant for transporting persons in custody to and from the provincial detention centre at Napanee.

The $27,200 grant, based on a new payment formula, was about $7,000 higher than last year's payment — which set Police Chief Douglas Crosbie pondering such a "substantial increase."

The Napanee centre replaced local jails in 1973. For Belleville it meant purchase of a van and extra manpower to convey persons to and from court. Belleville transport also is used by Trenton police department which pays for the service from its own grant.

To date this year, cost of the operation has been $54,480 said Chief Crosbie. He wondered if the grant, in future, might include Trenton police cost.

But said Judge Lane, the provincial payments are "completely inequitable" in light of the promises made when the province built that centre. They were supposed to pay all of the cost.

The judge also said Trenton police department was getting "an awful runaround" because there was no court office in the town. This meant additional transport costs to have charges processed in Belleville.

The new grant formula is based on $1.50 for each mile travelled by the police van in conveying prisoners. This year, the provincial funding was based on 364 trips to and from the detention centre at Napanee.

Area Ambulance Staffs To Begin Cutting Back

By CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

Quinte area ambulance staff will have to be cut in an effort to meet with Ontario ministry of health cost cutting recommendations, a spokesman for area ambulance operators said Friday.

Belleville lawyer Ian Brady, representing the 4 operators at a meeting Friday with the regional co-ordinator of ambulance services branch of the ministry of health, said "gradual staff reductions will be necessary beginning early in 1976."

Mr. Brady said following the meeting at Belleville General Hospital he would not specify how many staff members would be laid off. The meeting was closed to the public.

"The ambulance operators obtained a commitment from the ministry that every effort will be made by the ministry to place staff required to be laid off into other area in Ontario's health delivery field," said Mr. Brady.

Jerry Bahr, regional co-ordinator of the ambulance branch of the ministry of health said in a press release: "I am very pleased with the high level of co-operation among the Quinte area ambulance operators."

The co-ordinator based in Ottawa, said he is especially pleased with the counter proposal submitted by the operators.

"It not only complies with the recommendations of our operational review but keeps Quinte area ambulance service at a high level of efficiency both functionally and economically," said Mr. Bahr.

Mr. Brady said operators would not comment on how cutting staff would affect existing service: "The operators have to take the direction from the province. You can't blame them if this ship doesn't work out."

The ministry is to reply to the operators' staff-cutting, cost-saving, counter-proposal in a meeting to be held Jan. 14 in Belleville.

During past weeks ambulance operators have been studying a government proposal that would reduce the cost of service in the area. About a year ago, ministry officials with the help of hundreds of ambulance services across Belleville a high cost area and began a study that would recommend areas that could be trimmed.

Although the complete study has not yet been made public the ministry has moved ahead on one of its recommendations calling for central radio dispatch of all area ambulances.

Unofficial sources from a meeting last week said the province said if the government's proposal was accepted completely staffing in the area would be reduced by 50 per cent.

Union Wants 'No Board' From Labor Ministry

TRENTON — In a press release Friday the negotiation committee for the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, representing 227 workers at the Canadian General Electric plant here, has asked for a No Board Report to be handed down from the Ontario ministry of labor.

A No Board Report, says President of Local 509 Gordon Young, would allow a 16-day period once the report has been approved before the union could call a strike.

In negotiation since the middle of October, Mr. Young said the company has not made any offers to the union. The present two-year contract is set for renewal Dec. 24.

Mr. Young said the union is negotiating for a one-year contract with a $1.30 per hour increase, the elimination of regional wage disparities, which range from 7 cents to 36 cents per hour in different areas), and the elimination of the discrepancies between male and female wages, which is over 20 cents an hour in the majority of cases.

He said he expects the No Board Report will be handed down in about a week in 10 days. This would place the date of a possible strike in January. A strike would be decided by the rank and file of the union in a secret ballot.

Wage parity with Canadian General Electric plants in Peterborough and Toronto is the local issue of this contract, said Mr. Young.

The company will probably make their proposal during the 16-day period, said Mr. Young.

The Anti-inflation Board, said Mr. Young, will not enter negotiations. "The union disregards the whole idea of wage controls."

"We've told the Quinte Labor Council of the union's plans and they have given full approval of what we are asking," said Mr. Young.

Ray Baldin, in charge of Union Relations for the local Canadian General Electric plant, said the company has not offered a contract because they were waiting until the government regulations were brought out Thursday. "It will be a guideline-settlement . . . we'll have to comply with the law."

Mr. Baldin said the average weighted wage for a local employee is $4.50 per hour, and that a $1.30 hourly increase would represent 24 per cent, with the other changes of region and sexes discrepancies above this figure.

He said the company is in a light and heavy work situation with the male and female pay scales. The company pays equal or better than the community rate, he said.

Trustees' Pay Back on Agenda

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

It now appears as if the great honorarium increase issue is not over.

Hastings County Board of Education trustee Richard Williams, who originally supported the $50 increase, has given notice of motion for this Monday's meeting to open up the entire matter again. Since the decision trustees have come under considerable criticism.

The board went behind closed doors and after debated debate took a recorded vote of 9-8 in favor of the increase. Their increase was from $300 to $350, a hike of 16.6 per cent.

It is unlikely any action will be taken on the matter Monday night since only notice of motion has been served. It will probably be delayed until the new year. In fact, the board must have a majority agreement to even open up the matter before any attempt to rescind the increase can be dealt with.

However, it is admirable that at least one trustee can admit the board may have been hasty in its decision and that any board of education can reverse a decision. With such a close first vote it may now be defeated also by a 9-8 reversal vote.

Although the press was not allowed in hear the original debate it has been learned that none of the trustees who opposed the increase made a move to decline the extra pay. This is unusual since most trustees would be obviously voting against their own interests and this option is always open to board members.

The whole issue could be easily resolved by simple at that this option was open to all trustees and similar it publicly known who is taking what.

There still seems to be some confusion over what is at stake here for the board. It has been said before that most trustees deserve far more than $350 for their time and dedication.

The fact that the increase is higher than the federal guidelines is still not an issue since honorariums are exempt from the program.

The real issue is the board's credibility as it heads into probably the toughest financial year ever faced by educators. Word from Toronto this week indicates that educational grants will be tighter than ever and boards may have to make drastic increases in local taxes.

Even this week the board is facing a decision as to whether class sizes should be increased to accommodate an advancing enrollment. This move would be contrary to what all boards have worked towards in the past few years — a lower student-teacher ratio.

In the coming year the board will have to make some tough decisions over the scrapping of academic programs. And there are always the salary negotiations to add to this burden.

By taking the increase, no matter how warranted or needed, it places the board in a weak position for austerity programs no matter how small or large.

It would have been a good show of faith and responsibility for the board to have rejected the increase in the first place but it now appears they may get a second chance.

Handicapped Considered

Needs of the handicapped should be kept in mind in any future public waterfront recreational development.

The reminder is contained in the Quinte Bayfront study, presented this week to the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Provision must be made where possible "to accommodate the needs of handicapped persons" say the document.

Special provisions could include preferential parking areas with ramped curbs for wheelchairs, ramps instead of stairs and adequate benches "so the infirm can rest."

Loan Comes For Lagoon

BRIGHTON — The Canadian Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) has announced a $1.222 million loan and grant will be given to the village of Brighton for the construction of a sewage treatment centre.

The monies, $1,066,883 loan and $155,383 grant, will go toward the construction of an aerated lagoon with secondary treatment, a pumping station on Herbour St., 2,532 feet of 12-inch diameter forcemain, street collector sewers 8 to 18 inch in diameter and trunk sewers from 24 to 42 — inch diameter.

The grant is non-repayable and 25 per cent of principal and interest on the loan may be waived if the work is to the satisfaction and requirement of the CMHC.

Tow Truck In Crash

TWEED — Damage is estimated at about $1,700 following a car-truck accident at Colborne and Spring Streets here about 11:15 a.m. Friday.

A tow truck owned by Tweed Motor Car Sales, driven by Clarence Vilesoff of Tweed, was in collision with a vehicle driven by Jane Palmatier of Tweed. Damage to the truck was estimated at about $600, said Tweed police.

Apple Waste Checked As Pollution Source

By RON HUISER
Staff Correspondent

TRENTON — The contamination of several wells on the Carrying Place Road has led the ministry of environment to suspect the source to be the FBI Plant, says Gordon Thom, industrial abatement officer with the ministry.

The stock pile of apple wastes dumped behind the FBI plant which has been accumulated over the past two seasons has been considered to be the possible source of the pollution, he said. The pollution has made some water in the area "undrinkable" said Mr. Thom.

"There is no concrete evidence to blame the contamination on the FBI plant — however there is very little reason to suspect any other source," he said. There are no theories as to other possible sources in the area.

Hamilton Pragasam, the FBI general manager, said the ministry has been looking into the situation for a couple of months. He said that the company research department in Montreal is also looking at a possible use of the waste either for fertilizer or for animal feed. The research will probably be completed by the beginning of the next season's canning program. The new plan will stop the build-up of the apple waste he said, which is being looked at as the possible pollution source by the ministry.

Another possible source of the pollution of wells in the area, the drainage ditch where water used to clean machinery is dumped, is to be cleaned up as soon as the company contracts for the cleaning operations, said Mr. Pragasam.

George Skalin, of the ministry of environment said he knew of three wells in the area contaminated. "We're still investigating the source." There is also the check of septic tanks, he said.

Mr. Thom said the stockpile of apple waste has been accumulating for two seasons, and there was not a problem last year, but there is now. "It is too soon to hazard a guess at the real cause," he said.

BCI Students Win Prize for Busy Typewriters

Busy fingers have handed a prize to Belleville Collegiate Institute.

It happened at the first contest for students typists from three Quinte counties staged at BCI.

Involved in the competition with BCI were grade nine typist students from Napanee District Secondary School, Trenton High School and a group of 20 representing Hastings, Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington counties.

BCI entrants scored the highest total marks with Napanee and Trenton contestants second and third.

Overall individual prize was won by Ron Turcotte, of Napanee. Jackie Hall and Sandra Hodge of BCI took a total of 14 points.

Teachers say the competition now will be an annual event.

Concern Voiced Over Driving, Drinking Ages

Ontario Attorney-General Roy McMurtry indicated to Ontario teen-agers recently that the days of drinking at 18 and driving at 16 may soon be over.

He said he, along with members of the Legislature at Queen's Park, are concerned with the combination of drinking and driving among young people.

And that concern may turn into an increase in the minimum age for allowing a teen-ager behind the wheel of a car and behind the table at the local hotel.

Many people are beginning to feel that the combination has proved deadlier on the province's roads than first anticipated when the minimum drinking age was lowered several years ago.

That feeling was evident among shoppers selected randomly in Belleville this week. Most expressed concern over the rights now given teen-agers.

GERALDINE SMITH

Geraldine Smith of RR 3 Stirling said she wants the drinking age back at 21. "Then there won't be these younger drinkers 13 to 14 to 15 to 16."

Mrs. Smith, who doesn't worry about the driving age, complained that "when you go into a night club, they cater to the young ones instead of the older ones." She is 23.

PAUL LOMAS

Recalling his own youth, Paul Lomas, 23, of Marmora, said the current drinking age "doesn't seem to stop them off that much younger."

He recalled, "When I was 18, I was trying to pass (in hotels) for 21."

Besides, he added, "There's not enough room in the hotels when the 18 year-olds get in."

JOHN WALLACE

"There's more accidents today than there ever was," said RR 3 Stirling resident, John Wallace.

"I blame a lot of it on the drinking age."

Opting for higher age minimums, he said "What kind of goes to their teen-agers' heads and then they get careless driving in the car."

DAVID KYLE

Marmora resident, 24-year-old David Kyle, advocated 21 and 18 respectively as minimum drinking and driving ages.

Now, kids — some as young as 15 — are proving how much they can drink in the hotels, "and then they get into their cars to drive, he said. They should be riding their bicycles till they're 18."

MARGARET MILLER

Drinking? Margaret Miller, 18, from Foxboro, says, "I don't like the stuff." She said she wants to see the minimum drinking age increased, feeling that some teen-agers can't handle it.

Driving? She said the driving age should be increased to 18. "You should feel more responsible at 18," agreeing in part with her mother's comments on maturity.

AGNES MILLER

Foxboro resident, Agnes Miller, 34, said she supports any action to move upwards both minimum ages. Addressing herself more to driving, she said, at 16, "they're not quite mature enough."

She advocates improved driver instruction, adding that "we consider them children at 14, and yet two years later we give them a car to drive — a lethal weapon."

Flames Scorch Rangers 8-3 As Coach Stewart Smoulders

By RON SUDLOW
The Canadian Press

New York Rangers proved once again they are not ready to move out of the National Hockey League's Patrick Division cellar as they were scorched 8-3 Friday night by Atlanta Flames while coach Ron Stewart smouldered.

"We didn't hit anybody, we didn't touch anybody," grumbled Stewart as the Blueshirts took their third straight loss and fell five points behind the third-place Flames.

"They ran around where they wanted to. Consequently, they got four goals in the second period and they kept right on going."

In other games, Bobby Lalonde found a visit to the farm beneficial as he figured prominently in a 5-1 Vancouver Canucks win over Pittsburgh Penguins while Philadelphia Flyers woke up to beat Washington Capitals 7-5, Kansas City Scouts downed Detroit Red Wings 4-2 and California Golden Seals ou'scored Chicago Black Hawks 5-5.

Baun Has No Answers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One of the toughest things about coaching a losing team in any sport is finding new ways to explain your defeats.

Bobby Baun was getting short of explanations Friday night after his Toronto Toros dropped a 5-3 decision to Calgary Cowboys in a World Hockey Association game.

"You can't really say anything about it at all," said Baun. "I'm sure you guys are tired of coming in here and asking the same old questions and not getting any new answers."

Baun's assessments of the game had a familiar ring to them.

"The effort just wasn't there tonight," he said.

The Toros' loss was especially frustrating for Toro supporters after their strong showing in Tuesday's 4-3 loss to Winnipeg Jets.

"It's hard to believe this is the same team," said Baun.

In Tuesday's other WHA games, New England Whalers dropped Edmonton Oilers 4-2, Indianapolis Racers edged Cleveland Crusaders 5-4 in overtime and Denver Spurs topped San Diego Mariners 6-3.

Peter Driscoll and Ron Chipperfield scored two goals each for the Cowboys to move them two points in front of fourth-place Edmonton Oilers.

The idle Cincinnati Stingers tumbled from first to third place in the tight Eastern Division race, thanks to victories by New England and Indianapolis.

A pair of goals by Tom Webster helped the Whalers move into top spot before a Hartford crowd of 7,967. New England has 29 points, Indianapolis 28 and Cincinnati 27.

Webster's linemates, Larry Pleau and Rosaire Paiement, got the other goals for the Whalers, who extended their unbeaten string to four games. Pleau's goal was the 100th of his WHA career.

"The Webster - Pleau - Paiement line did a great job tonight," said Whalers coach and general manager Jack Kelley. "They're moving the puck around well and seem to put a lot of pressure on the opposition whenever they come up the ice."

Bob Fitchner shot the puck into the open side of the Cleveland net after Bob Sicinski pulled Crusader goalie Gerry Cheevers out of position to give the Racers their overtime win.

A Denver crowd of 2,589 fans saw Jim Sherrit and Ralph Backstrom score two goals each for the Spurs in the final period. The win left the improving Denver team two points out of fourth place and three points out of second place in the Western Division.

Tonight's WHA schedule has the Cowboys at Quebec, Winnipeg Jets at Minnesota Fighting Saints, Indianapolis at Cleveland, New England at Cincinnati and Houston Aeros at Phoenix Roadrunners.

On Sunday, Toronto is at Edmonton Quebec at Cincinnati, Minnesota at Winnipeg, Phoenix at Indianapolis and Houston at San Diego.

Campbell May Groom Successor

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League since 1947, said Friday he may be elevated to the post of chairman of the league's board of governors by next June to make room for a new man in the presidency.

Campbell, 79, indicated in an interview that league governors next month will consider changing the NHL constitution to allow him to maintain most of his present duties while grooming a successor as president.

He said internal politics of the board of governors make it impractical for his successor be free to put into effect his own policies.

"If a new man came in with the possibility of fraternal warfare going on behind his back, his chance of survival would be very good," Campbell said.

"So what is hoped for is that there would be an interim in which I would be, probably, the chairman of the board and act as a sort of patron or guardian so this new man until he had the opportunity of getting himself established."

He said if the governors do not agree to the amendment—consent of three-quarters of the 18 governors is needed—his successor will be hard-pressed to carry out his duties.

in Atlanta, Claude St. Sauveur scored three of the Flames' four goals as the winners picked up their eighth victory in 11 games.

St. Sauveur, who ran his goal production to 13 for the season, also had two assists while Hillard Graves had a goal and four assists.

Rod Gilbert figured in all the Rangers' goals, scoring one and adding two assists.

In Vancouver, Lalonde, the 5-3 firepling forward who came back after a week with Tulsa Oilers of the Central League, scored one goal and set up two others.

Lalonde, Mike Robitaille and rookie Rick Blight scored in a span of one minute, 47 seconds in the middle period to help move the Canucks into second place, two points ahead of St. Louis Blues and within six of Chicago in the Smythe Division.

"It's good to be back," said Lalonde, who played four games for Tulsa. "I played pretty good down in Tulsa and there's no doubt I got my confidence back."

Lalonde, who got his fourth goal of the season, also set up Gerry O'Flaherty and Dennis Ververgaert, who scored his fifth, in the first period to give the Canucks an early lead.

Rick Kehoe's eighth goal of the season—the only score of the third period—ended the contest bid by Canucks' Ken Lockett.

Tame Bobcats Have Enough To Get By Etobicoke Squad

The Belleville Bobcats to the surprise of no one, came out on top of the Etobicoke Selects at the Memorial Friday night in Metro Junior B hockey play. Belleville tripped the visitors, who occupy second last place in the Central Division, by a 5-2 score.

The game was similar to the one that took place between the Cats and North York Rangers here December 12. Belleville played very bit as poorly as the opposition at times, except in the goaltending department, where Bob Moore made some excellent saves to hold the Cats in the game.

Grant Goegan continued to raise his point total last night picking up a pair of goals and adding an assist.

Coach Meehan Bonnar of the Cats was happy with the two points but found nothing else to please him.

"We fail asleep out there and they score a couple of quick goals and are right back in the game," said Bonnar.

At the end of the first period of play Cats were on top of the situation by a 3-1 score with neither team having a clear cut advantage. Rick Langstaff tallied the first Belleville goal and only 19 seconds later Alf Colquhoun picked up his first of two goals for Etobicoke.

Goegan notched his first goal to give the locals a lead that they never relinquished.

In a sloppy second period, Belleville only managed to tally a single marker, while keeping the Selects scoreless.

Paul Johnston, Eric Powell and Goegan's second of the night rounded out the scoring for Belleville. Colquhoun's second goal midway through the third period finished up the Selects' scoring for the evening.

Only 20 minutes 16 to Belleville were in penalties handed out by referee Keith MacDonald.

Now, goal for the club's fourth straight win, faced a total of 31 shots over the three periods while his counterpart, Kirk Wesbitt at the other end of the ice faced the same number of shots.

The Cats will go right back at it again Sunday when they travel to Toronto to take on the St. Michel's Buzzers in a 7:30 p.m. contest.

Grant Goegan, Belleville Bobcats' top sniper of the season, has trouble with bouncing puck on this close-in try on Etobicoke Selects' goalie Kirk Nesbitt. Goegan scored two goals and added an assist to bring his totals to 21-36, as Cats picked up 5-2 win, at Memorial Arena, Friday night. Belleville club is in Toronto, Sunday for game with Central Division St. Michael's.

Comebacks Order of the Day

Comeback wins marked the action in the Bantam Minor section of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association's house league, Wednesday as Whitley Rentals Peewee Major Selects, Doug Jones Jewellers, Ed's Eggs and McIntosh Jewellers had to battle from behind to earn two points in the standings.

Whitley's got by Red-Shark 6-4 on goals by Allen Derry, Dave Lambert, Stephen Clifery, Brian Cronkwright, Dave Mortimore and Craig Saxby. Steve Burley, Jim Gibbs with two, and John Mundrick scored for Red Shark.

Ed's Eggs took Body Auto Body 6-2. Doug Austin led the charge with three goals while singles went to Mike Weatherstone, Mike Vani and Glen McGinn. Lloyd Olsen shot two for Bob's. Gary Jennings rounded out the losers' scoring.

Craig Munroe sparked McIntosh-Maines to its second win of the season with two goals in a 6-4 decision over the Men's Club. Jan Paterson, Mike Miller, Steve Benson and David Dagley had the other counters. Scoring for the losers were Gord Laidlaw, Jim Hamilton, Tim Ryan and Bryan Pore.

Blake Kerr Enso nipped Legion 1-0 in a goalie's battle between the winners' Jim Cook and Legion's Danny Hawkins.

Robbie Baragar and Gary Frederick each scored twice to go with one each from John Whelan and Randy Cox in a 6-3 Tim Horton Donuts win over Sun Luck Gardens. Chris Ripley had two and Gerry Lorion one in defeat.

Uptown Billiards rolled past Ross Royals 6-1 as Ron Doornbos clicked for two goals and one each was fired by Glen Donaldson, Mike Lamirande, Tom Coulson and Chris Rinn. Andy Lupenette replied for Royals.

Demark Construction and Belleville Yardmen failed to prove anything when they played to a 4-4 tie. Danny Jesques scored twice for Yardmen with the other goals going to Sean McKinney and Robert Cooke. Mike Boutel, Chris Morden, Robert Vail and Les Boulton connected for Demark goals.

Licence Leisure World Bantam Major Selects fell to Stirling Sheet Metal 4-2. The winners' goals went to Bob Counsiers, Chris Comstock, Bob Bibby and Mike Burke. Brad Campbell and Al Semark looked after the Licence goals.

Meanwhile the Midget Major Selects were rewarded with a 5-2 win over Sun Luck Gardens. Chris Ripley had two and Gerry Lorion one in defeat.

Kinsmen Draw Detroit

Belleville Kinsmen Major Bantams, enjoying a successful season in Ontario Minor Hockey Association AAA play, are part of a 16-team tournament in Burlington during the Christmas break.

Kinsmen will be keeping fast company in the Golden Horseshoe Tournament.

The Belleville team's first exposure to tourney play will come December 26 when the Bob Cook — coached squad tooks up with Detroit, Mississagan in a 1:45 p.m. match.

Teams open play in the event as early as December 22. Final games are scheduled for Sunday, December 28.

Other teams in the tournament represent Hamilton, Waterloo, Brampton, St. Catharines, Trenton, Mich., Peterborough, Welland, Kingston, Barrie, Oshawa, North Bay, Ottawa and host Burlington.

Manager and assistant manager of the Belleville team are Gord Miller and Gord Sproul.

The team is currently a solid third in its league and has managed to hold its own with clubs in the grouping.

Sport Briefs

LYNN BEST IN AL

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie Fred Lynn of Boston Red Sox led the American League in slugging percentage with a mark of .566 during the 1975-76 season, league statistics showed Friday. Kansas City's John Mayberry finished second with a percentage of .547. Mayberry also led the league in walks with 119. Rod Carew of Minnesota Twins, who was seventh in slugging at .497, was tops in intentional walks with 18, and Jeff Burroughs of Texas Rangers had the most strikeouts with 155.

CONNORS, RAMIREZ WIN

MEXICO CITY (AP) - It was a fight for Jimmy Connors of the United States and a romp for Raul Ramirez of Mexico as the two won opening-day singles matches in a 1976 North American Zone Davis Cup tennis elimination. Connors had to struggle to beat Marcelo Lara of Mexico 6-3, 3-6, 4-6, 7-6. Ramirez eeened best-of-five match 1-1 by defeating Brian Gottfried 6-1, 6-4, 6-2.

RICO HAS RECOVERED

BOSTON (AP) — Third baseman Rico Petrocelli, sidelined briefly last season with internal problems, will be back with the American League champion Boston Red Sox when the baseball team starts training next spring in Florida. He was hit by a pitch in 1974 and that led to blurred vision, headaches and vertigo.

FILES AGAINST COOKE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Alfred Penni filed a $2.6-million damage suit Friday against Jack Kent Cooke, owner of Los Angeles Lakers, claiming he was denied the right to purchase radio time to advertise his restaurant during the club's National Basketball Association games.

Panthers Surprise Huskies

FRANKFORD (Special) — With a lineup dotted with callups from the minor league ranks, Port Hope Panthers continued to show signs of stirring themselves out of the Central Ontario Junior C Hockey League basement here, Friday night.

Panthers stretched their unbeaten streak to three by holding Frankford Huskies to a 6-6 draw. And many of the Huskies' supporters must have felt a prior warning. Attendance at the game was low, almost as a reveal with the club's performance.

Panthers, sparked by the three-goal effort of Chris Bullen, overcame an early 3-0 deficit on the way to the split in points. Barry Ray shot two for the visitors and Warren Sweeting rounded out the Port Hope production.

Tim Neron had another big night for the home side, connecting for three goals. Defenceman Jeff Brown fired his first counter of the season to go with 34 assists. Robbie Arbuckle and Harold Roberts also scored for Huskies.

Frankford's next home game is December 26. Game time has been moved up to 2 p.m.

'Who's Kidding Whom'

If you happen to watch the weather patterns from year to year it becomes obvious that this Fall has been a dry one. One way or another a lot of moisture is coming our way, probably in the form of snow.

We still have five 2-stage Snow Blowers left over from last winter at last year's prices. Don't miss out on this offer. Prices will only go up after these are sold. Come in now and have a good look.

Saints Facing 90-day Deadline

ST. PAUL, Minn. AP — Minnesota Fighting Saints of the World Hockey Association have lost $4.9 million in just over three hockey seasons and were forced to borrow $200,000 to meet their last two payrolls, papers filed with the Minnesota commerce department show.

The securities division of the commerce department has given the Saints 90 days to raise at least $200,000, along with approval of a plan to try to raise $2.5 million through the sale of partnership units in its players, coaches and the public.

The sale will be halted, and any money raised will be returned to investors, if the 90-day deadline is not met.

The prospectus says the team had to have the $200,000 loan guaranteed by outside sources, and failure to meet a twice-a-month payroll would result in the Saints being taken over by the league.

The prospectus warns that if the recent loans are called before the partnership offering is completed, "it is likely that the partnership would be placed in bankruptcy and cease operating the hockey franchise."

It also advises that the team has "a number of creditors whose liabilities have not been paid as they become due".

Abbreviated Blue-Gray Game Won by North

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)— A touchdown by Bill Sagler of Stanford gave the North a 14-13 comeback win over the South in a Blue-Gray football game mysteriously cut short by three minutes.

The first quarter ran only 12 minutes instead of the customary 15. Blue-Gray officials could offer no explanation, but the timekeeper on the field said the time was cut short at the request of an independent television network which broadcast the game.

There was no explanation either from the network.

Despite the North's victory, South quarterback Scott Gardner of Virginia was voted most valuable player because of his effective ball control for most of the game and his mixture of passing and running plays that kept the Northerners off guard.

It was the third victory in a row for the North squad and brought the series record to 20-16 for the South.

Rookie Fires Winner for Sudbury Wolves

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rookie Dan McCarthy's third period goal gave Sudbury Wolves a 3-2 victory over London Knights in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A action Friday

The win strengthens Sudbury's hold on first place in the Leyden Division.

In other action, Hamilton Fincups downed Kingston Canadiers 11-6, Kitchener Rangers defeated St. Catharines Black Hawks 9-4 and Ottawa 67's edged Toronto Marlboros 4-3.

At London Hec Mantle and Randy Pierce scored the other Sudbury goals. Vern Stenlund and Tom Rowe replied for the Knights.

Stenlund tied the game 1-1 in the first period and Rowe put London ahead 2-1 early in the second.

Sudbury outshot the Knights 35-27 before a crowd of 3,045.

League play resumes today with London at Toronto and Sault Ste. Marie at Peterborough.

On Sunday, the Sault visits Oshawa, Ottawa is at Toronto and Windsor at St. Catharines.

Flamps 11 Canadians 4

The win stretched Hamilton's winning streak to eight games during which they have scored 71 goals.

The Emms Division leaders were ahead 7-4 after the second period and put the game out of reach with four unanswered goals in the final 20 minutes.

It a million captain Dale McCourt added to his league scoring lead with three goals and one assist. He now has 33 goals for the season.

Mike Keating and Joe Kowal each scored twice for the Fincups. Joe Cuttini, Ric Selling, Wilf Hubner and Ted Lenz added one goal apiece.

The visitors outshot Kingston 42-37 before a crowd of 1,245.

Halifax Swimmer Tops Poll

Nancy Garapick Is Youngest Female Athlete of the Year

By MEL SUFRIN
CP Sports Editor

Nancy Garapick, the slender, blonde swimmer from Halifax who burst from anonymity in April to set a world record in the 200-metre backstroke at the age of 13, is Canada's female athlete of the year for 1972.

Now 14 and ranked No. 1 in the world in her specialty after winning a silver medal in the world championships, Miss Garapick was a solid choice in the annual year-end poll of sports writers and broadcasters conducted by The Canadian Press.

She is the youngest person to win the award. Elaine Tanner, a swimmer from Vancouver, was 15 when she won it in 1966.

And she is the second Maritimer to capture the honor since it was inaugurated in 1953. Sydney Allen, Meagher of Halifax was the 1955 winner.

Runner-up is Lynn Nightingale of Ottawa, the Canadian sailor women's figure skating champion, who narrowly edged Diane Joyce of Saskatoon, Canadian record-holder and Pan-American Games gold medal winner in the pentathlon.

Miss Garapick first attracted international attention when she shaved more than a second off the U.S. 200-yard backstroke record in Cincinnati April 9. But that was only a hint of what was coming.

At the Eastern Canada championships in Brantford, Ont., April 27 she swam the 200 metres in 2:18.23 to break the world mark of 2:17.3 set in 1974 by Ulrike Richter of East Germany.

That record lasted 40 days until Birgit Treiber of East Germany broke it by 23-100ths of a second. That set the stage for the world championships in Cali, Colombia, in July where Miss Garapick won a bronze medal in the 100 metres and then pushed Miss Treiber to a world record in the 200.

In that race, rated by many as the most exciting in the world in 1972, Nancy led until the last five metres when Miss Treiber, one of the fastest finishers in women's swimming, edged ahead.

The East German girl's time was 2:15.46 and Miss Garapick also broke the old mark with a time of 2:16.09, again just 23-100ths of a second behind.

Nancy also holds the Canadian 100-metre record of 1:04.36 set in the spring nationals in Winnipeg May 18 when she beat defending champion Wendy Cook of Vancouver, the female athlete of the year in 1974.

"I wasn't going for the record," Miss Garapick said at the time. "I was going out to win, to beat Wendy, because I knew she would be a good pacer. I knew if she did that I'd have a good time."

The five-foot-three swimmer, whose slim build is ideal for a backstroker because it offers a minimum of resistance to the water, has been described as a technically excellent competitor.

"The American coaches commented to me how beautiful they were with her stroke," said coach Nigel Kemp after Nancy had won her U.S. Amateur Athletic Union title. "They thought she was the epitome of what a good backstroker should be cutting in the water."

Despite her age, Nancy is remarkably composed before and during races. Her maturity should be an asset in combatting the pressure of competing before a primarily Canadian audience in the Olympics next summer.

Miss Garapick received 154 points in the annual CP poll—40 first-place votes, 16 seconds and eight thirds based on a 3-2-1 point value. Miss Nightingale received 92 points on 13 firsts, 18 seconds and 15 thirds and Miss Joyce 89 points on 16 firsts, 15 seconds and 11 thirds.

Fourth with 47 points was swimmer Joyce Vakobowich of Victoria who won two gold medals at the Pan-American Games in Mexico City, taking the 400 metres and anchoring the Canadian team in the 4x100 relay.

Susan Nairnay of Edmonton, world champion trapshooter, was fifth with 40 and swimmer Line Cherrard of Quebec City, winner of the 100-metre backstroke at the Pan-American Games, sixth with 30. Miss Garapick did not go to the Pan-Am Games.

Others who received first-place votes included Janet Nutter of Toronto, Pan-Am pentathlete diving champion; runner Joan Wenzel of Waterloo, Ont., who had to give up the bronze medal she won in Mexico because tests showed a trace of banned drug from a cold tablet; golfers Dale Shaw of Sidney, B.C., and Jocelyn Bourassa of Shawinigan, Que., and judo competitor Michela Boileau of Toronto.

Belleville Golfer Makes Top Ten

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Golf Association has released its 1972 rankings showing veteran Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., and Wim Harrison of Toronto repeating as the leaders in amateur and junior categories respectively.

Cowan heads the list of the provincial top 10 amateurs, just as he did last year, followed by Spokie, Niagara Falls, Kelly Roberts, London, Nick Weslock, Burlington, Greg Patterson, Hamilton, Bruce Brewer, Oakville; Paul Davis, Oakville; Ken Doig, Seaforth and Paul Williams, Burlington.

Wilky Is Improving with Age

TORONTO (CP) — Ron Lancaster was setting records, but Tom Wilkinson proved again in 1973 that he's the top passer in Canada.

Wilkinson directed Edmonton Eskimos to the Grey Cup final for the third straight year, establishing himself as one of the outstanding tradesmen in the Canadian Football League by leading in three of the 14 categories on which pass ratings are based.

The 33-year-old quarterback, who has spent six full seasons and parts of three others in the league with Toronto Argonauts, British Columbia Lions and the Eskimos, believes he's getting better with age.

"I think both physically (throwing) and mentally I'm a better quarterback than ever," claims Wilkinson. "A quarterback has to improve to keep up with the defences. They disguise . . . so well now, especially the secondaries."

The two-letter man from Wyoming the also played varsity basketball, who came to Canada first with Toronto Rifles of the Continental League, topped the circuit in percentage of completions (.636) for the fourth successive year.

He also led the league in highest average gain per throw (8.4 yards) and the best ratio of touchdown passes (one every 16 passes).

It marked the first time Wilkinson had thrown the ball more than 300 times in a season and saw him set personal highs for completions (194), yardage gained (2,659) and touchdown passes (19).

But he's not averse to giving credit where it's due.

"It always helps to have great receivers like Hal Davis," says Wilkinson. "But it's every bit as helpful to have the best pass protection . . . giving me time to throw."

Lancaster topped the nine-team CFL with most completions (229) and most yardage gained passing (3,545) while Chuck Ealey, traded to Toronto by Winnipeg Blue Bombers late in the year, had the lowest yield of intercepted passes (one in every 33).

Lancaster, the durable Saskatchewan Roughrider quarterback, set six career records in 1973, in each case increasing records he had already established.

Lancaster, 36, now has forced 279 touchdown passes and had 224 intercepted while playing in 242 CFL games.

Canadian Is First

SCHLADMING, Austria (Reuter) — Dave Irwin of Thunder Bay, Ont., won the World Ski Cup men's downhill here today with a time of two minutes 00.84 seconds, unofficial results show.

Second was Klaus Eberhard of Austria in 2:02.45 and third was Herbert Plank of Italy in 2:02.52.

Other downhill placings:

4. Franz Klammer (Austria) 2:02.68
5. Bernard Russi (Switzerland) 2:02.74
6. Philippe Roux (Switzerland) 2:02.93
7. Dave Murray (Canada) 2:03.49
8. Patrick Pretlat-Finet (France) 2:03.76
9. Sepp Ferstl (West Germany) 2:03.95
10. Rene Berthod (Switzerland) 2:04.04

Commons Sitting Today To Complete UIC Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons is holding a rare Saturday sitting today to complete consideration of bills that raise unemployment insurance premiums Jan. 1 and increase pensions to MPs and a wide range of public servants.

MPs pushed through the government's new housing program Friday and the Liberals brushed off opposition amendments to the unemployment insurance bill. But the Commons failed to complete all business in time for Christmas adjournment.

The Senate met late into Friday evening to approve the housing bill.

Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp said that the government made the progress he had hoped and the pensions and unemployment insurance bills could be finished today.

The New Democratic Party refused the required unanimous consent Friday that would have allowed the final reading and referral to the Senate of the controversial jobless benefit amendments.

The government wants the bill passed before the holiday adjournment, because the new premiums are to go into effect Jan. 1.

Manpower Minister Robert Andras said earlier that the premium rate for workers will rise to $1.65 for every $100 of insurable earnings a week from $1.40. The employer rate will climb to $2.31 from the present $1.96 for every $100 of insurable earnings paid out.

Maximum employee premium a week will be $3.30, while the top employer payment per worker will be $4.62.

In the Commons Friday, the Liberals fended off opposition amendments designed to strike out government proposals that would change the unemployment Insurance financing formula and eliminate the aged and they must then be given routine royal assent before becoming law. Senators are al-

Both government proposals were vigorously opposed by the Progressive Conservatives, the NDP and Social Credit. Liberal Herb Breau (Gloucester) split with his party on the proposal to drop persons 65 and over from the program.

The government also defeated handily an NDP amendment to the government's housing bill which would have had rents for limited-dividend housing developments fixed by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) according to family income.

Developers get mortgage money at eight-per-cent interest rates in limited-dividend housing from the CMHC rather than at current rates.

After defeating the NDP proposal, MPs gave final reading to the housing bill. The Senate later approved the legislation.

Urban Affairs Minister Barney Danson has said he wants the legislation—which broadens the federal assisted home ownership plan and increases rental subsidy payments—approved by Christmas.

The government also hopes to persuade private financial institutions to pump $750 million in low-interest funds into the housing market.

MPs will also continue debate today on legislation to increase pensions to MPs, and a wide range of federal employees, including the armed forces and RCMP.

The pension bill would tie retirement benefits for MPs to salaries. MPs with 35 years' service would see their maximum pension to $18,000 a year from $15,000.

Stanley Knowles, veteran NDP pensions critic, says the pensions are over-generous and inequitable. He said Friday he will fight the bill.

The Senate must deal with the two bills before Christmas

Average PC Candidate Age Is 47.2 Years

OTTAWA (CP) — The average Progressive Conservative party leadership candidate is 47.2 years old, and is either a businessman, lawyer or member of Parliament.

That's a rough average based on a list of 17 people who have deposited $500 with party headquarters, part of the requirement for anyone attempting to succeed leader Robert Stanfield at a convention here Feb. 18-22.

One party official says other requirements, due by Dec. 31, may not be fulfilled, putting some of the 17 candidates out of the race before the vote Feb. 22.

The candidates must submit 100 signatures, 50 from convention delegates and 50 from party members in three provinces or territories.

Candidates must also obtain the approval of his or her constituency association and the convention committee. If these aren't filed by Dec.31, candidates aren't eligible for information from headquarters, including a list of delegates who are expected at the 2,700.

Of the 17 candidates in the race, one came from British Columbia, Manitoba and Nova Scotia, three from Alberta, seven from Ontario and four from Quebec

Claude Wagner, a 50-year-old member of Parliament for St. Hyacinthe, is considered by party officials the leading candidate.

Mr. Wagner entered Quebec politics as a Liberal to become a justice minister in 1964. He lost a 1969 bid for the provincial Liberal leadership to Robert Bourassa, and in 1973 turned to the Conservative party, winning a seat in the federal election.

Mr. Wagner is competing against Brian Mulroney, 36, a fluently bilingual, Irish-Catholic lawyer who played a major role in persuading him to switch parties and run for the Conservatives in 1973.

Cuban Government Will Undergo Changes

HAVANA (CP) — The Cuban people probably will be told sometime this weekend what changes have been made in the Communist party that has governed them more than 18 years.

Changes, none expected to be drastic, are being discussed at the party's first congress, which began Wednesday. But the meetings have been closed since Thursday and it is unclear when the results will be known.

The party will change at least one-third of the 100 members of the Central Committee, the body that enforces the political line. Party rules require this.

There also is talk that the Politburo, the executive wing of the committee, will be expanded. At present, there are eight Politburo members, with Fidel Castro and his brother, Raul, as first and second secretaries.

The philosophies of new Politburo and Central Committee members might have an important impact on the future direction of the socialist republic.

All eight Politburo members now are Castro "campaneros," comrades who fought with him in the 1959 revolution which overthrew the Batista dictatorship.

About 25 members of the central committee are "old Communists," while four are from the student revolutionary directorate.

Old Communists are those who belonged to the party before the revolution. In most cases, they are more orthodox than Castro, who has shaped the party to fit Cuban ideas.

The question is: Will the new faces be old Communists, campaneros, youth people who have grown with the revolution or possibly the new breed of technocrats?

Members of each group no doubt have different ideas on how the country should operate.

The changes also will adopt a constitution that provides for the first elections since before the revolution.

Late in 1976, a national assembly will be elected and will meet twice a year for five years to approve laws.

The assembly will elect a 31-person council of state which will propose a cabinet to be selected from the assembly. The cabinet will be the highest authority in the government.

The party says the idea is to govern the country with the popular power.

Canadian Stock Markets Slumped After August

By CALLA FARN

The Canadian Press

After a strong advance in the first six months, Canadian stock markets settled into a slump and although prices remained well above their 1974 year-end levels, trading activity was slow.

Figures released by the Toronto Stock Exchange, with volume of trading estimated for the last three weeks of December, show that volume was the lowest since 1969. On the Montreal and Vancouver stock markets, trading was the slowest since 1960 and 1967 respectively.

Analysts said investor reluctance was caused by a combination of factors, including an unstable economic situation, labor unrest, rising interest rates and government interference with business, particularly through its program of selective wage and price controls.

Richard Hurlburt, president of the Canadian Business Service in Toronto, said the federal government's controls mean "the investor in Canadian equities was not able to anticipate a substantial increase in corporate earnings and dividends. Therefore, he may have looked to other markets, notably U.S. markets, for equity investment."

H. R. Nerlich, director of research for Bongard, Leslie and Co. Ltd., Toronto, said trading in U.S. stocks, including options, accounts for between 25 and 30 per cent of the firm's business—more than double the 1974 figure.

However, despite the doldrums in trading activity, Canadian stock prices recorded some impressive gains early this year.

Toronto's industrial index, considered the best indicator of Canadian trends, advanced about 70 points in January and continued rising during the next three months, influenced by sharp cuts in prime and short-term interest rates.

All major chartered banks in January lowered interest rates by 1½ to 1¾ per cent, following the Bank of Canada announcement of a ½-per-cent rate reduction.

The industrial index went from 139.98 on Jan. 2 to 196.50 on July 15, its highest level since June, 1974. At New York, the Dow Jones industrial average, which began the year at 622.64, reached a high of 881.81 also on July 15.

In mid-July, however, Canadian stock markets settled into a broad decline and, despite a few technical rallies, were never able to stage a major recovery.

The decline was almost continuous and the Thanksgiving Day introduction of selective wage and price controls signaled a further erosion of stock prices to their lowest levels of the year.

Analysts attributed the decline to rising interest rates which made other areas of investment more attractive than stocks and increasing the cost of doing business. There was also concern about inflation, high unemployment and higher labor costs.

Markets were able to recover some losses, however, following gains in October that corporate dividends would not have to be raised back under the government's anti-inflation program.

By mid-December, the Toronto industrial index stood at the 170 level and the Dow Jones average fell below 830.

Canadian markets also in the last few months of this year tended to respond to some sharp declines at New York where the market fluctuated.

Uncertainty about the financial situation of New York City and the possible economic effects of a city default affected the New York market.

Oil shares slapped a significant recovery following the federal government's budget in June and subsequently, Alberta's decision to reduce oil and gas royalties in the province. Analysts said additional tax concessions to oil companies would continue to stimulate interest in the shares in 1976.

Gold shares tumbled to their lowest levels since 1972. Toronto's index of gold shares closed Dec. 9 at 229.71, its lowest level since March 26, 1973, after reaching a high for the year at 437.60 on Feb. 19.

D. R. James, analyst for Richardson Securities of Canada in Winnipeg, said gold's apparently diminishing role in the international monetary system keeps the metal less attractive as a hedge against inflation.

"It is difficult to see any substantial buying pressure in gold markets over the near term," he said.

Ceasefire Did Little To Stop Bloodshed

LONDON (CP)—The fighting factions of Ulster start the new year standing on the graves of a bloodstained ceasefire and a shattered constitution.

The ceasefire, declared last February by the provisional wing of the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA), has done nothing to stop murders by both Roman Catholic and Protestant terrorists.

More than 140 people have been assassinated in 1975. Despite the truce, that is far more than the 93 killed in 1974.

The ceasefire has long been buried as a practical presence in Northern Ireland, although both the IRA and the government insist it survives in theory.

Meantime, the uncompromising Protestant politicians of Ulster—acting as a majority in a constitutional convention elected last spring—produced a proposal for a new political system that was immediately declared dead by the British government.

The convention majority insisted that Ulster's Catholic minority have no place in a proposed government.

But the British government says agreement on power-sharing between the two religious communities is essential before an Ulster administration can take over rule from London.

KILLINGS continue

The Ulster killings continue alongside a vicious IRA bombing campaign in the London area that has left several people dead and scores more injured.

A recent feature of the Ulster violence has been internecine warfare between the Provisional IRA and its Marxist but less violent official wing.

Nevertheless, hopes still flicker for a new attempt at a political settlement that would end the bloody conflict that has wracked Ulster since 1969.

Northern Ireland Secretary Merlyn Rees is to hold talks with both sides aimed at creating some measure of compromise on a new constitution.

Both Catholic and Protestant leaders seek a return of at least partial home rule for Ulster—a kind of provincial government.

But the extremists of both sides are poles apart. Those of the Protestant majority want continued close attachment with Britain. Those of the Catholic minority want immediate or eventual links with the Irish Republic to the south.

Extremists on both sides, it seems, are intent on using terrorism to sabotage any attempt at compromise.

Rees can claim to have removed at least one grievance the IRA has used to win whatever popular support it has enjoyed in the past.

He has ended the practice of imprisoning suspected terrorists of both sides without trial and has, for months, steadily released internees.

Internment had been exploited by the IRA as a political issue in the past. But its elimination has angered Protestant leader in Ulster and has been opposed by Conservative MPs in Parliament.

Rees has argued that terrorists can be punished in the courts. But his critics say that of nearly 500 men released from internment in 1975, fewer than 12 have been re-arrested.

By carrying terrorism across the Irish Sea, the IRA has raised another ugly issue in British public debate: Pressure from some MPs for a resumption of hanging.

The government so far has refused to reinstate the death penalty.

Renewal of the anti-terrorism law passed last year has been the limit of the government's response. That law, similar to Canada's War Measures Act, empowers police to arrest and hold suspects for up to five days without charge.

It also provides for expulsion of suspects to Ulster or Ireland.

Put in spite of tougher police measures and endless debate among Ulstermen, there is little optimism that 1976 will bring lasting peace to Northern Ireland.

Merry Christmas

President, Armin Quickert, P.Eng.

Dear Customers and Friends:

On behalf of Reid's Dairy of Belleville and Riverside Dairy of Trenton, I would like to extend to you my sincere Thanks and Appreciation for your patronage and support. I would like to include a special thanks to the 90 milk shippers in this area who send their milk to our plants.

An educational film entitled "Bottled Sunshine", the story of milk from cow to consumer was widely viewed by people all across Canada. Copies of the film are now held by Various Television Stations and the Dairy Process of Ontario. It is available free of charge to schools, service clubs and any interested party upon request.
Reid and Riverside Dairies have been in business since 1910, processing quality dairy products in an all Canadian operation. Reid's Dairy is now the only remaining dairy operation in Hastings and surrounding counties.

In closing I would like to extend to you on behalf of management and staff a very Merry Christmas and a Happy Prosperous New Year.

Armin Quickert, P.Eng.

PRESIDENT.

P.S. THERE WILL BE NO MILK DELIVERY THURSDAY, CHRISTMAS DAY OR BOXING DAY OR NEW YEAR'S DAY.

NOTE FOR OUR CUSTOMERS — HOME DELIVERY WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 24th, 1975.

In Memoriam

MORTIMORE, Ray — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather who died December 20, 1963.
Dad and Grandpa.
So little time to know you,
So much to remember.
—Diane, Ann, Allan and Jeff.

MORTIMORE, Ray — In fond and loving memory of our dear dad who was killed one year ago today.
One sad and lonely year has passed, Since that dreadful night we parted. We are dad never had.
God gave us strength to meet it, And courage to bear it, But no strength can ease the pain, Nor time will ever lessen
The lonely ache without you.
We miss you more each day,
Your smile, your laugh, your voice.
Each day we miss dad's advice,
You made us one a last farewell,
Not even dad goodbye.
You were gone before we knew it,
And cannot say we knew.
—Fondly remembered and loved by daughters Joanne and Susan, and son-in-law Derek.

MORTIMORE, Ray — In loving memory of my dear dad, who died two years tragically taken December 20, 1971.
Though years have gone forever,
Dad, I miss and I cannot touch,
Still I know you are watching
Of the one I loved so much.
Your memory is our keepsake
With which I'll never part,
God has you in His keeping,
I have you in my heart.
—Forever within my thoughts, with Nora and son Gordie.

BOYLE — In never forgotten memory of a wonderful dad and husband, Keith Forbes Boyle who left so tragically two years ago, Dec. 20, 1973.
Our hearts are filled with pride and sorrow, and secret tears still flow.
What it must have been like to meet dad, No one will ever know.
Silently we miss him, our loss lonely,
And everything we do, we do for him.
We seem to hear you whisper,
"Chear up and be brave,
It's no use, dear dad, the injustices done to you, God's will be done,
But God gave dad a final rest.
God's garden must be beautiful,
He only takes the best.
—Lovingly remembered by Carol, Doug, Dorothy and Dave Garlin.

BOYLE — A treasured memory of our dear son and brother, Keith Forbes Keith Forbes, who left us two years ago, Dec. 20, 1973.
Close are the days we used to share,
But in our hearts you are always there.
The spikes of memory make us weep,
We miss you more than anyone knows,
With tender love and deep regret,
We who love you will never over forget.
—Always loved, Mary Kathleen, daughter Tammy, son Robert.

SEAN — In loving memory of a dear grandmother, Ethel Sean, who passed away December 21, 1971.
Dear grandmother, you try not forbear.
Though six years we are as many,
Still in memory you are with us.
As you always were with us,
—Jackie, Joe and family; Mary Lou, Bruce and family, Bob and Sherry.

McFARLANE — In memory of Gloria McFarlane, who passed away December 20, 1974.
Lady! missed along life's way,
Daughter remembered every day,
Ever remembered by Aunt Bertie.

MORTIMORE — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Ray Mortimore, who passed away December 20, 1974.
Time may heal the wound this year,
Year's may make the wound less sore,
But a father's love is dearer
Than any other love we know,
Who shall say the grief is lessened,
Though the years have rolled by back,
Memories keep the wound still open,
Though it may not show to you.
Sadly missed by daughter Karen and grandchild.

CATES — In loving memory of a dear father, Harold, who passed away December 20, 1971.
Today recalls the memory,
Of a loving father and husband,
And those who loved him best,
Are those who miss him most of all.
Sadly missed by his wife Mary, daughter Gerry and Uncle Earl.

MORRISON — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandma Gertie who passed away December 20, 1963.
She left us silently
Her work well done,
Her memory remains
Her spirit has gone home
Her prayers for peace,
Her love for God,
Is your guide for life.
For when on earth
Her life was lived
—Bessie, Doug, Myrtle and families.

In Memoriam

McFARLANE — In loving memory of a dear mother and sister Gloria McFarlane who passed away December 20, 1974.
A light is lost, a heart has broken,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
God in His wisdom has recalled her,
His will be done we do not forgotten,
But in memory we are with us.
As you always were before,
—Fondly remembered by Dad, Hugh, Jacky, Carol, Janice and Charlie.

Charlotte Whitton Had Political Wit and Pity

By R. J. Anderson
The Canadian Press

She was a women's libber long before the government recently got rolling. Almost everything she did or said made national news. She was master of the quick retort, one of her strongest weapons in municipal politics.

She was Charlotte Whitton, elected mayor of Ottawa so often her male political opponents all but conceded defeat before they entered the lists. When she died last Jan. 25 at the age of 78, they were quick to acclaim her wit, political savvy and ability.

Miss Whitton first won election in Ottawa as a controller in 1950 and became mayor of the city nine months later when the incumbent died. From then on it was fairly easy, with only a being out of office long in national prominence.

She won on her own in 1956 and was re-elected easily in 1958. She was unopposed in 1960 but returned in 1969 when she won the first of two more terms as mayor, by a hair's lifting in 1968 when she ran for Parliament as a Progressive Conservative.

Stories of Miss Whitton's off-the-cuff remarks abounded.

During one unsuccessful campaign she told a group of women:

"Whatever women do, they must do twice as well as men to be considered half as good. Luckily, it's not difficult."

At a civic reception the visiting Lord Mayor of London, complete with robe and official chain of office, was late. He had leaned over and stiffed the rose on her evening gown.

"If I smell your rose, will you blush?"

Said Miss Whitton:

"If I pull your chain, will you flush?"

William Beverlak was one of the most controversial civic officials in Alberta's history. Repeatedly elected despite his pronouncements, he survived political scandals that would have buried most men. He died in office Nov. 7 at the age of 78 of a heart attack.

A former from Wasel, Alta., he went to Edmonton in 1945 and acquired a wholesale firm. He also dabbled in real estate.

Trying his hand at civic politics, he was elected mayor in 1951. He won re-election for three more terms but was defeated in 1959 when a judicial inquiry accused him of "gross negligence" involving land deals.

Mr. Hanrahan tried for the mayoralty again in 1963 and 1966 but was unsuccessful. He free when another inquiry found he had violated city ordinances in certain land deals and transactions.

The Supreme Court of Canada subsequently overturned that decision but Mr. Hanrahan remained out of politics for nine years. In the 1972 civic election, last October, he once again was swept into the mayor's chair, defeating five opponents, including the incumbent.

Thomas Alexander Crerar was one of Canada's political greats of past years. He was federal agriculture minister in the Borden government (1917-19) and cabinet minister in successive Mackenzie King Liberal governments to 1945 when he was appointed to the Senate. He died in Victoria April 11 at 98.

Another political figure of past years who died in 1975, he was Senator Arthur Laing, 78, former federal cabinet minister and Liberal leader in British Columbia from 1963 to 1969. He died in Vancouver Feb. 12.

Henry Leslie Bomoni held three Ontario cabinet posts in Progressive Conservative governments, Treasury (1960), labor (1962) and municipal and commercial affairs (1966). He died May 17 in Honey Harbor, Ont., aged 60.

Frank MacDougall, 79, a pioneer in Canadian aviation and former deputy minister of Ontario's department of lands and forests, died in Toronto June 17.

In the field of literature, Mary E. Grannan, author, broadcaster and lecturer, died in Fredericton Jan. 3. She was best known for her Just Mary story series.

Poet Dorothy Thomson, 81, director and former executive secretary of the Canadian Writers' Association, died in Ottawa Sept. 17.

The world of finance lost Neil John McKinnon, former chairman and president of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. He died at Lake Rosseau, Ont., Aug. 4, aged 66.

Graham F. Towers, first governor of the Bank of Canada, died in Ottawa Dec. 4 at the age of 80. Starting in 1934, he built the Bank of Canada and governed it during the first, crucial 20 years of its life.

CLOSE ELECTION

Rev. K. Harriet Christie, 62, deputy secretary of the division of missions in Canada, the United Church of Canada, died in Edmonton Jan. 31. She was the first woman nominated to be moderator of the United Church. That was at the 1974 general council in Guelph, Ont., when Rt. Rev. Wilbur Howard of Ottawa was elected to the church's top post.

Other prominent churchmen who died during the year were Rt. Rev. Neville Clark, 65, Anglican bishop of Toronto; Rev. Noranda, Que., July 30 and Rev. C. Andrew Lawson, 85, minister of Timothy Eaton Memorial Church in Toronto, May 12, in Toronto.

In sport, George Hay, member of the Hockey Hall of Fame and left winger on the 1927 national Hockey League all-star team, died in Stratford, Ont., July 13, aged 77. And, Gerry Ouellette, 40, winner of the gold medal for small-bore rifle shooting at the 1956 Olympics, died June 25 in Windsor, Ont.

Newspapers and broadcasting were hit hard. Among those who died were J. Ross Baker, 83, publisher and president of St. Catharines Standard, in St. Catharines Ont., July 17; Ken Bell, 63, former vice-president of the CBC, in retirement at Fox Point, N.S., Sept. 3; Harry Larkin, 49, former managing editor of Montreal Gazette, in Montreal April 29; Jack Dennett, 59, news broadcaster for Toronto radio station CFRB, who had his largest audience in radio in Canada, in Toronto Aug. 29; and Dick Lewis, 72, founder and publisher of the trade publication Canadian Broadcaster, in Toronto Aug. 3.

Among military men who died in 1975 were Air Marshal Robert Leckie, 84, chief of air staff, RCAF, from 1944 to 1947, in Ottawa, March 31, and Brig.-Gen. Thomas John Rutherford, 81, commander of three Canadian Armored Corps reinforcement units in the Second World War, in Owen Sound, Ont., July 18.

Dr. Gordon Bates, founder of the Health League of Canada, died in Toronto Nov. 7. A well-known figure who drove a 10-year-old yellow Parkard, built originally for the Prince of Wales. He once told a reporter there was no reason he couldn't live forever. He didn't. Death came at age 89.

Also in medical science, Dr. Robert Defries, 86, former director of Connaught Medical Laboratory, died Oct. 25. Sir Charles Seymour Wright, a member of the 1910-13 Scott expedition to the South Pole, died in Victoria, B.C., Nov. 1.

French Section Undergoes Clean Up

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — They're trying to clean up the French Quarter again.

For two centuries, hurricanes have washed its narrow alleys, fires have razed its delicate buildings, crusading district attorneys have chased its scoundrels.

Now it's the paint buckets and hammers of a new generation, lured by the sweet smell of tourist dollars, that threaten to make the Vieux Carre look like a quiet, something new again.

Though it all the Quarter has thrived as a great living museum—a patch of history in the shadow of the 20th Century.

"It's the original New Orleans that has, through thick and thin, maintained its architecture and atmosphere and sense of being apart from the rest of the country," said novelist Harnett Kane.

"The Quarter is an indestructible part of this indestructible city. It has stood pretty firmly against every threat."

The French Quarter's 78 blocks sit at the centre of the city as a 200-acre rectangle beside the Mississippi River.

On the river side, in the middle, is Cafe du Monde, the last of the old shops serving sugar-sprinkled doughnuts and thick chicory coffee.

From there the narrow colonades of the French Market march along the levee. Across the street, sidewalk artists cluster about Jackson Square. Looming over its trees is the tower of the St. Louis Cathedral, flanked by the Cabildo and archways where the Spanish governors ruled.

Ambling outward through the Quarter are antique shops, restaurants, jazz halts, burlesque houses and the homes of 8,000 people—camel-back cottages opening on to the sidewalk, apartments behind wrought-iron balconies, green and green shutters of old slave quarters. Tucked away behind ancient brick walls are lush green patios.

Quarter residents are the first to sense, and resent, changes to their neighborhood, like the proposal in the '60s to raise up an expressway along the river.

"Whenever there's been a danger, the people in the Quarter have rallied around," Kane said. "When the expressway threatened, we got reaction from all over the United States. The Quarter is nationally and internationally known.

"There was the feeling that if the Quarter went, America, and maybe the world, would lose something."

Back in the '30s, the World Progress Administration put people to work restoring the French Market, and a great protest arose. This fall, new shop owners are moving into the market buildings—restored, even down to paint color, to their original appearance. And once again there is protest.

Gone are the fish criers, basket weavers, most of the vegetable pedlars. The great flag that came the Cafe du Monde's weathered green awning was yanked down.

To many, that was the final assault of what they call the "Disneylandization" or the "Coca-colonization" of a unique nest of Old World charm.

Doctor Advises Surgery for Feet

By George C. Thosteson, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have corns on the two small toes. I keep them down so they don't hurt when I wear shoes. I use a razor blade.

Also, I have problem with the nails of my big toes. They dig into the adjacent ties, and this is painful. I hope you have a suggestion for me. I am 74, and all of this is bothersome for me. C.H.

Let's take the corns first. A corn is a localized thickening of flesh that occurs in a bony area, the toe joints being prime sites. It does rather resemble a corn kernel, hence the name. The narrowed portion of the "kernel" usually points inward into the flesh, causing pain.

Surgical procedures are usually effective in dealing with the "hard" corns. These are the growths which usually occur on the outer portion of the little toe or on the upper portions of other toes. I would not use a razor blade; it is best to leave any paring to your doctor. Often applications of local preparations, as a salicylic acid solution, can be helpful.

The so-called "soft corns" usually occur between the toes and, as the name implies, these corns appear as more "soggy" masses. For them, a soft felt ring can be inserted over the area with the toes separated gently by wedges of cotton.

Almost always, the cause of corns of either type is tight shoes. At 74, you should be, you aren't already, wearing sensible, sufficiently wide shoes.

Proper trimming of your toenails should end your other problem. Don't cut them in a curve. Trim them straight across and even with the end of the toe. Then gently file the corners just a bit. Again, improper shoes could worsen this problem.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible to have sugar while being pregnant? If so, what are the signs?

While pregnant with my first baby I was sick a lot with morning sickness. I took vitamins prescribed by my doctor and felt very tired the last two months.

Could this have been anemia I had?—Mrs. R.E.S.

Anemia in pregnancy is not only possible, it is quite common, very nearly a normal situation. But it must be watched carefully.

I say normal in the sense that the very basic demands pregnancy makes on the normal body can easily lead to it. The blood is in a real sense "working for two." It is carrying the necessary food, oxygen and waste products for both the mother and the dependent fetus. This places a greater work load on the circulatory system. The need for greater volume of blood can lead to a dilution of blood and fewer iron-containing red blood cells—anemia.

Your morning sickness, if accompanied by severe vomiting, would have been an additional factor in your case. Tiredness and pallor are classic symptoms of iron-deficiency anemia (which is what we are speaking here) and the condition is readily verified by blood tests.

The condition is quite prevalent in the pregnant woman and the use of iron supplements, which doctors often prescribe after the third or fourth month of pregnancy.

Unheated, severe anemia in pregnancy can lead to birth of an anemic child.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. H.G.—The sexual drive of your "fireball" husband will not affect his health. It usually works the other way; poor health decreases the libido. He probably is satisfying his own ego and trying to prove he has some zip left. I would not try to suppress this by medication.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have just found out that I have diabetes and I'm taking 20 c.c. of insulin daily. But when I take the shot I get black and blue and my legs. Does this mean I'm doing something wrong? I feel fine. Please let me know. My doctor says everything is fine.—Mrs. H.H.

Try using a shorter needle, and pinch the skin before puncturing it. As to your dosage, I believe you mispoke yourself in your letter. You are taking 20 "units" a day, not "20 c.c.". There is a big difference.

For example, with the "U-40" strength insulin, the "40" refers to insulin units per c.c. of the fluid. In the "U-80" strength there are 80 units for each c.c.

Be sure you are not making any mistake in this, and that you understand your doctor's prescription thoroughly.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

South's four-spade contract was doubtful indeed, but South gave the cards a chance and they responded nicely.

The defence started with two rounds of hearts. South was in with the king and promptly played his ace of spades and dummy's eight. When the queen dropped, South was in business. Not the very best sort of business, but not one in bankruptcy.

He played ace and another diamond. West was in and led a club. South carefully discarded a diamond from dummy. East was in with the ace and the third and last trick.

East led a third heart. South ruffed with the king and led his seven of spades. West ducked but South, who had carefully played dummy's eight of spades earlier, was able to play the six and leave his own hand on lead. The five of spades was overtaken by dummy's six spad. Dummy's jack of trumps pulled West's last trump while allowing South to chuck his high diamond and dummy was good.

Ask the Jacobys

A Pennsylvania reader asks what the best response to a two-spade opening is when you play the Herbert convention.

The Herbert convention provides that when you respond to a forcing two bid you bid the next suit (not two notrump as the negative response). Thus, the negative response to two spades becomes three clubs. This is rather unsatisfactory and is one of the weaknesses of the Herbert convention.

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol
Sunday, Dec. 21

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today should get better for you as time rolls on. Relax. Enjoy yourself. Play everything by ear. Keep your plans loose.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A few minor domestic frustrations are likely to occur early in the day, but you can cope easily. This evening will be fun.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Some good news is coming your way. You'll probably receive it by late afternoon. If a reply is required, respond promptly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your prospects are very encouraging today. Follow through with those efforts which develop that could increase your holdings.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Fortune favors you today. Lady Luck will backstop something you'll impulsively do today, but remember: She isn't always this reliable.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you're negotiating an important matter today, let the other fellow do most of the talking. He's willing to give better terms than you think.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22) Though you may not feel like it early in the day, make plans to share some time with close friends. It will be very pleasant.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) This is a good day for you to get together with persons who can help your work or career. Ask favors if necessary.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't be hesitant about handling large issues today. In fact, you're likely to be far more successful with them than you'll be with little ones.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This will be a profitable day for you in a very unusual manner. One with your interests at heart is willing to share something.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You have a marvelous way about you today. It puts others completely at ease, because you're as concerned about them as yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This can be a fortunate day for you if you work in accordance with your highest ideals. You'll not seek rewards, but they'll be there.

Monday, Dec. 22

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your associates today are likely to be directed toward things of a fun social nature.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is a good day for you to try to finalize a situation where something of material value is owned to you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't be timid about pushing your plans. If you feel they're better than those of your associates, Chances are you're right.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This could be a profitable day if you are enterprising and resourceful. Give business matters top priority.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Being around active people will allow you the greatest pleasure today. Avoid slick-in-the-mids or dull groups.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The results you're hoping for today can be attained, if you do what is necessary without calling too much attention to yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You have a way of generating ideas today that captures the imagination of others, especially if you're talking about a new interest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Once you set your mind on a goal today you'll not easily be deterred. Just be sure you aim for something worthwhile.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone important to your present needs can be swayed to your way of thinking if you present your case with verve and logic.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Most of your efforts today are likely to go toward helping others get on their projects. However, I don't think you'll mind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Conditions should be very harmonious for you today. Even if little disturbances do pop up you'll take them in stride.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 19) Try to spend some time today on your pet hobby or pulling around with something else that you enjoy doing. You'll find it very relaxing.

Seeks Park Guidelines

HALIFAX (CP) — The Nova Scotia department of recreation is holding discussions with representatives of industry, parks and snowmobile and ski clubs in an effort to establish guidelines for the use of woodlands for winter sport.

One of the growing sports is hockey, or cross-country, skiing and Recreation Minister Garret Brown said this opens tremendous opportunities for family recreation.

Out-of-date Dress Suits Sell for $15

EDMONTON (CP) — Cat Pickles, owner and operator of Short Short Men's Wear, occasionally sells men's dress suits for $15.

"These are good suits," he says in an interview.

"Look at this one. It's the rame material you get in an expensive tuxedo. Sec-d's made of imported wool and mohair.

"And how about this one? It's a Cambridge suit. It's made in Hamilton. Just look at that lining."

Mr. Pickles, a veteran of 50 years in men's clothing business, said the secret of the $15 suits is that they're "about four or five years out of date." They feature narrow lapels, rombre colors and unflared slacks.

"We sell them to a lot of oldtimers who don't want flares. We sold one guy three of them the other day."

As long as clothes keep going out of style there will be big clothing sales, he said.

But Mr. Pickles said there are people who can't be pleased at any price.

ODC Director Resigned Friday

TORONTO (CP) — Alan Eichen, the managing director and top civil servant in the Ontario Development Corp. (ODC) resigned Friday.

Mr. Eichen said he quit voluntarily, explaining that he had wanted to go into business on his own and that Friday "was the time for me to do it."

However, Claude Bennett, minister of industry and tourism, said he had asked Mr. Eichen for his resignation because his position had been made redundant under recent amendments to the ODC Act.

The amendments make the government-appointed ODC chairman also chief executive officer of the corporation.

Mr. Bennett said that when asked for his resignation, Mr. Eichen indicated he had intended to do so anyway, likely by next June. Mr. Eichen was not offered another job in the civil service "because we had no other position to offer him."

Mr. Eichen joined the Ontario civil service in 1963 and in years later became founding director of the Ontario Development Agency. He remained director when the agency became ODC in 1967 and began providing grants in aid of fledgling industries in lieu of guaranteeing private loans.

Canadian Communist Party Still Struggles

HAVANA (CP) — The Canadian Communist party learned long ago to live with cool reception and meagre public support.

Once banned by law and now tolerated, the party's successes in trying to convert Canadian votes have been few.

But part disappointments of three of its leaders were forgotten temporarily Friday in a Havana cigar factory.

Led by William Kashtan, general secretary of the party, the three Canadians were treated by officials and cheered loudly by about 800 workers.

Kashtan, Ontario leader Bill Stewart and Quebec Leader Jeannette Welsh—asked here for the first Cuban Communist party congress, appeared overcome.

They were served tomato juice by a waiter in a white jacket and Cuban rum by a worker in a black tuxedo.

Gifts of cigars and appointment books were presented and they were led among the workers who produce H. Upmann and Monocristo cigars by hand and machine.

Later, the workers assembled before a stage where the Canadians were welcomed to "revolution and solidarity."

Kashtan, cheered several times, told the workers his father had been fired at a Montreal tobacco plant for attempting to organize a union.

Through a translator, he said Canada is a rich country in which everyone should be a millionaire.

Peron Under Pressure To Resign Her Post

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Isabel Peron was under increased pressure to step aside today as an air force rebellion seeking to overthrow Argentina government entered its third day.

The three armed forces commanders are reported to have told Mrs. Peron the rebellion may spread unless she leaves office. The report was neither confirmed nor denied.

Opposition Senate leaders told Interior Minister Angel Federico Robledo that the way to solve the crisis is for Mrs. Peron to take a leave of absence.

Tension was at its highest when four single-engine propeller-driven planes and an F-86 Sabre jet flown by rebel pilots buzzed Government House and the air force headquarters in the heart of the city.

OSSTF Urges Teachers to Reject Latest Contract Offer

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (OSSTF) said during the weekend that negotiators will recommend that Metropolitan Toronto's 4,000 striking teachers reject a new contract offer by the Metro Toronto board of education when they vote on Jan. 7.

Negotiators for Toronto's six boards of education announced Saturday that the Metro Toronto board had presented a new contract proposal to OSSTF negotiators.

The OSSTF spokesman said the contract will not be presented to teachers until Jan. 5 so the striking teachers can enjoy the Christmas holiday without interruption.

A spokesman for the Metro Toronto board said no date has been set for a vote by teachers on the proposal.

News of the talks will continue to be withheld until the teachers vote.

The strike, which has disrupted classes for 140,000 students in 155 schools, began Nov. 12, two days after negotiations broke off.

Stanley Hartt, one of the three provincially-appointed mediators who entered the contract dispute in the first week of December, said the new offer does not resemble the last board offer of 39.5-per-cent increase which the teachers turned down.

The Federal anti-inflation board announced on Nov. 28 that the 39.5-per-cent-increase was outside of the selective wage controls.

The teachers were seeking a salary range between $13,358 and $22,324 and up to $26,930 for principals with full cost-of-living protection in each year of the two-year contract.

The board was offering salaries ranging from $11,575 to $19,830 and up to $23,116 for principals with partial cost-of-living protection in the second year.

Present salaries are between $7,800 and $18,300 and up to $22,000 for principals.

During the five-week strike, about 80 teachers have crossed picket lines to remain in school. Last week, teachers strike pay was reduced to 20 per cent from the per cent of their regular salary.

Algeria Accepts Plane

Terrorists Retain 2 Arab Oil Leaders

ALGIERS (CP) — Guerrillas today released all hostages they brought with them from Vienna aboard an Austrian airliner except the heads of Arab delegations to the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), the Algerian news agency reported.

The guerrillas released delegates from Nigeria, Gabon, Ecuador, Indonesia and Venezuela, the news agency said.

After agreeing on the release, the leader of the guerrillas waited for a negotiations room at Algiers airport with Algerian Foreign Minister Abdel Aziz Bouteflika, smiling and waving his arms.

Three still held in the plane include Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani and Iranian Interior Minister Jamshid Amouzegar, the president of OPEC.

There were some reports that the DC-9, which flew the guerrillas and hostages here under agreement with the Austrian government, would be taking off for another, unspecified Arab capital.

The pro-Palestinian terrorists seized the 20-hour occupation of the Vienna OPEC headquarter a earlier today and flew to Algiers with 10 oil ministers and 31 other hostages.

In Vienna, at least two persons were killed and a number of others injured as the terrorists invaded the OPEC meeting. Austrian police said six gunshots and 10 hostages were on the plane when it left Vienna.

There ambulances lined up behind the DC-9 when it landed here. One of the guerrillas, who was carried aboard the plane with a gunshot wound in the stomach, was taken off the jet here and rushed to hospital. He was accompanied by a nurse who had flown with him in the plane.

The jet's engines were still running two hours after it plane landed.

Shortly after the plane landed at 11:35 a.m., the Algerian foreign minister began negotiating with one of the terrorists in the VIP lounge. Officials gave no indication what the terrorist wanted.

Among the first to leave the plane was Algerian Oil Minister Belaid Abdesselam and one of his aides.

The Canadian Embassy has offices on the fourth and fifth floors of the building, but ex-spokesmen in Ottawa said all personnel have been accounted for.

"Should we have stormed the OPEC building without taking into account how many dead this would have cost? No. This you cannot expect from me."

The chancellor said he refused to adopt Israel's "very hard method of responding to terrorist attacks, which in fact results in more people being killed in retaliation."

The terrorists—five men and a woman—said they were members of the Arm of Arab Revolution, an organization not previously heard of. They issued a communique in ungrammatical French demanding that the Arab world wage a "total liberation war" against Israel.

The communique also denounced "reactionary" Arab regimes who have allied themselves with "American imperialists," meaning Saudi Arabia and Iran. It called for the nationalization of all Arab oil and demanded that the countries confronting Israel and the "Palestinian resistance" be given first priority in the allocation of the oil revenues.

Kreisky said the Saudi Arabian and Iranian ministers were on the top of the raiders' list for retribution if their demands alien Organization (PLO) demand were not met.

Gunmen Kills Mother Of Eight

BELFAST (Reuter) — A gunman shot dead a Roman Catholic mother of eight at point blank range Sunday night after bursting into her home as she was putting up Christmas decorations.

Police said the 43-year-old woman lived on a mixed Protestant-Catholic estate here.

The killing came as the British government tried to halt a serious outbreak of sectarian violence by ordering about 200 members of the part-time Ulster Defence RDR) to reinforce security forces in South Armagh, a stronghold of the Provisional Irish Republican Army.

Militant Protestants, who have long been angered by the Provisionals' fanatical strength in this area, launched an offensive against the republican guerrillas last Friday, killing four persons in bombing raids on two border bars.

Cuba Wants U.S. Talks

HAVANA (Reuter) — Cuba is interested in talking with Washington about resumption of relations if the United States trade embargo on the island is lifted, said a foreign-policy resolution passed by the Communist party congress Sunday night. "The U.S. government has made a few steps towards the elimination of the blockade, but these steps are still insufficient," it said.

Richardson Defends Costs

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister James Richardson says the purpose of increasing defence budgets "is the achievement of international stability. That is really what we're trying to do."

"We are trying to participate in the achievement of international stability, or you can call it peace in the world," Mr. Richardson said in an interview taped for broadcast Sunday on the CTV television program Question Period.

Cuba Approves Plan

HAVANA (CP) A five-year plan calling for automation of the sugar industry, a nuclear reactor and expanded steel-making industry, was approved Sunday by the Communist party of Cuba. The plan, estimated to cost $15 billion and covering the years 1976 through 1980, sets ambitious goals for improving every sector of the island's economy.

Minimum Wage Increases

TORONTO (CP) — The minimum wage in Ontario will rise to $2.65 an hour in general and $2.90 in the construction industry beginning March 15, Labor Minister Bette Stephenson announced today. Ontario's current minimum wage is $2.40 an hour in general and $2.65 in the construction industry. Dr. Stephenson said a major reason for the increase is to protect minimum-wage earners against increases in living costs.

Ellis Supports Wagner In PC Leadership Race

BY HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Jack Ellis is supporting Claude Wagner's bid for the Progressive Conservative national leadership.

The Hastings MP confirmed his choice of his party's leading Quebec political personality Sunday.

As a result, Mr. Ellis has resigned as an organizing official of a leadership campaign he may devote time to the Wagner campaign.

A major reason for his choice is the Wagner political personality—left of centre and espousing a conservative policy now absent in the nation, said Mr. Ellis.

The Wagner political stance is needed to "counteract the socialistic movement of Trudeau," said the Hastings MP.

He said he made his choice shortly after Robert Stanfield announced he would step down as Conservative leader early next year.

The growing rupture of candidates since had not changed his mind.

Mr. Ellis said he had "looked the field over very, very carefully" and still believed that Wagner "is the man we have to have."

The Ellis-Wagner connection publicly surfaced last year at federal election.

At the 1973 Maclen convention which nominated him as Conservative candidate in Hastings Mr. Ellis had Mr. Wagner as the keynote speaker.

At that convention, Mr. Ellis said Sunday, more than 700 attending voters and party workers from Hastings seemed "very impressed" with the Quebec MP.

If Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed has entered the leadership race he might have had to rethink his decision, Mr. Ellis admitted.

But Mr. Ellis—who said he attended the Wagner campaign kickoff in the Quebec MP's St. Hyacin the riding several weeks ago—gave reasons for his choice.

He cited these Wagner attitudes:

— A strong stand on law and order. As a former Quebec justice minister and later a judge, Mr. Wagner made a reputation as a tough upholder of law.

— A broad attitude on bilingualism. Mr. Wagner has said "he is not prepared to force French on the rest of Canada—"a pretty strong statement coming as he does from the province." It contrasts with Prime Minister Trudeau's stand which is "dividing the country, we don't believe the bilingualism policy is one of the French people, but a matter of Trudeau's policy," said Mr. Ellis.

Shelter Valley Farms

1976 Poinsettias Already Under Cultivation Here

BY HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Christmas comes Thursday. But for some, preparations for Christmas 1976 already are under way.

They're the people who grow poinsettias—the popular plants of the rich red and green hues identified as Christmas colors.

It takes 15 months to produce a full-blown poinsettia from a plant cutting. Therefore, the production process has to start in November for the following year's Christmas market, says Mary Lloyd, of Shelter Valley Farms on Highway 33 near Mountain View.

Large cuttings—known as jiffy starters—take a couple of months less. But the Lloyds already have a batch of the 15-month variety underway while selling this season's batch of full-grown plants.

The Lloyds have been selling produce at Belleville's farmers' market for 30 years. They started including flowers and plants about eight years ago.

MORE
take 2

The poinsettia has bloomed in popularity over that time.

"Ten years ago they weren't so much in demand—since flowers generally to that time were the purchases of the more affluent," says Mrs. Lloyd.

Now, they're in common demand, and the change can be marked by price. A decade ago a Christmas poinsettia could have cost up to $12. Today, even with inflated money, they bring around $5 "for the very best," she estimates.

Volume is the explanation. The first year the Lloyd family being producing they sold about 50 plants. This Christmas they've grown 300—sufficient to meet demand on the market and at the farm greenhouse." The farm doesn't wholesale.

Meantime between this Christmas and next there's another festival—Easter.

Along side the poinsettia specous in the greenhouse there are other blooms being cultivated at Christmas: Easter Lilies.

MPs Approve Pension Hike

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons Saturday passed a bill creasing pension benefits for members of Parliament by up to one-third in line with salary increases earlier this year.

Stanley Knowles Winnipeg North Centre) leading NDP opponent in the bill, said it is ove-generous inequitable and provides a poor political example at a time of restraint.

Liberal Perrault (PC—Dartmouth-Halifax East) joined Mr. Knowles in objecting to provisions in the bill not only the NDP voted against it on third and final reading.

It was passed 105 to six. The Senate later approved the bill.

The legislation also increases pension benefits for a wide range of public servants, senators and judges.

One last-minute change by the Senate, approved Saturday, what Lloyd Francis (Ottawa West) parliamentary secretary to Treasury Board President Jean Chrétien, described as an "anomaly." Members who retired now would get a bigger pension than if they worked for another few months.

That's so because by retiring now they would be eligible for an 11.2-per-cent escalator increase in pensions Jan. 1, but would lost if they retired after that.

The amendment wipes out loss of the increase for those who retire in the New Year rather than retire now.

Mr Knowles said senior civil servants retired early last year to get the indexed increase. He said the government is at fault on the amount their pensions may rise in 1976.

Three Escapees Sought

Police today are still seeking three escapees from Millhaven penitentiary — two of whom stole a van in Belleville early Sunday morning.

The three men — described as dangerous — were serving long-term sentences when they escaped during a snowstorm Saturday night.

They were identified as Brian Copeland, 29, of Toronto; Valentine Leschenko, 34, Sutton, Que.; and Thomas Smith, 37, of London, Ont.

The three, wearing several layers of white sheets, escaped by cutting through a barred window and passing between guardposts under cover of blowing snow.

A heavy duty file and wire cutters were found later after a search of the area.

Police say Leschenko and Copeland went to a trailer park in Millhaven village. Smith, they believe, headed east.

At the trailer park the two apparently forced the Belleville man and his girl friend to drive them first to Kingston and later to Belleville.

Provincial police at Napanee did not embrace the Belleville man's name.

At Belleville, a van was taken from the South John St. maintenance shop of Northern and Central Gas. The pair then drove up Cannifton Rd. and headed west towards Toronto, said police.

The three apparently escaped about 7 p.m.

Belleville Police Chief Doug Crosbie said city police were informed about the stolen van about 4 a.m. after the event had been reported by the man to provincial police at Napanee.

Copeland was serving 30 years for armed robbery and theft; Leschenko was in jail for 22 years and Smith for 25 years for armed robbery and robbery.

MP Expense Exemption Angers Tory

Jack Ellis, MP Hastings, said Progressive Conservatives reacted with disbelief when they discovered last weekend that Commons' members will get a $900 tax-free increase in income despite a freeze on parliamentary pay.

The increase results from a government decision to exclude the tax-free expense allowance for MP's from the freeze announced last Thursday.

"We just couldn't believe it," said Mr. Ellis, now home for Christmas after parliament recessed Saturday on a note of rancour caused by the allowance exemption from the freeze.

Such a move, charged Mr. Ellis, only further hurts the government's credibility in its anti-inflation program.

Community Project

Hospital Budget, Staff Cuts Worry Officials at BGH

Tyendinaga Community Association president Don Ellis (left) scans plans for a building program will project manager Alvin McKenne. The associatin has converted former schoolhouse into centre now used for various community events in Tyendinaga.

Belleville General Hospital's administration heads into the Christmas season pondering the possible local implications of new scrub-the-province budget cuts by Queen's Park.

BGH officials won't know until sometime in January what the austerity move may signify for the hospital, board chairman Carl Bateman says.

Mr Bateman was among hospital officials called to Toronto Friday to hear Ontario Health Minister Frank Miller announce $50 million will be cut from hospital budgets next year by eliminating up to 3,000 beds, and reducing staff by about 5,000.

Mr. Miller said he would be writing hospitals in January, said Mr. Bateman.

Mr. Miller said he plans to meet 12 cities to discuss cuts. Details will not be revealed until boards of the affected hospitals have been informed.

"So we're not going to know too much for a while," said Mr. Bateman. "We just hope our hospital isn't one of them."

He sa'd he believed BGH had "suffered enough" by a recent ministry decision not to renew the Queen's Self-care Unit when its lease runs out next year.

BGH authorities are contemplating moving the self-care project — a government pilot program — to smaller quarters in hospital property.

Mr. Bateman said a ministry guideline set the number of beds at four per 1,000 population in its area.

But how that ratio would apply to BGH is difficult to determine since its service area can only be broadly defined, said the board chairman.

BGH is classed as a 200-bed hospital — most of them active treatment beds.

Mr. Bateman said a major concern is the reduction in jobs.

"That's a big worry — 3,000 jobs is a heck of a lot in this province," he added.

BGH, with about 1,000 on its payroll, is one of the Quinte district's biggest employers.

However, Mr. Bateman said he believes the ministry would first move against larger urban centres where the number of hospitals could reveal overlapping of facilities.

Meanwhile, hospital administrative staff will be assembling data on BGH operations — to have a case ready should the institution be among those affected by the cuts, he said.

Shannonville Centre Hive of Activity

SHANNONVILLE — They're still working at an idea here that became solid reality in the shape of a community centre exactly two years ago.

Despite its success as a model of what local initiative can create in a community, its originators say they are still not satisfied they've achieved the optimum results.

That's why work is continuing on improving the Tyendinaga Community Centre.

If it looks slightly familiar on the outside the impression is correct. It was once a country schoolhouse. Inside though, its appearance now is in the final phase of alteration.

That started almost three years ago — when local inhabitants were first startled to hear the school was being closed and the student complement being moved to a newer bigger school a mile north of here.

Instead of a last-ditch fight over the Hastings County school board's decision, a group persuasively argued the situation could be turned to community advantage.

That's when the Tyendinaga Community Association was formed. It took over the solid brick building on a nominal $1 lease — with an option to purchase — from the board.

The association, headed by Don Ellis, rallied volunteer labor and began the conversion. A games room and dance area for area youths was installed.

Last winter, the project won a $12,000 Local Initiatives Program grant to upgrade the interior, install extra exits. Shortly after, the local senior citizens — their club organization made possible by the facility — were awarded a $5,000 federal New Horizons grant and installed a kitchen, bought panelling and other items for the centre.

By this year its three rooms and basement were a hive of activity — the first centre of its kind in Tyendinaga Township. All manner of local groups meet there — from political organizations to farm associations. There are the local girl guides and brownies. The township too over one room to install its first public library, open four times a week. Now Loyalist College has fine arts and crafts classes three nights a week there.

Meanwhile, the association runs bingos, euchre parties and other special events. The money goes into a reserve fund for expenses — and to use against the day the building can be bought outright.

The association's boss, Mr. Ellis, already is working on that — negotiating with the township to have the centre become an official part of the municipality's services. This will entitle it to senior government grants.

"In way it is organized it operates at no cost to the taxpayers," says the president.

Meanwhile, while awaiting the outcome of negotiations, the association won a two-year lease extension — and has decided to finish off remodelling the interior. Plans called for taking out dividing walls and turning two former classrooms into one big hall.

To achieve that the association again struck it lucky. It applied for one grant and was awarded — another LIP grant, this time for $19,200.

Economy in Early Stages of Recovery as Controls Belatedly Take Shape

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Since the anti-inflation program was announced on Thanksgiving Day, people have been giving their support to restraint and as it doesn't affect themselves.

Now that the program has been made law and the regulations made public, however, restraint will have to be taken seriously.

That still doesn't mean that the federal government can count on broad public support. Individual interests are too divergent for that.

Not even one of the provincial governments has yet committed itself in writing to support the Ottawa program. Quebec, naturally, is setting up its own, while Nova Scotia, Ontario and Alberta have balked at Ottawa's decrees that the controls must be enforced for more than three years.

If the prime minister had been as determined in mid-October when he announced the national outline of the anti-inflation program as he was in mid-December with the announcement of the regulations, new federal spending restraints, then a good deal of the anguish of the past two months might have been avoided.

Instead, the impression of "historical relationships" has been broad among the appeals for must any labor or professional group that proposed to be regarded as a new contract-this fall.

It doesn't take much imagination to relate one's own income to that of someone who's better off.

The result has been to focus initial public attention on the emotional question of "fair play," and to obscure the necessity for action on the other three prongs of what was to be a four-pronged attack on inflation.

Little if anything was heard about fiscal and monetary policy changes, government spending restraints, or structural changes in the economy during October and November.

Now the government has at last committed itself to decisive action in areas that were in danger of being forgotten.

It's regrettable that the prime minister couldn't have promised no actual reduction in the amount of government spending—but inflation continues to drive up its costs of doing business, as well as everyone else's.

Reducing rate of increase is the next best thing. Before the new anti-inflation spending cutbacks, the federal budget had been heading for a record deficit in 1976 to 1976 of $7.7 billion—the biggest method of estimating it) and as borrowing still billion the following year.

Even so, there remain plenty of high-cost programs, such as the old promises of bilingualism and the "indexing" of civil service pensions, that will continue to exert strong upward pressure on federal spending.

The new restraints in government spending will inevitably be criticized on broad grounds they will slow down the pace of the economy.

It's likely, though, that any such effect would be offset by an upswing in consumer and business spending as the public regains some confidence in the economy and the stability of the dollar.

Besides, the timing is right. All indications are that the Canadian economy is in the early stages of a recovery from a recession that, as the Conference Board in Canada put it, has proved to be one of the worst since the late 1930s.

The momentum of that recovery, which economists say has been under way since mid-summer, is strong enough to withstand Mr. Trudeau's noisy-to-serious spending restraints.

Troubled Youth

Three Youths in Court on Theft Charge . . . Employee Robbed . . . Revolver Stolen.

These are headings from a recent issue of The Intelligencer. They provide more than just a hint of the growing pains of a medium-sized Ontario city such as our own.

Belleville thus far is luckier than most perhaps in being relatively free of crimes of violence. But how long can this last? Police Chief Douglas Crosbie, for instance, has expressed concern over the theft of a revolver, and this is understandable.

A caller on an open line radio program voiced another related concern of these pre-Christmas days recently. She was worried about youngsters as free as ours in this latter-day open society and especially by the fact parents in many instances neither know nor care where they are or what they are doing. She drew attention to the questionable impact of today's magazine stands and professionally produced films and the fact many are drawn to such material. It's a point that is well taken. If we can legislate against hockey violence for instance, what about the violent and salacious literary offerings to which the young are exposed these days?

If we are to see any glimmerings of a better world at all in the new year these are the kind of matters to which citizens should be addressing themselves. There was a time when various interests tried to provide drop-in centres and the like. Maybe there is less need for them today, there being more outlets of one kind or another, on the commercial scene alone, than there used to be. And yet, to judge from the headlines and thefts and sundry other difficulties of modern youth, there may well be room for other initiatives toward the preservation of law and order, and channeling youthful energies into better paths.

The Power Of Music

The kind of song and dance movies that spanned the years from the Depression on through the years of the last war, were of the kind people turned to as a counter to difficult times.

Music and the bond provided by Christmas Day is recalled by first war veterans as elements which united Allied and German soldiers in the singing of Silent Night.

How vital is music to the human soul and to its cultivation in the minds of the young. The discipline and pleasure gained from learning to play an instrument can stand many a youngster in good stead all his days.

Don't discount either the music from the jukebox. Says a New York executive of a firm manufacturing these ubiquitous machines: "It is a depression-proof business," and "when times are bad, people seem to want music."

Music indeed "hath charms!"

CYC To Be Axed

If the federal government had acted to control inflation five years ago, in the same manner as it is exhibiting now, there would have been good reason to chop the Company of Young Canadians.

At that time the CYC was under fire for a number of reasons. Its handling of the funds entrusted to it for one thing was causing concern, but principally there was criticism that the organization was becoming politicized.

Since then, however, there has been scarcely a murmur. Other than a brochure two or three years ago outlining its activities, the CYC has been conspicuous by its very lack of publicity. — and controversy. A statement released in the wake of Ottawa's announced intention of ending the CYC operation, for economy reasons, affirms this. "There has been no adverse publicity," it says.

Furthermore, it points to the many projects under way, its work with people the CYC was helping toward a greater degree of self-reliance, and the fact its 350 volunteers and 100 staff members cost less on the average than unemployment insurance benefits.

There may well be reasons today for looking more kindly upon the Company of Young Canadians. Nevertheless, the Prime Minister, while expressing . . . ie, says the CYC must go. Whether it survives beyond this, with alternative funding, is questionable. It is nevertheless an organization that does seem to have matured and to have acquired real social value. Once it is dropped, the future of a lot of people may be affected adversely.

School Kids' Interest in Animals

The following is the text of a letter addressed to Hastings County Board of Education administrator Eric Rosencrans:

The Board of Education and the School System have been instrumental in providing an environment for a very pleasant experience.

The ingredients are very simple — our children love their pets — and Christmas.

I am referring to working with the children of Harry C. Clarke Public School and the Junior Humane Society — but mostly from Harry J. Clarke School in order to produce the Christmas Show "It's A Dogs World."

This particular program is a good example of a more thought being projected through the different phases of the mental processes until it becomes a reality.

The youngsters especially on such short notice — had a great deal of effort in shaping and developing this program. They all deserve a great deal of credit.

The reason for their keen interest in animals can be attributed in one person — their science teacher Terry Marson — who has a genuine understanding for the need of a mixture of children and pets even in the classroom.

As this is the festive season and Christmas is a time for peace and Christian love amidst all creatures, what greater reward than being able to actually witness these beautiful aspects of life at work amongst our own children and in our own school system.

Concert At Wm. R. Kirk

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

I was so impressed with the Christmas concert at the William R. Kirk School for the retarded last night that I feel compelled to write and say so.

After seeing their program I can only think of the wonderful work they do. Such a bright little group of retarded child has note to the drab existence he faced so few years ago.

The patience, love and hard work by teachers, staff and students only point out that such praise could never be too high.

Any parent or student should be proud to be part of such an organization and recognize it for what it is.

Bible Digest

by R. B. BRAN

"These six things doth the Lord hate: yea, seven are an abomination unto him: A proud look, a lying tongue, and hands that shed innocent blood, and a heart that devises wicked imaginations, feet that be swift in running to mischief. A false witness that speaketh lies, and he that soweth discord among brethren." Proverbs 6:16-19.

Here are some things the Lord can't tolerate. When we can't seem to make any progress in our Christian walk, we need to measure ourselves against this check list.

We have heard that some teachers believe it is too late for these students unless there is a one to one teaching situation. I believe that a school system which produces the problem should have the expertise to attempt to rectify it.

We are not financiers but we believe that our school board could find the money to help these students before they become disasters. The most expensive method of course would be to set up a special school for them. We know the idea of isolating youngsters with problems is supposedly cruel but to use their peers in a group in the classroom is far more cruel. A small school with relevant reading curriculum where the classroom challenge is not so overwhelming of course be ideal and expensive.

However, from our observation of the situation, we believe that a cheaper method would work. We have many teachers who are equipped with reading ability, not necessarily a teacher who would be able to work on a one-to-one basis with these students. The students would then get the appreciation that they have been denied in the classrooms due to their mechanical reading.

If these students cannot be given a positive approach to education we can only assume that they are progressing along the road to personality and social problems which may be more costly to society in the long run than if some of our education tax dollars were used for their present benefit.

Hydro Curbs Generating Capacity

Brantford Expositor

With significant unanimity, provincial hydro-electric authorities in Labrador, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and B.C. have begun to slow their expansion of generating capacity.

For this they have two strong reasons: the cost of long-term capital borrowing has become too expensive, and the always tricky business of estimating demand for power some years ahead is now subject to an unusual degree of uncertainty.

Over the next 10 years capital projects worth at least $8 billion are to be delayed by a year or more, although industry authorities still warn of power shortages if demand increases return to the "normal growth rates of recent years."

In the first nine months of 1975, electricity consumption in Canada rose very slightly from that of the same period of 1974, but exports to the U.S. dropped by 25 per cent.

Ontario Hydro is delaying projects worth about $4 billion; the $2.3 billion Gull Island development in Labrador has been set back by a least a year; Hydro Quebec is cutting back by about 600 million, half of it on the huge James Bay project, and Manitoba has put off for two years the completion target for its $900-million Limestone project. B.C. Hydro is restraining its $4.2-billion growth plans, with a view to reducing its need for borrowed capital.

Last year the Ontario Energy Board urged Hydro to take steps to "promote reasonable measures to dampen demand for electricity." But there is no sign of Hydro's complying with this means of spinning out the supply from its present capacity.

With his brother Joseph, he may have been the first white man to see the Rockies. After the British conquest of Quebec he inherited a seigniory and lived at Montreal. He died unmarried in 1775.

Conservation Of Energy

Brockville Recorder and Times

Brockville's Public Utilities Commission has prepared a brief for presentation to the Royal Commission on Electrical Power, that places greater emphasis on conservation of other types of energy. It is a point well taken, one the government should accept and be willing to act upon with the threat of depletion of both oil and gas seen as a possibility in the next 50 years.

If the forecast of oil and natural gas shortages is substance, the Ontario government, and the federal government too, should be most concerned about continued promotion of the use of these two types of energy. It would seem that a concentrated effort should be made to conserve both resources for applications for which they are uniquely suited. This could include manufacturing such as that at the Brockville Chemical Industries plant here which produces much needed fertilizer. Food supply is just as great a concern in the world today as energy depletion and only with the availability of fertilizers can the producing nations be expected to keep abreast the needs of their own populations and even to provide some aid to underdeveloped nations.

While the PUC brief concerns itself with many points, the matter of conservation is important if for no other reason than to emphasize that it is an important concern at the grass roots level of government. Usages of all types of energy in this country seem to be ignoring the pleas of concerned groups to restrict consumption. Perhaps real shortages will have to occur before there is any concerted effort to conserve on the part of the general public. Information programs which have been attempting to get the message across are almost completely ignored. It will take a crisis, lately, before people are willing to cut back on electricity, gasoline, oil and natural gas. How many people turn the thermostat down now, although they are constantly urged to do so.

One of the puzzling aspects of natural gas usage that destroys the credibility of a pending gas shortage, is the "installed and connected" housing and other large projects with natural gas as the energy for heating. Why not electrical power? It is likely to be around for a much longer time.

People with Reading Ability Could Help Students Upgrade Skills

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

From a casual survey taken among friends and acquaintances we find that many feel the school system is damaging to some students. The present educational system seems to be geared to creative and practical learning expression however, the actual learning process is fully dependent on the ability to read. A certain percentage of intelligent students reach Grade 7 or 8 with a disability to read which leaves them psychologically and mentally disturbed. Have these students been abandoned? How did they get this far without being able to read?

Students who have endured anguish for six years or eight years without the ability to read have created behavioral problems in some students. Many are sent to psychologists but still remain unchanged.

Has the education system despaired of other means to help these students? From our viewpoint this seems true. Students attending a regular grade seven class at a non-reader gets no special help with their disability. They are prime participants in all school activities which take the children out of the classroom but their reading deficiency looms over their heads like gathering thunderclouds.

The junior choir of Bridge Street United Church led the candlelight choir procession Sunday night when the choirs saluted Christmas in song. More than 850 people attended the annual service.

Arts Fest Planning Under Way

Plans for Arts Fest '76, an annual project of the Quinte Arts Council (QAC) now are under way.

The month-long festival, to take place in April, will include a program similar to the 1975 festival co-ordinated by Chester Hull, a QAC vice-president.

The festivities, a tradition of the QAC since its organization in 1967, will include more than just Belleville-based cultural groups. For the first time a group from Prince Edward County will participate.

The Prince Edward Youth Theatre, a project directed by teacher Larry Taylor, will stage a performance for children at Cloke Public Library on April 30.

The festival will begin on April 6 with an opera-La Traviata followed by the official kick-off April 9 with a wine and cheese party at the opening of the visual arts exhibition at the library.

The Quinte Dance Centre is scheduled to perform on April 11 at Centennial Secondary School.

Mr. Hull said preparations are also underway for the Concert Brass Band and the Tetonas, a barbershop singing group, to perform at Centennial on April 14.

Belleville Theatre Guild will present The Subject Was Roses, directed by guild member Liz Marshall, at Pinnacle Playhouse on April 23-24 and April 30-May 1.

The Arts fest will end with a performance by the Eastern Ontario Orchestra also at Centennial Secondary School.

Controversial Art Show Ends

BY SUSAN McCONNELL
Staff reporter

The first Belleville Biennial Art Show closed its doors Saturday on what may have been the most controversial art display held in Belleville.

The show, sponsored by local artist Dave Brockelsby, opened Dec. 4 in the upper and lower galleries of Corby Public Library.

Originally, more than 25 interlocal-by and nationally known artists were included in the show that featured pen and ink sketches, oil paintings, ceramics and pottery.

The controversy began opening night and continued through the first week. Five Quinte area potters withdrew their work - more than 20 pieces of pottery as a protest against lack of proper displays. Harlan House, Peter and Liz Coviello and Gordon and Audrey Davies removed their work.

Their protest was followed by the withdrawal of paintings by Belleville artist Lindsay Hallam, who said she removed her work because it was not hung in either gallery.

Despite difficulties, Mr. Brockelsby said he considers the show a success.

"The show had an identity all its own," he said. "The art formed a total environment that was pleasing."

Mr. Brockelsby estimated more than 1,000 people visited the three-week show.

The drawing card was internationally known abstract painter Elyse Rouzie, who had five works of art on display - three of them large murals.

Mr. Brockelsby said there would not be another Biennial Art Show unless "Belleville shows an increase in interest in art."

He added he was disappointed in some of the response from people.

Hundreds Enjoy Candlelight Service

Christmas carols, one of the oldest traditions of the Christmas season, were yodeled in a candlelight carol service at Bridge Street United Church Sunday.

The church's junior and senior choirs, carrying candles in a long procession, told the Christmas story in scripture and song.

Solos were performed by Hazelane Reid, Anne Delbourne, Bonnie Steele, Janet Lynds, Mary Beth Ovesk and Robert Horne.

The hour-long program was directed by Robert H. Reid with organist S. Alec Gordon.

More than 850 people attended the annual service.

MINISTRY of HOUSING
Ontario Rent Review Program

The Ontario Rent Review Program has been established under the Residential Premises Rent Review Act to monitor rental levels for residential premises throughout the Province and to adjudicate disputes between landlords and tenants arising from increases in rents. The reviews will be carried out by local rent review officers whose decisions may be appealed to the Residential Premises Rent Review Board. The following executive, administrative and technical positions are now available in the Rent Review Program Division of the Ministry, the Secretariat of the Rent Review Board, or in local rent review offices. These are contract positions and are all located in Toronto.

Director, Program Operational Support: $23,400 - $32,500
Responsible for a comprehensive technical, professional and administrative Province-wide support service for the program. This will involve planning and co-ordinating legal, financial, audit, information and staff training support services to ensure that the delivery objectives of the program can be met. File MH-2000

Director, Regional Operations (3): $23,400 - $32,500
Reporting to the Executive Director, you will primarily be responsible for the effective delivery of the program for a specific region of the Province and for ensuring the effective application of the Rent Review Program. More specifically, your duties will include liaising and consulting with senior Ministry officials, reviewing and appraising established techniques and procedures and recommending changes required to ensure the effectiveness of the program. File MH-2001

Co-ordinator, Program Planning and Development: $20,900 - $26,400
Reporting to the Executive Director, to be responsible for monitoring the program, researching its effects and socio-economic implications and making recommendations for improvements. This will involve continual liaison with Rent Review staff regarding the progress and administration of the program, interpretation of policy and identification and resolution of problems. File MH-2002

Manager, Technical Support: $23,400 - $24,500
Responsible for planning, co-ordinating and supervising the activities of a team of professionals including financial and property management staff engaged in providing advice and technical assistance to rent review officers. File MH-2004

Co-ordinator, Systems Development: $20,500 - $25,700
Responsible for assessing the systems requirements of the program, advising and recommending alternatives and co-ordinating the development and implementation of new or revised systems. This position is the liaison between the management systems staff of the Ministry and the staff of the Rent Review Programs. File MH-2003

General Qualifications: Applicants for these positions will have had considerable experience at the senior management level and/or in an administrative position, as well as a strong background in one or other of the following fields; finance, law, property management, economics and personnel administration.

Registrar, Residential Premises Rent Review Board: $20,000 - $25,000
Reporting to the Chairman, Residential Premises Rent Review Board, you will be required to exercise considerable initiative and judgement in co-ordinating appeals to the board and in providing a wide range of administrative and technical assistance and expertise to the Chairman and board members. File MH-2009

Legal Advisor: $19,200 - $24,300
Responsible for providing legal advice and expertise to personnel involved in all areas of the program. This will include analyzing and researching specific problems, studying their legal implications and advising regarding appropriate legal procedures. In addition, considerable liaison with internal and external solicitors will be required. File MH-2007

Audit Advisor: $16,500 - $20,200
Working in consultation with the Audit Branch of the Ministry, you will be initially responsible for the establishment of auditing standards and procedures for the program. Additional duties will include the review and appraisal of the management controls, operating procedures and accounting practices employed throughout the program and to report any weaknesses with appropriate recommendations. File MH-2008

Manager, Staff Training: $15,900 - $19,200
In this position you will research, recommend, implement and administer staff training and development for Rent Review Program staff in all areas of the Province. This will necessitate liaison with staff at all levels to assess and advise regarding training needs, arranging for and where necessary, designing programs to meet these needs and monitoring their success. File MH-2005

Staffing Control Officer: $13,600 - $16,000
As liaison between the Ministry Personnel Branch and the Rent Review Program staff, you will become involved in a variety of personnel related activities including counselling and salary and benefits administration. Ann Landers

Light-fingered Old Lady May Have Suffered Stroke

Dear Ann Landers: How can a person tell the difference between a deliberate thief and a kleptomaniac?

The woman I'm referring to is 85 years of age and nevermisses a church service. She is intelligent and her manner is friendly. Most folks who meet her for the first time think she is charming but after awhile her sugary sweetness gets on a person's nerves.

This woman was once my good friend but when I noticed my best embroidered hand towels hanging in her home I became suspicious. It wasn't long before I recognized knick-knacks on her shelf that belonged to me.

The day I saw her slip a can of tuna into a shopping bag when I turned my back in the kitchen, I decided to cool our friendship.

She phones often and wants to "get together". I am running out of excuses. Do you think I am being too hard on her?—Fooled In Green Bay

Dear G. B.: It's possible this woman is neither a thief nor a kleptomaniac.

She may have suffered some small strokes. Her age suggests this is a very real possibility.

When you recognized your towels and knick-knacks in her home you should have said 'you were pleased to see she had enjoyed them for awhile and then taken them home with you. Resume the friendship and keep your eyes open.

Dear Ann Landers: Having been out of school for 30 years I decided to enrol in the local community college several months ago. I expected many things to have changed but I wasn't prepared for what I am about to describe. My 19x1 college-age sons say it is the accepted practice in all colleges but it rubbed me the wrong way and I'd appreciate your opinion.

After three or four weeks the students were asked to complete a detailed questionnaire evaluating their teachers. Judging by some of the verbal comments made by some students, I decided the questionnaires could be used as a device to blackmail any teacher they didn't like.

The best teacher I ever had would not have won any popularity contests but to my certainty knew how to put across their subject.

Care to comment?—Learning Mare At 54

Dear Learning: I checked with the University of Chicago, Loyola University, Northwestern University and Mundelein College in Chicago. These evaluation questionnaires are optional, not widely used and were designed to help improve communication between teacher and student. Your notion that they could be used to blackmail unpopular teachers is a figment of someone's imagination. Forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a woman 50 years old who looks like 80. Will facial exercises help? What about operations to sand down my horrible wrinkles? Please advise.—Depressed

Facial exercises will NOT help remove wrinkles. The sanding operation is called "dermabrasion." It has proven highly successful when properly done by a specialist.

The quality of a woman's skin depends mainly on what she inherited. There is, however, one thing all women can do to preserve good skin. STAY OUT OF THE SUN.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a secretary who complained about having to type personal letters for the boss's wife. Well, this letter is from a boss's wife who is complaining about a secretary who does too many personal things for the boss. I wish she'd cut it out.

Last week was my husband's birthday. His secretary brought a birthday cake to the office. She proudly announced she had made it "from scratch." The woman must have stayed up all night, decorating it. According to my husband's description, it was very fancy.

That night I had guests for dinner and brought out the birthday cake I had made—also "from scratch." It was anticlimactic to say the least. All he could talk about was his secretary's cake. What can I do about this sort of thing?—Scooped Again.

Dear Scooped: Nothing. Be sweet as frosting. Urge the doll to try for the Pillsbury Bake-Off. And don't knock her or you may create a problem where none exists.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm the happily married mother of two beautiful children. My relationship with my parents is chilled and strained. I do my best to be pleasant and avoid confrontations but it isn't easy.

My father professes to love children. He continually tickles, punches and strangle-holds the kids. His playful antics always end up with them screaming and crying.

If I tell my father how I feel about his "friendly romps" he'll deny everything, become enraged and we'll have a real fallout.

Our relationship is not based on truth. What shall I do?—South Sider

Dear S.S.: Are you mature and strong enough to stand up to your father? If not, I hope you will get some counselling so you can reach that point. When you call him "no more rough-housing, the kids always end up in tears," it will be a sign of personal growth. (P.S. Your counselor will explain to you why he does this to the children—if you don't already know.)

Ruth and Tom Potter's children, Jeff, 7, and Jill, 5, love to help make Christmas goodies, and they have a good time painting these cookies bright colors. Mrs. Potter, who is taking the evening course in Loyalist College's Early Childhood Education program, is also active in the parental assistance program at Queen Victoria Public School. In her spare time she does macrame.

Children's Christmas Cookies

COOKIES

2½ cups all-purpose flour
one tsp. baking powder
one tsp. salt
one cup granulated sugar
½ cup shortening
¼ cup butter or margarine, softened
two eggs
one tsp. vanilla or lemon extract

EGG YOLK PAINT

In a cup, with a fork, beat one egg yolk and enough food coloring of whatever color you choose until the color is well blended and of the desired intensity. A few drops of water can be added to thin the "paint" if necessary.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees.

In a large bowl mix sugar, shortening, butter, eggs and vanilla, until creamy. Stir in flour, baking powder, and salt. Refrigerate for two hours.

Roll out ¼ of the dough about ¼ inch thick. Keep the rest of the dough refrigerated.

Use cookie cutters to cut the dough into Christmas shapes such as bells and stars. With a small paintbrush, brush the egg yolk paint onto the unbaked cookies.

Bake cookies for six to eight minutes, until they are just brown. Cool on racks.

Christmas Party

Peter Rabbit Steals Show at Tyendinaga Library

By ISABEL HUGGAN

Peter Rabbit was the star of the evening at the Tyendinaga Township Library's puppet show and Christmas party on Friday.

The saucy little hand puppet lisped his way through a series of adventures while an audience of children and adults cheered him along.

Librarian Patti Culp narrated the show, as well as performing the role of Mother Rabbit. She was assisted by her husband Bill Culp, who played the part of Peter, Floppy, Mopsy, Cottontail, the sly kitten Dapper and the mean Mr. McGregor.

Mrs. Culp has been librarian since May, 1974 when the library first opened in the Community Centre in Shannonville. When she took the job she'd had no training in library work, but her enthusiasm for the project has led her since to take a summer course at the School of Library and Information Science at the University of Western Ontario.

"I've had a lot of help from the staff at Corby Public Library," says Mrs. Culp, giving credit especially to chief librarian Olive Delaney. She also work closely with Jean Williams of the Children's Library, from where she obtains 30 new books on exchange each month for her young readers.

The Corby Library sends 30 books every two months so that there is a constant flow of new books for adults too. The rest of the library's small but growing supply of books — currently under 2,000 titles — comes from the Regional Library in Kingston.

"We check out approximately 300 books a month," says Mrs. Culp, who is anxious to increase public awareness of the library's existence. She has visited schools and Women's Institutes in the area to inform them of the library services, and also conducts a steady poster campaign to notify children of special events, such as film programs and story hours.

Although there was some debate at the time the library opened about "whether or not it was really necessary, so close to Belleville" Mrs. Culp believes that having books readily available is very important, especially for young people.

"A number of kids are becoming familiar with books just by coming in here to see what's going on," she says.

The library is small enough that Mrs. Culp is getting to know the tastes of regular readers, and can pass on recommendations about good books. She also makes a point of following up suggestions for subscriptions to magazines.

Assisted by Sheila Bates, a student at Quinte Secondary School, Mrs. Culp operates the library Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6 to 8.30 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Service Surviving

WINNIPEG (CP) — The city's two-year-old Pregnancy Distress Service is struggling on a $22,000 annual budget, with 25 volunteers and one-room quarters supplied free by the Manitoba Metis Federation. Refused United Way assistance earlier this year because it wouldn't counsel women on abortions, the service receives its funds from private donations. So far this year about 300 women have been helped by the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Terrence Fletcher

Fletcher — Druce

St. Mark's Church, Kingston, was the scene of the fall wedding of Pauline Louise Druce, Verona, and Terrence John Fletcher, Regina, Sask., a student of Royal Military College, Kingston.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Druce; the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred J. Fletcher, Regina, Sask.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a pearl de vole gown appliqued with lace and seed pearls. She wore an opal necklace and filigree earrings which were a wedding present from the groom. She carried orange roses, white carnations, stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Ellen de Grandpre, Kingston, was matron of honor in an orange silk jersey gown. She carried orange carnations, buttercrotch daisies and baby mums. Irene Kirkpatrick, Verona, and Elaine Coderre, Kingston, were bridesmaids.

Donald Debienne, Estevan, Sask., was groomsman assisted by Michael and Douglas Fletcher, the groom's brothers, of Regina.

A reception, including a dinner and dance, was held at the Martello Club, Kingston.

Wrap Little Gifts Inside This Santa

There are still a few days before Christmas in which to make decorations to brighten up your home. This Santa Claus, standing about 15 inches high, makes a nice table ornament, or an extra special wrapping on gifts that will fit inside two plastic ice cream or sherbet containers.

The containers, placed top to top, form the body of this Santa, giving him the required wide girth at his waist. Covered with bright red paper fastened with tape or glue, the body is completed with a belt of black felt or paper with a gold foil buckle.

An oval of pink paper makes his face on which paper cutout features are pasted. His hat is a cone of red paper, with stiffer paper underneath to stiffen it if necessary.

All around the hat's brim, and around all the edges of Santa's face, glue cotton swabs as close together as you can. Break one in half to make each eyebrow, and bend another to make the moustache.

And there you have it! A most distinguished wrapping for any gift!

This Santa was made by Connie Morrison.

Two plastic containers form the body of this charming Santa Claus, and cotton swabs make his beard and trim his hat.

Aching Feet Gone

LONDON (CP) — There is a remedy for tired and aching feet on the market now. It is derived from an early 19th-century still-room recipe and contains camphor which stimulates blood circulation around the surface area, mint which is cooling and almond oil to soften painful hard skin. The remedy is Meadow Herbs Herbal Foot Balm.

People and Events

REDNERSVILLE WI

The Redneersville Women's Institute Christmas party was held December 16 when members and many of their husbands went to the Pondersosa Restaurant for a steak dinner.

The group then moved to the Redneersville Church Hall, where a short business meeting was held. Edith Cairns, president, welcomed the husbands. She also reported on the recent 4H project, "Let's Bake Bread", a successful venture for all the girls.

Mrs. Cairns reminded the group that February 23 is the anniversary day for the needlepoint project.

The rest of the evening was devoted to progressive euchre.

Poor Weather Reduces Attendance at Museum

PICTON — A Sunday open house held at the Prince Edward County Museum will be repeated next weekend, says museum curator James Gooding.

Mr. Gooding said Sunday poor weather coupled with activities of the holiday season contributed to a poor attendance during the initial open house.

A special display of gifts pre-ented to the museum during 1975 is on exhibit in addition to regular displays.

The curator noted that few visitors have stopped at the museum this winter although it has been open daily except Sundays.

"It is just too cold for visitors," he added, in explanation of the poor attendance.

Although the winter months at the museum have been quiet ones Mr. Gooding said he feels that 1975 has been an active and rewarding year.

The museum prepared four major exhibits among them a display of chairs tilted Seats in the County and a Queen Victoria display that will be repeated next summer.

The highlight of the 1975 season at the museum was a visit by John Diefenbaker who dedicated the chancel area of the museum in memory of Picton's late mayor H.J. McFarland.

The County as a Classroom, a community education program held two sessions at the museum this year, one at Macaulay House, the old Anglican church rectory now under renovation.

Mr. Gooding commented that restoration of Macaulay House began in 1975 will continue next spring with the re-roofing of the building.

In early January, the Friends of the Museum will begin to strip paint on the rooms in Macaulay House in preparation for other renovations.

Mr. Gooding said there is no target date for completion of the renovations, but it is expected that it will be from five to seven years before the house is completely restored.

Mr. Gooding said the sales desk at the museum has proven profitable this year and in 1976 should become the responsibility of the Friends of the Museum.

Wide Variety

Jill Hancock, owner of Knits and Knots, a new wool and related crafts shop, checks her stock of wool. The new shop, located on Main Street in Picton, opened Friday. Mrs. Hancock said a growing interest in needlecraft prompted her to open the store.

New Picton Wool Shop Caters to Hobbyists

PICTON — Colorful yarns hit Main Street recently with the official opening of Knits and Knots, a supply centre for knitting and needlepoint enthusiasts.

Shop owner Jill Hancock says the store reflects her interest in knitting and crochet work and represents her first business venture.

Mrs. Hancock says the popularity of these handicrafts is increasing and the need for a supply outlet here prompted her to open her shop.

The store features a large assortment of yarns, needlepoint, quick point and crewel packs, cushion kits, rug packs, crochet cotton and embroidery cotton as well as many other supplies.

Mrs. Hancock says many of the kits contain all the material needed to create distinctive pieces of handiwork and are ideal for beginners.

Knits and Knots also carries macrame supplies and Mrs. Hancock says a wider variety may be added if there is sufficient demand.

The shop also has a full line of tapestry wools, pattern books and turkey rug packs.

The rug packs contain rug frames, latch hooks, rug hookers, pauses for cutting at the proper lengths and needles.

$500 Window Smashed

City police are investigating an overnight incident in which $500 damage was done to a window at Victoria and Grey Trust Co. on Front St.

A constable on morning patrol discovered a shattered window at 1.01 a.m. Police say that although it was shattered, the window remained intact.

CP News Roundup

Munro Won't Appeal Decision

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister John Munro said Saturday that he would not ask the anti-inflation board to reconsider its decision to reject a proposed settlement between striking pulpmen and the Irving Pulp and Paper Co. He told Bill Kempling (PC — Halton-Wentworth) in the Commons that it would not be appropriate for him to do so. But he added that he would be meeting union officials on the matter this week.

House as Prize

TORONTO (CP) — A $80,000 Toronto home is the prize in a province-wide lottery sponsored by the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, Dennis Whitaker, chairman of the lottery committee, said Saturday. Proceeds from the $2 tickets, which are sold at Wintario outlets and affiliated service clubs, will help finance research into new devices to help the crippled, he said. The draw will be held Feb. 2.

Gains Freedom

PLYMOUTH, Ind. (AP) — A tough raccoon regained his freedom but almost killed two Plymouth residents, police said. They said the ringtailed creature took up residence in the chimney of the home of Steve and Sue Smith on Friday. The Smiths were overcome by fumes and rushed to a hospital where they were revived, authorities said. The raccoon was taken from the chimney to the country and released, authorities said.

Holds Nuclear Test

WASHINGTON (Reuter) The United States conducted an underground nuclear test Saturday with a yield of between 20 and 200 kilotons at the Nevada test site, the Energy Research and Development Administration announced. The test was the 18th announced by the United States this year.

Form Committee

TORONTO (CP) — Rene Pierre, director of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, said Saturday that it organizations concerned about eye health in Canada and developing countries have formed a committee aimed at preventing blindness. Mr. Pierre, who will head the Canadian co-ordinating committee for blindness prevention, said the group will concentrate this year on preventing special eye problems.

Hits Less Wealthy

SESIGALLIA, Italy (AP) — Italy's kidnap wave, responsible for 17 known abductions this year, is reaching down to hit the less wealthy. A 16-year-old girl kidnapped in this eastern coast town two days ago was set free Saturday after her carpenter father raised $7,500 to buy her release — far cry from the multimillion dollar ransoms frequently paid by the families of wealthier victims. Her father said the kidnappers initially demanded a ransom of $150,000, way beyond the reach of his $200-a-month salary.

Provides Insurance

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford signed a bill Saturday providing U.S. government insurance up to $250 million for certain art and artifacts exhibits involved in cultural exchange tours. Indemnified items would be covered while on exhibit within the United States or elsewhere in the case of exchange of exhibits. The bill is aimed at getting reciprocal treatment from foreign countries for exchange visits there.

Rejects Suggestion

OTTAWA (CP) — Government House Leader Michell Sharp rejected on Saturday a suggestion that the government swap or purchase its property on waterfront park in Toronto. "The decision . . . to acquire the property along the Toronto front will in times to come be recognized as one of the most forward-looking steps taken by the federal government," Mr. Sharp told Otto Jelinek (PC — High Park-Humber Valley) in the Commons. Mr. Jelinek suggested the "trouble-plagued election goody" might be stopped at least for a while to reduce government spending.

Presumed Drowned

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — Eight men are presumed drowned after a schooner on which they were travelling exploded and sank Friday in choppy seas off Trinidad's northern coast, officials said Saturday. Skipper Daniel Hackett, 30, and another member of the 19-man crew were rescued by the U.S. Coast Guard five hours later. Hackett said an explosion in the engine room ripped the 50-foot 66-foot boat apart, throwing the entire crew into the sea.

Attica Investigation Unfair Says Special Report

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state's investigation of the 1971 Attica prison uprising was unbalanced and unfair to prisoners, and state police made "important omissions" in gathering evidence, says a special investigator's report made public Sunday.

But the report, compiled by investigator Bernard S. Meyer, said there was no intentional cover-up of possible crimes committed by authorities during the vacating of a section of the prison seized by prisoners. Forty-three prisoners and prison employees were killed during the four-day uprising which began Sept. 9, 1971 — 29 of them on the final day when troopers stormed the building.

Meyer's report was made public by Gov. Hugh Carey, who said he was following one of its primary recommendations by appointing another special investigator — Alfred J. Scotti, former chief assistant attorney in Manhattan District — to conclude the investigation "justly" and to determine whether further indictments should be sought.

The Meyer report criticized the authorities for relying too long on state police as investigators. It also concluded that then-Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's remarks about the superb job state police did in recapturing the prison were inappropriate and may have prejudiced the investigation.

Meyer, a former state Supreme Court justice, completed a three-volume report. Only the first volume, 130 pages long, was made public Sunday.

SEASON'S GREETINGS

HAPPY HOLIDAYS BEGIN AT DOMINION.

It's that happy time of year again. A time for family. A time for friends. And, of course, a time for entertaining. And nothing makes holiday entertaining quite so festive as holiday foods from Dominion. Like plump, full-breasted turkeys. Delicately flavoured hams. A host of fresh, fancy fruit. Bright flowers for your table and much, much more. Remember, your happy holiday begins when you begin by shopping at Dominion.

Manitoba's Opposition Faces Major Challenges

WINNIPEG (CP) — The leaders of Manitoba's two opposition parties face major challenges in 1976 and—for the first time in memory—neither can use the legislature as a forum.

Sterling Lyon, who replaced Sidney Spivak as leader of the Progressive Conservative party in December, has not been a member of the house since 1969 and has no guarantee of a seat prior to the next general election.

And although he enjoys widespread support within his caucus, the leadership race has left deep wounds in the party that will take time to heal.

Liberal leader Charles Huband, chosen in March as a successor to Izzy Asper, has to right to establish his party as more than a token force in Manitoba politics.

The Liberals have three seats in the 57-member legislature, compared with 31 New Democrats and 23 Conservatives.

Mr. Huband lost his bid for a seat in Crescentwood over the weekend, one of two Winnipeg ridings won by the Tories in June byelections.

For the NDP, 1976 will likely be a year of few new initiatives. Any major surprises are got to be saved for the 1977 legislative session, the likely prelude to a general election call later that year.

Many of the government's internal problems concerns centre on the federal anti-inflation program.

Premier Ed Schreyer spent much of the early part of 1975 talking about the need for leadership in the battle against wages and price increases. Yet he has offered only qualified support for Ottawa's program.

The premier has said provincial controls on rents and incomes of government employees will be imposed retroactive to Oct. 14 at the next session, but no details of the proposed legislation have been made public.

Other government plans for the session, expected to begin in early February, include legislation covering disclosure of interest by public officials, greater protection for workers in private pension plans and controls on land use and ownership.

All were discussed during the 1975 session and referred to special legislative committees for further study.

Several major NDP policies were contained in bills approved last year, but they have yet to have much public impact. Dental-care programs for children were to begin in the fall of 1976, revenue-sharing arrangements with Manitoba municipalities were just going into effect and a major urban-renewal program in the core area of Winnipeg was obviously long-term commitment.

Charges in the Manitoba Development Corp. have not aroused opposition critics of government least of investments involving private firms.

The province was in the process of selling off Saunders Aircraft Corp. Ltd. of Gimli at the end of the year, after committing about $27 million to the aircraft manufacturing company. Flyer Industries Ltd. of Winnipeg, the bus and trolley company now almost wholly owned by the Crown, had an accumulated deficit of $20.4 million in 1974.

The 1975 session saw a succession of clashes with Ottawa and with private groups as varied as doctors, cattle producers and university employees.

An increasingly bitter dispute developed with the federal government over plans by Manitoba and Saskatchewan to have Skywest Ltd., a company formed by the two governments, operate a regional air service between Winnipeg and Saskatoon.

However, the year saw some progress in resolving a controversy with the United States over the Garrison Diversion in North Dakota.

christmas garnishes

On Christmas day, have your dinner look as attractive as it is tasty. One way is to add garnishes, prepared early in the day, chilled and added for that "final touch" just before eating. If you haven't made garnishes before, start off with these simple ideas:

- make a lemon cartwheel by cutting small notches around the edge of a lemon slice;
- top a vegetable casserole with sliced cheese triangles arranged in the shape of a star;
- excite a molded jelied salad with a ruffly lettuce collar and recite radish pompoms in the ruffle (make a radish pompom by slicing a trimmed radish one way, almost to the stem, then crosswise and placing in ice water to open);
- finally, decorate your table with a beautiful and edible "snowy" centrepiece. Wash and dry apples, oranges, pears, lemons, limes, purple and green grapes. Brush with egg white, then sprinkle with sugar. Later assemble on a three-tiered stand. (Small-sized snowy fruits can also be used individually to garnish dessert items on your menu.)

Wishing you a very Merry Christmas!

Mrs. Albany is available to speak to groups. Write her at 125 The Queensway, Toronto, Ontario M8Y 1H7, or call (416) 259-6633.

Commons Approves UIC Amendments

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons gave final approval Saturday to unemployment insurance amendments that will raise premiums paid by employees and employers Jan. 1.

The controversial changes, which also cut persons 65 and over from the program and reduce the special benefit paid to jobless persons with dependents, were approved by a vote of 99 to 45 after prolonged debate that delayed the start of Christmas holidays for MPs.

The Progressive Conservative Party and Social Credit joined to oppose passage of the bill. Herb Breaugh (L—Gloucester) was in the Commons but did not vote.

Standing in the 264-seat Commons—140 Liberals, 95 Conservatives, 16 NDP, 11 Social Credit, one independent and one vacant. Just over half of the MPs attended the unusual Saturday sitting.

The Commons spent 12 days debating the bill, plus several hearings in committee, with the opposition particularly criticizing amendments that place a greater share of benefit costs on employees and employers and the sections which cut the aged from the program.

Employees will see their premium rate per $100 of insurable earnings rise to $1.65 a week from the present $1.40.

With the maximum insurable earnings at about $200 weekly in 1976, this means the maximum premium will go to $3.30 weekly Jan. 1 from the current $2.80—a rise of about 27 per cent.

Employers will see their premium rate go to $2.31 for every $100 of insurable earnings paid to workers, or to a maximum of $4.62 from the present $3.92.

Manpower Minister Robert Andras says the change will mean a net reduction in the government share of 1976 benefit payments of $660 million, while the increase in employee costs will be $490 million.

During third-reading debate on the bill Saturday, NDP leader Ed Broadbent said the government had shown itself to be heartless by chopping pensioners from the program.

Three Escape from Millhaven

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Three prisoners described as dangerous escaped from Millhaven institution during a snowstorm Saturday night while wearing several layers of white sheets, director John Dowsett said Sunday.

Mr. Dowsett said in an interview the prisoners are Brian J. Copeland, 29, of Toronto/Valentine Leschenko, 24, of Sutton, Que., and Thomas Smith, 27, of London, Ont.

Copeland was serving 30 years in the nearby maximum-security facility for armed robbery and theft. Leschenko, 22 years for robbery and armed robbery, and Smith 25 years for armed robbery and robbery. Police are conducting a province-wide search for the three.

Mr. Dowsett said all three have a record of previous escapes from prisons.

The men apparently escaped about 7 p.m. EST by cutting through a barred window, the director said. Provincial police later found a heavy file and heavy-duty wire cutters after searching the area.

Once outside, the men apparently passed between two ground-level guardposts under cover of snow whipped by wind.

Mr. Dowsett said the equipment found by police was not of the type used in the prison.

Prison guards with tracking dogs and area OPP followed a trail from the prison to a trailer camp in the nearby village of Millhaven.

Police said a car reported stolen in the village about the time of the escape was found abandoned early Sunday in Kingston.

Restraints Won't Hurt Proposed Incomes

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's proposed restraints will not affect the establishment of a proposed income supplement and income support program, Health Minister Marc Lalonde said in the Commons Saturday.

Mr. Lalonde said he will be meeting with the provinces to work out a formula for the income plan. But it would still be two or three years before any plan can go into action.

To All Our Friends in the Quinte Area . . .

At this season, all across our country and around the world, people are renewing their faith and trust in the mission and message of the first Christmas – to bring us back to everlasting peace–

Christmas is so deverse . . . one can see and feel and sense it in the exchanging of greetings of families and friends; the turning homeward, the happy expectation of children; the wonderful idea of doing something for someone – Yes, part of the diversity of Christmas, that seems to add to the mystery of the season, is the loneliness for those who are far away – or for those whose life is lonely – the idea of belonging – of the warmth and welcome – the opening of hearts for the whole human family. That's the spirit of Christmas.

So let us give thanks for Christmas and for the gift of faith in the things that remain hidden but which are stronger than that which we can see, touch and hear.

May this Christmas Season renew our trust in its meaning so we may find its peace within us, each day of the New Year.

A HAPPY HOLIDAY SEASON FROM THE MANAGEMENT AND STAFF
McINTOSH BROS. STORES LTD.

Faith will restore the true meaning of Christmas.

Amid all the colored lights and tinsel excitement of the holiday preparations, let us keep in mind the purpose of this joyful occasion and give some thought to the One whose birthday we are preparing to celebrate. Remember that although He lived a very short life span, in an obscure manner, in a sparsely populated area. He did more than all the great rulers of the world combined to change the course of its history. Honor the birthday of the Son of God by attending Christmas services of the Church of your choice.

Merry Christmas

'Tis not the weight of jewel or plate,
Or the fondle of silk and fur;
'Tis the spirit in which the gift is rich,
As the gifts of the wise ones were;
And we are not told whose gift was gold
Or whose was the gift of myrrh.

BEST OF THE SEASON FROM
The Belleville Downtown Businessmen's Association

...ATTEND THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE THIS SUNDAY

Belleville Bobcats' Tony Meagher watches eagerly as the puck heads by the outstretched glove hand of St. Michael's goalie, Rick Wilson and into the net. It was Meagher's second goal of the night. Cats earned tie in Toronto Sunday.

Bobcats Settle for 5-5 Tie

TORONTO — The Belleville Bobcats came within a whisker Sunday night of making the St. Michael's Buzzers the victims in Metro Junior B Hockey for their fifth straight win League play. The only mistake the Cats made in the final two periods cost them as Frank McCarthy blasted a shot by Belleville netminder, Jeff Merrill.

The goal came with a little better than two minutes remaining in the game and gave the Buzzers a 5-5 tie with Belleville. The Cats had rallied in a strong second period to overcome a 4-2 deficit.

Belleville came on strong in the middle frame and belied its way to 5-4 lead by the end of the second. Hard hitting tactics by the Cats proved to be their edge, one that was too sharp for the Buzzers to handle.

Three of the Belleville goals came while the St. Michael's team was playing shorthanded. Grant Goegan figured in on four of the Cats' points, netting a goal and three assists.

Tony Meagher also had a productive night for the Cats, firing a pair of markers and adding an assist.

Phile Dogerdun, Ken Matwey, Tim Vince and Ray Skolnas each scored once in the first period for the Buzzers with Goegan and Meagher replying for Bleville.

Belleville kept the home club off the scoreboard in the second period with their fast skating, hard hitting style of play. Meagher, Andy Ricketts and Drew Leedham rounded out the scoring for Belleville in the middle frame.

A total of 46 minutes in penalties was handed out by the referee.

Th Cats are now undefeated in their last five games, earning three points on the weekend with a victory Friday night over the Etobicoke Sockets. Belleville will be looking for a belated Christmas present Friday, when the Brampton Blues, leaders of the Central Division will be on hand at the Memorial Arena for a 9 p.m. contest.

Place in Top Ten Means Work For Bay of Quinte Golfer

By TOM GAVEY
Sports Staff

Although the snow on the ground does not exactly encourage thoughts of golf, the Ontario Golf Association has issued the official 1975 Junior and Amateur Golf Ratings.

Tenth in the Junior ratings is a name which has become familiar to golf buffs around the Quinte area, Peter Serafimoff. Golfing out of the Bay of Quinte Country Club, Serafimoff was impressive in just about every tourney he participated in.

Winner of the Golden Hawk Junior Golf Tournament, Serafimoff placed third in the CFB Open over the past summer.

However, it was in Windsor that the 15-year-old golfer made a name for himself, coming in second at the Ontario Junior Golf Championships. Serafimoff came in just behind Gary Stickle (eighth ranked) issue to him in a playoff round. He was ahead of Jim Harrison, who is rated number one in Ontario.

It was Serafimoff's father, Guy, who put him started in golfing eight years ago. The elder Serafimoff is quite a golfer, and it seems to have rubbed off.

The second place finish at the Ontario Junior Championships put Serafimoff on the Ontario team, which won the Canadian Junior Championships in Victoria, British Columbia.

"I made the cut, but I don't feel I golfed all that well" said Serafimoff.

According to Serafimoff he wouldn't be anywhere without the help of local golf pros, George Balans, Bob Halvorsen and Wayne Oates.

"All of them gave me a hand, along with Dr. Hipkin, who helped make it possible to go to the Canadian Championships" Serafimoff added.

The Carrathers-Cialy Tournament in Kingston was Serafimoff's only other tournament action over the summer. He placed fifth there.

"I don't practice as much as I should, and I don't really participate in enough tournaments" he admits.

Next year he moves up to Amateur play, where Gary Cowan of Westmount is the top man in the field. Serafimoff hopes to complete his Grade 13 here in Belleville, and get a golf scholarship from one of the Universities in the United States.

More practice is one of the things Serafimoff plans for next year.

Napanee Falls To Combines

Though Napanee was the opposition Sunday, Belleville Combines didn't really have their minds on the game. They were thinking ahead to their first contest of the new year, when they take on league leading Stirling.

A win January 4, would give the Belleville crew a share of first place. However, they weren't thinking so far ahead that they got behind Sunday and, despite a week's break from regular action, the Combines edged the visitors 3-1.

Sue Morton topped the locals attack with a goal and two assists. She opened the game's scoring in the second period on a play with Judy Rappel and Sue Fobert.

Napanee tied the game up early in the third when Brenda Farrell connected on a play with Pat Wood.

With just under five minutes to go, Rappell tallied what proved to be the winner and 20 seconds later, Fobert potted the insurance marker.

STIRLING 6, PICTON 0

Jane Bailey put in another two goal performance, but had to take a back seat to junior goalie Maryanne Fleier under the spotlight as she earned the shutout.

Other Stirling scorers were Sharon Lessard, Sandra Fleming, Joan Bailey and Sherry Farrell.

Dukes Bounce Jets

WELLINGTON (Special) — Treating their fans to a top notch effort, Wellington Dukes knocked off first place Bancroft Jets 3-1 in Ontario Hockey Association Junior D play here, Sunday.

Dukes got a strong performance from goalie Terry Harrison and a two-goal display by Rick Selman on the way to the impressive win. Mike Lavender was the other marksman for Wellington.

Former Belleville Bobcat Scott Samis was the lone marksman for Jets who got a chance to avenge the defeat when they play host to Dukes, Friday night.

Old Stars Score Exhibition Win

Ceremonies Mark Arena Opening

MARMORA — In spite of Saturday's unfavorable weather, some 500 spectators helped dignitaries make the official reopening ceremonies for the arena here a very successful occasion.

Clarke Rollins, Hastings-Peterborough MPP turned the switch to illuminate the renovated facilities and later presented a $100 cheque to assist a fund for the installation of a new cement floor in the building.

Referring to the fact that renovations had been carried out instead of building a new arena, Warden Bill McRae commented, "when you can't afford a Cadillac, a Ford will do."

He observed that the plan to renovate existing facilities meant the taxpayers would not be burdened with a large debt.

Chairman of the arena board Gord Bennett expressed satisfaction at the success of the ceremonies which included an exhibition hockey game between Ontawa Old Stars and Marmora-Trent Valley Oldtimers.

The Ottawa club scored an 8-4 victory, led by Jim Olver's four goals. Rudy Constantini had two goals for the winners who got one each from Andy Rochon and George Green.

Some club marksmen were Doug Ruttan, Tom Paramnik, Ken Hoover and Ross Green.

The Mamora-Trent Valley team will be taking part in the National Oldtimers Tournament in Lethbridge, Alberta in February.

Some club members, of Keith Brown Chrysler, Peterborough were on hand, Saturday to present the team with 25 sweaters and a $500 donation.

Oshawa Can't Match Jim's

"Better late than never" is an old adage used by many sports fans, and it could well have applied to Sunday night's OMHA encounter between Jim's Juveniles and Oshawa. The Oshawa entry came 20 minutes late for the contest, which Belleville took by a 3-1 score.

All of the local scoring came in the first period, as Marty Lowry put the puck between Oshawa netminder Dryden's legs and the goal post. The goal was set up by Tony Bennett as Oshawa's defence appeared to be slack on the play.

The winning goal came at 9:2 of the first period, as Gord Male, scored on a pass from Roger Chapman. Jeff Skelly also gained an assist on the play.

The only Oshawa goal came from Ian Cullen, at 12:48 of the third period.

Hard hitting was the highlight of the game, as both teams were taking runs at each other. Impressive stops off boards were Gary Thompson for Jim's and Bob Stacey of Oshawa.

The win for Belleville was its third straight over Oshawa, as the team prepares for the New Year's Day encounter with the Swedes, at the Memorial Arena.

Fighting Saints Stop Jets Twice

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Minnesota Fighting Saints forced Winnipeg Jets out of coach Bobby Hull's game plan and it paid off in a 3-1 victory in one of four World Hockey Association games Sunday.

The Saints forechecked the Jets strongly, forcing them into the costly type of errors that Kromm had been working to eliminate. At the same time the Saints cut the Jets' scoring chances to one of their best points of the season to hand Winnipeg its taird consecutive loss.

In other games Sunday, Edmonton Oilers played give-away and handed Toronto Toros a 4-2 verdict, San Diego Mariners defeated Houston Aeors 3-1 and Cincinnati Stingers outpassed Quebec Nordiques 11-7. The Phoenix at Indianapolis game was postponed because the Roadrunners' equipment failed to arrive in time.

Saturday night Minnesota handed Winnipeg its worse loss of the season, 6-3, Quebec Nordiques outscored Calgary Cowboys 8-7, Cincinnati Stingers edged New England Whalers 4-2, Cleveland Crusaders defeated Indianapolis Racers 5-3 and Houston beat Phoenix 4-3.

In tonight's only scheduled game, New England is at Cleveland.

"They forced us in our own zone, as they did last night, and forced us to make mistakes in our end," Winnipeg goaltender Joe Daley said after the Minnesota victory. "They got some pretty good scoring chances and they eliminated some of ours.

Dave Keon scored twice for the Fighting Saints and Fran Huck got the other. Bobby Hull got Winnipeg's only goal to give them a brief 1-1 tie in the first period.

The Jets managed only 20 shots on goal, one of their lowest totals this season and Kromm said it could partly be blamed on the schedule.

"We didn't dump the puck in and go after it," he said. "But when you're tired it's tough to keep going after it.

"I'm not taking anything away from the Saints but they've been sitting at home for six or seven games. If we had done that we'd come out flying but we've had a brutal schedule."

It was the Jets' fifth game in seven days, the first four on the road.

At the same time, the Jets' coach was critical of the officiating in the game that began roughly and at one point threatened to erupt into a stick-swinging episode between Minnesota's Bill Butters and the fans.

Kromm said the officials have been letting the Saints get away with too many "cheap penalties" in the last two nights. The most-penalized team in the WHA with more than 600 minutes in penalties, the Saints added 46 minutes Sunday, 22 in the opening period.

"It shouldn't be 600 minutes, it should be 1,000" Kromm said of the Minnesota total.

The loss left Winnipeg with a one-point edge on Quebec atop the Canadian division.

In Edmonton, 8,238 fans watched in disbelief as the Oilers controlled the game for 35 minutes but blew at least a dozen good scoring chances and found themselves holding a narrow 2-1 lead on goals by Bruce MacGregor and Mike Rogers.

Then came the collapse as goaltender Chris Worthy allowed two easy goals, defenceman Kerry Ketler gave away the puck for a third Toronto goal and Edmonton capital Al Hamilton was caught looking at the clock as the Toros struck for their fourth goal with eight seconds left in the second period.

The Toronto goals were scored by Gavin Kirk, Richard Paiement, Leo Ninios and Jean Jacques.

The Oilers were no threat in the final period as the Toros took command and forced Worthy to make a number of outstanding saves to keep the score down.

Toronto was playing without coach Bobby Baun behind the bench. Baun has apparently taken a leave of absence from the team. Former coach Billy Harris took a leave of absence from the Toros last season and never returned.

Toronto outshot Edmonton 36-28 and moved to within nine points of the fourth-place Oilers.

The Nordiques were prevented by moving into first place in the Canadian division when they lost a shooting match in Cincinnati. Playing in their second high-scoring contest in as many nights, the Nordiques ran out of stream as the Stingers blasted seven goals in the second period and three more in the third past goaltenders Richard Brodeur and Michel Deguise.

Bryan Campbell had two goals and four assists, all but two assists coming during the record breaking 10-goal second period. The previous WHA one-period goal-scoring record was nine goals.

Newcomer Murray Myers had three goals for Cincinnati, the first Stinger to score three times in a game. Pierre Guite and Ron Plumb scoring two each. Rick Dudley and Claude Larose added the final two goals.

"I'm on cloud nine," said Myers who has played in only 11 games. "I don't know how else to say it."

Quebec goals were scored by Chris Bordeleau and Renald Leclerc with two each. Michel Parizeau, Real Cloutier and Marc Tardif, with his 22nd of the season.

Caps Give Sabres New Life

By NEIL CAMPBELL
The Canadian Press

There's nothing like an evening with Washington Capitals to restore the health of a struggling National Hockey League team.

Buffalo Sabres have been floundering after opening the season with eight wins in a row but the woeful Washington defeat was just the tonic they needed.

The Sabres humiliated the Capitals 14-2 Sunday night, setting one NHL and one team record and tying two other league records in the process.

They put 26 assists together with their club-record 14 goals for 40 points, eclipsing the 37 produced by Detroit Red Wings in 1944 and Toronto Maple Leafs in 1967.

Their eight goals and 23 points in the third period gave them a share of two other league records. Four other teams have scored that many goals in a single period while only the 1971-72 New York Rangers have managed that many points in a period.

"I feel sorry for Washington, having to take out our frustrations on them, but it's nice to see when your club is struggling," said Buffalo coach Floyd Smith.

The Sabres, who had only two wins and three ties to show for their last 10 games before Sunday night, broke a tie with Boston Bruins for the Adams Division lead by beating the Capitals.

In Sunday's other NHL games, Philadelphia Flyers bounced St. Louis Blues 8-2, New York Rangers blanked Minnesota North Stars 2-0, Chicago Black Hawks stopped New York Islanders 5-2, Atlanta Flames edged Boston 3-1 and Montreal Canadiens shaded California Golden Seals 7-1.

On Saturday, Pittsburgh Penguins tripped Los Angeles Kings 5-1, New York Islanders swamped St. Louis 7-1, Montreal tied Vancouver Canucks 3-3, Minnesota dropped Detroit Red Wings 5-2, Toronto Maple Leafs beat Kansas City Scouts 5-1 and Boston defeated Buffalo 5-3.

What playing Washington did for the Sabres, switching Wayne Martin scored four goals with five shots and assisted on another goal against Washington to bring his totals to the three assists he moved from left to right wing to seven goals and four assists.

"I can see the whole play going up the ice," he says. "My line-mate is on the other side now, and not too many guys come at you from the blue line."

Fred Stanfield had three goals and two assists, Danny Gare a goal and four assists and Gilles Perreault and Don Luce two goals and two assists each as the Sabres outshot the Capitals 50-16.

Bill Barber got two goals and three assists in the Flyers' victory over the Blues, but Philadelphia coach Fred Shero wasn't satisfied.

"He had a good night, he games we had a talk with him," Shero said. "He could be even better."

Reggie Leach added two goals and two assists for the Flyers, bringing his goal total to 22 for the season and 14 for Philadelphia's last dozen games.

The win increased the Flyers lead over the Islanders to seven points in the Patrick Division standings.

Goalie John Davidson stopped 19 shots as the Rangers beat the Stars on goals by Steve Vickers and Billy Fairbairn to snap a three-game losing streak.

HAWKS ON SPREE

Chicago Black Hawks had a third-period scoring spree of their own, scoring five times to overcome 2-0 Islander lead.

John Marks and Darcy Rota scored two goals each as Chicago recorded its first win at Uniondale since Nov. 9 and who broke a four-game losing streak.

Platers Unbeaten In 14

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Platers scored three unanswered third-period goals to defeat Welland Sabres 5-3 in Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League action Sunday.

In another Sunday game, Niagara Falls Flyers defeated Owen Sound Grys 3-4. The Flyers and the Marauders played to a 3-3 tie Saturday in Chatham. Guelph is at Hamilton tonight.

At Welland on Sunday, the teams were tied 3-3 after the first period but the Sabres held a 3-0 edge going into the third.

Terry Gregory, Dan McCafferty, Mike Yonurack, Kevin Reinhart and Zane Forbes scored for Guelph, outshot 40-30.

Terry Thompson, John Harris and Mark Nyquenzi scored for Welland before 400 fans.

The win extended Guelph's unbeaten streak to 14 games.

At Owen Sound, the Flyers rallied for three unanswered goals in the final 16 minutes of play to detest the Greys.

It was the sixth win of the season for the last-place Flyers.

The teams were tied 1-1 at the end of the first period but the Greys had a 3-2 lead at the end of the second.

Mark Mahoney scored the winning goal on a power play at 17:32 of the third period. Barry McCourt, Gary Sobchuk, Larry Landon and Graham Snyder added one goal apiece for Niagara Falls.

Ron Smith, Brad Underwood, Mike Hanna and Terry Agnew scored for Owen Sound.

Compliments of the Season ?

Cinderella Colts Make It

By BRUCE LOWITT
The Canadian Press

Of all the teams in the American Football Conference East, the least likely to finish first this year was Baltimore Colts.

After all, a team that finished the previous season tied for the National Football League's worst record at 3-12 should have to go through a lot of rebuilding.

Instead, the Colts pulled themselves together in a hurry.

With rookie coach Ted Marchibroda in charge, they proceeded to hammer apart everything in sight, reeling off nine successive victories, to climax an amazing season that saw them the East Division title and a berth in the NFL playoffs.

"It's a good feeling to know that we can get the way from last to first," said Baltimore quarterback Bert Jones after the Colts capped their surprising season Sunday afternoon by beating New England Patriots 34-21.

"That's what I'll remember about this year—and the fact that it brought 43 men very close together."

The Colts came from behind three times to beat the stubborn Patriots, taking the lead for good on an 11-yard touchdown run by Lydell Mitchell with 8:19 to play.

They added the clincher 46 seconds later on Nelson Munsey's 26-yard touchdown run with one of Baltimore's five interceptions of Jones passed for one touchdown and ran for another.

In Sunday's other key game, Cincinnati Bengals stomped San Diego Chargers 47-17 to clinch the AFC wild-card as the conference's fourth playoff team.

In Sunday's other games, St. Louis Cardinals beat Detroit Lions 24-13, Dallas Cowboys downed New York Jets 31-21, Oakland Raiders defeated Kansas City Chiefs 28-26, Philadelphia Eagles upset Washington Redskins 26-3, Green Bay Packers beat Atlanta Falcons 22-13, Houston Oilers whipped Cleveland Cavaliers 31-98, Chicago Bears crushed New Orleans Saints 43-17 and New York Giants eased out San Francisco 49ers 26-23.

On Saturday, Miami Dolphins edged Denver Broncos 14-13, Minnesota Vikings mauled Buffalo Bills 35-13 and Los Angeles Rams beat Pittsburgh Steelers 14-3.

With the AFC East title in the bag, the Colts head into Pittsburgh next Saturday to play the Super Bowl champions.

Cincinnati quarterback Ken Anderson passed for three touchdowns and ran for one as he got the Bengals off to an insurmountable 41-10 first-half lead against the Chargers.

The Bengals open their playoffs Sunday in Oakland against the Raiders champions of the West Division.

Robert Newhouse rushed for 128 yards and a touchdown as Dallas, the NFC wild-card club, prepared for its playoff opener next Sunday in Minnesota against the Vikings, champions of the Central Division.

Fete Banaszak ran for touchdowns of one, three and five yards and George Blanda trained his career scoring total to 2,002 points as the Raiders whipped Kansas City.

Joe Lavender's 76-yard interception return for a touchdown and linebacker Frank LeMaster's 99-yard scoring run with another theft carried Philadelphia over the Redskins.

Eric Torkelson's five-yard touchdown run following a 61-yard interception return by Perry Smith lifted the Packers into the lead in the second quarter and sparked them past Atlanta.

Dan Pastorini's 79-yard touchdown bomb to Ken Burrough and two-yard scoring runs by Hardeman and Ronnie Coleman led the Oilers, 10-6, over Cleveland for their best season since 1962.

Rookie quarterback Bob Avellini ran for one touchdown and passed to Greg Latta for three more covering 13, five and 20 yards as Chicago routed the Saints.

Larry Watkins' one-yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter following a pass interference call against San Francisco cornerback Nat Allen gave the Giants their victory.

Earl Morrall came off the bench to lead two second-half touchdown drives that carried Miami past Denver. Despite the victory, the Dolphins fell out of the playoffs for the first time in five years.

Fran Tarkenton threw his 290th and 291st career touchdown passes to a couple Johns Unitas' NFL record and Chuck Foreman scored four touchdowns—two on the passes and two on short runs—to lead Minnesota over the Bills.

Foreman's four touchdowns gave him 22 for the year—tied Buffalo's O.J. Simpson yet to make it 23 on the season, shattering Gale Sayers' NFL record.

Reserve quarterback Ron Jaworski's five-yard run for a fourth-period touchdown gave Los Angeles its victory over snapped Pittsburgh's 11-game winning streak.

JOHNSON RETIRES

MIAMI (AP) — Veteran quarterback Charley Johnson of Denver Broncos announced Saturday his retirement as a player, ending a 15-year National Football League career. Johnson said he plans to remain associated with professional football, beginning early next year as a scout for the Broncos. Johnson completed 1,727 passes for 24,629 yards and 170 touchdowns in his pro career.

Bears Move Up

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two wins by Smiths Falls Bears during the weekend revenged them for two points behind second-place Gloucester Rangers who didn't manage to pick up a point in two games.

The Bears beat the league leading Rockland Nationals 5-1 Friday and edged Nepean 4-3 Sunday.

Gloucester lost to Pembroke Lumber Kings 4-1 Friday and were trounced by the Nationals 11-5 Sunday.

The Nationals now are in first place by 10 points.

Brockville Warriors edged ahead of Nepean to fourth place in the standings. Brockville tied Nepean 1-1 Friday and tied Pembroke 4-4 Sunday.

The wide-open game Sunday between the Nationals and the Gloucester Rangers saw five Rockland players—Steve Washington, Norm Breyebois, Bill Coe, Randy Burman and Jean Thibodeau—score two goals apiece.

The Rangers' high-flying Louis Lortie picked up two in that game.

Liverpool in Front

LONDON (Reuter) — Liverpool displaced Queen's Park Rangers atop the First Division standings by beating the Rangers 2-0 Saturday in an English League soccer game.

Liverpool, with 30 points, has a goal-average advantage over Manchester United and Derby County, with Queen's Park, Leeds United and West Ham United at 28 points each.

The last soccer Saturday before Christmas was a bad one for both division leaders and referees.

In addition to Queen's Park Rangers, Sunderland, the Second Division leaders, and Crystal Palace, the long-time Third Division leaders, were also beaten.

Sunderland was left with only a goal-average lead over Bolton Wanderers after a 1-0 loss at Chelsea.

Crystal Palace was beaten away from home for the first time this season, losing 3-1 to Millwall. They still have a six-point edge over Hereford United and Peterborough United.

Two referees were unable to finish their games. Ray Tinkler was carried off with a leg injury after 55 minutes of a Manchester-Grimsby match and the senior linesmen took charge.

In a Third Division game between Gillingham and Peterborough United, referee Donald Biddle dropped off with leg trouble in the sixth minute of a 2-2 tie.

At Portsmouth, linesman Gerry Collyer was taken ill and had to be replaced during a Second Division game with Orient.

Three players were sent off—defender John McAlle of Wolverhampton Wanderers in a First Division game at Maine Road, Manchester City ground, and defender Clive Wiggins of Scunthorpe and forward Ian Lawther of Stockport in a Fourth Division match at Scunthorpe.

Liverpool, which managed only two points in its three previous games, got goals from John Toshack and Phil Neal against the Rangers. Neal scored from the penalty spot.

A goal in injury time by Geoff Hill gave Manchester United a 1-0 win over Wolverhampton Wanderers.

Derby County struggled to beat last-place Sheffield United 3-2. Derby missed a first-minute penalty and Sheffield stayed in the game in the last 30 minutes on a pair of long-range goals by Alan Bodsworth.

Allan Clarke scored his 100th league goal for Leeds United in a 1-0 win over Aston Villa. Billy Bonds's drill all West Ham United's scoring in a 3-1 win over Stoke City.

Phil Boyer scored twice in five minutes to give Norwich City a 2-0 game at Nottingham Forest. Norwich, which had been unbeaten in 7 games.

John Radford, back with Arsenal for the first time in 18 months, got a goal in the 88th minutes for a 1-0 win over Burnley before 16,428 spectators, smallest crowd of the season for Arsenal.

Ian Britton got Chelsea's goal against Sunderland, but teammate Ron Harris was hobbled in his 100th league appearance. Neil Whatmore's goal in the 88th minute gave Bolton a 1-0 win over Bristol City.

In the Premier Division of the Scottish League, Celtic took the lead with 23 points by beating Hibernian 3-1 on goals by Dixie Deans, Johnstone and Edvaldsson and Jackie McNamara.

Celtic now has a two-point lead over Hibernian and Rangers, who edged Motherwell 1-0 with the help of two goals from Derek Johnstone.

Reserve Clause Under Pressure

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pitcher Andy Messersmith of baseball's Los Angeles Dodgers will be declared a free agent early next week in his arbitration appeal, the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner reported in its late Sunday editions.

Messersmith won 19 games last season while playing without a contract under the renewal clause invoked by the Dodgers.

A ruling in Messersmith's favor by Peter Seitz, the neutral arbitrator who heard the case early this month, would strike a big blow against baseball's reserve clause. Baseball management has long regarded the clause as the foundation of the game.

Messersmith and his adviser, Herb Osmond, said too National League pitcher became a free agent at the end of this season, while baseball and the Dodgers said that he could again be retained under the renewal clause.

Seitz was the arbitrator who declared former Oakland A's pitcher Catfish Hunter a free agent last winter. But Messersmith's case is entirely different since the ruling in Hunter's case was based on the failure of A's owner Charlie Finley to live up to a clause in Hunter's contract concerning deferred payments.

Dodger vice-president in charge of public relations Fred Claire said the club had no comment on the Herald-Examiner.

In New York, Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, said:

"I am only tell you that the arbitration panel will be meeting Tuesday in New York.

"Officially, we have taken no action."

Miller has long opposed the reserve clause, saying it could bind a player to a club forever.

The Herald-Examiner said owners of the 24 major league clubs will be notified of the ruling Monday.

Curt Flood had earlier fought the standard-player contract in a case, which went all the way to the United States Supreme Court. Flood said he was a victim of a slave system after being traded from St. Louis to Philadelphia, and challenged baseball's right to assign contracts.

Flood lost his appeal to the Supreme Court which based its ruling on previous decisions and said that Congress had enacted new legislation that would alter baseball's immunity under the anti-trust laws.

Messersmith, however, spurned Dodger offers and decided to enter arbitration.

The Dodgers' final offer was reported to be $135,000 for last season, $170,000 for 1976 and $220,000 for the final year of the package, and a "no-trade" clause written into the contract.

Baseball owners, with Kansas City representing all the clubs, had filed suit in U.S. District Court Oct. 29 for an injunction against the arbitration hearings and a test of the reserve clause.

CASE TAKES TITLE

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Rose Case scored 6-3, 6-1 victory Sunday over John Marks, a fellow Australian, in the final of the New South Wales tennis championship. Evonne Goolagong captured the women's singles final, beating Sue Barker of Britain 6-2, 6-4.

RECORD LIFT

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — Hristo Plachkov of Bulgaria achieved his own world record of 429.89 pounds by snatching 455.40 pounds in the over 242 pound category at a local weightlifting competition Saturday at Sevlievo, Bulgaria, the BTA news agency, reported.

Borg Leads Swedes to Davis Cup

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Bjorn Borg was the least of Sweden today after the Swedes won their first Davis Cup in history.

Borg, who gave Sweden a 3-2 victory over Czechoslovakia on Sunday, is the world's most successful tennis player this year. But the 19-year-old will not be ranked No. 1 in 1975.

Most experts will probably put Arthur Ashe of the United States, Ashe won at Wimbledon and took the World Champonship of Tennis (WCT) title in Dallas.

Borg won only one major individual event—the French Open crown in Paris for the second successive year. But he produced a record in other big tournaments that no other star could match this year.

The young Swede was runner-up at the WCT playoffs and the Masters, reached the quarter-finals in both the Italian Championships and Wimbledon, the semi-finals in the U.S. Open and then finally helped Sweden to become only the sixth nation to win the Davis Cup—the symbol of international team tennis supremacy.

So does Jan Kodes, the former Wimbledon champ and two-time U.S. Open finalist, who was defeated by Borg, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, Sunday giving Sweden an unbeatable 3-1 lead over the Czechs in the third world final.

For Borg, it was the first ma-jor success in his former home town. He now lives in Monte Carlo.

"This was the greatest moment in my life," he said. "I said, 'I'd like to win at least one of these tournaments next year.'

Other members of the winning Swedish Davis Cup team were Ove Bengtson, Birger Andersson and Rolf Norberg.

In all, Borg has played 28 Davis Cup singles matches, and won 23, including a record 12 successive wins this year.

"But my big goals are Wimbledon and the U.S. Open," he said. "I'd like to win at least one of these tournaments next year."

HOLIDAY BELLS ring out a message of happiness and joy and glad Christmas tidings! Our special thanks.

Flyers Blank Napanee 4-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Barrie Flyers scored two unanswered goals in both the first and third periods Sunday to defeat Napanee Conacts 4-0 in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A action.

Barrie goaltender Grant Cole returned to regular league play after starring for Tuesday Marlboros of the OHA Major Junior A series in their 5-4 exhibition victory over Moscow Selects on Thursday.

In other weekend action, Thunder Bay Twins picked up eight points by winning both games of their weekend road trip. The Twins downed Orillia Terriers 9-5 on Sunday and edged Whitby Warriors 5-4 on Saturday.

The only other game scheduled for Saturday—Lindsay at Cambridge—was postponed due to bad weather.

At Napanee, Don Pangutti, Jack Smith, Doug Acomb and Gary Lyte scored for the Flyers, who outshot the Cornets 35-3 Sunday before 450 spectators.

Barrie's Bob Mantisch was ejected from the game in the third period for sparring John Harwick of Napanee.

League play resumes tonight with Orillia at Lindsay.
